Should the deliveries in kind committee decide that the supervision hitherto exercised by the reparations committee must be continued in some form, then it will be up to the second Hague conference on reparations to wrestle with the problem. The committee was visibly depressed by the decision of the conference and went straight to demand when the next train left for Paris where their sessions are held.

SEN. NORRIS LAUNCHES ATTACK AGAINST REED

Nebraskan Says He Does Not Intend to Sit By and Hear Himself Accused Indirectly of Being an Enemy to His Country or a Free Trader—Asserts Advocates of Higher Tariffs Are Doing More Harm Than Good—Overwhelming Majority of Democrats and Western Republicans Succeed in Reducing Duty on Pig Iron From $1.12 1-2 to 75 Cents a Ton.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—In the first dispute over a major industrial tariff, the administration group in the senate bowed today to an overwhelming majority of democrats and western republicans who succeeded by 43 to 30 in reducing the duty on pig iron from $1.12 1-2 to 75 cents a ton. The finance committee republicans had proposed an increase to $1.50.

The 75-cent rate was sponsored by Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, a democratic member of the tariff-framing finance committee. This was the same duty carried in existing law until it was raised by presidential proclamation to $1.12 1-2, which rate the house left untouched.

Nineteen republicans, including many regulars and a republican member of the committee—Sackett, of Kentucky—joined 29 democrats in support of the lower duty. Four democrats—Broussard and Ransdell, of Louisiana; Heflin, of Alabama, and Kendrick, of Wyoming—combined with 26 republicans against the decrease.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, who had urged the $1.50 rate to assist merchant furnace operators on the Atlantic seaboard, said the vote proved the futility of attempting further arguments in support of industrial tariff increases and reiterated the bill was dead, since the house never would agree to the wholesale changes being wrought by the coalition.

This brought a stinging reply from Senator Norris, republican independent, of Nebraska, who said he was tired of listening to "lectures from the Pennsylvania senator" and contended Reed had come "perilously near violating the rules of the senate," at least having violated "ordinary sportsmanship."

It was not "becoming" of Reed, continued the Nebraskan, to "lecture" and question the intelligence of his fellows after several hours of debate had resulted in a decision not to his liking. While not questioning the accuracy of Reed's argument in favor of a higher tariff, Norris said he was not going to sit by and be "indirectly accused of being an enemy to my country or a free trader."

Disclaiming any free trade opinions, the Nebraskan asserted advocates of higher tariffs were doing more harm than good by demanding an embargo tariff wall.

Reed described democratic talk about a competitive tariff as "political" and added that the coalition had determined to knock out every increase in industrial rates, so it might as well go ahead and pass the bill and send it to conference with the house.

"The house and senate never will agree!" he exclaimed.

Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, also replied to the Pennsylvanian, saying he "almost wept" during the speech.

"You don't weep, but you will after the next election," Reed retorted.

Two democratic attempts to limit debate on committee amendments to the metals schedule, the same procedure as was in effect yesterday and today on the earthenware and glassware section, met with objections and at adjournment Senator Oddie, republican, Nevada, and others were arguing against the proposed transfer of manganese to the free list.

Urging adoption of the higher duty on pig iron, Reed said the distress of the farmer was nothing compared with the small merchant pig iron producer on the Atlantic seaboard who was suffering from imports from India, where wages were 14 cents a day. He cited figures to show that many of these eastern furnaces had closed down because imports had forced domestic prices down below the cost of production and said the big steel producers farther inland would not derive a nickel of benefit from the raise.

The Pittsburgh district, he said, needed no tariff at all because it had freight rate advantages and low priced imports could not hurt producers like the United States Steel Corp.

Senators Berkley and Walsh, democrat, Montana, contended the trouble with the pig iron industry was domestic rather than foreign competition and asserted the higher duty would result in higher prices of all iron and steel products in the interior as well as on the seaboard.

Barkley said only 140,000 tons were imported last year as against 1,500,000 tons produced on the seaboard and that only 52,000 tons came from India. Barkley agreed the merchant furnace operators were having difficulty keeping open, but attributed this rather to the big steel companies making pig iron beyond their own needs and for sale in competition with the smaller producers.

RADICALS TO VOTE AGAINST TARDIEU GOVERNMENT

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The new Tardieu government, which replaces the cabinet of Aristide Briand overthrown Oct. 22, will make its bow to parliament tomorrow afternoon.

According to present indications, it will get a warm reception from friends and foes alike, and perhaps particularly from the foes, who are anxious to bring it down as fast as possible.

The radical socialists, who refuse to collaborate with the ministry, did not wait for M. Tardieu's declaration of policy to prepare their attack. They decided unanimously today to vote against the government and made the adverse vote a matter of party discipline. This narrows the premier's already scant margin of safety.

The cabinet members discussed the ministerial declaration at length and announced in a communique that they were "in perfect unanimity on all points at issue." This included a demand for immediate discussion of the government's general and foreign policy.

The premier refused to comment on the declaration, beyond saying that it was short and covered clearly and categorically all pending questions of foreign and internal politics. He wishes to give parliament itself the direct revelation of his policies.

M. Tardieu has decided to accept immediate discussion of the interpellations addressed to the government in the chamber of deputies. There are 12 of them, and the discussion is expected to be lengthy; therefore a crucial vote may not come before Friday. M. Briand, whose presence at the ministry of foreign affairs will have an important effect on the cabinet's fate, is scheduled to speak for an hour.

SMALL BOY REPUDIATES MURDER CONFESSION

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—On the witness stand in his own behalf in children's court today, Edward Moran, 12, told Justice Samuel D. Levy that he did not kill Mrs. Clara Hewes, 76-year-old widow, on the afternoon of October 23.

The child repudiated in full the confession of the murder he had made to the police and asserted that the only reason he had confessed was that he was tired of the detectives' questioning and admitted the crime only on their assurance that he could go home if he did so.

In his confession the boy had said he killed the old lady when she awoke and discovered him taking $3 from her dresser top which, the confession continued, he lost rolling dice and spent for pastry.

READY FOR SWEEPING STUDY OF CHILD WELFARE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(AP)— Secretary Wilbur, as chairman of the white house conference on child health and protection, announced today that its various committees were ready for the most sweeping study of child welfare "ever made in all the world."

H. E. Barnard, director of the planning committee, and other members of the committee, who were drawn from all types of organizations engaged in welfare work, finished three months' work recently by recommending the most complete study possible of all work being done for the advancement of the child, from which suggestions will be drawn for future action.

SEN. BROOKHART APPEARS BEFORE GRAND JURY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)— The District of Columbia grand jury is expected to reach a decision tomorrow whether it will summon additional witnesses in connection with a "Wall street booze party," attended by senators, about which it was informed today by Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa.

District Attorney Leo A. Rover announced late today he had requested the jury to decide by that time about this course of action. Senator Brookhart appeared before the jury for 11 minutes to disclose the incidents of the party, which he previously had discussed on the senate floor in a denunciation of prohibition enforcement conditions.

The senator refused later to reveal what he had told the grand jury or whether he had asked it to subpoena four men, including W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad and Otto H. Kahn, New York banker, who mhe had asserted on the senate floor were at the party. Rover said the issuance of subpoenas was solely "in the hands of the grand jury."

Prior to his appearance before the jury, Brookhart conferred for a short time with Rover and they were photographed together in the latter's office.

In declining to comment on his appearance before the jury, Senator Brookhart said "the proceedings of the grand jury were secret" and that he would be in contempt of court if he disclosed his testimony.

GIANT AIRLINER CRASHES KILLING SIX PERSONS

MARDEN PARK, Surrey, England, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Six of eight persons aboard a big German airliner bound from Croydon to Berlin, were killed today when the pilot lost his way in a fog and the machine crashed into a clump of trees on a hillside. It burst into flames immediately, trapping three passengers and three of the crew.

Prince Eugene Schaumberg-Lippe, a cousin of the former kaiser's sister, who was second pilot, escaped through the torn fuselage. Commander Glen Kidston, well known racing driver, got out the same way. Both were badly burned.

The three passengers killed were: G. P. Milne, of Calcutta, G. S. Gaspar, Sr., of London, and D. L. Jones, of Stockwell.

Pilot Rod Schinka, Mechanic Ulrich, and Wireless Operator Niklas also were killed.

DERELICT SCHOONER YACHT SIGHTED 16 MILES A TSEA

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—(AP)—A derelict schooner yacht reported sighted 16 miles off Barnegat, N. J., tonight was identified a short time later as the property of Frederic P. Humphreys, New York yacht broker. Mr. Humphreys said he had been notified that its crew of two men had abandoned it in a sinking condition early today off Atlantic City, N. J., and rowed ashore.

PRES. HOOVER MAY ATTEND NAVY-GEORGETOWN GAME

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—(AP)—President Hoover hopes to be able to attend the Navy-Georgetown football game at Annapolis Saturday, but was not certain today whether his plans could be arranged to make the trip possible.

Extending the Limits of Man's Opportunity

Power has lightened the farmer's burdens and shortened the miles to town

Maine speaks to California—in Illinois!

ONLY A FEW generations ago the life of man was circumscribed by his own physical limitations . . . the dexterity of his fingers, the strength of his back, the speed of his limbs, and the labor of domestic animals.

The interchange of commodities was slow, difficult. There were no good roads, as we know them today, nor any way to travel swiftly, surely, over these roads. The deeply rutted wagon trail was a long, hard trail.

Though boundless acres were all about, it was only the adventurous few who traveled far. Many a man lived and died without ever having been more than fifty miles from home.

Then was born an idea that was destined to reshape the frontiers and the future of the entire country—the idea of making a small, strong, simple automobile so low in price that it might be placed within the means of all the people.

The coming of this new means of transportation not only changed the industrial life of the nation, but helped to change the private lives of every one for all the generations to come.

It leveled hills, extended horizons, created new opportunities, furnished the means to earn more money and to enjoy the leisure which that increased income should bring.

In creating and building a small, strong, simple automobile at a low price, and in using it, man became accustomed to thinking of machinery as a servant. He made power work for him.

More and more as time went on, in industrial plants and on the farm, heavy labor was taken off the back of man and placed upon the broader shoulders of the machine.

The Ford moved everywhere, blazing the way over miry roads and rocky mountain trails, through gumbo and sand, creating a rising demand for swifter, smoother travel that resulted in the construction of hundreds of thousands of miles of cement and macadam highways reaching to all parts of the country.

The benefits resulting from the introduction of the low-priced automobile have done more than perhaps any other single thing to increase the standards of living and to make this a truly united country.

All the people are blended together by the flexibility and swiftness of automotive transportation. The prairie farmer, the industrial worker and the city business man are governed by similar impulses, similar tastes, similar demands upon highly specialized machinery to serve them.

This civilization can show no greater example of disciplined machinery than in the operation of the Ford Industries.

The great miracle is not the car, but the machines that make the machine—the methods that make it possible to build such a fine car, in large numbers, at a low price.

Craftsmanship has been put into mass production. Millions and millions of parts are made—each one so accurate and so exactly like the other that they fit perfectly to the thousandth of an inch when brought together for assembly into complete units.

Men by the thousands and the hundred thousand are employed at the Rouge plant alone and there are hundreds of acres of plant equipment. Yet the purpose today is wholly the same as when the equipment of the Ford organization was housed in a single small building.

Everything that has been done has been done to give further scope and expression to the Ford Idea.

That idea is not merely to make automobiles—not merely to create so much additional machinery and so many millions of additional horse-power—but to make this a better world in which to live through providing economical transportation for all the people.

For that purpose the first Model T was made twenty-one years ago. For that purpose the new Ford is made today.

In 1929, as in 1908, it is again helping to reshape the frontiers and the future of the country and to further extend the limits of man's opportunity.

To all men—everywhere—the advantages of economical transportation

SAYS WILLIMANTIC COULD HAVE AIRPORT AT SMALL COST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 6.—An aviation field could be established in the immediate vicinity by the city of Willimantic or the town of Windham at a comparatively small expenditure, according to Clarence Knox, state commissioner of aviation, who was in conference here Tuesday with a fact-finding committee appointed to investigate the airport project by the board of selectmen. Commissioner Knox, in company with the committee, inspected what the commissioner believes to be the only available location in this district for a field. During his inspection he gave the committee definite information as to the area necessary and various other matters relative to the establishment and maintenance of a field.

The initial cost would be small to make the field safe for landing and taking off purposes and maintaining it in good condition. Any further improvement would depend entirely on the extent of the use of the field.

It was indicated today that the fact-finding committee, which is composed of Roland B. Jordan, chairman; Cassius A. Barstow, Albert B. Smith, Dixon VanZandt and John J. O'Rourke, secretary of the chamber of commerce, would approach the owners of the site selected by Commissioner Knox. The committee will secure all available data, including actual cost of purchase, conditioning and maintenance, before making a final report to the board of selectmen. Should this complete report meet with the approval of the selectmen, action by the voters will be sought.

The airport project gained impetus within the past several months. A chamber of commerce, noting the local interest as manifested in aviation by various civic organizations, met with the board of selectmen. First Selectman William A. Buck, Selectmen A. C. Keeney, J. C. Healy and C. A. Barstow. The chamber group was composed of President Frank P. Fenton, chairman; R. B. Jordan of the aviation commission, A. B. Smith, Dixon VanZandt and Secretary O'Rourke. It was as a result of this conference that the fact-finding committee was appointed.

Four cases were disposed of at a session of the Mansfield town court Tuesday night with Justice of the Peace Byron Houston on the bench and Grand Juror Walter F. Storrs prosecuting. Sydney Ridgeway of Merrow, charged with operating an automobile under another's license and not having his own license, pleaded guilty. He was fined $25 on the first count and $10 and costs on the second. The total was $47.30. Emory Scarras of Mt. Carmel, town of Hampden, was charged with allowing another person to use his operator's license. He also pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and costs, amounting to $31.60. Both men paid. Testimony was given by State Policeman Emil Castagna of the Stafford Springs barracks, who stated that Scarras complained on Nov. 1 that his car was stolen or taken without leave in Merrow. He found that Ridgeway had the car, that he had no license and the investigation showed that Scarras had loaned the car, as well as his driver's license, to Ridgeway.

Emile Chabot and his wife, Katherine Chabot, of Gurleyville, were charged with breach of the peace as the result of a disturbance last Monday night. They pleaded guilty and each was given a suspended 15-day jail sentence and assessed the costs of the case, $12.25, divided between them. The Chabots were arrested by Officers Castagna and Henry Reinold of the Stafford Springs barracks.

OBITUARIES

William H. P. Sweet

William H. P. Sweet of 116 Bridge street died about 6:30 o'clock this morning in Norwich. He was born in Exeter, R. I., May 18, 1850, a son of Albert and Clarissa Vaughn Sweet, coming to this city in 1880 when he entered the employ of Hillhouse & Taylor as a carpenter. The deceased leaves his wife; one son, Royden V. Sweet of Portland, Me.; one daughter, Miss Elmira P. Sweet of this city, and two brothers, Lorenzo of Stonington, and Horace Sweet of Providence, R. Mrs. Ellen E. Weeks

Mrs. Ellen E. Weeks, 76, widow of Charles Weeks, died at her home in Warrenville Tuesday evening. She was born in Warrenville, Oct. 14, 1853, a daughter of Ralph and Emily Lincoln Durkee. She is survived by one brother, Orrin P. Durkee. Mrs. Weeks was a member of the Warrenville Baptist church.

Stephen M. Kollar

Stephen M. Kollar, 17, of Lebanon, died about 3 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's hospital after a short illness. He was a student at the Lyman Memorial high school, Lebanon. The deceased was born in Columbia, Oct. 3, 1912, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kollar. Besides his parents he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Wilfred Challifoux of Baltic, and Miss Freda Kollar, a student nurse at St. Joseph's hospital.

Anna E. White

Anna E. White, 50, wife of Frank P. White and former resident of Mansfield, died in the Harper hospital, Detroit, Mich., this morning. She was the daughter of William and Sarah Jane Durkee Hall. Besides her husband she leaves one brother, Alfred Hall of Chaplin. Mrs. White had been connected with the Singer Sewing Machine Co. in Detroit for many years.

Two motion pictures, Shoulder Arms, featuring Charlie Chaplin, and The World War, will be shown for school children in grades five to eight in the Gem theater Armistice day morning by James J. Shea post, No. 19, American Legion. Tickets are to be secured without charge by the school principals. The World War is a forceful picture of the great strife, depicting the part played by the United States from the declaration of war by President Woodrow Wilson to the signing of the Armistice. Several of the scenes are of actual fighting in No Man's Land. Should interest be sufficient in the picture it will be shown to the public at large at a later date.

Longfellow's Psalm of Life was presented in a new version by Walter Stemmons, publicity director of the Connecticut Agricultural college, in a talk before the Exchange club at the regular meeting in the Nathan Hale hotel Tuesday evening. President E. Frank Bugbee was in charge and R. G. Remington, chairman of the entertainment committee, introduced Mr. Stemmons.

FUNERAL

Mike Wilke

The funeral of Mike Wilke was held from the home in Hop River this morning with a requiem mass in St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Michael Thompson was the celebrant. The soloist was Miss L. Monica McKean, accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Portelance, organist. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, where Rev. Henry E. Quinn read a committal prayer. The bearers were friends of the deceased. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

A third continuance has been granted in the case of Walter Neff of 135 Union street, charged in the Mansfield town court with reckless driving as the result of an accident in which Mrs. Jennie E. Miller of Woodsville, N. H., was killed and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Henry L. Miller of Springfield, Mass., was seriously injured. The report of Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson, which is withheld pending the outcome of the injuries sustained by the younger Mrs. Miller, is being awaited by the court officials before disposing of the case.

Mrs. Joseph M. Berard entertained the Evening Bridge and Luncheon club at her home on Oak street Tuesday evening with two tables and a guest table in play. Mrs. George W. Hickey won first prize and Mrs. P. D. Donohue the second. The guests were: Mrs. Alberic Archambault, Mrs. Leo St. Onge, Mrs. Alma St. Onge and Mrs. J. P. Archambault, the latter winning the guest prize.

Plans for a forum during the winter months when several well-known speakers will be heard, were completed at a meeting of the Men's Social club of Coventry held tonight. President George H. Robertson was in charge. Action was taken on a number of applications for membership, the organization already having 112 members.

The Young People's Bible class of the Baptist church held its monthly meeting this evening at the home of Mrs. Russell A. Andrews on Ann street. A box social followed the session.

A banquet is to precede the annual visitation of state officers to Violet Rebekah lodge, No. 57, Tuesday evening, Nov. 19.

Edward Foran of New York city is in town visiting his father, William Foran, who is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lashelle of North Windham have closed their home and motored to Florida, where they will spend the winter, also visiting Havana.

Mr. and Mrs. Anson J. Olds will leave next week for their winter home in Jensen, Fla., to remain until April. Mr. Olds conducts an orange plantation in the south.

Legrand J. P. Fichthorn of Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fichthorn of this city, this week was elected secretary-treasurer of Washington Alumni chapter of Gamma Eta Gamma fraternity. Mr. Fichthorn is a graduate of Georgetown university Law school.

Mrs. George Stiles, Mrs. Fred Smith and Mrs. Roland B. Jordan were prize winners at a bridge given by Miss Elizabeth Hardman Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. William Turnbull of Hartford is guest of Miss Elizabeth Hardman for a few days.

Alderman Cyril A. Lamoureux announced today that he would accept nomination at the republican city caucus next Friday night for alderman-at-large. Alderman Lamoureux, who is a resident of the third district, made an excellent run upon his election as alderman-at-large two years ago. He had previously served for several terms as a member of the board of relief and as tax collector. The republican committee had not fully completed its slate today, the selection of Lamoureux's running mates for the offices of aldermen-at-large yet remaining to be determined. The possibility of a "dark horse" receiving the nomination for the mayoralty appeared in republican circles, while the democrats were focusing attention on Alderman John Reilly, now representing that party in the council as alderman-at-large.

Edward C. Cox of Wallingford, district deputy grand exalted ruler of Wallingford, and staff, conducted his annual visitation of Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks, at a largely-attended meeting held in the home tonight. Prior to the session, the district deputy and his aides were guests at a banquet given by the officers of the lodge in the Nathan Hale hotel. The visitation, during which two candidates were initiated, was followed by luncheon and an entertainment under the chairmanship of Ralph B. Gates. There were over half a hundred visitors from various lodges of the state.

Carpenters commenced work, Wednesday, making repairs to the ell of the Nicholas Fedus house, on Norwich avenue, which was damaged by fire early Sunday morning.

William Johnson has been confined to his home on Myrtle avenue the past few days, ill with stomach trouble.

Fire Chief H. F. Brown, with a squad of men, extinguished a bad chimney fire at the former Deacon Henry Marvin farmhouse in the Parum section of town, about 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

PAST MASTERS' ASS'N. MEETS WITH FAITH CHAPTER

Faith chapter, O. E. S., Mrs. Louise Holmes, W. M., entertained Wednesday afternoon 28 members of the New London county Past Matrons' association. The meeting period included matters of business, tables of bridge and whist with a social hour. A harvest dinner prepared and served by Mrs. H. E. Paul, received the unanimous endorsement of those at the feast. The visiting officers were from Norwich, New London, Lyme, Mystic, Stonington, Niantic and Montville.

Mrs. Alice Anthony, Mrs. F. I. Ray and Mrs. E. B. Cheney attended the state convention of The King's Daughters in Hartford, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Shower for Miss McBroome

Following the meeting of Ruthie Rebekah lodge Tuesday evening, the entire company present joined in giving Miss Mabel Hall McBroome a miscellaneous shower. Some time the latter part of this month Miss McBroome is to become the bride of Judge John T. Barry. She received many beautiful gifts Judge Barry is receiving numerous congratulations as his wedding day approaches, while best wishes with the gifts of the shower went to Miss McBroome.

Pageant at Meeting

Mrs. E. E. Scates entertained the Mission Circle of the Baptist church at the parsonage in Sylvandale Tuesday afternoon. Twenty-one were present. The hostess had prepared the program, taking for the topic "The Jerusalem Conference." Mrs. B. R. Gardner gave a short account of the meeting, the fourth international gathering in the interests of foreign missions since 1890. This one seems destined to exert the widest influence of any of them and considering the background of history and circumstances was the most momentous church gathering in centuries. The material for the talk was mainly taken from the new study book "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem" by Helen Barrett Montgomery. Testimonials of five Baptist missionaries telling what the findings of the conference had meant in their work were read by Mrs. E. M. Gray, Miss Belle Guy, Mrs. Martin Davis, Miss Susie Morgan and Mrs. S. F. Brown. Mrs. C. F Gardner read "A Prayer," by G C. Binyan.

A pageant "The Other Mary," introduring the study book, was beautifully given. Mrs. R. A. Wilbur personified Womanhood. Mrs. Leonard McBroome was Mary. She carried a lighted candle signifying the light which is the Christian message kept alive through the ages by women. Women famous in church history who passed in review were Lydia, a seller of purple, Mrs. Lewis Hewlitt; Priscilla, a woman of Ephesus, Mrs. E. E. Gilbert; Bertha a Frankish princess, Miss Mabel McBroome; Aletta, the mother of Clairvaux Mrs. Scates; Ann Hutchins, a Pilgrim woman, Miss Morgan; Ann Judson, the first woman missionary, Mrs. John McLean; Dr. Catherine Mable, a modern medical missionary, Mrs. Mary Brewster. Mrs. Scates was assisted by Miss Guy, Miss Morgan and Mrs. Brewster in serving tea.

ASHLAND MILL STRIKE PRACTICALLY ENDED

The strike at the Ashland mill, which involved most of the 50 operatives in the rayon warping department, may be said to be practically at an end. A considerable number of those who joined in the walkout, are back at their machines with the room in operation as usual. Those reinstated have adjusted themselves to the necessary requirements of the revised wage schedules. It was learned Wednesday at the plant that night operation of the warping department is discontinued indefinitely.

At Woonsocket Ceremonial

The rewards that come to those who, by their example and leadership, merit promotion, were bestowed Sunday last upon a group of Franco-Americans, at Precious Blood church, in Woonsocket, over the destiny of which Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles Dauray has presided for more than half a century. Papal honors were conferred upon both priest and laymen. Chief Joseph Cadieux, of the local Franco-American court, No. 156, was present as a guest. Also included among Jewett City visitors, were Mrs. Cadieux and daughter Olivine, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Boule, Mrs. Dumont and Marie Peltier, From Plainfield, Deputy Hormidos Dion, attended. Mr. Cadieux states that a grand oratorio in the evening brought the memorable day to a close. "Paradise Lost," was given before an audience of 1500.

Visitation of Grand Officers

At the inspection of Faith chapter, No. 82, O. E. S., held Monday evening the following grand officers were present: W. G. Matron Mrs. Abbie Y. Bergmann, Associate G. Matron Mrs. Jennie E. Stevens, Associate G. Conductress Mrs. Ida B. Nixon, Grand Chaplain Mrs. Mary M. Woodward, G. Marshal Mrs. Ethel G. Ingalls, G. Adah Mrs. Olive W. King, G. Ruth Mrs. Frances T. Utley, G. Sentinel John L. Brevoort, P. G. Matrons Mrs. Nellie Stewart and Mrs. Frances Geer.

The grand officers, with Mrs. Louise M. Holmes, W. M., and William J. Robertson, W. P., were served supper at the home of Mrs. Isabelle M. Blair. At the business meeting two candidates were initiated. Miss Doris Myott was the soloist. Brief addresses were made by the grand officers. Mrs. Abbie Y. Bergmann, W. G. M., was presented gifts. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Grace Wilbur, Mrs. Dorothy Post, Mrs. Cordelia, Mrs. Mary Cathcart. Many visitors were present from other chapters.

Whist at the Grange

Pachaug grange whist held Tuesday at the grange hall proved very enjoyable, there being thirty-five present, all voting in favor of the refreshments of home baked pumpkin pie and sweet cider new from the press. The prize winners were: Mrs. Patrick Weaver, Mrs. Jane Lester, Mrs. Lena Chesboro, "Sol" Paquette, Herbert Salisbury, and Robert Bitwood, Clara Gerbitz and Simon Brewster, Jr., consolation.

Mrs. Joseph Malek and Mrs. Laura St. John, were visitors at the Backus hospital in Norwich Wednesday to call upon Rev. Albert Clement. The aged pastor is making his home in Jewett City at the Malek hotel. The callers were pleased to report favorably as to the patient's condition, upon their return home.

Wednesday morning, with the mercury at 30, there came the seventh frost of the season, which included the two freezes of the first week in October. Following the first killing temperatures, there came three weeks of beautiful early September days during which the mercury held above 38 day and night.

Have Eyes on Trophy

Considerable attention is being attracted to the weekly performances of the two teams of young women bowlers. The strikers they hang up, furnish pin-falls for some of the semi-pros to shoot at. Judging by Monday night's scores, Miss LaChapelle and Miss Givenski, have their eyes on the prize silver cup.

Armistice day, the various manufacturing industries of the borough will run as usual. The banks, library and the A. and P. stores will be closed. The other closings will not be general. Several store owners were undecided Wednesday evening.

FUNERAL

Rowland R. Barber

Funeral services for Rowland R. Barber were held Wednesday afternoon at his home on the River road, Lisbon. Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of Jewett City Baptist church, conducted the service. Following a prayer, and the reading of passages of scripture, with brief remarks, the minister read that beautiful poem, Bon Voyage, by Marianne Sarningham, Farewell, Farewell, You Sail Away. The flowers were unusually beautiful.

The bearers were two sons, Rowland Jr., of Westminster, Vermont, and Claire of Waterbury, with Fred L. Kanahan and Frank I. Ray. Burial was in Yantic cemetery, Norwich. Among the relatives present was Mr. Barber's only niece, Miss Elizabeth Hall, of Westerly, and Stephen Hall, Thomas Sexar and William Sexar also of Westerly. The last named who is 84, was present at Mr. Barber's wedding close to 60 years ago. The nearer relatives, with members extending into the fourth generation, were from Vermont, Waterbury and Jewett City.

The "S" curve Tadpole bridge came in for its usual accident report Tuesday afternoon when Edgar A. St. Jean driving a Ford touring car, rammed the fence and nearly went down the bank. Some failure with the steering gear, termed a broken wish bone, was given as the cause of the trouble. The car was smashed forward, and was hauled to a local garage.

Many learn with pleasure of the resumption of the K. of C. whist nights, so popular last season.

More than a dozen local Elks, made up three automobile parties in Willimantic Wednesday evening, to be present, when District Deputy Edward C. Cox of Wallingford made his official visit to Willimantic lodge, No. 1311. The business session was followed by a luncheon and entertainment.

Lost Fat—Gained in Charm Her Weight Now Normal

Table Tells How Much Women and Girls Should Weigh

How would you like to lose 15 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose a load of unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

How would you like to get your weight down to normal and at the same time develop that urge for activity that makes work a pleasure and also gain in ambition and keenness of mind?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh—then get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts which will last you for 4 weeks. Take one half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh yourself again.

Now you can laugh at the people who pay hundreds of dollars to lose a few pounds of fat—now you will know the pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 vitalizing salts of Kruschen (Salts that your blood, nerves and glands must have to function properly) —have presented you with glorious health.

After that you'll want to walk around and say to your friends—"One 85 cents bottle of Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat person's money."

Leading druggists America over sell Kruschen Salts—you can always get it at Lee and Osgood's.

OBLIGATORY INSPECTIONS

Pennsylvania has a law which makes it obligatory for the owners of automobiles to submit them for inspection before the 15th of this month, receive a sticker as evidence of the approval of the inspecting officer and carry that sticker on the windshield to inform others that all requirements have been met. Failure to comply with this requirement, or rather the operation of a car during the month between November 15 and December 15 which has not been inspected, subjects the owner to a fine of $10 or a sentence of five days in jail.

In some other states there are periodical examinations made of autos and their equipment in order to determine whether they are in fit condition to drive. Lights, brakes and general condition are inspected and notice is taken as to whether all equipment requirements are met. If the cars pass muster all is well. If they fail to have proper lights or adequate brakes they are ordered to the repair shop or summoned to court in accordance with the seriousness of the condition.

This check-up on auto equipment is a fine thing for safer highway conditions. There are those cars which probably never have the eye of an inspector cast upon them in critical examination, because they do not happen to be on the road at the time of the place inspectors may be busy. They may or may not be in good condition. But under the Pennsylvania arrangement there is no hit or miss about it. Those cars which cannot show that they have been presented for inspection and are being operated make their owners liable to prosecution. Efforts are made to warn all owners, even a proclamation by the governor urging that all cars be put in safe condition and inspected by the middle of this month has been issued, so that there is no one to blame but the owners themselves if they are found violating the inspection requirement.

As a matter of protection and freedom from annoyance for himself and as a big contribution to the safety of the highways, this forced inspection each year may not avoid all accidents, but it should mean the prevention of many of them during an important part of the year.

RESTRICTING FIREARMS

From time to time and for varying reasons restrictions have been placed upon the purchase and possession of firearms. Laws have even been adopted which carry heavy penalties if persons are found with firearms, and yet revolvers are probably possessed by more people than anyone would imagine. The common excuse for this is protection of the home, and yet there are cases constantly coming to light which go to show that had there been no such firearms in the house they would not have been obtained by children for the killing of self or others, or they would not have been available for the taking of life by elders in the case of troubles which should be settled in another manner.

Not alone on this side of the water has it been considered advisable to adopt legislation concerning the possession of firearms. The London Express questions the wisdom of their present firearms act because it is possible for almost anyone to get a permit to have a revolver and it is quite as easy for criminals to obtain them as it is for others. Pistols are obtained quite as freely whether a license is involved or not. It believes the authorities should ask themselves "why anybody, at least any civilian, should be permitted to carry these relics of an age when all life was insecure and each man's protection depended upon himself. . . . Their possession by any private person ought to be made a criminal offense."

Restrictions which have been placed upon sale and possession have aimed at so controlling them that they would be kept out of the hands of the criminal. Such has not been accomplished, in spite of the still heavy penalty that goes with illegal possession and the additional penalty that may be involved in the commission of a crime while carrying such a weapon. The criminal has found it possible to get an adequate supply of revolvers, rifles and even rapid-fire guns with which to carry on his business. He has laughed at the efforts to restrain his activity in this manner and there was nothing surprising about that because he encountered no difficulty in getting guns in various ways and through several channels. The difficulties of the restriction can be fully appreciated by those who have to enforce it and those who are possessing weapons contrary to the law relative thereto.

BURNING THE ROADSIDES

Among the states which have been large sufferers from forest fires this year is California. These fires have had different causes but there is a belief there that valuable preventive work can be done by removing that fire hazard which exists in the way of underbrush along the roadsides. It figures that if there is nothing there to burn, the carelessly discarded cigarette stubs will not cause any trouble when tossed to the roadside by passing automobilists. This may seem like removing only part of the cause for such fires and that the careless smoker will continue to do his work elsewhere, but while there is this valuable fire prevention work being done it is to be realized that other important benefits are also obtained.

California's method is to sprinkle the roadsides with oil which kills vegetation and then it is burned. It thus gets at the job ahead of the butt tosser, with proper supervision, of course, to see that the fire does only what is intended.

With the burning of the brush there is accomplished what is done in many states, that of keeping the roadside cleared, although in most instances this calls for men with brush-cutting scythes. California finds oil available and employs it. With the roadsides burned over there are removed those obstructions which so often shut off the vision of the highway users at curves and at embankments and when this method of destruction is carried out there also go many of the pests, or brush upon which certain pests thrive.

It can be appreciated that the destruction of brush and leaves at the roadside does not mean that there will be no other similar material to replace it, especially through wooded areas when the leaves fall. But while it may not be claimed that the idea is a guarantee against any fires, it is aimed in the right direction and unquestionably accomplishes much in the way of prevention.

Let there go with it the degree of care on the part of the motorists who throw stubs to the roadside, which is no more than any motorist ought to possess, and a substantial contribution to fire prevention will have been made.

MISTAKES WILL HAPPEN

Accidents will happen in the best of families. That is the answer to the fact that Senator Hiram Johnson of California, the president's own state, was not invited to the white house to meet Ambassador Dawes. The occasion was one when the president had bidden all members of the foreign relations committee, or supposed this had been done, to a dinner for the ambassador, who has been here for a short time and sails this week to return to London. As it turned out, the invitation, for some unknown reason, never reached the California senator and he was the only member in the city who was not in attendance.

It was particularly unfortunate because there have been political differences between the president and senator arising from state politics and, although the trouble had been considered healed, the failure to get an invitation indicated a slight and the reopening of the old sore.

It was possible to those who felt that way to work themselves up into a frenzy over the affair, to imagine it was intentional and a method of retaliation for votes contrary to the wishes of the president. Although even that was difficult to reconcile, for there were those who were invited and attended who are even more confirmed insurgents than Senator Johnson.

What appeared to be a big bit of political news was quickly knocked in the head by the president's explanation to the senate and his assurance that it was nothing but a much-regretted mistake.

It was a case where the best laid plans go askew, where the inadvertence of someone else causes serious complications and where things are not always what might be inferred. And yet it can be appreciated that no one in the office of president would resort to any such slight even had he harbored such a thought.

It is to be hoped it will not be considered ground for a senate investigation.

THE GRAPE MARKET

On what is known as Kelleys Island, near Toledo, grape growers are complaining because they have 100 tons of grapes which are rotting. The explanation is that they can find no market for them.

This would indicate that the situation there is the same as it has been some years in Connecticut with apples—there are so many of them and the price is so low that it doesn't pay to handle them. And yet it can be appreciated that there would be little difficulty in disposing of those grapes if those who would like them could obtain them at a favorable price. The Toledo Blade points out that such a quantity would mean only about three-quarters of a pound apiece for the people of that city and yet "it is a fact that it has been difficult—virtually impossible—to buy Catawba grapes in most Toledo groceries this fall in less than bushel quantities."

From this the inference is gained that efforts have been concentrated in moving the grape crop in that vicinity in large quantities instead of catering to the distribution of smaller quantities through a much larger number of people. Those who could not make use of a bushel might have been glad if they could have obtained the equivalent over a period of time by buying them a few pounds at a time. The idea of catering to the table grape market seems to have been overlooked and yet the difficulties in purchasing grapes in small quantities would seem to indicate that there might have been real relief for the grape growers if they, or those who take their grapes, had moved out of the beaten path and sought to cultivate a line of trade that was desirous of being encouraged. Possibly the Catawbas were turned down for other kinds because they were not available as wanted.

HE DID HIS BEST

"I liked your first name the minute I heard it," declared the determined young man who had taken a correspondence course on how to be a social success and win the girl you love.

"H'm," said the pretty girl in question, raising one eyebrow. "Ever since I was old enough to come when I was called I have loathed the name of Gertrude. I'd take anything else, even Henrietta or Dobella!"

"They wouldn't suit you," he told her promptly, shaking his head. "Your name is perfection. And I don't think I have ever met another girl in all my life who displayed such taste and judgment about clothes. You never seem to pick out the wrong color or line. Really, you seem to have an uncanny knowledge of what is appropriate and becoming. Do you realize it? It's a gift, and you should be proud to feel that it is yours. Now, this delicate pink chiffon—"

"Orchid jersey," corrected the pretty girl tonelessly. "If you're so colorblind I can't imagine how you can tell what any one has on! Nobody else is ever transported with ecstasy over my wardrobe. In fact, my cousin tells me that if I fell heir to a complete dry goods store it would be a total loss, for I never in the world should know how to make use of the contents."

"Your cousin is jealous of you," the young man told her gravely. "That's the penalty a girl pays for being so far ahead of the crowd—everybody has her knife out to get in a few good cuts at the first chance, relative or not! But just consider it. How can another girl escape jealousy when she sees you looking—well, as you look? If the sight of you makes my heart turn over—"

"Prune sauce," murmured the pretty girl. "Just what seems to be the trouble with you today, Hemingway?"

The young man leaned back in his chair and registered pained exasperation.

"You make it very difficult to talk with you," he remarked. "I can't help feeling that you use this harsh manner as a sort of mask or defense, for you must be bored constantly by having people tell you the same things about yourself, you know. And no doubt some of them are crude and attempt flattery and I don't blame you for turning cynical.

"But you must realize that when I tell you a thing I mean it. I have too much respect for your intelligence Gertrude, to expect you to swallow absurdities. And too deep a belief in your own cleverness not to know you recognize truth when it is laid before you. You know what you are!" The pretty girl regarded him thoughtfully for some seconds.

"It doesn't seem possible," she murmured to herself.

"What's that?" the young man inquired anxiously. "And then the way you wear your hair! Ninety-nine girls out of a hundred look alike above the forehead but you manage to give a unique touch to your arrangement which I should recognize if I saw it in Borneo—"

"The barber that did my wave does six or eight a day," she said. "I don't see—"

"But I do!" he insisted firmly, leaning toward her, and looking deeply into her eyes. "It is just a part of your remarkable ability to stand out from the crowd. Don't you realize it yourself?

"I'm so glad to get these few minutes alone with you today because it has always seemed when I tried before that sixteen other fellows sprang up from the surrounding scenery and came to the party. There are ever so many things I've been wanting to tell you about yourself and how much you mean to me.

"I don't think I ever before knew a girl who so combined extreme grace and beauty with such sweetness of nature. Did you ever see a photo of the marble hand in the Metropolitan? I recall it whenever I look at your fingers. In fact, Gertrude—"

"Oh, I say!" shouted a stocky, pink-faced, everyday sort of young man, rushing in on the scene. "That you, Gert? Come along—the bunch is going over in Boodle's bus to watch hockey practice. Get a move!" The pretty girl and the stocky young man vanished down the stairs in what seemed to be one swoop. The conversational young man got up rather violently.

"Well, there may be a reason for it," he told the oaken scholastic walls, "but I fail to see it. Nobody could say any more than I did!"—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—The most revealing story the Bystander has yet read of Pershing's battle to preserve the national identity of his army in France is contributed by Col. Thomas Clement Lonergan in his recent book, "It Might Have Been Lost!".

There have been other such narratives, notably "The Genesis of the A. E. F.," published a few months ago by the army historical section.

Colonel Lonergan's contribution, however, is based entirely on British war records. His own part is merely that of compiler and editor.

But the British records from which he quotes tell a clear story with a degree of frankness almost unprecedented.

Minutes of meetings of the British war cabinet, which the Bystander does not recall ever having seen elsewhere in text, are freely employed.

Lonergan comments in his foreword on the "British national characteristic of fairness" which "willingly and helpfully" made the obtaining of these copies of official documents possible.

Opposition Revealed

In as much as those minutes disclose two occasions when the British cabinet seems actually to have moved to bring about the removal of General Pershing because of his relentless opposition to filling depleted British ranks with Americans in the crucial early days of 1918, British willingness to have them published is the more remarkable.

Every work the Bystander has read on Pershing's struggle to build up his own army under its own commanders and staff against the almost panicky plea from both France and England for immediate use of his manpower in their thinning ranks, paints the same picture.

They all hint at least at both French and British efforts to unseat Pershing round-about and indirect efforts. But Lonergan's extracts from British records make the thing quite clear and definite as far as British activities go.

Two Books Needed

There is no room here to recapitulate the story. To any interested reader delving now into what went on beneath the screen of necessary secrecy during the war, the Bystander would recommend that the American army's official account, "The Genesis," be read with Lonergan's narrative.

It can be obtained for a trifling sum from the public printer in Washington. And it is taken from American records.

Assuming that Colone Lonergan has culled from the British records all essential extracts for his purpose, his book and "The Genesis" afford two sides of the triangle of conflicting national interests that centered on Pershing's unshaken resolve to build an American army under an American flag.

Whether there is any similar outline drawn from French official sources, the Bystander does not know. If not, it is all that seems lacking.

It is a little amusing to hear that Senator Borah was offered first chance at the republican place on the London naval conference delegation. In forcing his freedom-of-the-seas conference amendment int othe cruiser bill, he said:

"I quite agree with the able senator from Arkansas (Mr. Robinson) that unless we can come . . . to an understanding between nations as to the legal use of the sea there is no such thing as naval disarmament . . . or reduction of naval armaments."

Yet the same Senator Robinson is a member of the delegation.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The "Movies" As We See Them

Mr. Editor: We have passed the 50th anniversary of the introduction of the electric light, and all of the side issues connected with it, and next to the light perhaps the greatest thing that has come forward for the pleasure and entertainment of the people is the "movies." This form of entertainment has been developed from its original crude state to the wonders that are unfolded before your eyes. Today we know that "camera" men will take all kinds of chances to get a "shot" at something that will interest the patrons of what was the silent drama, but now has become what is familiarly called the "talkies." We do not have to go far back to recall when the movies were called the nickle drome. The prices have, slowly but surely, advanced, until today in their first showing, a price as high as $3 and even $4 is asked and received. These high-priced pictures eventually come to your home town, and are shown at popular prices. We see pictures of foreign lands and see the people, their ceremonies, their costumes, and, in fact, everything connected with their lives and their daily occupations.

These pictures are a wonderful medium for securing an education for the impression is instantly engrossed upon the mind and retained. Everything of importance that takes place, or is contemplated, is seized upon and shown to the people in as realistic a form as though you were there to see it in reality. And now with the Vitaphone and the other means of transmitting sounds we not only see but we hear as real as though you saw the actual happening and with this the real people. Yet there are many improvements going on with these pictures that we see in this world of "make believe." Still there can be pointed out by the people out in front a something that is looked for and wished for by the older people. This is now possible through the "talkies," and I am going to aim this question to every one of you who loves to see this wonder, the "movies." Have you ever noticed the perfect quiet that is apparent, when you listen to the unseen orchestra when it plays one of those old time melodies that perhaps you may have heard your sainted mother sing to you when you were a little child? How it tugs at your heart as you listen to it, for it brings back to you tender memories of some one whom you have known. In a conservatory with a promoter, named Jean Belasco, he ventured the opinion that those old songs had a most soothing effect upon the people and as he had traveled through the continent, he had noted the general effect upon the people out front. With the playing of jazz the people would not appear to fall in with talking and an occasional laugh, would disturb the ones who wished to listen, but, as he continued, the moment the orchestra played some of those divine and immortal old melodies the audience was as quiet and reverential as they would be at the most solemn service in church. And no doubt, each one in the audience was communing with their own thoughts for it had stirred up some thoughts that each one had recalled. I have even seen tears glistening in the eyes of some of the older ones.

I noted at one time an old couple, who were sitting near to me and they looked with enraptured vision upon a scene of a country boy who was bidding his old mother goodbye. And as I looked I saw the tears comee into this old mother's eyes and I wondered what was the story behind their emotion. This is but one of many others for the "movies" have become real. They serve to recall some event in the lives of the people. And as each succeeding scene unfolds it, too, vanishes as the shapes that float upon a summer's dream. Where is there a more beautiful picture than was that immortal poem "Evangeline?" What a story is contained here in the undying devotion of the heroine? Yes, the "movies" are the poor man's, the rich and every man's fountain of pleasure, where he can see the events of today, yesterday and the years that are gone. All appears as real as though it were in the life, and we see it all through the windows of the soul. And we muse and think will wonders never cease, for here the dreams of poets come like music heard at evening. And how like a dream it all is for youth has crept away? And so the movies are like a dream we would recall.

YOUR HEALTH

FATIGUE IN CHILDREN.

By EVELYN HEATH, M. D.
Buffalo, N. Y.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute.)

A tired child! To most of us, the height of inconsistency exists in such an idea. A child, young and free from life's responsibilities, should be always fresh and tireless, we think, and nothing is more difficult than to persuade a parent that children are peculiarly susceptible to fatigue—that they are underdeveloped and unstable physically, nervously, and mentally, and that life, to them, is a constant, complicated, and wearing process of adjustment to new experiences. Yet mothers are quick to complain, "Johnny won't eat—he is getting thin and nervous, and doesn't sleep at night," or, "Mary is irritable and quarrelsome—she simply can't get along with other children," or, "Bobby is doing so poorly at school—his teacher says he is lazy and won't work." They expect their doctor to suggest a rapid cure, while in an astonishing number of cases, the problem is a pure and simple one of fatigue, the remedy simple too, but involving thorough understanding of a child's makeup. How can we free them of this handicap so inappropriate to childhood?

1. Revise your idea that a child is a miniature adult. Think of him as an incomplete, rapidly developing individual, whose chief business in life is to grow. With this in mind, how foolhardy to subject him, as we do, to the physical and mental strain of long hours in a poorly ventilated schoolroom, and of homestudy, music lessons, practice and work after school, as well as the emotional strain of movies, exciting books, quarrels and family problems at home.

2. Have your family doctor see the child at least once a year for a general examination. If he finds physical defects, such as malnutrition, chronic infections of the nose an throat, deafness, eye-strain, have these thoroughly treated. Similarly, have the dentist go over the child's teeth every six months, and keep them in good shape. Any ailment may cause fatigue, and fatigue disturbs the functions of every system of the body. Tired muscles result in poor posture; tired nerves in irritability, quarrelsomeness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness; tired circulation, in pallor, rapid heart cold hands and feet.

3. Carry out carefully the simple, inexpensive, and wholesome rules of food, rest, and play, so easy to learn from any doctor experienced in children's health, or from many excellent books.

4. Remember that your child is, above everything else, a creature of habit. He is instinctively imitative and responsive to suggestions. A good example on your part, and on the part of his teacher, is the most effective means of establishing good health habits. That child will best withstand fatigue, who is free from physical defects, has a stable nervous system, and follows, in his living, simple, reasonable laws of health.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Reddy And Mrs. Reddy Work Together

A task too hard for one to do,
May very simple be for two.
—Reddy Fox.

When Reddy Fox had left home Mrs. Reddy had been away hunting. She returned soon after. Her nose soon told her all she wanted to know. Reddy had left not long before. "Probably he has gone hunting," thought Mrs. Reddy. "For myself, I think I'll take a nap. I'm tired. Then, too, I've had a good dinner of mice, and a good dinner always makes one feel sleepy."

So Mrs. Reddy lay down on the doorstep for a nap. Now, a Fox is a light sleeper. Mrs. Reddy was in the middle of a dream of fat Meadow Mice just waiting to be caught when she heard a sound that caused her eyes to fly open. At first she wasn't sure that it was not a part of the dream. But in a moment she heard it again—a sharp "Yap-yap" on the far side of the Old Pasture.

"That's Reddy," thought Mrs. Reddy. "He is barking for me. He has found something and he wants my help."

She barked once in reply and then started off following the scent Reddy had left behind him. She knew that this would lead her straight to him. Sure enough, it did. She presently discovered him at one side of a small bramble tangle. She didn't show herself, but slipped around through the brush so as to join Reddy behind a big bush. She crept up beside him. Reddy said nothin. He didn't have to. Mrs. Reddy saw where Reddy was looking. He was peeking through the bush into a small bramble tangle. Mrs. Reddy peeked through. At once she saw Peter Rabbit.

Peter was awake now. He had heard Reddy Fox bark and he had realized that Reddy must be very near. But, though he had looked and looked, he hadn't been able to see Reddy. This didn't worry him much. He felt quite safe in that bramble tangle and he felt too miserable to think or much but his own feelings. Reddy crept back a little way and Mrs. Reddy joined him. "What is the matter with Peter Rabbit?" she inquired.

"I think he was hurt by a shot from a terrible gun," replied Reddy. "This is our chance to get him. I have been watching him for a long time. I don't think he can use one leg. On three legs he will have no chance at all. Now, here is my plan. I will drive him out of that bramble tangle and you will be hidden on the other side, where you can catch him as soon as he comes into the open."

"How are you going to drive him out? asked Mrs. Reddy.

"I'm going to crawl into that bramble tangle," replied Reddy.

"You'll get scratched and your coat will be torn," said Mrs Reddy.

Reddy grinned "A Rabbit dinner will be worth it. Now, my dear, you run along and hide."

So Mrs. Reddy noiselessly made her way around to the other side of the bramble tangle and hid. She was sure that Peter hadn't seen her. Reddy got to his feet and without trying to keep out of sight walked over to the bramble tangle. Peter was once more half-dozing. Reddy barked sharply. Peter saw him there.

"I'm going to get you this time!" snarled Reddy Fox, and began to force his way into the bramble tangle.

By this time Peter was very wide awake, indeed. For a moment he forgot his sore leg, but when he took a step with it, he was reminded right away of what had happened. He looked out on the bramble tangle on the side opposite to the one from which Reddy was coming. A little way off was another bramble tangle. A cowpath led right over past it. He could see that bramble tangle very plainly. But what he couldn't see was Mrs. Reddy hiding close to that path. He looked back at Reddy Fox. Reddy whimpered as the briars scratched him, but already he was halfway into that bramble tangle. It certainly looked as if Peter Rabbit was in real trouble this time.

New York shows 69% increase in EIGHTS!

Facts just obtained from 28 representative American cities indicate conclusively that the motoring public prefers the Eight to all other engine types. Take New York city as an example: for the first 8 months of 1929, new cars with list prices above $1000 showed a 69 per cent increase in Eights and a 18 per cent decrease in Sixes!

At the famous Paris Salon this fall, 44 makes of eight cylinder cars were exhibited, compared with 27 last year.

Studebaker, world's largest producer of Eights, two years ago initiated this era of the inexpensive Eight with the champion Studebaker President which traveled 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes.

And today, at customary six-cylinder prices, you can choose from three great lines of Studebaker Eights—holders of eleven world records for speed and endurance and more American stock car records than all other makes combined.

Get a smart, new, thrifty Studebaker Eight—backed by 77 years of manufacturing integrity—and your car will be worth more in the trade-in markets of the future.

CALENDAR REFORM GETS LITTLE SUPPORT HERE

Such a comparatively small vote was cast on the question of calendar reform by the membership of the Norwich chamber of commerce that an unfavorable report on the subject was made by the committee having the matter in charge. The reasons for wanting reform of the calendar were explained by a speaker at a chamber of commerce meeting that was held at the Milo light camp at Gardner lake during September. He advocated 13 months in the year, all to be of even length.

The November publication of the chamber of commerce gives the results of the vote and the action taken as follows:

The vote on the question of calendar reform submitted to the membership recently through a referendum ballot, was not sufficiently large to carry a great deal of influence with the directors. Those who took advantage of the ballot recorded their opinions as follows:

Ques. No 1—The committee recommends that the present calendar should be changed that there will be greater comparability in business records for periods within a year and for periods from year to year, 22 in favor, 12 opposed.

Ques. No. 2—The committee recommends that the form which changes in the calendar should take should be determined through international conference, 25 in favor, 6 opposed.

Ques. No. 3—The committee recommends that the government of the United States should participate in an international conference to determine the form of changes to be made in the calendar, 19 in favor, 5 opposed.

The committee appointed for consideration of the question passed the referendum on to the board of directors, with an unfavorable report. It is interesting to note in this connection that Providence and Boston also voted in the negative.

While there was a majority of chambers throughout the country that voted affirmative, the majority did not reach the necessary two-thirds vote required to commit the U. S. chamber. Accordingly, it would seem that the matter had at least been temporarily side-tracked.

PYTHIANS PRESENT SILVER TO DR. SAMUEL GOLDBERG

At a smoker given at the Wauregan hotel Wednesday evening by Wauregan lodge, No. 6, Knights of Pythias, in compliment to Dr. Samuel M. Goldberg, a past chancellor commander of the lodge, who is to be married next Sunday in New Haven, Josiah Greenstein was toastmaster, the lodge presented the prospective benedict a beautiful 32-piece set of Gorham silver.

The presentation was made by Toastmaster Greenstein after a number had spoken in warmest terms of the esteem in which Dr. Goldberg was held, these including Dr. David Sussler, Dr. K. K. Markoff, Max Hanover, Dr. Paul A. Schwartz and Eugene Lackenbach.

A buffet lunch was served, there were entertaining song and dance numbers by three performers from Hartford and three clever exhibition of boxing by local boys. Alex Pasnik was referee and George Schiller announcer for the ring events which opened with three rounds between Snook Lacy and Boots Green, two midget mitt toasers. This was followed by Jimmy Quinn, New England featherweight champion, who went three fast rounds with Geno Pecheent and the final was a lively stanza of milling between Al Koziol and Al Beauregard, whose final flurry of gloves put the referee to the mat.

WEDDING

Richard-Melanson

Miss Dora Melanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Melanson of Fishers Island, and Henry Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Camille Richard of Moncton, New Brunswick, were united in marriage Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock at the Our Lady of Grace church at Fishers Island. Rev. T. J. Sharkey performed the ceremony and officiated at the nuptial mass which followed.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white satin faced canton crepe and lace and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Evelyn Melanson, who wore yellow satin with maline and carried talisman roses. Anthony LeBlanc was best man.

A reception attended by approximately 200 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony.

Both the church and home were elaborately decorated with palms and ferns, white carnations, asters and geraniums used in the decorations.

The bridegroom's gift to his bride was a check. To his best man he presented a gold cased cigarette lighter. The bride gave the maid of honor a crystal necklace.

The couple received many valuable wedding gifts including gold piece, silver, cut glass, linen and furniture.

The bride was educated at St. Joseph's academy and normal school and has been engaged in teaching. Mr. Richard, who atended St. Joseph's university is a salesman.

The couple will go to Gardner, Lynn and West Newton, Mass., on their wedding trip before going to Moncton, N. B., where they will make their home.

Guests were present at the wedding from this city, Hartford, Somers, this state, New Bedford, and West Newton, Mass.

To Hold Memorial Service

The Central Baptist church has lost by death the following members since November 1st, 1928: James Turnbull, G. Frederick Noyes, Elias Chapman, Mrs. Angie Richmond, Mrs. Luella Carr, Adelbert Rudd, John H. Powelson, Oliver Peckham, Mrs. John Rice, John Rice, Mrs. Calvin Roath, Mrs. Clarence Yeomans, and Mrs. Fred Varney. A brief memorial service will be held for these at the close of the Thursday evening meeting this week.

KAPLAN PROPOSITION TO RUN YANTIC WOOLEN MILL MEETS WITH FAVOR

Following a conference Tuesday night at the chamber of commerce rooms where Emanuel Kaplan of New York explained to the industrial commission of the chamber a proposition under which he would take possession of the Yantic mill of the American Woolen company, if Norwich interests would furnish some of the needed capital, the plan was explained to a meeting of leading manufacturers, businessmen, merchants and others at the Thames bank Wednesday morning.

The proposition was looked upon with considerable favor by the industrial commission, it is understood, and the same favorable attitude prevailed after the meeting Wednesday.

President Frank R. Murdy, who called the meeting to order explained that he had been in communication with Mr. Kaplan, who was interested in getting control of this mill again and he introduced Mr. Kaplan to make a definite statement of what his proposition was. The outline of the plan, it is understood, is that if $50,000 can be subscribed for here, Mr. Kaplan would supply all other necessary capital up to $200,000 to keep the plant in operation. The security given for the $50,000 would be preferred stock, bearing 6 per cent interest.

A citizens committee to co-operate with Mr. Kaplan in further consideration of the project was appointed, consisting of Robert W. Perkins, chairman, Timothy C. Murphy, James L. Case, Joseph C. Worth and Roy D. Judd.

Mr. Kaplan told the meeting that if he took hold of the mill, it would put out a line of goods that would be in demand and it would be operation by the middle of January with the employment of between 160 and 200 hands. He was the successful operator of the Yantic mill and the mill at Thamesville before they were bought by the American Woolen company, which has now made the announcement that the mill at Yantic is to be closed.

Business men of the city will hail with satisfaction the successful completion of the plan of Mr. Kaplan to keep the mill at Yantic going so that this important industry may not be closed and the employment which it furnishes may not be lost to the city and town.

OPPOSITION TO FUNERAL PARLORS ON CLIFF STREET

Opposition to modification of the zoning ordinances so as to allow an undertaking establishment to use the premises at 82 Cliff street is to appear this (Thursday) morning at the hearing given by the zoning board on the appeal of Rosa G. Hutzler, Charles M. Hutzler and Louis I. Gottheilf. Residents of the Cliff street neighborhood have signed a joint petition against the zoning board allowing the Hutzler appeal. It is understood that a Norwich undertaker wants to use the premises if the zoning board will grant the permission which the Hutzlers want to apply on this property.

The opposition petition addressed to the zoning board gives the following reasons against allowing an undertaking establishment in this location:

We, the undersigned, as citizens taxpayers, of and in the city of Norwich, town of Norwich, county of New London, state of Connecticut, do hereby voice our objection, in petition form and (unitedly) demand that our property rights be protected from causes hereinafter described with reasons for our objections:

The joint zoning board for the city and town of Norwich is appealed to by Rosa G. Hutzler, Charles M. Hutzler and Louis I. Gottheilf in which they ask for a certificate of approval of a memorial home, which in more common terms is called an undertaking and embalming establishment, to be located at their property at 82 Cliff street.

The said property at 82 Cliff street is located in a residential district. This district has been free from any and all commercial ventures. And to our knowledge, any and all business ventures are barred from said district by the joint zoning board of the city and town of Norwich.

Our objections to the establishment of an undertaking and emblaming establishment within the said residential district are:

1A. Within the said district and within close proximity to 82 Cliff street are two schools, viz., the Hobart avenue school and the St. Joseph Parochial school. The children who are in attendance at these schools are of a tender age. We feel that the holding of funerals in that vicinity will endanger the life and limb of our young ones, and greatly increase our mental anguish for their safety and welfare.

1B. We also feel that since the streets are as they are the holding of funerals will place an undue burden upon the traffic conditions of the streets and cause annoyance to us who have a legal right to immediate ingress and egress to our properties.

2. The business of preparing dead bodies for burial with the necessary incidents thereof, including the making of post-mortems, the holding of funerals, and the removal of dead bodies to and from the premises is and constitutes a nuisance when it is so located in this district; and that by law same is a nuisance.

3. It is equally clear that the maintenance of an undertaking and embalming establishment in this residential district must inevitably operate to decrease substantially our property values, we feel it unnecessary to question the reason for same.

4. We feel that such establishment of an undertaking and embalming business destroys the comfort and happiness of those of us who live in the immediate vicinity and district and is an unwarrantable invasion of our rights.

5. And in conclusion we feel, that a constant reminder of death has a depressing influence upon the normal person, that cheerful surroundings are conductive to the maintenance of vigorous health in the normal person.

6. "The constant going and coming of the hearse—the not infrequent taking in and out of dead bodies; the occasional funeral with its mourners and funeral airs, the thought of autopsies, of embalming; the dread or horror, or thought that the dead are or may be lying in the house next door, are conducive to depression of the normal person. These constant reminders, this depression of mind, deprive our homes of that comfort and repose to which we as owners are entitled.

7. Therefore we do hereby sign and affix our seals this 5th day of November, 1929, as a token of protest against such establishment of an undertaking and embalming business in the aforementioned residential district in the city and town of Norwich, state of Connecticut.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

The Wednesday Afternoon club met with Mrs. Charles R. Butts, of Washington street, the hostess preparing the paper on Irving Bacheller. Mrs. Charles Breed Gilbert assisted during the meeting.

Mrs. Lee Roy Robbins and son, Arthur, will return at the week end from Stamford, to which city Mrs. Robbins motored with her daughter, Miss Ray Robbins, and a classmate, Miss Marion Fuller, who were up from the Lowe-Heyward school for a brief vacation.

William C. Ruggles and Miss Annie L. Ruggles have had as their guests their cousins, Fred Anson Ruggles, and his sisters, Mrs. Willis Nelson Ameden, Misses Annie R. and Caroline Ruggles, who motored down from Hardwick, Mass.

Greavenor Ely, Jr., who has been at his home at Norwich Town, has left for Boston to remain until the first of the year.

GAVE TRAVELOGUE FOR FAITH TRUMBULL CHAPTER

A talk on the subject, A Trip Through Europe, given by Miss Amelia Young, eighth grade teacher at Broadway grammar school, was a feature of the November meeting of Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, Inc., at the Masonic temple Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. Albert M. VanWagenen, was in charge of the meeting, which opened with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, led by Mrs. George L. Ingalls, followed by the salute to the flag and the Lord's prayer.

The minutes of the October meeting were read by the recording secretary, Mrs. Adams P. Carroll, and the treasurer's statement was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Albert S. Comstock. These were followed by the reports of the other officers, Mrs. Wilber S. Alling, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup, registrar, and Mrs. Alfred N. H. Vaughn, historian.

The chapter committee reports were then submitted as follows: Mrs. Charles C. Gildersleeve on conversation and research; Mrs. Roy D. Judd, magazine; Mrs. Herbert R. Kind, membership; Mrs. W. Tyler Browne, museum and revolutionary relics; Mrs. Frank I. Royce, patriotic education; Mrs. Albert J. Sinay, programme; Mrs. Richard P. Gregson, ways and means; Miss Bernice Willey, Americanism.

On recommendation of the board the chapter voted to purchase the three missing application blanks from Washington at the expense of $1 to complete the files and to have bound the third volume of probate records compiled by Mrs. Herbert Gallup, the cost of binding to be left to the discretion of the registrar. These are to be sent on to Washington.

The chapter also voted on recommendation of the board that the expenses incident to the museum be paid from the chapter's museum and building fund, also that the storage charges and insurance paid from the current fund since Jan. 5, 1929, amounting to $134.50, be transferred from the museum fund to the current fund.

It was announced that Miss Amy Burlingame, chairman of the Ellis Island committee is preparing a box to be sent in December and that she will be glad to receive donations any time now, things for men being especially desired as the men there far outnumber the women.

The regent made mention of the luncheon to be held at the Mohegan hotel, New London, Nov. 13, when the speaker will be Mrs. William Sherman Walker.

Announcement was made that Miss Anne S. Brown has kindly consented to draw a map to scale of New London county for the chapter, at the request of Miss Florence S. Crofut, state chairman of committee on preservation of historic spots, to be used in the book, Guide to Historic Spots, now being compiled in Washington by the national committee.

Two five minute talks were given by Mrs. Albert J. Bailey on the state flag and by the regent, Mrs. VanWagenen, on the constitution of the United States. Mrs. Albert J. Sinay gave a short talk on the dedication of new Constitution hall in Washington, Oct. 23, which she attended.

At the close of the business session the programme committee presented an interesting programme including the travelogue by Miss Young, during which Miss Gwendolyn Jones appeared in a Dutch costume and Miss Helena Crandall gave pretty Italian dances. Mrs Aurin O. Payson, for whom Mrs. Arthur Payson played the piano accompaniments, was heard in three charming solos, Down in the Forest, Tender Ties and Musetta's Valse song.

Miss Young's entertaining talk brought out many interesting points of European travel in an entertaining way.

NOLLE IN COURT ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

Nathan A. Knasin of Central avenue, charged with reckless driving, had an absolute nolle entered in his case on his appearance in the city court Wednesday morning, after the accused expressed his willingness to settle for all damages done. Linwood Crary, a milkman, of Preston, whose car was struck and slightly damaged by Knasin's machine, termed the accident as unavoidable in his testimony. He said that as he pulled away from the curb on East Main street the machine driven by Knasin, traveling in the same direction, towards Westerly, sideswiped his car. The accident occurred Tuesday morning.

ADDRESS TO ROTARIANS ON "INTERNATIONAL PEACE"

"International Peace" was the topic of a very interesting address by Morris Sherman, editor of the Hartford Courant, given at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Mr. Sherman in his talk dealt largely with what has been done regarding the promotion of international peace, the treaty of Paris and naval parity discussion. He said in part:

Fifty-three nations have now given their adherence to the pact of Paris renouncing war as an instrument of policy. Some of these nations have attached no reservations to their ratification of the treaty. Others, notably Great Britain and France, have reserved to themselves certain rights which they deem essential to their sovereignty. It is assumed by all that nothing in the treaty precludes the right of self-defense. It is argued, therefore, that each nation must maintain sufficient military strength to defend itself against attack.

But if all nations respect the terms of the treaty, if they are sincere in their renunciation of war, if they actually will submit their disagreements to conciliation, arbitration and judicial settlement, what nation need fear attack? Against what nation does the United States, for instance, feel that it must prepare itself? If no nation will resort to war, why navies and armies for defense? In logic the answer is not to be found. The answer is to be found only in the fear that faith in the good intention of nations is not justified. How often has history proved that solemn treaties become in times of real or assumed national exigency merely scraps of paper?

By what process can faith in national assurances be strengthened? How can there be brought about such common understandings among nations as will make war an impossibility? The foundation of peace has been laid and the problem is to erect upon it a structure that will insure peace. To this problem the statesmen of the world are now addressing themselves with an earnestness that offers great encouragement. There is a fixed purpose in the minds of peoples everywhere to end war, with all its frightful consequences.

No nation is today sufficient unto itself. We may pride ourselves in pursuing a policy of isolation but there is no real isolation to us. Our trade, our industry, our money are everywhere. The peace of the world means actually more to us than to any other nation, and in whatever ways we can promote the cause of peace it should be done. It is not a question to which any citizen, however humble, can afford to be indifferent. One of the greatest of all means of maintaining and insuring peace is the development of a national conscience which abhors war and extols peace. It is after all not so much in formal declarations that the strength of peace lies but in the will for peace that exists in the hearts of the people. In the furtherance of that will all can share.

BIBLE CLASS STUDY IN MEN'S GROUP AT "Y"

The second session of the men's Bible class at the Y. M. C. A. was held Wednesday evening with good attendance and a real interest.

Fred H. Wyant, the state humane worker, gave a brief talk and this proved most interesting and helpful. Mr. Wyant based his remarks on the topic, "Doing Good and Its Rewards." Among the many points brought out were the following: "There are many who do good but are in a way unaware of it; these do not receive the same satisfaction as do those who put themselves in the way of doing good. One must realize that he is a partner with God, and that God has placed us here for a purpose and that purpose is to do good. If we put ourselves in the spirit of helpfulness to others, when we minister to them there comes to us a very great satisfaction. The reason we do not enter into the spirit of doing good is partly because we are more or less selfish. Men are busy in these days, and they look around for relaxation after the day's work is done. Too often men make a hard job of seeking recreation to satisfy themselves; the fact is that if such men would only put themselves in the spirit of doing good, the very doing good to others would bring to them the satisfaction they need and desire, and they will not need to look around for opportunity to do good; these opportunities will come to them often. In my long experience in dealing with all sorts of people, I am convinced that however low down one may be, there is always at least a spark of goodness left, and it remains for someone to kindle that spark by kindness," said the speaker. Mr. Wyant mentioned some of the good cases he had been called upon to handle in his position and he stated that in his attempt to help people to a higher level he was well paid in the satisfaction it brought to him. Several questions were put to the speaker and these were answered most helpfully.

ON PROGRAMME COMMITTEE FOR MERCHANTS BUREAU

C. L. Smith has been appointed chairman of the programme committee of the Merchants bureau of the Norwich chamber of commerce, according to an announcement made by Glen R. Merithew, president. Other members on the committee are William Burns, Frank G. Aubrey, J. B. Caron, Joseph Lahn, Charles Jacobsen and James Morley. The work of this committee deals with the drawing up of a programme for the bureau for the coming year in addition to planning for its activities. The committee will hold a meeting soon.

SAILOR SEEKS IN NORWICH FOR SISTER OF 'STUBBY' CORRIGAN

Does anyone in Norwich know a youngster called "Stubby" Carrigan, or Corrigan? This was the question asked by a sailor from a merchant marine ship that is docked at New London. The sailor, whose name was not learned, came to Norwich looking for a Rose Carrigan, who he claimed is a sister of "Stubby."

The story told by the sailor, who is about 20 or 22 years old, contained all the tragedy of a Captain Dingle story. His story was:

"One night about eight months ago as we lay at the dock in New London a short and stock lad, about 17 or 18 years old, was brought aboard. The next morning we pulled out of the harbor bound for China. The youngster, "Stubby" we called him, was set to work as a seaman and he made a good one too. We became good friends, he and I, and I found that his name was Carrigan, or it may have been Corrigan. He said his home was in Norwich, Conn. The voyage was uneventful, the ship making many stops at various ports on the way to China, it was in a Chinese port that we lost "Stubby."

"Stubby" and myself with several others of the crew had left the ship to the town. We had been walking about the streets near the dock when suddenly we were attacked by a number of toughs that lurk about such places. It was a fight, what I mean. Knives flashed and fists flew. We fought until the toughs gave it up. After the fight there lay "Stubby" on the ground, the blood oozing from his neck. He had been stabbed through the neck by one of those who had attacked us. We took "Stubby" back to the boat and the next day we buried him. The only thing that we knew about "Stubby" was from a letter in his pocket signed "your loving Sister Rose." The letter was dated at Norwich, Conn."

The sailor in substantiation of his story about the fight showed a nasty scar on his left arm which he said he got from a knife in the fight. He was very anxious to locate the sister of "Stubby" but was afraid she would be unable to do so as his ship sailed at 4 o'clock this (Thursday) morning. He left without telling his name or the name of his ship

SCOUT BULLETIN TELLS OF YALE-MARYLAND GAME

The weekly bulletin called for at the scout office by troop messengers from the dozen troops in Norwich gives full details of the arrangements made for the Yale-Maryland game. For those who fail to learn the plans, the bulletin is reprinted here:

Seventy-five tickets and 15 leader badges have been ordered for the Yale-Maryland game Saturday for those troops who have reported on attendance at the game. Parties should leave Norwich for New Haven between 9 and 10 a. m. Saturday, November 9. Each scout should bring his own lunch with plenty to spare for supper. It is thought that scouts may get back any time Saturday night depending on the amount of congestion, car trouble, etc. Each leader will be responsible for his group of boys throughout the entire trip. Scouts are to wear heavy overcoats or jerkins because the Yale bowl is a cold place on a windy day. Each car leaving Norwich should report at the local headquarters: the leader and names of the scouts in each car just before going. Scouts who have not yet arranged transportation should communicate with headquarters immediately.

Scout headquarters still have a few diaries left for those scouts who want them.

Don't forget there is just four more weeks until the next court of honor. Scout finish that test!

Scout leaders and scouts are urged to make use of the new library on scoutcraft at the Otis library. Have you read "Scouting With a Neckerchief?" or "Knife Craft," or "Camp Fires and Camp Cookery?" There are a dozen others which will interest you. Ask for the Boy's Life magazine at the library.

Scouts did another civic good turn this week—that of putting a hundred large Red Cross posters in windows. Are you doing your individual good turns?

Twelve scouts in uniform have been asked to serve as ushers Sunday evening, November 10, at 7 o'clock at a meeting described as an "All Protestant Church" meeting for Armistice commemoration. H. A. Tirrell will give the address. Are you interested in furnishing one or more scouts from your troop. Please notify headquarters. Meeting at Central Baptist church.

The fourth session of the training course for scoutmasters, assistants and committeemen will be held Wednesday evening at 7.30. The session will be very interesting and instructive. All concerned are reminded to attend.

The Bennett-Plant Divorce.

Concerning the domestic affairs of Philip Plant, adopted son of the late Morton F. Plant, of Eastern Point, a Paris dispatch to a Chicago paper said at the week end: The divorce of Constance Bennett, actress, and Philip Plant, wealthy American, will be granted here this week. Mr. Plant and myself are still on the best of terms," she said. Constance described as "foolish" the talk linking her name with the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray, Glora Swanson's husband. She admitted that he had motored her up from Cherbourg Sunday after she arrived on the liner Homeric.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

JOHNNY KOP IN FINE SHAPE FOR FIGHT AT HARTFORD TONIGHT

Johnny Kop, local lightweight knockout king, who had difficulty in making the lightweight limit last week, fights his first bout tonight in the junior welterweight class at the Foot Guard hall, Hartford. Kop's opponent is Joe Americo, who is something of a hitter himself. The bout is a six-round preliminary to the Day-Flahive bout.

Kop at 140 pounds is really in much better fighting trim than when he is forced to make the weight of the lower class. In his more recent fights Johnny has appeared slightly drawn from his intensive training to make the grade. At 140 Kop is much nearer to his natural weight than in the lower division. He hits with more power and is just as fast on his feet as when five pounds or so lighter.

During the past few weeks Kop has been training hard paying plenty of attention to further developing his speed as well as his hitting powers. The local lad, now fully recovered from a cut on his thumb, is sending them in with all the steam of a trip hammer. And his sparring partners have been taking plenty of hard times during the past few days.

Tonight Kop goes into the ring in as fine condition as he ever was. With the additional weight he should make short work of the hard-hitting Americo. Many Norwich fans are planning to go to see him work. The Kop-Americo bout should be one of the high-lights of the card as the Day-Flahive battle does not look like such a hot contest although it may exceed expectations.

Day is well known but Flahive did not show so well when he showed on the supporting card to the Routis-Battalino bout several weeks ago.

MARTING SORRY IF HE CAUSED MARTERS' INJURY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 6.—(AP)—In his drawling, high pitched Texan voice, pitched low out of feeling for his friend, Frank Louis Marting, Yale tackle, said tonight he would feel "pretty bad" if he were sure that he were, indirectly, responsible for the condition of Al Marsters, his opponent in the Yale-Dartmouth game here last Saturday.

"Maybe he is right when he says he thinks he was hurt in blocking me on that play," said Marting.

But his "recollection" was that Marsters "took me out" so hard that "we both fell heavily." Marting landed on top of Marsters.

"It was his duty to take me out, because Dartmouth was on the offense then," Marting said.

They fell together "and not even the wind was knocked out of us." They rose immediately when the whistle blew.

"He seemed to be all right and we looked at each other and smiled. I wasn't hurt and I didn't think he was hurt."

"Maybe that was the play that he was hurt in," Marting went on. "But I couldn't say for sure."

The Yale tackle didn't deny the possibility of Marsters having been hurt at that time, however. He smiled when he described himself, over the phone, as a "tall, rangy giant of the well known Texan variety that falls pretty heavy."

"My recollection about the whole play is pretty bad, though," he said. "I'd feel pretty bad if I were sure I was the cause indirectly of Marsters being hurt."

He said he and Marsters belonged to "the Greasers" at Exeter—"a sort of fraternity." He and Marsters were mates on the Exeter team in 1925 and were close friends.

"I am sure glad he is feeling in good spirits" Marting said. He was pleased to hear that Marsters' doctor had promised to let him go to Philadelphia and that Marsters had been cheered by expressions of good will and hopes of quick recovery from Yale players and coaches.

Marting talked willingly about the play in which Marsters believes he was hurt, but felt chagrined because his "recollection" was not adequate enough for a good description of what happened. He talked as if he were pondering out loud on the possibility of injury to his friend in that directed collision which caused both to go down together.

MARSTERS UNABLE TO SHAKE OFF THE JINX

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The dread football spectre of injury has risen again against courageous Al Marsters, this time to blight the career of the great Dartmouth back. The jinx has been persistent in its pursuit of the Green star.

Last year, he was incapacitated for most of the season.

This year, fate seemed to have relented by showing a disposition to smile on the big boy who did everything with a football. He ran, kicked and passed with almost reckless abandon against Columbia and Harvard to lead his mates to impressive victories. Showing the country the way in scoring, and apparently headed for certain All-American honors, Marsters invaded the Yale bowl with Dartmouth.

Dartmouth lost the game. Marsters lost the side match and Dartmouth lost Marsters. The triple threat back is now in a hospital, out for the season. As this is his senior year, he is through. Injuries to his back and leg will keep him out of football from now on but happily he will suffer no ill effects from the hurts.

Some other back, probably the dashing Gene McEver of Tennessee, will lead the nation's scorers and some other favored son of football fortune will see his name engraved on the roll of honor instead of that of the ill-starred lad who wore the Green.

Marsters was forced from the Yale game in the third period. The wonder was that he lasted almost three-fourths of the gruelling struggle. He did all the kicking, all the passing, most of the running and more than his share of the tackling.

As he says good-bye to football doubtless he will always treasure a letter sent to him at the dictation of the immortal "Bo" Olcott, the great Yale center of 30 years ago, praising the sportsmanship of Marsters and his mates in defeat.

TALLMAN ADVANCES TO SEMI-FINALS AT PINEHURST

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 6.—(AP)—David N. Tallman of Minneapolis, former Western golf champion and medalist in the 25th annual autumn tournament of the Pinehurst Country club, today advanced to the semi-finals by defeating William Alexander of Glencoe, Ill., member of the Skokie Country club, 3 and 2 in the first round of match play.

Edmond A. Guggenheim of Lido Country club, L. I., won his match against W. C. Banta of Ridgewood, N. J., 8 and 7. In the lower bracket, E. L. Scofield of New York, vanquished Merritt M. Lord, of Jackson Heights, L. I., 6 and 4, and R. J. Breed of Danvers, Mass., ousted H. G. Frost of Cincinnati, 6 and 5.

"Y" Athletic Activities

The Senior Leaders held their monthly supper last Tuesday. Frank Harxraves was elected president and Alfred Puchta, secretary and treasurer. There were nine present at the meeting and plans were made for the coming season.

The "Y" basketball team will practice tonight at eight o'clock. The squad has been hard at practice, and there is a game pending for Nov. 16th.

The volley ball team will practice Friday evening at 5:30. There will be instruction given for the first half hour, and then the squad will be divided up into teams.

There will be no gym for the boys' classes Saturday morning. Everybody is going to the Yale-Maryland game at New Haven. There will be a general swim for both junior classes at 10 a. m.

The Red Cross life saving class will start next Tuesday at 8:45 for the seniors. This is a six hour instruction course and will be given by the examiners of the local corps. At the end of the course, tests will be given to all those who have completed the six hours of instructions. All men who are interested in this, leave your name with the physical director, or any member of the Red Cross corps.

Eight churches have signified their intentions of entering teams in the Northern New London County Church league. The next meeting will be held Monday night at 7:30 in the physical director's office. Officers will be elected, and the schedule drawn up at this meeting.

The physical director is attending a meeting of the State Physical Directors society at Meriden today.

The senior gym class made a new record Tuesday night. There were 31 on the floor going through informal apparatus work, calisthenics and group games. The previous high number was 29, the average for October 26. Keep up the good work.

The water in the swimming pool is 75 degrees today. Go for a swim, it's great.

Arrangements are being made for the formation of an indoor baseball league to be sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., the games to be played in the Y building. It is the plan of the officials in charge to interest the firemen, clerks, letter carriers or any other group of men in the league. A practice session will be held today (Thursday) at the Y by a group of firemen.

STRIBLING WINS DECISION FROM FRENCH HEAVY

PARIS, Nov. 6.—(AP)—William L. (Young) Stribling defeated Maurice Griselle, French heavyweight, on points in their 10-round bout at the Cirque Paris arena before 6,000 enthusiastic fans tonight.

Griselle, one of the stable of Francois Descamps, who managed the great Georges Carpentier, took an unmerciful beating through every one of the 10 rounds. Stribling won every frame and knocked his opponent down three times in the first round, but was unable to finish him. Griselle took two counts of seven and one of nine. At the finish of the battle he was tottering around the ring with both eyes closed but still on his feet.

After the flashy first round showing, the Macon, Ga., fighter slowed up, apparently short on condition, and was unable again to floor the Frenchman. The fans, who jammed the arena to its fullest capacity with 3,000 more unable to gain admittance, were disappointed in Stribling's showing. This display, after the ballyhoo Stribling had received here on the strength of his showing against Jack Sharkey at Miami Beach last winter, made them believe that he must put up a much better battle to defeat the Italian giant, Primo Carnera, in London. Griselle's reputation was based principally on his stopping Knute Hansen in six rounds a few months ago.

YALE VARSITY BEATS SCRUBS IN GAME

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Yale varsity won another game today—beating the scrubs, 14 to 0, in a 20-minute scrimmage. Miller and Wilson made the touchdowns and Snead and McLennan made the points after the touchdowns.

Head Coach Mal Stevens put the squads through intensive fundamental work for more than an hour before the scrimmaging. In this work, Bob Wilson, quarterback, who returned yesterday on recovery from injuries to his back and was placed with the third team, was back in his old place on the varsity. Bob Hall, who has been substituting for Wilson, is slightly injured, but Coach Stevens was not certain that Hall's elimination from the team is permanent.

Ferris, left tackle, who started the Yale-Army game, and who has been out because of injuries since then, returned today, but was not on any of the teams. In the scrimmage, Stewart, left guard, played instead of Loeser. In the preceding practice, Stevens used two complete lines, with only six backs, and McLennan played for Snead and Booth for Wilson. Booth was in only three or four minutes.

Stevens said there would be another scrimmage tomorrow.

Basketball Challenge

The Cottrell's basketball team would like to challenge any basketball team in eastern Connecticut. Such teams as the Plainfield Buddies, Taftville Whirlwinds, C. F. C., Y Emps, Baltic Independents, Norwich Academy, or any other fast team that wants to book a fast team.

The Cottrell management has a game booked for Thanksgiving night with the Peace Dale Celtics at the Peace Dale guild. The following players are on the Cottrell's team: Captain George Cropper, Charles Esposito, Albert Holt, Robert Holt, George Cruickshank, Fred Roever, Eddie Sawyer, Francis Sullivan.

For games, please write to George Winterbottom, manager, 9 Prospect street, Westerly, R. I., or Halstead Cooke, assistant manager, Liberty street, Westerly, R. I.

Susie Says

Remember the old motion pictures featuring the Keystone cops?

Well, they tell me that in New London the other afternoon people who chanced to be passing along Main street near Waterman's garage were treated to a spectacle that reminded them of the old pictures.

Now don't think for a minute that I'm chassing New London's finest with those comedy cops of Keystone fame. Far be it from me to make such a comparison, but it is the similarity of the plots that I'm talking about.

It seems that the New London police had arrested a gentleman of color, and after the court had decided that the Norwich State hospital was a good place for him he was loaded into the police car and was on his way.

Officer Bailey was at the wheel and another officer, (they tell me it was Capt. Pinney, but I'm not certain), was riding with him. In the rear seat was the man of color.

When the police car had almost reached Crystal avenue the man of color decided that he was tired of the company of the law and took French leave. He hopped out of the machine and was rapidly hieing himself to other parts before the car could be brought to a stop.

The man of color, who was proving himself a dusky Nurmi, had a big lad on his late companions, who were out of the car almost before it stopped. Officer Bailey, who is a good deal more rotund than the man he was pursuing, was destined to be an "also ran."

Seeing his late captive escaping he unlimbers his trusty revolver. No, Roger, you misunderstood me, I did not say rusty revolver. "Plop" goes the artillery and a bullet sped in the general direction of Long Island sound and has not yet been heard from.

Not liking to be a target for stray bullets the man of color quickly demonstrated that he was a highhurdler as well as a sprinter. He takes the high board fence that separates the side walk from the railroad yards in one bound.

Down he drops about 20 feet to the railroad yards, and up he bounces. Bailey is pounding along behind him but can't make the fence so goes around. The colored man dashes in front of a freight train, missing the engine by inches.

When on the other side of the train he jumps up between two coal cars and just hugs tight to the beams. Meanwhile the pursuing officer gets to the train but not seeing his quarry he waits until the caboose is abreast of him and he hops on.

The last seen of the gentleman of color and the officer was when the train disappeared in the general direction of Westerly.

Whether Officer Bailey got his man or not is not known at present.

BROWN PREPARES FOR DARTMOUTH'S AERIAL GAME

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—John Ferrebee, a Brown varsity tackle, who was injured in scrimmage the week of the Yale game, was pronounced ready for play by the team physician this morning. Joe Schein, the varsity tackle who was injured in the Holy Cross game, has not shown the improvement that was expected and may not be able to play.

As a move to develop a capable utility man for the tackle, McLaughry sent Ernest Hapgood, regular guard, to tackle and moved Ken Henn from the second team line to guard.

The varsity went through a light dummy scrimmage against the seconds today, while Dave Mishel, backfield coach, took the key post on the second team and buried the varsity with passes. One of the longest kicking and down-the-field drills of the season was carried out, with Fogarty, Edwards, Caulkins and Ferrebee alternating with the kicking.

New Hockey Referees

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Three former stars in the National Hockey league today were added to the league's staff of referees. They are Odie Cleghorn, former center of the Montreal Canadiens and manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates through last season; Cy Denneny, veteran winger of the Ottawa Senators, who helped coach the champion Boston team last year; and Bert Corbeau, who played defense with the Canadiens and the Toronto St. Pats before becoming a minor league manager.

Miller Beats Smith

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6—(AP)—Freddy Miller, Ohio featherweight, outpointed Steve Smith of Bridgeport, Conn., in a 10-round bout here tonight.

EASTERN COLLEGE TEAMS GET DOWN TO WORK FOR SATURDAY'S GAMES

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Despite numerous inroads of the idea of not overworking football players, the middle of the week remains a time for hard labor and plenty of it on eastern practice fields. Scrimmage was in order on many gridirons and even where it was not there were long and hard drills.

Pittsburgh, which is placing its place at the top of the eastern heap in jeopardy by playing Washington and Jefferson Saturday, confined its efforts to a long dummy drill against the third team. Coach Jock Sutherland appeared a bit pessimistic about his team's chances. The Presidents scrimmaged but lightly, going through a brief active rehearsal of offensive and defensive formations.

Brown, Fordham and New York university also were among those who saved battered teams by having only dummy scrimmage. The Bruins worked at stopping Dartmouth's passing attack. The Brown problem of replacing injured tackles was partially solved by the return of John Ferrebee, who made a big hit in the Princeton game but has not played since then. Fordham staged a brief defensive drill for its second game of the week against a scrub team using Boston college formations. N. Y. U. put on a similar drill with the scrubs impersonating Georgia players.

Most of the others scrimmaged to a greater or less extent. Princeton wound up its first practice of the week with 25 minutes of scrimmage. Coach Bill Roper put in a busy day making shifts in the lineup, finishing with Sam Levine, former guard, at fullback and Zundel at half. His rival, Andy Tate of Lehigh, followed his example both in rest and in scrimmage. Yale scored twice on the scrub team in 20 minutes as the Elis put in a busy, hard afternoon preparing for Maryland. Several injured players were back in uniform today.

Army's varsity made no gains against the scrubs in a long scrimmage nor did the second stringers penetrate the varsity line far. Coach Biff Jones halted the plays before completion to offer criticisms. There were plenty of them when the cannon fodder found much success using the deceptive Illinois plays.

Penn and Penn State each had brief scrimmages. The injured State players took part in the drill for a short time. Penn suffered the temporary loss of Len Tanaecr, end, who turned an ankle sprained earlier. He may not be in shape by Saturday.

Cornell, which has a minor intersectional opponent in Western Reserve, also put in a long period of practice with the promise of more. Navy had some difficulty in stopping the Georgetown line plays, but the "Georgetown" scrubs could not halt the new plays put on by the regulars. Coach Bill Ingram changed tackles three times in an effort to bolster up his defense.

MARSTERS ENCOURAGES TEAM FROM HIS COT IN HOSPITAL

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The injury which ended "Special Delivery" Al Marsters' college football career has not affected his spirits, for he was in a cheerful mood today when he assured the disappointed Dartmouth student body that the team "can get along without me against Brown, Cornell and the Navy."

"It's just one of the breaks of the game," Marsters told the scores of callers who crowded about his hospital cot during the day.

Although crippled as he was about to enter the portals of football's hall of fame, Marsters is an enthusiastic about the game as ever. Since he entered the hospital yesterday, he has been "rooting" for the speedy recovery of Len Clark, another injured player, who has the next cot.

Clark is able to move about enough to read and Marsters, forced to remain flat on his back because of his fractured vertebrae, said he envied his teammate's freedom.

Marsters is not certain just how he received the injury in last Saturday's Yale game and said that his back did not pain him until he reached Hanover Sunday night, after driving 150 miles from his home in Arlington, Mass.

BROWN PRESIDENT SENDS SYMPATHY TO MARSTERS

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, inaugurated president of Brown university last month, made two notable moves today that entrench him firmly as the "football president" of Brown. This morning, when he learned that Alton Marsters would not play for Dartmouth against Brown, he sent a telegram to President Ernest H. Hopkins of Dartmouth, expressing sincere regret and sympathy to Dartmouth and Marsters, and this evening he joined the Brown squad at the training table and had his dinner with the squad on team fare.

Dr. Barbour's telegram to President Hopkins follows:

"All Brown university extends to Dartmouth and to Marsters himself our sincere regret and sympathy. Marsters has rendered notable and gallant service to his college and we wish for him early and permanent recovery."

SEVERAL CHANGES MADE IN HARVARD LINE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Several changes were made in the line here today, when the Harvard football team ended its work for Saturday's Michigan game at Ann Arbor. Head Coach Arnold Horween dropped George Kuehn, one of the varsity tackles, to the second team and moved Bill Tichnor into that position.

George Talbot was given Tichnor's guard assignment.

The Crimson players had a 35-minute workout on the dummy and a long forward-passing drill before the first and second teams met the scrubs in a dummy scrimmage. Billie Murray, 1919 Harvard quarterback, directed the scrub eleven as it demonstrated the Michigan offense.

Horween and his squad will entrain for Ann Arbor tomorrow afternoon.

Albany Beats New Britain

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Playing fast hockey all the way, with the work of Peregrin featuring, Albany won its first American Roller Hockey league game tonight from New Britain. The score was 8 to 2.

Peregrin, who played his first game for the home team, was all over the rink.

Neale scored five goals for Albany.

Bridgeport Quintet Seeking Games

The Bedfords, Senior City league and Senior Amateur champions of Bridgeport, would like to book a series of games with any semi-pro combine in Norwich or its vicinity. For games, write Dom Carletti, 1058 Maplewood avenue, Bridgeport, Conn.

LONGNECKER REPLACES AL IN DARTMOUTH BACKFIELD

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Dartmouth regulars held their first football workout of the week here today, when preparations for this week's Brown game finally got under way. The Green will face the Bruins with but very little added to the attack which almost defeated Yale last week.

All of the squad except Al Marsters and Len Clark, the two best ball carriers in college, reported for practice during which two changes were made in the first team lineup. "Cowboy" Cole was at left tackle, in place of Hank Barber, and Henry Johnson displaced Ed Sutton at fullback. The latter has played that position since the season opened.

Head Coach Jackson Cannell, who was dissatisfied with the work of the Green ends in the Yale game, devoted much of his attention to them today. The wingmen were forced to race down under punts and chase forwards kicked and hurled by Tommy Longnecker, who will start in Marsters' place at quarterback against Brown.

PROS ARRIVE AT PINEHURST FOR THE WINTER SEASON

PINEHURST, N. Y., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Noted professional golfers, who in the winter join the staff of nearly two dozen pros, servicing the seven courses of Pinehurst, are arriving to take up their work under Donald Ross, who has charge of golf here.

Willie Wilson, of York Harbor, Me., whose son, Forbes, is a Yale golf star and Maine amateur champion, arrived yesterday to handle the tourneys of Pinehurst Country club. Alec Innes, of Boston, Mass., and Roaring Gap, N. C., has taken up his duties as entries executive at Pinehurst Country club. John Capello, of Hyannisport, Mass., and Palmer Maples, of Pinehurst, are in the golf shop of Pinehurst, and Ted Turner, of Andover, Mass., has arrived to take charge of the Pine Needles Country club shop.

SCHULER AND BAILEY IN LEADING PLACES

Making high score, 6820 in the fourth night's play of the West Side Pinochle club Wednesday, Schuler remained in first place with a total count of 28,975, while Bailey moved into second place from fourth. Ellsworth and J. Jordan are third and fourth, respectively. Low score for the evening was made by Boynton with 5410, and as a result he dropped into ninth position. The results of play are:

Schuler, 6820, J. Jordan 5825 Ellsworth 6285, Bailey 6650; Boynton 5410, Underwood 5950, A. Jordan 6015, Lewis 6265, Peckham 6620, McNaught 5950 Pettis 5075, Parker 6770.

The standing: Schuler 28,975; Bailey 27,395; Ellsworth 27,270; J. Jordan 27,230; Peckham 26,215; Underwood 26,080; Lewis 26,065; A. Jordan 26,055; Boynton 25,040; Parker 25,995; McNaught 25,475; Pettis 25,405.

BOSTON COLLEGE FEARS STRONG FORDHAM ATTACK

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—(AP)—The Boston college football team was put through a long and hard workout here today by Head Coach Joe McKenney, who was greatly impressed by the power which he saw Fordham display yesterday against West Virginia.

McKenney told his squad that Fordham, which comes here this week, has a strong offense that would prove troublesome if his line faltered.

McELWAIN PLAYS LAST GAME WITH PROS ON FRIDAY

McElwain, who was signed by Manager Salisbury of the Plainfield Pros for the season, will play his last game with the Pros on Friday evening against the Brooklyn Dodgers. McElwain, who has played with many of the American basketball league teams, has been signed by the New York Celtics.

McElwain played last week against the Chicago Americans and made a good showing. It was expected that he would add great strength to the Pros this season but now Manager Salisbury will be without his services.

The game on Friday is expected to be fast and already the reserved seats are fast being sold.

ACADEMY HAS TWO-HOUR SCRIMMAGE PRACTICE

The Academy held a scrimmage session Wednesday at the campus in preparation for the game with West Hartford at the campus Saturday. Yesterday's practice lasted over two hours.

This will be the first meeting between these schools on the gridiron and, from present indications, the game looks like a toss-up. This will be the final home game of a string of seven for the Wildcats.

STEAM ROLLERS LOSE TO CHICAGO CARDINALS

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Ernie Nevers and his Chicago Cardinals tonight defeated the Providence Steam Rollers, 16 to 0, in a floodlight football game, the first ever played in the National Professional league. A crowd of 6,000 attended.

WALKER FREED ON CHARGE OF OWNING BOTTLE OF LIQUOR

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight boxing champion, was freed of charges of owning a bottle of liquor in municipal court today. Prosecuting attorneys were unable to prove that the bottle belonged to Walker.

A companion, Arthur Houseman, actor, was also freed but a second friend Ray Hallor, was fined $50. The men were arrested Oct. 9 following an alleged wild party in the apartment of Dorothy Davis, film actress.

Shikat Throws Hagen

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Joseph Shikat, German, heavyweight wrestler who has been recognized as champion by the New York and Pennsylvania athletic commissions, won his second match within a week tonight. He required only one minute 15 seconds to throw George Hagen of Brooklyn.

MAIL PLANE PILOT JUMPS AS HIS SHIP CRASHED

RINGTOWN, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP)—An air mail plane crashed and burned near here today forcing the pilot to make a parachute leap to save his life and destroying an undetermined amount of currency.

The pilot, Thomas P. Nelson, North Plainfield, N. J., was transporting a consignment of mail from Cleveland to Hadley Field, Newark, N. J., when his Napona! Air transport plane caught fire while flying between Numedia and Ringtown early this morning.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

A CLOSED season may have to be established for baseball experts, particularly in New York. Playing a losing game at guessing the identity of Connie Mack's world series pitchers, the experts went home and suggested every name but the right one for the Yankees' manager.

Bob (The GOB) Shawkey, who made red sleeves fashionable as a part of baseball uniforms, was regarded as a rank outsider as the successor of the late Miller Huggins, but Jacob Ruppert, who had the last say, said Shawkey, so clearly and distinctly that no one within hearing distance of his presidential voice could doubt that Shawkey was the new manager of the Yankees.

Pitchers who have been graduated to the managerial office are rare but there is precedent on the New York American league club for the move from pitchers' mound to the No. 1 seat on the bench. Clark Griffith and the late Bill Donovan were good pitchers and good managers.

Shawkey is a modest ball player who probably never thought of himself as manager of the team until the subject was brought up by President Ruppert.

Shortly after Huggins' death a newspaper writer asked Shawkey: "Who's in charge of the team?" The Yankees were playing at Washington at the time. "Nobody in particular," was the reply. "Well," the writer persisted. "Somebody must be in charge. Who's running it?" "No, nobody in particular," Shawkey repeated.

DAN HOWLEY, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, heard from his National league friends that the team he will manage in 1930 needed a "punch". This elusive quality in baseball is represented by batting, heavy, timely and in quantity. Knowing the American league and suspecting that two good hitters might be transferred from one circuit to the other, Dan asked his new owners to get Harry Heilmann from Detroit and Bob Meusel from the Yankees. In Evar Swanson, the Reds have one of the fastest men in baseball, so the new manager may have figured that with such a speed merchant in center field, he could dispense with fleetness of foot in favor of hard hitting in left and right. The Reds may also gain a worth while outfielder in Earl Webb, former Chicago Cub, who was drafted from the Pacific Coast league.

EFFORTS to have football officials signal the reason for penalties from the field of play seem to be only partially successful. Some of the referees have tried in communicate with the spectators through the semaphore system but many have not bothered about this detail. In some games the officials are too busy to extend their operations. Others admit frankly that they are too confused with the rules to venture outside "the book."

"Hold the line, please."

A few years ago, when you placed an out-of-town call, the operator said, "We will call you." You hung up the receiver and waited until the connection had been established.

Today, about 78% of all toll connections are made while you hold the line. This applies on calls not only to nearby points but also to many distant ones—often to cities that are hundreds of miles away.

This high-speed operation on calls to distant points is made possible by new developments in switching equipment and new operating methods—the results of extensive research to make your telephone service more satisfactory.

The improved method has resulted in a marked increase in the speed of making inter-city connections. For instance, four minutes was the average length of time required to secure an out-of-town connection in 1920. Two years ago the average had dropped to two minutes. Today the average is 66 seconds—just over a minute.

To increase the speed with which connections to distant points are made—this is one of the obligations which we must assume to attain our goal:

"The most telephone service, and the best, at the least cost to the public."

DANIELSON

FAILS TO PROVE CHARGE OF EVASION AGAINST MISAISZEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 6.— The state failed this morning at a hearing in the town court to definitely fix responsibility on Martin Misaiszek of Putnam for evading the consequences of the accident in which Thomas Moran, Sr., of Dayville, was fatally injured by a hit and run driver on the highway leading directly out of Dayville to Attawaugan, two weeks ago last Saturday night.

On the other hand, the state did establish beyond reasonable doubt that Misaiszek had been at Goodyear, visiting and drinking with friends, some time prior to the accident, and that he left Goodyear, after being involved in a minor accident with his car, in such an intoxicated condition that some of his friends refused to ride with him.

The hearing this morning was a continuation of the one started last week and which ended abruptly when the state was unable, for the time being, to produce as confession that Misaiszek is alleged to have made in the presence of state officers, on the night of the accident and within a comparatively short time thereafter.

The counts that Misaiszek faced this morning were operating a motor vehicle while he was intoxicated and with evading responsibility after an accident. The state had no difficulty in proving the charge of intoxication while operating against the accused. It established that he had been in Woodstock drinking during the afternoon, that he later went to Goodyear and again indulged himself in intoxicants. It further proved that he was intoxicated when arrested in Putnam after a warning had been broadcast from Dayville of the accident in which his car is supposed to have figured; Sergeant George Laird of the Putnam police, the arresting officer, being among those establishing the fact that Misaiszek was intoxicated. But the efforts of the state to "put Misaiszek on the spot" where the accident occurred were not conclusive, in the opinion of the court. Judge W. Fenner Woodward found Misaiszek guilty of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and, because of the aggravated circumstances in the case, bound him over to the superior court, instead of imposing a fine, as is usual in such cases.

At the opening of the case Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill suggested to the court that the evading responsibility charge be nolled, but this proposal was objected to by Attorney Irving H. Miron, Putnam, representing the accused, and Judge M. H. Geissler, Putnam, associate counsel. The court sustained the objection.

Later developments during the hearing indicated that Misaiszek's counsel did not want the charge nolled because they desired an opportunity to request production in court of an alleged confession that Misaiszek made to state officers on the night of the accident, that they might read it and familiarize themselves with its contents. They accomplished this during the course of the hearing. It is understood that Misaiszek does not admit in the alleged confession any knowledge of running down Mr. Moran with his car.

The legal strategy employed this morning has its bearing on the fact that Misaiszek may later face a charge of manslaughter. Coroner Bill has not as yet completed his inquest, but will continue it during the current week.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Andre Maindon

This morning from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gaston A. Maindon on Winter street, the funeral of Mrs. Marie Antoinette Maindon, wife of Andre Maindon, was held, with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Relatives and friends from Danielson, various other places in eastern Connecticut and from New Bedford were in attendance. The officers of the mass were Rev. Joseph Bergin, M. S., Rev. Fr. Vesina and Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S.

Burial was in St. James' cemetery, Rev. Fr. Demers conducting the committal service. Bearers were Henri Lernould, Alfred Carlin, Pierre Gasseau, Emile Lacombe, Arsene Lacombe, the two latter of Arctic, R. I., and Ernest Pinnotteau. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements. Among those here for the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zimmerman, of Old Lyme. In addition to other relatives mentioned at the time of Mrs. Maindon's death, she leaves two grandchildren, Muriel and Ernest Maindon, children of Mr. and Mrs. Gaston A. Maindon.

Theodore Beaudreau

This morning the funeral of Theodore Beaudreau, who so tragically ended his own life in the Quinebaug river Sunday night, was held from the home at the river's edge, near the Quinebaug bridge at South Main street, with services at St. James' church at 11 o'clock. There was a large congregation at the solemn high mass of requiem and other masses said concurrently at side altars. Rev. J. A. Demers was celebrant of the solemn high mass with Rev. Fr. Vezina and Rev. Joseph Bergin, M. S., as deacon and sub-deacon. Masses at the altar of the Blessed Virgin and at the altar of the Sacred Heart were said by Rev. Ignatius Kost, of Dayville, and Rev. Fr. Lavallee, of St. Joseph's church, at North Grosvenordale. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery. The bearers were: Anthony Piccirillo, Paul Beaudreau, Henry St. Germain, Frank Blanchette, Rudolph Desauniers and Adolph Blanchette. Rev. Fr. Demers conducted the committal service. L. E. Kennedy had charge of the funeral arrangements.

The alert County Game Warden Thomas Daniels, of Plainfield, put John Ollalli, of the North Society section of the town of Canterbury into a justice's court in that town today to answer to a violation of the trapping laws—setting steel traps with teeth and with jaws more than six inches in width. Justice Colt fined Ollalli $15 and costs, a total of $26.60. The man is said to have trapped at least 13 skunks to date this season, and was in court today as a second offender.

Wallace Cronman, member of the football squad of Plainfield high school, was injured this afternoon, suffering a dislocation of the right ankle. He was taken to the office of J. L. Gardner in Central Village and given attention. He probably is lost to his team for the remainder of the football season.

At an interesting meeting of the Danielson chamber of commerce last evening various matters were given attention, among them the checking on silk manufacturing concerns that may indicate a desire to come into this territory from New Jersey. While welcoming with open arms manufacturers in this line who may desire to locate in this section of eastern Connecticut, there is the necessity of determining between exploiters of a new field and legitimate proposals of responsible firms that desire to rid themselves of the labor troubles with which numbers of the silk centers of New Jersey have been afflicted.

Girl wanted for stenography and accounting, Dec. 1, in general offices of the Quinebaug Co., Danielson. Apply to J. Arthur Atwood, treasurer, Box 1425, Providence, R. I.—adv.

Members of the local chamber of commerce are to be sent questionaires on which they will be asked to set forth their preference as to opening some other night in the week than Monday, which has been an opening night here for a generation.

Your attention is called to the adv. of the Keech Department Stores elsewhere on this page today.—adv.

A Well Child conference is scheduled to be held Tuesday of next week from 2 to 4 p. m. at the health station in the town hall building.

It was announced today by Mrs. Susan Armington, treasurer of the Civic federation, that the receipts up to this morning from the Tag day effort of last Saturday, amounted to $479.

Reservoirs and ponds in this territory have within the past 48 hours made a notable increase in waters impounded as the result of the heavy rain of the early part of the week.

Danielson's business section is reaching toward the full flower of decorative beauty for Armistice day. Some of the buildings in the area are not yet decorated, but numbers of these will be by the week end.

The safe arrival of Colonel Henry W. Babson at Winter Haven, Fla., is reported. Colonel Babson will remain in the south until spring. He is the life president of the 18th Connecticut Volunteers association.

All former service men, whether or not members of the American Legion, are being urged to take part in the Armistice day parade in Danielson. There are several hundred former service men in the vicinity.

The actual hour of the Armistice, 11 years ago, will be greeted, following the minute of silent prayer for those who made the great sacrifice or have since died with the glory of having been the nation's defenders under arms in the World war, with the ringing of bells and sounding of sirens in Danielson and other communities of the town of Killingly at 11 o'clock next Monday morning.

The annual roll call of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross will be inaugurated on Armistice day and will continue through the coming week. A meeting of Chairman W. E. Parker and those who are to work with him will be held at the high school building Friday evening.

MOOSUP

BUILDING SUPPER TABLES FOR THE BAPTIST SOCIETY

Anthony Paranzino, Paul W. Roper, William Rose, James A. William W. and Olney E. Pratt and Harry Denison are building ten supper tables in the Baptist church garage. These new tables are to replace those lost when the church was burned, and are to be ten feet long and two and a half feet wide, with removable legs.

Friends of Marjorie Mae Pollard have had announcements of her marriage with Osborne W. O'Quinn, October 18th. The bride was widely known in and about Moosup and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pollard. Mrs. Pollard is a sister to William Bellavance.

Baptist Women's Society

The Moosup Baptist Women's society had thirteen present at Mrs. Alfred Hydes' for an all-day meeting, preparing for the fair. The Sterling Hill Women's society met thirteen strong at Mrs. Mortimer Frink's, in Oneco. The latter group voted to pay for one-half the cost of a mimeograph for church publicity.

The officers of the choir and of the forum met Tuesday evening at Mrs. Lewis Hoar's. President Roy A. Playon and Secretary G. Faith Batty represented the choir. From the class there were the president, Edward Mertimer; Thomas Hope, leader, and Harry Denison, secretary-treasurer. It was voted to put on a joint chicken patty supper this month.

Ill With Quinsy

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Gallop, now living in Cranston, R. I., are ill with quinsy. Mrs. Clark Gallop was called there to attend them.

Bible Study Leader

Wednesday evening at Sterling Hill and Thursday evening in Moosup, Rev. R. W. E. DeWolfe is announced to lead a Bible study, using a questionnaire which was submitted to Harry Emerson Fosdick, who, on sight scored 100 per cent.

Sunday, a special Armistice service will be held in the Baptist church, built about the bugle calls, played by Ernest De Forge. The pastor will give the meaning of each call in every day life from reveille to taps, throughout life's day.

Alfred DeForge returned Thursday after a week in Putnam hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Lavallee, of Moosup, and their son, Rev. Father Leo E Lavallee, of North Grosvenordale, spent Tuesday in Boston.

Ordered To Asheville

Mr. and Mrs. Emiele Despathy and daughters, Gloria and Thelma, have left for Asheville, North Carolina, where the doctors have advised Mr. Despathy to spend the winter, on account of his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eyers, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Dean and Muriel Dean, of Central Village, were callers at Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Roberts', Sunday.

Francis Gallagher went to work for C. E. Salisbury and Sons, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Daggett left Sunday en route to Florida for the winter. Mr. Daggett for many years has been in business in Moosup. He has closed down the business for the winter.

Mrs. John Flanagan and son John, visited Mr. Flanagan in the New England Baptist hospital Sunday last. Mr. Flanagan is expected home in another week.

It was raining when a New Jersey commuter started for work and he shared his umbrella with a neighbor. When the train reached the terminal in New York, the neighbor was startled to see the commuter hand his umbrella to the conductor, saying that some one had forgotten it. "What's the big idea?" asked the neighbor. "Well, it's stopped raining," said the commuter. "If I check the umbrella it will cost me 10 cents. The conductor will turn it in the lost and found department and I'll just claim it tonight and save the checking fee." "And you are the guy who tells all those Scotch stories," observed the neighbor.—Boston Globe.

PUTNAM POLICE CAPTURE CAR CARRYING LIQUOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 6.—A carload of liquor, valued at $2,000, was seized by Putnam police tonight after the driver of the car had abandoned it on the Providence road about a quarter of a mile from Burrill's Four Corners. The local police played no part in the taking of the load, Officer Paul Normand of the Chepachet state police barracks, while on duty at Greeneville, R. I., observed the liquor laden car violating a traffic ordinance. He gave chase and after a few miles, conceived that the car was a rum-transport. Shortly after crossing the Connecticut state line the driver deserted his car and escaped. Officer Normand called Putnam police for assistance. While attempting to fire at the fleeing car, Officer Normand's gun accidentally discharged and the bullet lodged in the gasoline tank of his motorcycle. He was not injured.

A registration certificate showed the car to be owned by Louis Cappes of 75 Wilcox street, Springfield, Mass. It was a 7-passenger Cadillac sedan. After communicating with Springfield authorities it was learned that the car and liquor seized was owned by a Springfield liquor smuggling syndicate operating between that city and Providence.

COUNCIL AUTHORIZES TWO FILTERS AT HARRISVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 6.—At a regular meeting of the common council Ralph E. Thurston, chairman of the board of water commissioners, by a vote of the council, was authorized to carry out his plan to equip two filters at the filtration plant in Harrisville. In his report to the council Mr. Thurston stated that the cost of the project would amount to about $7,000. Tonight's meeting was not marked with any action.

Mrs. Sarah Keith of King street, for many years a resident of this city died this morning following an illness of many months. Mrs. Keith was 83 years of age. She was born in Eastford on December 11, 1845. For a number of years Mrs. Keith has made her home in King street with her daughter, Miss Abbie Howard Keith, who is head of the English department at Putnam high school. Mrs. Keith was a member of the Baptist church and is widely known in this city.

Charley Murphy, son of Dr. and Mrs. Bernard P. Murphy of this city, who is one of the outstanding players in the Connecticut Agricultural college eleven at Storrs college made one of the most unusual touchdowns last Saturday believed to have occurred in any game played in the country. When the ball was kicked from position, the bladder was punctured and as it travelled through the air, it deflated. Murphy caught the lifeless pigskin, rolled it up and started on a run, to score a touchdown. His spectacular feat has been the inspiration of several cartoonists on leading papers in the country. A Boston paper this morning printed a cartoon of Murphy's experience under the title head of "Hot Stuff." Murphy is a graduate of Putnam high school and before graduating was a star performer on football teams coached by a former mentor, Otho F. Smith.

Anson A. Buchannon of King street, one of Putnam's eight remaining veterans of the Civil war, is again confined to his bed suffering from an illness which he contracted a few weeks ago. Mr. Buchannon rallied from the first attack and was able to be about the streets of the city last week. On Sunday he suffered a relapse, the effects of which have caused his condition to be regarded as serious. Mr. Buchannon is the youngest of the remaining Grand Army veterans. He is an enthusiastic follower of local sporting activities, his favorite sporting pastime being baseball.

Dr. James B. Kent, retired, of Larchmont, N. Y., is in this city visiting with friends and acquaintances. Dr. Kent for many years was one of the city's leading physicians. Following his retirement a few years ago, Dr. Kent went to Larchmont to make his home with his son Dr. James B. Kent Jr.

Walter N. King of Grove street formally declared today that he will be a candidate for the republican nomination for mayor at the general caucus to be held Thursday evening.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Susan B. Stone

Mrs. Susan B. Stone, one of Putnam's oldest residents died this morning at her home on Sunnyside avenue following a prolonging illness. She was 94 years of age. Mrs. Stone lived the greater part of her life in this city and was widely known and held in high esteem by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. She is the widow of William B. Stone, former Putnam business man. Mrs. Stone, previous to her illness which caused her death today, had been interested in local and national affairs. She kept well informed on the leading events of the day through reading daily accounts in newspapers. This, she did without the aid of glasses. Her keen vision at her advanced stage of life was regarded as remarkable by many of her intimate friends. Mrs. Stone was a devoted member of the Methodist church of this city. She is survived by two children, a daughter, Miss Nellie G. Stone of this city, who made her home with her mother and a son, Newton Stone of Boston.

Miss Mary Cassells of North Grosvenordale, a member of the senior class of Tourtellottee Memorial high school has been selected to edit the school publication, the first issue of which is now being prepared.

Hunters, who have been following the sport during the past week have reported that herds of deer have been seen coming from the Massachusetts borders into Connecticut woodlands. Each year at this time, before the opening of the season on deer in Massachusetts, deer flock from their haunts there to the protection offered by the Connecticut state game laws which prohibit the killing of deer.

Miss Eva Mayette Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples.

"I worked in a factory where there was a lot of oil. It got on my face and caused pimples. They were hard but not very large and itched a lot causing me to scratch. After scratching them the pimples scaled over. The trouble lasted about a year.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased more, and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Eva Mayette, 30 Green St., Webster, Mass., April 3, 1929.

Youth Has Found The Way!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has cultivated the fertile field of opportunity and invites everyone to roam in search of desired pursuits. Nothing remains of that ancient prejudice which bound the apprentice, without choice, to his career.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation-No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan. "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

RELIEF CORPS CELEBRATES BIRTHDAYS OF 10 MEMBERS

When Williams Woman's Relief corps met Tuesday evening in G. A. R. hall, with about 30 members present, a birthday supper was served to 10 of the members, whose birthdays occurred in October and November. A birthday cake with one candle was in the center of the table, decorated with Halloween colors. Favors and baskets of candy were at each place and cards were also given each one. Following the business session, at which the president, Mrs. Eleanor Lucy, presided, the following program was given: Violin solo, Albert Keeney, accompanied at the piano by his sister, Katherine Keeney; song, Loretta Tinker, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. Inez Tinker; recitations, Mrs. Ellery Burdick; three solos, George White, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Flora Morin; piano solo, Mrs. Morin. A lavalliere which had been given by Mrs. Truman Jewell, was awarded Mrs. William Welles, of Old Mystic. Following this, ice cream was served.

Motoring To North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burrows of Old Mystic left Tuesday for Passaic, N. J., where they will visit their daughter and her family for a short time, then will start for Wilmington, N. C., where they will spend the winter with another daughter and her family. They are making the trip by auto.

Unsightly Skin Eruptions Gone In Three Days

Those bad looking red eruptions of the skin that humiliate you and keep you from social gatherings—what are you going to do about them?

If you are wise and want to get rid astonished you'll get a 35 cent box of Peterson's Ointment today and let its mighty healing power make you joyous of them so quickly that you will be fully happy in just a few days.

You'll praise it to your friends ever after, for it surely does heal and leaves the skin clear, healthy and good to look upon.

And here's something more that a multitude of Peterson's Ointment friends know—make a note of it.

This good old remedy is just as healing for eczema, pimples, rashes and ulcers as it is for skin eruptions and if you doubt it ask any broad minded druggist.

Keep it in the house for burns and scalds, bruises, scratches, itching skin, chafing and like ailments.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe, and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

The dentist may not be able to fill a long-felt want but he can fill an aching void.

What Is A One Cent Sale?

It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price, then another item of the same kind for one cent. As an illustration: The standard price of Klenzo Dental Creme is 50c, you buy a tube at this price and by paying one cent more, or 51 cents, you get two tubes and save 49 cents. Every article in this sale is a high class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as is sold every day at regular price. No limit—buy all you want, but on Thursday, Friday and Saturday only!

A Profit-Sharing Method of Advertising

THIS sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full size package of high standard merchandise for one cent. It costs money to get new customers, but the sacrifice in profit is justified, as we know the goods will please you.

WESTERLY

GRAND CAPTAIN F. A. BLISS VISITS KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, Em. Sir Francis N. Johnson, commander, held a regular conclave in its asylum, Masonic hall, Wednesday evening, the first meeting with the officers elected at the 60th annual conclave a month ago.

Eminent Sir Forrest A. Bliss, grand captain of the guards-elect at the 126th Annual Grand Conclave of the Grand Commandery, K. T. of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, held in Boston, Oct. 30th, was present for an informal visitation. He is commander of the Fifth Division of the Grand Commandery to which Narragansett Commandery of Westerly is assigned. Accompanying him as deputy grand warder was Em. Sir Andrew E. Harper of Leominster, Mass. Both visitors are members of Jerusalem Commandery, No. 19, K. T., of Fitchburg, Mass., and made the trip to Westerly by automobile.

A preliminary inspection was made of the properties and commandery equipment, in preparation for the annual commandery inspection which will be held the last of February or the first of March. Following the business of the conclave adjournment was taken to the reception room of the asylum where sweet cider and doughnuts were served by a committee of which Dr. Ronald C. Dove was chairman. Corn was popped over a fire in the fireplace and pecans were passed.

The officers of Narragansett Commandery accepted an invitation of Palestine Commandery, No 6, of New London, to visit that commandery Friday next in Brainerd temple, New London, to witness an exemplification of the Malta degree and to attend a reception tendered the grand commander of Connecticut Grand Commandery, C. Hadlai Hull of New London, who is a past commander also of Palestine Commandery, of that city.

Many of Narragansett Commandery officers will visit New London the following week to be present at the annual commandery inspection by inspector F. Ward DeKlyn, when work in the Temple degree will be by Palestine officers.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

STRANGE WOMAN CLAIMS TO HAVE COME FROM MYSTIC

A woman carrying four or five boxes, tied with pieces of clothesline, arrived here on a morning northbound bus. She visited several homes telling a hard luck story, saying she had walked from Mystic to New London, coming here from that city. About 1:30 she called at a home, asking the housewife to buy some homemade bread. Pitying the woman, she bought a loaf of bread for 35 cents and gave it to a neighbor for her hens. About 6 o'clock the stranger returned and watched the family from the outside for sometime, through a window. She again rapped at the door and wanted to sell food again, but did not find a customer. She was apparently demented.

Mrs. Michael Connealy entertained the Tuesday Afternoon Auction Bridge club. One guest was present, Mrs William Heywood of Moosup. A delicious chicken pie luncheon was served by the hostess, assited by her daughter, Miss Grace Connealy. The first prize, a lustre ware tea-pot was won by Mrs. Alfred Hill, the second prize, a china mayonnaisse set going to Mrs Elizabeth Mathewson. The next meeting will be Nov. 19th and Mrs. Charles Barber will entertain the club at the Lafayette Inn.

Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve of Norwich, was a local visitor Tuesday.

"I'll have to take particular care with that boy," said the conscientious instructor.

"Is he inclined to be wayward?"

"No, but if he ever does anything wrong he is sure to be caught. He leaves thumb prints all over his copy book."—Washington Star.

Stop Bad Breath

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

No wonder this HARTFORD Mother is proud

"MY little son Harold, was troubled a lot with constipation," says Mrs. P. Goldberg, 77 Thomaston Street, Hartford. "He got very weak, run-down and underweight. I gave him California Fig Syrup, and in just a little while he was eating heartily and gaining. Now I'm proud as can be; he's so robust, bright and active."

Temporary relief should be far from the first consideration when a child shows by bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, or a listless, weak condition, that he's constipated. Of course, the child's system needs a prompt cleansing. But the youngster's bowels also need toning and strengthening.

That's where California Fig Syrup does its best work. It helps strengthen the bowel muscles; gives tone to a weak stomach. That's why faulty digestion improves with its use; bowel movements become regular and remain so.

Every child loves its flavor; its cleansing action is prompt but gentle. A pure vegetable product; no danger of causing the laxative habit. It has full medical endorsement. There are many imitations; but the word California marks the genuine.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

THE RICH, FRUITY LAXATIVE AND TONIC FOR CHILDREN

Be on your guard, motorists! "freeze-up" weather is coming

CAR WON'T START! (Left) This motorist left his car standing in the cold too long . . . motor froze up and the starter couldn't turn it over when he stepped on the button. That sounds like a lot of trouble, but it may be worse. Perhaps the radiator is broken or the cylinder head cracked. Wise motorists are getting Denatured Alcohol put in their cars . . . it ends all inconvenience.

YEP, IT'S CRACKED! (Right) That's the bad news the repairman is telling this motorist. Same old story, left his car outdoors all night . . . down went the thermometer . . . the cylinder block is split. And now there's a repair bill to pay. Play safe . . . use Denatured Alcohol, the most economical anti-freeze you can get.

Take 2 minutes today to protect your car against freeze-ups with Denatured Alcohol

IT'S due, car owners. Coming any day . . . maybe tonight! Winter . . . with its frosty mornings, below-freezing nights, dangerous day-time temperature . . .

Take no chances with that car of yours. Once frozen it's never the same . . . and in less than 2 minutes you can avoid all danger of such a happening.

For it takes only 96 seconds to make your car ready for freezing temperatures at any place where you buy gas and oil.

Just drive in to the nearest garage or filling station that shows the orange and green Denatured Alcohol sign . . . Without the slightest delay, with no bothersome overhauling whatever . . . they'll consult a handy chart, put in as much Denatured Alcohol as your particular make of car requires, check it with an Alco-Tester.

And away you drive ready for winter with your cooling system protected by the surest, safest, most economical anti-freeze you can get.

Sure . . . because with Denatured Alcohol you can protect your car to any degree of temperature!

Safe . . . because Denatured Alcohol is harmless to rubber and metal alike. Can't hurt water pumps, rot rubber hose, gum-up motors, cause short circuits.

As for its economy . . . figure it out yourself! You buy only what you need and pay for only what you use. You have no special overhauling costs to meet. And you can buy Denatured Alcohol for a fraction of the cost of certain preparations.

Denatured Alcohol is approved by every manufacturer of motor cars and enthusiastically endorsed by the firm that makes your radiator.

Remember, too, that Denatured Alcohol is backed by 25 years of successful use in 30,000,000 cars . . . and you can get it any time, anywhere . . . as easily as you can get gas!

The Industrial Alcohol Institute, Incorporated, Graybar Building, New York City.

SIX INDISPUTABLE FACTS

You've heard a lot about anti-freezes. Here are the real facts in the case . . . the indisputable reasons why more motorists use Denatured Alcohol than all other anti-freezes combined.

1. An entire season's supply of Denatured Alcohol usually costs less than half as much as one filling of some preparations.
2. Denatured Alcohol is harmless to radiators, engines and electrical systems. It will not corrode metal parts or attack rubber hose and does not cause leaks.
3. No special service is required to make your car ready for winter. Just put Denatured Alcohol in your radiator as it is.
4. Every car manufacturer approves Denatured Alcohol, and the firm that made your radiator is also emphatic in its endorsement.
5. If your protective solution is lost through accident or carelessness, the cost of replacement with Denatured Alcohol is usually one-sixth that of replacement with some preparations.
6. You can get Denatured Alcohol anywhere, anytime. Service when you need it, wherever you are.

DRASTIC DECLINE CARRIES STOCK PRICES BACK TO LOW LEVELS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)— Excessive optimism, reborn with the violent rally in stock prices late last week, was dealt a staggering blow today with another wholesale and drastic decline. Carrying prices down close to the lowest levels of the session, the major part of the abbreviated session, opening at 1 o'clock, was decline, while carrying leading issues off 10 to 30 points, was never threatening. It was not until the last minutes of the session that the wholesale dumping of holdings ceased, and prices dropped several points below the mark.

The volume of liquidation in the last few minutes of trading kept the ticker running one and three-quarters hours after the close, total sales for the three-hour session were 5,914,760 shares, nearly approximating the 6,202,930 share turnover of the full five-hour session on Monday. Night relief appeared in sight for the workers of Wall Street despite the decision of the exchange to close at 1 o'clock today, Thursday and Friday, and all day Saturday.

The failure of the rally last week to carry over into Monday's session was keenly disappointing to the new army of speculators who rushed in to buy stocks on the way up, and what appeared to be further large-scale distress selling today, was a severe jar to speculative nerves. There had been no general realization that such conditions were still hanging over the market. The work of commission house forces during the election day holiday yesterday had been expected to result in some further weeding out of weak margin accounts, but the sheer volume of urgent selling which appeared was surprising and perplexing.

Credit conditions remained practically unchanged, with both call and time money at 6 per cent. A rather belated readjustment of commercial paper rates, bringing them in line with the new credit conditions, appeared with a reduction of 1-4 of one per cent, many dealers now quoting 5 3-4 to 6 per cent.

Several leading issues broke through last Tuesday's low levels. U. S. Steel dropped 18 1-4 points to 165, as compared to last week's low of 166 1-2, and a low of the year of 157 1-8. It rallied, however, to close at 168. General Electric tumbled 30 points to a new low for the year at 205, having touched only 210 last week. Western Union dropped 29 points to a new low for the year at 170, but closed at 180. American Water Works dropped 22 points to 68, 3 points above its low for the year, then rallied to 74. American Telephone dropped 25 points to 212, compared to last week's low of 204, and closed at 215.

A few of the erratic issues showed spectacular losses. Adams Express dropped 100 points to 250, Auburn Auto 66 to 135, and Columbian Carbon 36 to 124. Other notable losses were Johns Manville 28, Atchison 27, Norfolk and Western 22, Westinghouse Electric 17 1-4, Radio 11 1-4, Montgomery Ward 11 1-8, International Harvester 10, Standard of N. J. 5 1-2, and General Motors 4 3-4.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Buying of bonds was highly selective in today's abbreviated market session. Trading was fairly active, totaling $17,000,000 for the three hours, and the tone was firm, but strength was noticeable chiefly in seasoned issues of investment character. It was apparent that investors were proceeding cautiously.

Whereas on Monday virtually every bond on the long list improved, there were soft spots today, especially in secondary obligations, convertibles broke severely, selling off about 2 to 14 points in sympathy with the weakness of the shares they represent.

Low coupon rails and first grade industrials and utilities displayed improvement that was largely of fractional proportions. United States government securities shaded lower, but only the Liberty 3 1-2s and 4th 4 1-2s moved in any volume.

Atchison General 4s, Canadian Pacific 5s, Erie General 4s, Kansas City Southern 5s, Louisville & Nashville 5 1-2s, Missouri Kansas Texas prior lien 5s, Rio Grande Western collateral 4s, Southern Railway General 4s, St. Louis & San Francisco prior lien 4s, West Shore 4s, Baltimore & Ohio first 5s and a few other rails led the moderate advance. Gains ran as high as 2 points in some of the less active loans. On the other hand, Pennsylvania Gold 5s and General 4 1-2s, Central Pacific First 4s, St. Paul 5s, Erie 5s, Baltimore & Ohio Refunding 5s, Chicago & Northwestern 4 1-2 and Kansas City Southern first 3s eased.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—(AP) — The consolidated balance sheet of General Motors Corp. as of Sept. 30, published today, shows total cash, U. S. Government and other marketable securities of $187,652,073, as reduced from $215,905,230 on Dec. 31, 1928. Total current assets were $456,271,429, as reduced from $468,809,287 at the beginning of the nine-months period. Total fixed assets, however, increased to $872,180,732, as compared to $774,085,582, the major part of this increase occurring in investments in subsidiaries and affiliated companies, and real estate, plants and equipment.

State and municipal bond issues floated in the 10 months ending Oct. 31, have passed the $1,000,000,000-mark, and are within a few million dollars of the total for the corresponding period last year, according to the Daily Bond Buyer.

Directors of the American Rolling Mill company today extended to February 15, the rights of stockholders to purchase additional stock at $104.

The American Smelting & Pacific company today reduced the price of lead from 6.50 to 6.35 cents a pound.

The Guaranty Trust company today received $700,000 in gold coin from Buenos Aires.

NORWICH TOWN

FIRST CONG. CHURCH BUDGET FOR 1930 CALLS FOR $3,000

A letter in circulation this week among parishioners, concerning the Every Member Canvass of the First Congregational church, (organized in 1660) under date of November 4th, gives much information regarding the yearly activities of this parish. It is stated that the budget for 1930, calls for more than $3,000. This covers the salaries of pastor, organist, sexton, also coal, water, electricity and gas, vacation supplies, state and county tax, safety deposit boxes, insurance for three years with premiums due in 1930, also sundry items for the year. Besides the amount yielded from invested funds for current church expenses, nearly $2,000, will have to be raised by subscriptions. The list of benevolent projects sent to members last year, will be practically the same this year in personnel also amounts.

During the year now closing the church property has been greatly improved in the following particulars: Chapel roof and cornice painted; parsonage roof re-shingled; horse sheds removed, grounds graded and graveled for parking purposes and trees set; a steam heating plant installed in the parsonage. These improvements involved an outlay of over a thousand dollars which was provided by income on the Sarah Huntington Parsonage fund, the generous contributions of many to a shingling fund, etc.

The letter continues:

If all pledges are paid in for 1929 a balanced account can be shown at the end of the year both for church expenses and for the benevolent objects. Credit is given the women of the church who have worked loyally for the project money. The letter expresses the conviction that they surely will succeed.

Sunday morning, November 10th, there will be an opportunity for all to lay their pledge for 1930, on the communion table as an offering to the Lord for His work at home and abroad. An urgent plea is made for members to come if they possibly can and have a part in this service. Those whose pledges are not received November 10th, will be called upon during the afternoon of November 17th, one week later.

The letter also states that early in the year an itemized report of the treasurer will be received by the members. The concluding paragraph reads: Finally, brethren, pray that the will of the Lord may have free course in our lives and His reign of peace and good will may be welcomed in all parts of the world.

Fraternally your servants,
GURDON F. BAILEY,
Minister
CLYDE M. BEEBE,
Chairman of Trustees
FRANK S. AVERY,
Treasurer of Corporations
HENRY T. FRAZIER,
Treasurer of Benevolences and Col.

Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver accompanied by Miss Annie Ward, of Norwich Town, were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. William Green of Willimantic. Mr. Green motored to Norwich Town and conveyed the Norwich Town party to his home, also brought them back Sunday evening.

Triduum Highly Successful

In summing up the results of the triduum, or three days' devotion at the Sacred Heart church last week, the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn has expressed great satisfaction with the zeal and spirit of earnestness shown by his congregation. The sermons by Rev. Oliver T. Magnell, pastor of Sacred Heart church, Groton, were eloquent and scholarly and of a character to incite his hearers to true sincerity in their effort to accomplish the objects of the Jubilee Year. There were many confessions during the three days, so that an unusual number of penitents were in a state of grace to receive holy communion each morning. While Father Magnell inspired the local Catholics to new effort in the practice of their religion, Rev. Father Quinn preached and labored with the Groton Catholic congregation, and with equal success in bringing back to the fold many of the careless and erring, while giving new courage to the many who are always prompt in attendance at all their church services.

The November meeting of Home Chapter of the Kings Daughters, to be held Monday afternoon at the Johnson Home will be a roll call meeting.

November Pansies

William Weaver picked a bunch of pansies in his flower garden on Huntington avenue Tuesday, November 5th. This fall, Mr. Weaver set out several hundred plants for next year's supply; and they have progressed so rapidly as to growth, that many have blossomed this fall, several months in advance of the time expected.

Home From Hartford Visit

Following a stay of nearly five weeks with relatives in Hartford, Mrs. Alice Tufts returned Wednesday morning. Mrs. Tufts visited for ten days at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Tufts, later spending three weeks with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Wilson. While at the latter place, Mrs. Wilson was obliged to undergo a surgical operation, during which time Mrs. Tufts looked after her brother's home and managed affairs for Mr. Wilson and his son, Clarence.

Desires

Give me a sea moon
And a starlit night
And the mad waves dancing,
A silk spun white;
And the soft clouds blowing
Like a curtains in a breeze;
I have a hunger
For things like these.

Give me a strong ship;
'Tis a seaman's craft;
Not a frail schooner
Or a home-made raft.
I'm for long voyaging,
Youth is not old;
Give me adventure,
You may keep your gold.

Give me a rough sea,
And a port to reach,
And the thundering waves
On a distance beach;
For storms are the testing
Where men are made,
I have the sea love;
You may keep your trade.

—Charles Bancroft—In the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Dream Teller

I was a dreamer; I dreamed
A dream at the dark of dawn,
When he stars hung over the mountains
And morn was wan.

I dreamed my dream at morn,
At noon, at the even-light,
But I tol dit to you, dark woman
One soft glad night.

And the sharing of my dream
Has brought me only this:
The gnawing pain of loss, the ache
For your mouth to kiss.

I walked the high hills last night,
And to where the pale stars gleam
God's cold voice spake: "If you dream again
"Tell none your dream;
"Tell non eyour dream."

—Padaic Gregory

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Did your husband die a natural death?"

"Certainly. He was run over by a motor."—Humor.

"Keepin' still seems to hurt some people," said Uncle Eben. "Silence may be golden, but so is de fillin' in a front tooth."—Washington Star.

Old Gentleman—What is the child crying for?

The Big Brother—He wants his own way.

Old Gentleman—Well, if it's his, why don't you let him have it?—Montreal Family Herald.

"How was the scenery on your trip?"

"Well, the toothpaste ads were rather better done than the tobacco. But there was more furniture than anything else."—Boston Transcript.

"Have you left anything?" is a sign placed in many American hotels. There are hotels in London where a more appropriate question to the departing guest would be "Have you anything left?"—London Opinion.

Peewit—It is remarkable how you and Billiswiggle resemble each other. I am always taking one of you for the other.

Dismuke—Well say, you worry me. Be careful not to pay him that $10 you owe me.—The Pathfinder.

Old Sam, the optimist, was sitting on the roof of his house during a severe flood, watching the water flow past. A neighbor, who had a boat, rowed across to him.

"All your fowls washed away this morning, Sam?"

"Yes," answered old Sam, pleasantly: "but the ducks can swim."

"Apple trees gone, too?"

"Yes, but the crop wasn't worth anything."

"I see the river's reached your windows."

"That's all right. They wanted washin'."—The Weekly Scotsman.

David Petros, 50, a Persian hot dog vender who speaks little English, was discharged in a Chicago court when he declined to prosecute himself on a larceny charge. It seemed that Petros had complained to the police that someone had stolen his wiener roaster and basket, and in the confusion of translating his complaint, Petros' own name was written on the warrant issued for the malefactor. Several hours later he was arrested and locked up until he explained his predicament through a court interpreter.

Captain Walter M. Mallett, of Topsham, Me., went to sea when he was a lad. At 24 he was a master and he followed his calling for 41 years. Although he had a license for steam he always stuck to sailing craft. Despite the superstitions that sailors attach to the presence of a woman on shipboard, Captain Mallett usually took his wife with him. She has rounded the Horn 23 times while the captain has made it an even 40.

SINASIPTEC CLEARS THE NOSE

IT IS UP-ON-LEGS

...just one of its fourteen superiorities

It's nice when you clean your refrigerator to be able to clean all around and under it. With the cabinet up-on-legs, a mop will glide under and keep your linoleum perfectly sanitary, spotless . . . with least effort on your part.

More than 350,000 homes are enjoying the economy and health-guarding service of General Electric Refrigerators . . . and not one owner has spent a dollar for repairs or service.

Fourteen Big Advantages

—an hermetically sealed, dust-proof mechanism
—an easily accessible freezing regulator
—a mechanism that requires no oiling
—all troublesome machinery eliminated
—a new standard of quiet operation
—mounted on legs with broom-room underneath
—no installation problem whatever
—a sanitary, porcelain chilling chamber
—the entire mechanism mounted on top —maximum food storage space in the cabinet
—absolutely no radio interference
—an appreciably lower cost of operation
—a radically improved all-steel cabinet
—an unqualified two-year service guarantee

Tune in on the General Electric Hour broadcast every Saturday evening from 9 to 10, Eastern Standard Time, over the NBC network of 43 stations.

TELETYPE FOR NEW LONDON POLICE LINKED WITH 18 OTHER STATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 6.— A teletype was installed at police headquarters today and with this latest and improved device for tracing criminals, the police department is provided with equipment that will greatly improve the efficiency of its work. The teletype is hooked up with 18 other cities in the state and Boston. On an alarm being sent out by any of the departments supplied with the teletype, 18 other departments obtain the information simultaneously. The instrument has worked perfectly since being installed and is operated the entire day and night.

Francis Tetu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tetu, 217 Connecticut avenue, a student at Carson Newman college, Jefferson City, Tenn., has arrived at his home to recuperate, having been ill in Jefferson City several weeks.

FOURTH DEGREE KNIGHTS HAVE OFFICERS INSTALLED

The recently elected officers of Deshon assembly, fourth degree, Knights of Columbus, were installed at a meeting of the assembly last night. The officers installed were: Faithful Navigator, J. A. McDonald; faithful controller, Lawrence G. Conti; faithful admiral, F. N. Roche; faithful pilot, David A. Moran; inside guard, George Linicus; outside guard, George King. The installation ceremony was in charge of Jerome J. Collins, of this city, Judge advocate of the state. He was assisted by Past Grand Knight Michael J. Sullivan. Faithful Navigator McDonald appointed Mr. Collins and Henry S. Dorsey, faithful patron and they will arrange for prominent speakers to address meetings of the assembly during the winter.

The residence of Bernard Hendel, 87 Garfield avenue, was threatened by fire from an overheated furnace last night. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Northwest Hose company and Allen Hook and Ladder company responded. Steam was liberated from the boiler and that accomplished, there was no further danger.

Secretary Hays Resigns

Harry Hays, of Starr Hill, Groton, has resigned as secretary of Groton chamber of commerce. Mr. Hays gave business interests as the reason for tendering his resignation.

Mystic Driver Must Explain

Mrs. Dora Whipple, wife of Alma T. Whipple, Riverview avenue, this city, was injured yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding and which was driven by her husband, overturned on Bridge street, Groton, when the car was struck by an automobile owned by the Southern New England Telephone company and driven by Robert Avery, of Mystic. Mrs. Whipple sustained multiple bruises and injuries to her back. Avery was ordered to present himself in Groton town court Monday next and defend a charge of reckless driving.

A group of student nurses from Lawrence Memorial hospital was in New Haven today, visiting the Peabody museum for instruction.

CONVICTED THREE TIMES— PERRY FINED ON TWO COUNTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 6. — Frank Perry, 38 Denison avene, was in the police court today, charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, possession and sale. Through counsel, he enterred a demurrer which was overruled and a fine of $100 and costs was imposed on each count. Perry's residence was raided by a squad of police 10 days ago, at which time a large quantity of home brew and alcohol was seized. Eight frequenters who were found there and arrested, were discharged in the police court yesterday. Perry has been convicted three times of violation of the liquor law. He was formerly employed as driver for the Ockford Hose company.

Diocesan Bureau Bridge

One hundred dollars was cleared from a bridge party held last night at the headquarters of the Diocesan Bureau of Social service for the benefit of the bureau by the New London branch, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women. Eighteen tables of bridge were in play with a prize for the winner at each table. Beautiful Italian print of Raphael's Old and New Sacrifice, was awarded by Miss Helen Duffy. The committee in charge of arrangements consisted of Mrs. Clarence A. Carr, chairman; Mrs. H. H. Wolfe and Miss Anna Drew.

An automobile driven by Carlyle C. Avery, Lakes Pond, Waterford, struck and killed a dog today on Pleasant street. The owner of the dog was not learned.

Five cases of intoxication await trial in the police court tomorrow. One man was arrested on North Bank street by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey and Louis Wheeler. A second man was arrested at Bank and Shaw streets by Officer Wheeler. Patrolman Dennis Murphy arrested another man on Douglass street and Automobile Officer Bailey and Patrolman George Perkins picked up a fourth man on North Bank street where he was annoying Jacob Hochman, proprietor of a baker shop. The fifth man was arrested on Main street by Patrolman George Brubns.

OBITUARY

Samuel Becker

Samuel Becker, about 67, died this afternoon at his home on Montauk avenue, after an illness of many weeks. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Joseph and William Becker. Mr. Becker was for many years a tailor in New London, conducting business on North Bank street and lately on Bank street. He disposed of his business a few months ago.

WEDDING

Kelly—Donohue

Michael Kelly and Miss Nellie Donohue, both of New London, were married yesterday at St. Joseph's church by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons. Thomas Kelly, brother of the groom, was best man and Miss Catherine Donohue, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly will reside at 16 Cutler street.

AN INHALATOR SAVES LIFE OF DAVID HAIHAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 6—David Haihan had a narrow escape from drowning off the mouth of the harbor late yesterday and his life was saved only by the use of an inhalator. Haihan is a member of the crew of the trawler Tolver, which brings fish to the plant of the Atlantic Coast Fisheries, Inc. While the steamer was headed into port, Haihan fell overboard and it was a long time before he was rescued by the crew. When Haihan was pulled to the deck of the Tolver he was unconscious and breathing very slightly. The officials of the fisheries communicated with Lawrence-Memorial hospital, requesting that an ambulance be sent to Groton to convey Haihan to the hospital. When the ambulance and a nurse arrived at the plant the Tolver had not entered the harbor so a coast guard boat was pressed into service and conveyed the nurse and the inhalator to the Tolver. The inhalator had been used on Haihan nearly an hour and a half before he was restored to consciousness.

Makes Penalty Fit the Crime

Patrolman Harry Watterson's discipline, in being suspended for two months, is the general topic of conversation. The discipline is the most severe that City Manager Holt has ever meted out to a police officer for a violation of the rules and regulations of the department, and indicates the gravity of the offense in the opinion of the city manager.

In chambers yesterday, Judge Earnest C. Simpson, of the superior court, heard the petition of O. C. Wolfe, Inc., Norwich automobile dealers, for the appointment of a temporary receiver. William Z. White, of this city, was appointed receiver.

GROTON LINEMAN FALLS FROM POLE ON STATE STREET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 6—Oak Strahan, 2 Thames street, Groton, employed as lineman by the Connecticut Power company, was injured this morning when he fell from a pole upon which he was at work. He suffered a concussion of the brain and is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Strahan also suffered bruises of the head and body. His condition, however, is reported as favorable. Strahan was at work on one of the iron poles on State street, near the corner of North Bank street. In making repairs to the wires Strahan lost his balance and fell, his head striking the cement sidewalk rendering him unconscious. He was revived quickly and rushed to the hospital.

Officer Stone Explains Charge

A hearing of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer against Carlos Stone, a member of the New London police department, was conducted by City Manager William A. Holt at his office in the municipal building this afternoon at 2 o'clock. At the conclusion of the examination of witnesses, City Manager Holt reserved his decision. Stone, one of the youngest members of the department, was on duty at Mercer field 10 days ago at a football game. Between periods, Joseph Cordesi, it is claimed, used vile language to the officer and Stone dealt him a blow on the jaw. A few days later Fred Benvenuti made formal charges, in behalf of Cordesi, to City Manager Holt. The hearing was attended only by Stone, Cordesi and Benvenuti.

But one case of intoxication was presented in the police court today which was something unusual. The accused, a frequent prisoner on charges of intoxication, was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was arrested on the municipal pier yesterday.

The United Cotton Goods company, New York, has leased the store, 1140 State street. The building is being made ready for occupancy, and many alterations will be necessary.

EAST STREET ROOF FIRE DOES CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 6.—The residence on East street, owned by Louis Ballestrini and occupied by Arthur White and family, was damaged by fire this afternoon, a threatening blaze burning a hole through the roof. Besides the house damage, White will suffer other loss, for some of his furniture was damaged. The fire was discovered about 2 o'clock and an alarm was sent in from Box 57, corner of Smith and Walbach streets. Chief Thomas Shipman and four pieces of apparatus arrived at the burning house to find a lively blaze on the roof. This was attacked with chemicals, finally being extinguished, but not until the roof had been damaged and furniture was deluged by chemicals leaking to the living apartments. The fire originated from a defective chimney and had gained considerable headway when discovered.

Harold Main, 49 Pearl street, Mystic; Mrs. Clarence Eccleston and infant son, 952 Bank street; Albert Marshman, Auburn, Me.; Samuel Muscarella, 35 Moore avenue; Fred Webb, S. S. Trader and Henry Sett, yacht Kalinga, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Petition in Bankruptcy

Harold Swanson, special agent in the employ of the New Haven railroad, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States district court at New Haven. He gives his liabilities as follows: Taxes, $88; secured claims, $1,705; unsecured claims, $871.85; notes and bills, $447.95, and accommodation paper, $275; total, $6,387.80. His assets are: Real estate, $1,000, and insurance policies, $1,750.

W. J. Hewitt has leased the store at 351 Broad street to the National Economy Stores, Inc., for a term of one year, dating from Nov. 1, 1929, at a rental of $480.

Lawrence Conti has sold a house and lot on Bank street to Rocco Lanzolotta. Lanzolotta has since quit-claimed an undivided one-half interest in the property to his wife, Domenica.

The Tile Roofing Co., Inc., through its district manager, George N. Geer, has filed a trade name certificate for record at the office of the city clerk.

JAIL FOR H. H. WHITE— JOHN QUINN IS FINED $10

Harry H. White, 73 Belden street, was in the police court today, charged with assault in beating and bruising John Quinn, a cripple residing at 11 Truman street, who is reputed to be the proprietor of a drinking resort. White was sentenced to 10 days in jail. Quinn, who was also arrested on a charge of intoxication, was fined $10 and costs. White went to the Quinn house yesterday afternoon and is said to have been drinking. While there, White and Quinn engaged in a controversy which ultimately developed into a free-for-all fistic combat. During the fight, Quinn was struck numerous blows upon the face and head and when he was observed leaving the house by a nearby merchant, the latter notified the police of the fight. Patrolmen Frank Linehan and Carlos Stone went to Quinn's house, but when the officers arrived there, Quinn and White were nowhere to be found. Patrolman Louis Wheeler arrested White on Bank street a short time after the fistic engagement and Officers Linehan and Stone arrested Quinn when he was found a short distance from his home.

Anthony Mugovero, 23 Belden street, was charged with violation of a city ordinance in parking his automobile overtime. As he failed to appear, his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

PATROLMAN WATTERSON SUSPENDED TWO MONTHS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 6—The hearing of the case of Patrolman Harry Watterson, member of New London police department, charged with conduct unbecoming an officer, was held this morning before City Manager William A. Holt, that official deciding late yesterday to conduct the hearing at 10 o'clock today. In attendance were Captain Charles A. Pinney Detective Sergeant Nelson S. Smith and Desk Sergeant William T. Babcock. Watterson admitted the charge, which specifically was for being found intoxicated in an automobile on Thames street, Norwich on the morning of Oct. 31, resulting in his arrest by Officers Murphy and Lamphere. The following day Watterson was fined $5 in the Norwich city court, but execution of the sentence was suspended. As a result of today's hearing, City Manager Holt ordered Watterson suspended for two months, the date of the suspension to start from Nov. 1.

Watterson went off duty at midnight October 30 and drove to Bridgeport. He admitted having drinks in New Haven and Bridgeport and upon his return to New London partook of additional drinks. He said that he had not been feeling well and that fact, together with being tired, caused him to fall asleep in the automobile.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The life-long feud between that famous detective Sherlock Holmes and that arch-criminal, Dr. Moriarty, is most satisfactorily settled in the all-talking Paramount masterpiece "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," which opened at the Broadway theatre yesterday, with Clive Brook in the title role. Lured from his retirement by the cold-blooded killing of his best friend, Holmes fares forth on the trail of the fiendish doctor and his gang, and is unwittingly drawn into a radio-tapping plot of international scope, which threatens the financial stability of the entire world. Harry T. Morey is the vindictive Moriarty, with Betty Lawford, Donald Crisp and Philip Holmes heading an exceptionally strong cast. Included on the all-talking program is the latest Fox movietone news, Laurel and Hardy in "Men of War," El Brendel and Flo Bert in "Beau Night," and Douglas Stanbury and a "Buddies" chorus of 50, in "Marching Home," an Armistice day incident "over there," which no veteran or veteran's family should miss. Speeding from Hollywood across the continent in a fast plane is the Broadway's print of "Welcome Danger," Harold Lloyd's first talking picture, which has been stampeding theatres wherever shown, and which opens at the Broadway Saturday afternoon for a week's engagement.

Don't Get Up Nights
Rev. D. Leet, Portsmouth, N. H., says, "Come or write to 141 Crescent Way and I will tell you how in a short time the bladder irritation was relieved by Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). My kidneys was of long standing and painful. Was bothered 4 to 5 times each night." It acts on bladder as epsom salts do on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and eases excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 2c each at all drug stores, Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Lee and Osgood Co.

More Mothers each year—treat COLDS EXTERNALLY
When Vicks VapoRub was introduced, mothers especially were quick to appreciate it, because it is just rubbed on and cannot upset children's delicate stomachs, as "dosing" is so apt to do. Of course it is equally good for adults.
Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing," and the demand for Vicks has grown until it is necessary to again raise the figures in the famous slogan. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

GREENEVILLE

GREENEVILLE CLUB HOLDS WEEKLY MEETING

The Greeneville H club held the weekly meeting Monday evening in their clubrooms on Fourth street, with a large attendance. Regular business was transacted and President Wallace Atterbury presided. Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed.

William Higgins, a student at Yale university, was a week end visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Higgins of Fourteenth street.

At St. Mary's Memorial church Sunday at the 10:30 mass, Peter Cooper, a celebrated violinist, played at the offertory, "Agnus Dei" by Henry Tolhurst.

The executive committee of St. Andrew's Men's club met in the Guild room Tuesday evening. An elaborate program has been prepared for Monday, Nov. 18, with a special speaker.

On Monday evening the St. Mary's Girls' club held their weekly meeting at St. Mary's Memorial hall. The Glee club held its first rehearsal after the meeting, under the direction of Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, church organist.

When St. Andrew's Episcopal church choir held their rehearsal and meeting in the Guild room of the church a social hour followed. Many games were played and enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Requiem Masses Celebrated

An anniversary mass of requiem (the first) for the soul of John M. Lee was offered at St. Mary's Memorial church on Monday morning at 8 o'clock. On Tuesday morning, at 7:30, there was a month's mind mass for Mrs. Rose Cook. Both masses were offered by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe, with relatives and family friends present. Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, organist, had charge of the musical program of the masses.

The Greeneville T. D. Sewing circle met at the home of Miss Alice Donald on Daniel street with a large class attending. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles after which a social hour was enjoyed. Piano and vocal solos were rendered by several of the members. Refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cakes, cookies, fruit, candies, hot chocolate were served by the hostess. The dining room was prettily decorated in the club colors of pink and white.

Mrs. Frank Lathrop was in charge of the music and directed the production of the play, "Aunt Salley's Farmyard," given Monday in the Guild room of St. Andrew's Episcopal church.

Addressed Primary Council

The Primary council met at Broadway school Wednesday afternoon at 1:30, the president, Miss Marion Beebe, presiding. About 40 teachers were present. Mrs. Ozias Dodge, the speaker of the meeting, gave a very interesting talk on material she had in Slater Memorial hall that is to be used by the public school teachers in their school work.

TWO FINED FOR LAUREL THEFT AT MANWARING FARM IN EAST LYME

Peter Basius of New London and his employe, Peter Patterson, were found guilty in the common pleas court here Wednesday afternoon of taking mountain laurel from the property of Josiah O. Manwaring at East Lyme for commercial purposes without having filed a permit with the town clerk and were each fined $50 without costs.

The men were on trial before Judge C. B. Waller who found them guilty, but listened to the plea of their attorney, Clayton B. Smith, for leniency and accordingly imposed the fines without costs. Prosecuting Attorney C. B. Whittlesey offered no objection to this disposition of the case.

The charge made against the two men was that on Sept. 11 they took about 300 pounds of laurel from the Manwaring place on the Indian woods road without having a permit to do so. It was brought out in the evidence that Patterson was the one who did the actual picking of the laurel, while Basius sat in an automobile expecting to meet Melvin L. Mason, who owned the adjoining lot and who had given him verbal permission to pick laurel there.

Theodore Trakas, who had a permit to pick the laurel on the Manwaring place, was the complaining witness. It was on his complaint that the men were arrested by State Policeman Frederick O. Johnson. These two testified as did Mr. Manwaring, the owner of the land, and his son-in-law, George W. Whittlesey.

After the state had rested, Attorney Smith argued for a dismissal of the case on the ground that no proof of intent of sale had been shown, and that this was more a case of trespass than anything else because of the parties not knowing where the line between the two properties was.

Prosecutor Whittlesey then recalled the state policeman to the stand, who testified that Basius told him he picked the laurel and sold it in the New York market and that Patterson worked for him.

Judge Waller then denied the motion to dismiss without prejudice and after brief testimony from Basius and Melvin L. Mason the testimony was closed.

Judge Waller then found both guilty and pronounced sentence.

The criminal court adjourned to next Tuesday.

SUPREME COURT APPEAL PERFECTED BY GILMANS

The Gilman's appeal to the supreme court in the so-called fairgrounds case has been perfected by Attorney George H. Gilman and his brother, Francis Gilman, filing with Clerk John H. Walker the necessary bond and other papers.

The appeal is from the judgment rendered by Judge Earnest C. Simpson against the Gilmans in favor of Gilbert S. Raymond, as receiver of the New London County Agricultural society. The receiver was given judgment to collect $14,025 and costs from the Gilmans, this sum representing a balance and with interest remaining due after the Gilmans bought the fairgrounds property at auction for $15,750, paying $2,000 down at the time of the auction.

The purchasers of the property at auction declined to pay the balance on the ground that the title which the seller would give them was not a marketable title, and there were other claims of law and fact also.

GIVEN $25 FINE IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Sustaining a similar fine meted out in justice court in Colchester, Judge C. B. Waller fined Paul Kunkel, a druggist of Waterbury, $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving, after he was found guilty on the charge at the end of trial, which lasted here all morning Wednesday in the criminal court of common pleas. Following an accident in Colchester last July Kunkel was arrested and presented in justice court there, receiving a fine of $25 and costs, which he appealed.

It was brought out in testimony in court that Kunkel was traveling along the Hartford-New London turnpike on the way to his home in Waterbury from New London last July and in the town of Colchester he tried to avoid a collision by pulling his car over to the left hand side of the highway, in doing so he struck Abraham Lasniak, 67, proprietor of a department store, who was walking along the untraveled portion of the road.

WILL PLAY SECOND IN WHIST TOURNEY SERIES

The Arcanum club of this city entertains the Square and Compass club of Westerly at its clubhouse on Webster Heights this (Thursday) evening in the second game of the series to be played between these two clubs. The Westerly club went down to defeat in the first contest at Westerly last week, losing by a margin of 2433 points. After play light refreshments will be served and entertainment provided. Julian L. Williams is in charge of the entertainment and Albert Brend in charge of cards.

The Norwich teams are Alexander Jordan and A. J. Bailey, Percy Harwood and Frederick K. Noyes, Julian L. Williams and Allan Latham, Elmer Pierson and Halsey Gallup, George Rathbun and Edward Cudworth.

STATE OFFICERS PLAN A. O. H. MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

A joint meeting of the state officers and all county officers of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Connecticut, and also the ladies' auxiliary, was held in New Haven on Sunday, with a fine dinner served about 1 o'clock at the Garde hotel. John J. McNamara, state president, called on William T. May, of New London, to say grace. After dinner the joint session was held, at which State President John J. McNamara made all new officers acquainted. James Moran, of Meriden, was the speaker of the day. John Donnelly, of Bristol, was made state organizer for a big membership drive, which is planned for the coming two years.

FOR U. S. DISTRICT COURT ON LIQUOR VIOLATION CHARGE

United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson found probable cause and bound John Kolwas of 483 North Main street over to the U. S. district court when the man was presented before him Wednesday morning on the charge of violation of the Jones liquor law. Kolwas waived examination. He was arrested last Friday by federal officers who found at his place 21 cases of alleged beer, and two quarts of colored spirits. Kolwas will appear before the U. S. district court in Hartford on Dec. 3.

SAYS STONINGTON MAN THREATENED HER WITH KNIFE

William Brown, 33, of Stonington, was arrested late Wednesday evening by Sergeant Matthew Delaney and Officer Michael Pounch on the West Side and placed on a charge of breach of the peace. He was taken in on complaint of Catherine Harris of No. 23 High street, who made the allegation that Brown threatened her with a jackknife. The alleged offense is understood to have taken place at the tenement occupied by Mrs. Harris at No. 28 High street.

CANTERBURY FARMER DIES WITH HEART ATTACK

Edwin J. Wiggins, 76, died suddenly Wednesday morning at his home in Canterbury, his death being caused from heart trouble. He was seized with an attack while in a field near his home, where he was found by his wife, after she became alarmed over his failure to return. She with the help of neighbors picked up Mr. Wiggins and brought him into the house, where he expired shortly afterwards. He is survived by his wife and other relatives.

SPRAGUE WOMEN VOTERS NAME THEIR DELEGATES

A paper on the subject, "The Value of the League to the Women of the Community," was given by Mrs. Ella S. Bennett at the October meeting of the Sprague League of Women Voters. Training in citizenship and participation in the duties and privileges of citizens should call forth the loyalty of every woman and in this the league program may play a large part, she said.

There was a good attendance at this meeting, which was held in Baltic, and the new president, Mrs. Willard Turner, presided. At the business session, delegates and alternates were appointed for the state convention in Hartford, Nov. 13 and 14. The chairman for various standing committees was also appointed at this time.

It is a matter of considerable satisfaction to all members to learn that the playground equipment recently installed at each of the three schools of the town is giving much enjoyment to the children, in the use of this equipment there is an excellent opportunity for citizenship training among the boys and girls of Sprague.

SEVEN ARE SUMMONED FOR AUTOMOBILE HEARINGS

Hearings in seven cases are to be given here next Tuesday morning at 10:45 in the common pleas courtroom by an official of the state motor vehicle department. Those summoned and the charges made against them are the following:

Alfred Deslandes, P. O. Box 344, Baltic, reckless driving; Francis W. Higgins, R. F. D. 8, Norwich Town, reckless driving; John Snukowski, 19 Prospect park, Norwich, operating under influence; John G. Lukaszewicz, 3 Shipping street, Norwich, reckless driving; Charles Podziewski, 114 High street, Norwich, reckless driving; Charles Tatro, Versailles paper mill, Versailles, reckless driving; Frank B. Green, Plainfield, conference.

MADE FLIGHT HERE FROM FALL RIVER

The airplane of the Mil-Tex Transit Co. landed at Beebe's field on Gallows hill road shortly after noon Wednesday. Mrs. Edward F. Hearth of this city flew from Fall River, Mass., with Pilot Ray Maynard. Miss Beatrice Rou, the only woman member of the Norwich Aero club, and Secretary Seidel, took off in the plane for a short ride over the city, as did Hugh Finlayson and Mr. Hiscox of the United States Finishing Co., and Mr. Ferguson of the Uncas Finishing Co. The plane is owned by Albert G. Winward, who is owner of the Mil-Tex Transit Co.

ON ADVISORY COMMITTEE OF INDIAN MUSEUM

Arthur L. Peale, whose studies have made him an authority on Indian lore in this part of the state, has been honored by being invited by the Museum of the American Indian to take a place on its advisory committee, which is called "Friends of the Library." Mr. Peale has accepted membership on the committee, which includes such well-known names as Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, Gen. Hugh Lenox Scott, Mrs. Flora Warren Seymour, Mrs. Joseph Lindon Smith, Dr. George Bird Grinnell, Hon. John Spargo and Albert C. Bates.

LANDSCAPE GARDENING AT E. C. POWER BUILDING

In continuation of the improvements that have been made at the Eastern Connecticut Power company office building on Main street at Burnham square, a nice bit of landscape gardening has been carried out on the grounds around the building. Evergreens of several different varieties have been planted on the terrace close up to the building and several maiden hair trees and European lindens have been set at other points in the grounds. Two broad lawns have been laid out on either side of the walk to the front door, with little corner pieces of evergreens, and a Japanese barberry hedge has been set along the entire length of the wall that encloses the lot. The graceful arrangement has been carried out under the direction of Otto F. Ernst of the Geduldig greenhouses.

JOSEPH HENRY SELDEN, 2ND RECOVERS AFTER OPERATION

Joseph Henry Selden, 2nd, the 11-year-old son of Professor Henry Bill Selden and Mrs. Selden of New London, after two weeks in Lawrence Memorial hospital following an operation for appendicitis is doing well. The young patient will probably be able to return home within another week. He is grandson of Mrs. Selden and the late Rev. Joseph Henry Selden, of Broadway, this city.

TAFTVILLE

The class in home nursing and hygiene which was recently organized in the village, for young ladies, held a meeting Tuesday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building. Miss Louise Sigrist, R. N., instructed the members of the class.

On Wednesday evening the members of St. Veronica's society held a meeting at their rooms on Providence street.

Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears of North Fifth avenue has been a recent visitor in Meriden.

The Independent Order of Foresters met Wednesday evening for its monthly business session.

The local committee which is in charge of the next meeting of the Connecticut Mills association, to be held in Taftville, have been busy on plans to entertain the large number of textile men who will be here at that time. The committee is to hold another meeting this week.

With a large number attending, the members of Branch 98, Polish Workers Sick Mutual Aid society held a meeting Sunday afternoon at their rooms on lower Norwich avenue. President George Serus was in the chair.

The members of the Ladies' Rifle team of the German Shooting club of Lisbon were entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. George J. Meyer at her home in Blissville. At the business session, the president, Mrs. Richard Spielvogel, presided, following which Mrs. Meyer served delicious refreshments.

At Ponemah hall Wednesday evening there was a business meeting of the members of the Dramatic club, following which there was a rehearsal of the play which the club has selected to produce this year. The members who are to take part are Miss Helen Thoma, Miss Gladys Thoma, Miss Mildred Troeger, Ronald Smith, Reginald Monty, Richard Oat, Miss Mary Martin, Charles Heinbold, and Miss Jean Copeland. "Salt Water Taffy" is the play decided upon.

Several small chestnut trees have been noted in the surrounding woods, bearing burrs. Last year was the first time in several years that a burr was discovered and at that time was treated as a curiosity by being exhibited in the window of a local store. The chestnut blight is still present, and trees which grow up from old roots generally die before they become old enough to bear nuts. However, it is hoped that the tree may be made blight-resisting, and suggestions are made by authorities that the nuts not be picked this year but allowed to sow themselves, in the hope that a new crop of trees will result.

YALE MAN SPOKE TO MENTAL HYGIENE SOCIETY

The Norwich Mental Hygiene society had for its speaker at its opening meeting Wednesday evening in Slater hall annex Donald Slessinger of New Haven, executive secretary of the Institute of Human Relations of Yale university. He spoke upon the history of the organization and its establishment, weaving into his address interesting sidelights that had to do with its various phases of work.

Mr. Slessinger said that the organization was especially formed to work with the Yale students and thus far several branches or service stations have been established throughout Connecticut. The real aim of the institute, he said was to build up a large staff from the students at Yale college, as there is a dearth of well trained psychiatrists and few are willing to engage in the research programme.

The speaker gave the gathering an idea of the work that is being done by the institute among delinquent families, among the children under five years of age and among families whose heads have become bankrupt. The various phases of work carried on by certain professors was also shown, his remarks upon the study of the children in the nursery being most interesting. In summing up the progress made by the institute Mr. Slessinger said that "all we know is that some people are delinquent and some are not."

The speaker was given a rising vote of thanks for his address.

Check For Firemen's Fund

A check for $25 has been received by Chief Henry R. Taft of the local fire department from the Norwich Paper Box company, E. Larue Bliven, treasurer. It was accompanied by a letter expressing appreciation of the services rendered by the department in putting out the fire at the box xshop on Oct. 12. Chief Taft has handed the check to City Treasurer Charles Colt. It will be added to the firemen's pension fund.

FURTHER CONTINUANCE IN HIGH ST. STABBING CASE

A continuance to Nov. 13 was made in the case of James Lee, of this city, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, when he was arraigned in the city court Wednesday morning. This action was taken in view of the fact that Walter H. Savard, 20, of Providence, whom he is alleged to have assaulted, is still a patient at the Backus hospital. Savard is suffering from knife wounds received on Oct. 18 as the result of a squabble in a crap game in a house on High street. Savard is now showing rapid improvement following a relapse suffered a week ago. Pending trial Lee is at liberty under bonds of $2,000.

FIRE IN STOREHOUSE WAS EXTINGUISHED BY SPRINKLERS

Three pieces of apparatus with Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan were called out by a bell alarm from Box 115, corner of West Main and Forest streets, at 1:16 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for a blaze in the storehouse of the American Waste and Metal company, West Main street. The blaze, which originated in a pile of paper, was put out by the sprinkler system in the building before the firemen arrived.

Some difficulty was had by the firemen in gaining entrance to the building, as it was locked up and as a result several inches of water collected on the floor before the sprinkler system was shut off. Considerable damage was done because of the large amount of water that was emitted by the sprinkler. In some places in the building there was as much as four inches of water in depth. The recall was sounded at 1:22 o'clock.

TILSON SAYS HOUSE WILL REJECT DEBENTURE PLAN

Republican House Leader Asserts Senate Has Greatly Harmed the Tariff Bill—Does Not Believe House Will Agree to Elimination of the Flexible Tariff Provision—Will Confer Today With Senate Leaders—Characterizes Bingham-Eyanson Incident as "Unfortunate Affair."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—Asserting that the senate had "done a great deal of harm to the tariff bill," Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, the house republican leader, tonight predicted that the house would not accept the debenture plan as incorporated in the bill by the senate.

"Neither do I believe," he said, "the house will agree to the elimination of the flexible tariff provisioon."

He added, when questioned with regard to the slashings by the senate of the rates on industrial products, that "the house will have a pretty good guess on them also."

The republican leader arrived in Washington tonight. He said he came here specifically to learn "what the senate is going to do with the tariff bill" He plans to confer early tomorrow with the senate leaders on what disposition they expect to make with the bill.

Tilson said that "it would not be fair for the senate to compel the house to remain in session until the regular session unless they expect to pass the bill within the next few days." The agreement under which the house is meeting semi-weekly will expire Monday.

Tilson said that the house would take up no business except the tariff bill during the remainder of the special session.

Tilson said the controversy over the employment of a tariff expert of the Connecticut Manufacturers association by Senator Bingham of Connecticut, a republican member of the senate finance committee, was an "unfortunate affair."

He added that "the people of Connecticut regretted it very much."

A resolution censuring Bingham for the action was adopted by the senate.

SENATE VOTES TO INCREASE DUTY ON MANGANESE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—Settling one of the bitterest disputes since it began readjusting the nation's tariff structure, the senate today voted 60 to 13 to increase the duty on manganese, a mineral used in the manufacture of steel which the pending bill as reported by the finance committee placed on the free list.

The vote came on an amendment by Senator Oddie, republican, Nevada, providing a duty of one cent a pound on ore containing ten per cent and over of metallic manganese, which would protect both low and high grade manganese producers in the west and south.

The present rate, one cent a pound on ore of thirty per cent and over of metallic content, was retained in the house bill. It was first increased by a vote of seven to four by the senate finance committee republicans, through a lowering of the dutiable content, but by a later vote of six to five they wiped out the tariff altogether.

Approval of the higher protection was given after five and a half hours of heated debate in which the first figures obtained from the tax returns for use in consideration of the pending bill were divulged, showing eight of the nation's leading steel companies to have made net profits of $980,131,059 since 1922 when the present tariff law was enacted.

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, who engaged in a bitter clash over an alleged "manganese" dinner in Washington, with Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, an opponent of the duty, immediately preceding the roll call, read the tax statistics to the senate after he had been told by some of his colleagues that it would not be improper.

Twenty-nine republicans including Chairman Smoot and Senators Couzens, Keyes and Shortridge of the finance committee joined 31 democrats for the Oddie proposal. Two democrats and 16 republicans were all the opponents could muster.

Those voting against the duty were Barkley, Kentucky, and Walsh, Massachusetts, democrats and Bingham, Dale, Deneen, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Goldsborough, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Hebert, Kean, Moses, Reed, Sackett, and Townsend, republicans.

After the manganese vote the senate rejected, 51 to 19, a committee amendment to increase the tariff on structural steel from one-fifth to three-tenths of one cent a pound.

Ashurst read the tax figures to show that the steel companies could well afford to pay the manganese duty, despite the domestic production being small compared with the needs of the steel makers.

The "manganese dinner" incident entered the discussion when Senator Barkley inquired as to the truth of a newspaper article to the effect that the Araconda Copper Co. of Montana, and the New Jersey Zinc company, had given the banquet to a gathering of senators in Washington.

After Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, had described this as an "unfair insinuation," Senator Ashurst jumped to his feet and said he had attended the dinner and "resented" the imulication that the two companies were involved.

Barkley said he had not made the charge, but had merely inquired if the report was correct.

Barkley called attention that he had led the successful drive to reduce the pig iron duty and therefore could not be charged with running to the defense of the steel interests. He opposed the manganese duty, he said, because all the evidence had shown in his opinion that domestic producers could not mine sufficient ore for the steel makers' needs.

RAIL WORKERS TO VOTE ON "ELASTIC DAY" PLAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—(AP) — Railroad workers of the country are being asked to vote on the "elastic day" plan for solution of the unemployment problem, the Northwestern Pacific railway announced today.

Ballots on the plan already have been given Northwestern Pacific employers it was said similar action would be taken by every railroad in the country.

Labor leaders here expressed objection to the move as an attempt of the railroads to return to the ten-hour day, and announced they would make formal protest later.

The railroad announcement said the plan was intended to combat unemployment. In the summer, it was explained, the rush of work necessitates employment of extra men who are laid off in the winter. Under the elastic day plan, no more men would be employed during the rush season, but the force would work longer hours. In the winter the hours would be shortened.

FORMER POLICE OFFICERS GIVEN PRISON SENTENCES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 7—(AP)—Miles D. Ledbetter and W. E. Evans, former policemen, today received penitentiary sentences of one to fourteen years each for bribery. They still face perjury charges resulting from their bribery trial.

Four other policemen also appeared in superior court today. Oscar L. Peterson, Harry M. Hill, and Leonard Sale were on trial for bribery. The charges against them, like those upon which Ledbetter and Evans were convicted, resulted from the statement of J. B. Westman, confessed bootlegger, that he paid them "protection money." Fred Fahrman pleaded not guilty to a perjury charge brought after he testified at the trial of a brother officer, William J. Bost, convicted of manslaughter for shooting Christopher Sierra, 17.

NEW YORK TO ATLANTA, GEORGIA, IN 5 HOURS

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 7.—(AP)—His face raw from bitter cold and wind, Douglas Davis, Atlanta aviator, stepped out of the cockpit of his plane here today after a flight from New York in only five hours.

Piloting the "Mystery Ship," in which he won the free-for-all race at the Cleveland Air derby, Davis left Hadley field, N. J., at 8:45 a. m., central time, and reached Atlanta in time for lunch. His average time was more than 175 miles per hour for the 785 air miles between Hadley field and Atlanta.

KING GEORGE ATTENDS AMERICAN MUSICAL PLAY

LONDON, Nov. 7—(AP)—King George got back into the full stride of London social life today for the first time since he was stricken ill nearly a year ago. He had engagements for the afternoon and for dinner and then attended a performance of the American musical play "Rose Marie" at Drury Lane theatre.

ARNOLD SENT TARIFF INFORMATION TO SENATORS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)— Letters were produced today by the senate lobby committee to show that J. A. Arnold, of the Southern Tariff association, transmitted information of the senate tariff situation obtained from representatives of farm organizations to Senator Watson, of Indiana, republican leader, and Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, of the finance committee.

As vice president and general manager of the association, Arnold was on the stand for his fifth day. He wrote Watson and Reed in regard to a purported agreement between democrats and independent republicans whereby he said the democrats had promised the "insurgents to vote for any agricultural rates they desired in return for the support the insurgents were giving the democrats on administrative features, particularly the flexible provisions.

NEW ENGLAND EXPORT CLUB MEMBERS AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — (AP) — Members of the New England Export club ended their first day's visit to the capital today with a clearer understanding of the workings of the department of commerce and with the pledge of officials of that department to cooperate in extending their trade.

During the day the 35 business men were received by President Hoover and Secretary Lamont, held round table discussions with commerce officials and ended the day with a dinner attended by members of congress.

Secretary Lamont invited the delegation to make full use of the department's services in the expansion of trade and predicted a continuation of "an encouraging growth" of foreign trade.

DENOUNCES CLASSING OF LIQUOR BUYERS AS CRIMINALS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The effort to brand liquor purchazers as criminals, was denounced to a national radio audience tonight by Senator Harry Hawes as "a frank confession that prohibition under the present law has measureably failed."

The Missouri democrat's vitriolic address was in answer to one in defense of the proposed amendment last week by Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas, its sponsor, who wrote the prohibition amendment. Both speeches were in the Evening Star radio forum over the Columbia system.

PLAYWRIGHT UNDER ARREST CHARGED WITH FRAUD

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Irving Kaye Davis, playwright, was arrested today charged with fraud, by two persons who lost money by backing his play, "Veils," which was a failure last season. He was released in $2,500 bail on the two charges.

George Stevenson, a customs house broker, said he lost $3,500 through stock he purchased in "Veils, Inc.," and Mrs. Lillian B. Mason, the other plaintiff, said she lost $8,200.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

DUBLIN, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The government was defeated in parliament tonight on a minor amendment to the national health insurance bill, but it was below its full voting strength and the cabinet remained unshaken.

CONSTANZA, Rumania, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The newspapers here today published rumors of a peasant revolt against the soviet government in southern Russia. Serious fighting between peasants and the red army was said to be in progress in Batum and Sevastopol.

LONDON, November 7. —(AP)—Herbert Samuel, chief organizer of the liberal party, suggested in parliament today that since Britain had signed the Paris peace pact the title of the war ministry should be changed to the "army" ministry.

Prime Minister MacDonald replied that "the suggestion would be borne in mind," but added that such a change would require complicated legislation.

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.— (AP) — Soviet Russia today began a series of elaborate celebrations to mark the twelfth anniversary of the October, 1917, revolution. This year's anniversary coincides with the end of the first year of the soviet government's famous "five-year industrialization plan," so that Russia's 147,000,000 people were appealed to by the government to center celebrations around the five-year-plan which has for its object "the mechanization and industrialization of the soviet union."

VENEZUELA WAS WARNED OF ATTEMPTED REVOLT

BERLIN, Nov. 7—(AP)—Government circles today admitted that Venezuela had been warned by Germany of the attempted coup d'etat last summer when the German steamship Falke tried to land filibusters and munitions on the Venezuelan coast. The "tip" reached the government shortly after the steamer had sailed from the Polish port of Gdingen and was transmitted to Venezuela through Eduardo Penny, Venezuelan minister.

The government spokesman said that regrets had been expressed to Venezuela that German private citizens should have been implicated in a revolutionary movement against that republic. He expained that the only culpable parties, however, were the captain and the owner of the steamer and that proceedings against them on charges of high treason could be started only on demand of Venezuela, a demand which had not been forthcoming.

Captain Ernest Ziplitt, whom members of his crew accused of swearing allegiance to the revolutionists cause and of receiving a commission as admiral in the embryonic revolutionary government, is being held in jail at Hamburg pending the outcome of the government deliberations on his case.

In expressing its regret to Venezuela the foreign office said the incident was the more deplorable because "Venezuela during the war was the most friendly of all nations toward Germany, President Gomez firmly refusing to yield to United States pressure that he should become anti-German."

YALE SCHOLARSHIPS FOR 20 CONNECTICUT MEN

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7—(AP)—The award of 110 scholarships, 20 to Connecticut men, was announced today by Yale university. The recipients come from 23 states, the District of Columbia, England and China.

Knopf, New Haven; Robert L. Wickes, New Haven; William F. McKenna, Meriden; Oscar E. Maurer, New Haven and Hans A. Glassbrunn, New Haven.

BUCKLEY STARTS PRISON SENTENCE AT ATLANA

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 7—(AP)—Bert B. Buckley, former Ohio state treasurer, today observed the first anniversary of his re-election by entering the federal penitentiary here to serve a two and one half year sentence on conviction of conspiracy to bribe a federal prohibition agent.

He surrendered in Cincinnati last night after losing an appeal to the circuit court. He said he lacked funds to carry his appeal higher.

Before the prison gates closed on him, Buckley issued a statement charging that he had been "framed" to be "put away."

SUPREME COURT OPINIONS IN HARTFORD COUNTY CASE

BRIDGEPORT, Nov. 7—(AP)—The following opinions were handed down by the supreme court of errors here tonight:

Hartford county:

Brown vs. Goodwin, administrator, no error; Johnson vs. Martinson, reservation. Justice George E. Hinman. Eukers vs. Lummes, no error; Raff company vs. Murphy, no error; Meyer vs. Hart, no error; Santoni vs. Levin, no error; Mahoney vs. Beatman, error.

SIX FIREMEN WERE OVERCOME BY SMOKE

ROCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 7—(AP)—Six firemen were overcome by smoke when 4,000 cubic feet of shavings caught fire from spontaneous combustion and forced the W. H. Chaplin Box company to cease operations here today.

The blaze lasting eight hours did little monetary damage.

UNIDENTIFIED SHIP AFIRE OFF CALIFORNIA COAST

SAN PEDRO, Cal., Nov. 7—(AP)—A radio report received by marine sources here tonight said the mine sweeper Oriola had radioed the naval base at San Diego that it was going to the rescue of an unidentified ship afire off the coast near Encinitas.

THOMPSON MURDER JURY LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

EASTLAND, Tex., Nov. 7—(AP)—Unable to reach a verdict after six hours deliberation, the jury hearing the case of Clyde Thompson, charged with murdering Leon and Lucian Shook, was locked up for the night at 10 p. m.

$46,000 Verdict For Yale Medical Student

Awarded Heavy Damages For Malicious Arrest and Alienation of His Wife's Affections.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7—(AP)—A jury this afternoon [illegible] suits of Vincent A. Doroszka [illegible] Medical school student, against Harry Lavine, real estate broker, [illegible] $100,000 alleged damages, brought in a verdict of $25,025 for malicious arrest and $20,000 for alienation of Mrs. Doroszka's affections.

The civil action was based on a criminal court case in which Lavine having caused arrest had alleged the student tried to blackmail him, and had planned to entrap him with Mrs. Doroszka. There had been a raid led by the student who had found Lavine and Mrs. Doroszka together. In city court however, the evidence was such that Lavine was arrested for perjury and Mrs. Doroszka for offenses against the moral code, and further evidence involved Lavine in the latter charges. Dorosgko was ordered discharged. The woman went to jail and later Lavine, after trial in the superior court, was sentenced on one charge but was released from jail after a time owing to ill health.

Lavine was the owner of much real estate, the value of which prior to his arrest was placed at several hundred thousands of dollars. Foreclosures of mortgages while he was in jail decreased his holdings and the equities he had in property.

TARDIEU WILL ASK FOR CONFIDENCE VOTE

PARIS, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The new Tardieu government, headed by one of the youngest premiers France has ever had, vigorously launched the declaration of its policy in the chamber of deputies today and prepared to withstand the counter-attack that is expected from the opposition tomorrow.

Parliament was adjourned late in the evening without voting on the ministerial declaration, which M. Tardieu himself read. The deputies will meet tomorrow and then the government will ask for a vote of confidence. On the result of this the life of the government depends.

Its chances of success seemed brighter tonight; if the deputies vote as they applauded, Premier Tardieu can count on a majority of from 50 to 100 votes.

M. Tardieu departed from the precedent of a score of years by introducing an imposing list of specific reforms the government intended to carry out behind the ministerial declaration, instead of general promises. He even told what the reform would cost.

The opposition sat silent while he read his list to the applause of the right and center.

When he had finished reading, the discussion of the interpellations addressed by individual deputies to the government began. Only five speakers out of a score scheduled had a chance to attack the ministry, and only one of these seemed dangerous. He was M. Franklin-Bouillon, who directed his offensive at M. Briand, minister of foreign affairs, for what he called "a too liberal policy, always giving and never getting."

NEW YORK POLICE HALT BEAL DEMONSTRATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Police tonight frustrated plans of 1,000 workers for a reception in Pennsylvania station to Fred Beal, one of the men convicted recently of the slaying of Police Chief Aderholt of Gastonia, N. C., during a police raid on a tent colony of strikers.

The crowd had planned to carry Beal through the station on his arrival here to assist in raising funds for the aid of his co-defendants. When he arrived, however, police held the crowd in check, and ushered Beal quickly from his train to a taxicab, which whisked him away.

Members of the reception committee attempted unsuccessfully to break through the police lines and policemen snatched several banners bearing communist exhortations. Finally the workers marched to the street singing "Solidarity Forever."

HEAVY PRISON SENTENCE FOR KILLING FATHER

TALOGA, Okla., Nov. 7—(AP)—Lloyd Hollingsworth was convicted here late today of manslaughter for shooting his father, William Hollingsworth, and was sentenced to 18 years imprisonment. He was tried on a murder charge.

Hollingsworth previously had been acquitted of a like charge preferred against him in connection with the shooting of his brother, William Hollingsworth, Jr. He shot and killed both men during a family quarrel at the elder Hollingsworths home last February.

The defendant alleged that he shot after he had been backed into a corner by his father and brother, who, he said, were armed and threatening to kill him. His mother corroborated his testimony.

FLAMES CAUSED $15,000 LOSS AT FORESTVILLE

BRISTOL, Nov. 7—(AP)—Fire caused $15,000 damage at the home of Oscar Anderson, superintendent of public works, at Forestville, today. The blaze was caused by a painter's torch which a painter was using in scraping off paint on the exterior of the house. It caught in the roof and attic and made considerable headway before Mrs. Anderson, alone in the house, discovered it. The fire was confined to the second and third floors.

LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS SHOW DECREASE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve member banks for the week ending Nov. 6 were announced by the federal reserve board today as $4,882,000,000, representing a decrease of $656,00,000 as compared to the preceding week. The loans for the week ending Nov. 7, 1928 were $4,979,000,000.

SEN. NORRIS PAINFULLY INJURED BY AUTO

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska was struck by an automobile late today and painfully, though not seriously, injured.

Bandits Get $100,000 In Bank Robbery

Five Men Escape With Cash and Securities After Slugging Cashier—Loss Covered by Insurance.

JEFFERSON, Wis., Nov. 7.—(AP) — Five men held up the Farmers and Merchants bank of Jefferson today and escaped with approximately $105,000 in cash and securities. The loss was covered by insurance.

After slugging the cashier and firing two shots into the floor, the men sped east out of town. Sounding the burglar alarm failed to attract the attention of citizens. It had been ringing almost daily because of mechanical faults.

POLICE OFFICER AND FLEEING MAN KILLED

WINCHESTER, Ky., Nov. 7.—(AP)—P. L. Fauconer, Winchester policeman and Miek Wills, whom police said was a former convict, were fatally wounded in a gun battle on the main street here today.

Police said they had received complaints that Wills had struck a man over the head with the butt of a pistol and had started search for him. They saw him driving through Winchester, in an automobile, and Chief of Police Sid Bush, Patrolman Fauconer and Patrolman Mal Tarpy started in pursuit.

As the police car drew abreast of that driven by Wills, the man recognized them and sped away, they said. A few blocks away Wills jumped from his machine, cursed the officers and shouted: "You've chased me far enough."

With this, Wills drew a gun and opened fire, the chief said, wounding Fauconer, who was sitting in the rear seat of the police car. Both officers emptied their guns, nine bullets striking Wills.

The wounded men were taken to a Winchester hospital, where both died a few minutes later.

Wills was a well digger. Fauconer was a candidate for county judge in the August primary, but withdrew his name before the voting.

SUMMON GRAND JURY TO GASTONIA HEARING

GASTONIA, N. C., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Assertion by a witness in Judge Pender A. McElroy's inquiry into the death of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins that a member of the Gaston county grand jury "looked like" one of the men in the mob which on Sept. 14 chased a group of Bessemer City textile workers out of Gastonia, today caused the entire personnel of the grand jury to be summoned at the inquiry.

The statement came without warning during the morning session of the inquiry when Howard Shope, a distant cousin of the dead woman, was recalled to the stand and said he had told a deputy sheriff that a member of the grand jury looked like a member of the mob. Shope said he had told members of the grand jury that one of their number resembled a man in a car that pursued a truck in which the Bessemer City workers had started to South Gastonia to attend a communist meeting.

The statement created a sensation in the courtroom and caused Solicitor John G. Carpenter to halt proceedings while subpoenas were issued for the jurors. The grand jury investigated the slaying two weeks ago, but failed to return indictments against anyone.

LABOR CABINET DISCUSSES COAL MINE INDUSTRY

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The labor cabinet ministers met in Prime Minister MacDonald's room in the house of commons this evening to go over the situation of the coal mining industry, after the government's coal committee had conferred briefly with the miners' executive.

Further conferences have been adjourned until Nov. 20 in order to permit the government to present proposals to the various mining districts.

After the committee's meeting with the miners, A. J. Cook, widely-known general secretary of the Miners' federation, said "the cabinet has given assurances that the government intends to keep its pledge to repeal the eight-hour act and proposes introducing a bill during this session providing for the reorganization of the production and sale of coal of every colliery by January, 1930.

"It will reduce the hours of work from eight to seven and one-half on April 6. In the opinion of the government, this can be accomplished without any reduction in wages."

MANSFIELD ASKS RECOUNT OF BOSTON BALLOTS

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—(AP) —While a private detective and another paid guard each representing one of the erstwhile candidates, kept vigil over the vaults in which the recent election ballots are kept, Frederick W. Mansfield, unsuccessful candidate in Tuesday's mayoralty contest today made formal application for a recount.

Mansfield, who lost by a plurality of 19,517 votes to James M. Curley took out papers to obtain sufficient signatures for a recount of the total vote in each of the city's wards.

"Many reports have come to me from all sections of the city of errors and irregularities in counting, tabulating and totalling the votes," Mansfield said in a statement. "I do not know of a ward where the precinct returns as published in the newspapers total the amount given at the foot of the column. The exact total vote ought to be determined for the information and satisfaction of the voters."

CLASS 1 ROADS SHOW NET INCOME OF $960,000,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP) — A net railway operating income of $960,078,639 was shown by Class 1 railroads during the first nine months of this year under reports made public today by the bureau of railway economics.

This, the report said, gave them an annual rate of return of 5.29 per cent on their property investment, which includes the value of the road and equipment, including materials, supplies and cash. The net railway operating income, it added, was the amount left after paying operating expenses, taxes and equipment rentals, but before interest and other fixed charges are paid.

A total mileage of 241,545 is operated by Class 1 railroads.

SPECTACULAR RALLY IN THE STOCK MARKET

Early Declines of $5 to $15 a Share in Many Leading Issues Converted Into Gains Running as High as $18 a Share—Total Sales For Yesterday's Short Session Were Over Seven Million Shares—Floor Brokers Cheer as Prices Started Upward Trend Under Powerful Buying Support.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The stock market struck a new bottom today when a couple of million shares of distress stock was thrown overboard at the opening, and then staged one of the most spectacular rallies in recent market history.

Early declines of $5 to $15 a share in many of the leaders were wiped out, and converted into gains which ran from $1 to nearly $18 a share. Recoveries in the general list were not so pronounced as nearly 500 stocks, or about half of those traded in, closed with net declines, the large majority of which ranged from a few cents to $2 a share.

Blocks of 5,000 to 75,000 shares were dumped "at the market" as soon as the opening gong was sounded, with the result that nearly 2,500,000 shares changed hands in the first half hour. The ticker fell steadily behind, and was exactly two hours late in printing the final quotation.

Total sales for the abbreviated three-hour session on the New York stock exchange were 7,184,060 shares, or at the rate of nearly 12,000,000 shares for a full five-hour day, which compares with 5,914,760 shares in yesterday's short session.

Evidence of the tremendous liquidation of speculative holdings that has taken place in the past week was furnished, after the close of the market, in the weekly Federal Reserve report of brokers' loans, which showed a reduction of $656,000,000, following a decline of $1,096,000,000 the week before. This brings the total down to $4,882,000,000, the lowest since Oct. 24, 1928.

Wall street, which has been suffering from a bad case of nerves as a result of the violent declines that have taken place since Monday and forced many of the leaders to new low level's on the current reaction, if not for the year, was in a much more cheerful frame of mind when the market closed at 1 p. m. Many brokers interpreted the opening decline as the completion, at least temporarily, of the forced liquidation which had been overhanging the market.

The rally in prices, which started before the end of the first hour, was greeted with loud cheers by floor brokers who could be heard a block away from the exchange. U. S. Steel common, after selling down to $161.50, rallied to $177.50 and closed at $174.50 for a net gain of $5.50. General Electric rallied from $195.50 to $224 and eased to $220, up $14. Atchison rebounded from $210.15 to $235.25, up $17.25, and American Telephone from $205.50 to $216, up $11.

Powerful buying support made its appearance as soon as the necessitous liquidation had been completed, but whether this was supplied by the New York banking group, organized Oct. 24 to assure an orderly market, or by investment interests awaiting "bargain prices," or a combination of both, could not be determined.

No meetings of the New York banking group were held today, and no official statement was issued.

Abandonment, at least temporarily, of the proposed merger of the National City bank and the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company was one of the latest development of the recent crash in securities prices. Corn Exchange stockholders meeting today, approved the plan which gave them the option of receiving four shares of National City for five shares of Corn Exchange, or $360 in cash for their Corn Exchange stock, but the National City stockholders meeting was adjourned for lack of the necessary two-thirds majority.

Prices of leading New York Bank and Trust company stocks dropped $30 to $50 a share in the early trading "over the counter", but rallied sharply with listed securities in the later trading.

Stocks on the New York curb market rallied after declines of $2 to $15 had developed during the first hour. Closing prices, however, were irregular, although a few of the leaders were able to show net gains for the day. Electric Investors was a prominent feature, converting an $18 loss into a $12 gain. Electric Bond & Share, off several dollars at the opening, showed a net advance of $8.25. Cities Service, active trading in large volume, closed at $81, up $1.12, after selling down to $26.12.

ALLEGED BANDIT KILLED AFTER SLAYING OFFICER

SHAWNEE, Okla., Nov. 7—(AP)—Owen Edwards, alleged to have been a confederate of Fred Davis in the robbery of a bank at Craig, Okla., several months ago, and James A. Kiersey, 20, an operative of the state department of criminal investigation were shot to death in a gun battle two and one half miles north of Harjo, Okla., tonight.

Claude Tyler, an operative of the state bureau of criminal investigation and identification killed Edwards after Edwards had shot and killed Kiersey, who was stationed with Tyler at the back door of a house through which Edwards ran on learning that the house was surrounded by officers.

Jake Sims, chief of police of Seminole, and George Hall, under sheriff of Seminole county, were posted at the front door. The officers went to the house on learning that Edwards was in hiding there.

A man and woman rushed from the back door with Edwards and escaped in the confusion.

Davis hanged himself in his cell in a jail at Chandler last week after telling fellow prisoners that he feared he would be sentenced to death in the electric chair. He was charged with robbery with firearms in connection with the looting of the Craig bank.

SNOW STORM SWEEPING OVER ROCKY MOUNTAINS

DENVER, Nov. 7—(AP)—A snow storm of moderate intensity centered over the Rocky Mountain region today, extending from Montana down the eastern slope of the Rockies into New Mexico.

Automobile transportation was slowed up and airplane schedules interrupted but no serious results of the storm were apparent.

Throughout most of the region winter wheat growers were elated over the benefit the snow will bring their crops.

The storm further delayed the late harvest of the sugar beet crop, about one-third of which still is in the ground.

The snowstorm swept New Mexico today and tonight the northern half of the state was buried beneath from five to twelve inches of snow.

CHARGED WITH ROBBING STEAMBOAT CO. SAFE

EDGARTOWN, Mass., Nov. 7.—(AP)—True bills were returned at a special sitting of the grand jury here today against Edward Tracy, of Providence, R. I., and Joseph Fisher, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who were charged with robbing the safe of the New Bedford, Marthas Vineyard and Nantucket Steamboat company at Oak Bluffs, September 5. The safe was robbed of between $10,000 and $18,000.

Arthur Carpenter, of Wakefield, is at liberty under $2,000 bail as a material witness. Carpenter was taken into custody as he passed a marked bill which had been taken from the safe. He implicated the other men. Tracy is held in $25,000 and Fisher in $15,000 for the spring sitting of the superior court here.

PRES. HOOVER INVITED TO WESLEYAN CELEBRATION

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 7—(AP)—President Herbert Hoover has been invited to speak at Wesleyan university during its centennial celebration, in 1931.

President McConaughy, of the university said tonight that at the request of the trustees committee on the celebration, U. S. Senator Frederic C. Walcott, of Connecticut and U. S. Representative Frederick M. Davenport, of New York, extended the invitation to President Hoover.

If he accepts, President Hoover will address an outdoor gathering.

THREE ALLEGED BOOKMAKING CENTERS UNDER INVESTIGATION

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 7—(AP)—E. L. Forrest, an official of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company, was ordered this afternoon to prepare for the criminal court a list of all houses connected by telephone wire to the three places described to the court as the centers from which horse racing information was distributed.

The order was issued by Judge Eugene O'Dunne who this morning started an investigation into the series of information which a city detective told him made bookmaking possible. The detective named three men who he said supplied the information. The court ordered the trio summed to court.

In issuing the order the court said "we want a record of the telephones to which each of these center radiate."

When questioned by the court why action had not been taken against the three persons by the detective, Judge O'Dunne was informed the police had legal advice they could do no more with such sources of information than they could to newspapers that print racing returns and results.

MACHINE DRIVEN BY WOMAN KILLED MAN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 7—(AP)—Clarence R. Saunders, 40, of Cleveland, Ohio, was killed by an automobile here tonight. The car was driven by Mrs. Alice DeForest Sedgwick, 21, wife of Francis M. Sedgwick, a young Harvard graduate now studying at the Harvard School of Business Administration. Mrs. Sedgwick was arrested on a charge of manslaughter and released in $1,000 bail for appearance in district court tomorrow.

Born in 1878, Saunders was graduated from Harvard in 1901. He attended the Harvard Law school for two years and this fall had returned to the graduate school for further study. He was a member of the Union club of Cleveland and the Racquet and Tennis club of New York.

Mrs. Sedgwick is a daughter-in-law of Henry Dwight Sedgwick, well known essayist and biographer and brother of Ellery Sedgwick, editor of the Atlantic Monthly.

OUSTED HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL NOW MAYOR

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Ousted as principal of New Albany high school two years ago, after he had given 22 years of service, Charles B. McLinn, for 40 years an educator, today stood in a position where he can virtually reverse the tables on the school board that discharged him.

Although he made only one speech and virtually no campaign, the voters of New Albany elected Professor McLinn as mayor just two years after the school board had dismissed him because he "differed on educational policies." At the time, 700 students of the high school went on strike.

But they were persuaded to return to their work by the calm advice of McLinn himself, who thanked them for their loyalty but convinced them that a strike was useless.

RAINEY CAWTHON MARRIED SECRETLY LAST AUGUST

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Rainey Cawthon, captain of the University of Florida football team, tonight confirmed the statement of County Judge J. C. Sale of Bronson, that he and Miss Sarah Payne of Nashville, had been secretly married at Bronson, Aug. 15, only to go through a second ceremony at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York city last Sunday.

"We didn't intend to let that secret out," Cawthon said, "but now that Judge Sale told about it, why we might as well."

TO INVESTIGATE AFFAIRS OF THEATER CORP.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 7—A probe into the affairs of the Capitol Theater corporation is to be made by stockholders, the investigation having to do with the financial affairs of the corporation. A petition, requesting the board of directors of the corporation to call a special meeting of the stockholders prior to December 1, was circulated for signatures today. The movement was started at a gathering of some 75 stockholders, the majority of them from surrounding towns. Dr. F. B. Converse of West Willington was chairman of the meeting and Lester H. Blish, clerk. The only member of the board of directors present was Patrick J. Twomey.

The Capitol Theater property on Main street, valued at over $300,000, was purchased at public auction October 1, last for $137,000, plus back water rents and taxes, by Warner Brothers theatrical interests. The auction was conducted by James P. Mustard, constituting a committee of the Windham county superior court. The purchase price takes care of three mortgages carried on the property, plus interest, with little, if any balance. The claim of the stockholders is that they have but meagre information as to the affairs of the corporation. There is also a desire to determine whether any action can be taken concerning the sale of the property.

The Capitol Theater, occupying most of the building, is now closed while undergoing repairs and improvements for a re-opening under Warner Brothers ownership.

MRS. L. R. OLIN OWNER OF LOCAL STORE IS DEAD

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 7—Mrs. L. R. Olin, proprietress of one of the oldest retail stores in the city, died at her home, 20 Chestnut street, Wednesday night. Since the death of her husband, the late Charles L. Olin on March 18, 1918, she conducted the wall paper business he established 43 years ago on Main street, being assisted by her son and daughter, Walter M. Olin and Mrs. Sarah A. Carpenter.

Louisa Rachel Kingsley Olin was born in Hartford, September 12, 1844. She is survived by four children, Charles F. Olin of Bristol, Mrs. Peter LeRoy of Hartford, Sarah A. Carpenter and Walter M. Olin of this city, one brother, John Kingsley of Newington, four grandchildren and three great grandchildren. She was married in Hartford at the age of 20 years to Charles L. Olin. The family removed to Saybrook where Mr. Olin became a member of the firm of Wiley & Olin, doing an extensive painting and interior decorating business in that section. They established residence in Essex in 1884. Mr. Olin continuing in the same business there. Four years later he removed his family to this city and immediately established the store which has remained at the same stand for nearly half a century.

Mrs. Olin was a life long Methodist, a member of the Willimantic Women's Relief corps, and was active in the Social Corner, a distinctly eastern Connecticut organization. Under the pen name of "Lavendar" she was a frequent contributor to the Social Corner column of The Norwich Bulletin. Her 82nd birthday was celebrated by a gathering of 160 friends, including members of the corner at the camp ground where for the last few years she has spent her summers.

Mrs. Olin's business life was one of integrity, honesty and fairness, these combined with a remarkably cheerful nature to form a character that won for her many lasting friends. She enjoyed entertaining in her home and was tireless, even in advancing years, in seeking to spread happiness among all with whom she came in contact.

PARTY CAUCUSES TO BE HELD THIS EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 7—Friday night will be a big night in the city with both republican and democratic city caucus to be held to name candidates for the elections, Monday, December 2. The republicans will meet in the auditorium of the town building while the democrats will gather in the superior court chamber. Questioned as to likely candidates today, Chairman Nelson A. Daniels, republican, and George W. Hickey, democrat, of the city committees, both replied that they had not prepared slates. Chairman Daniels advanced the information that none of the several men approached to run for mayor had given their consent. City Clerk Arthur L. Clark is candidate for renomination. This also applies to City Sheriff Ralph J. Lussier, Alderman-at-Large Cyril A. Lamoureux and Alderman Eugene B. Lewis of the fourth ward. The latter will be opposed at the caucus by Frank Cyr who is seeking the nomination. In the democratic ranks Roderick Dion, son of the late Mayor Hormidas Dion, is mentioned for city clerk. John T. Meikle is expected to receive the nomination for city sheriff, Joseph F. Gaudreau and Miss Sabra S. Stoughton for assessors and Napoleon Bacon for alderman of the third ward.

Roger Paulhus of 1705 West Main street was slightly injured and the sedan he was driving was damaged when the machine figured in a collision with a sedan driven by George W. Totten of Lebanon and owned by Leander H. Wright of this city at the intersection of Church and Valley streets, Wednesday evening. The Paulhus car was overturned by the impact and the driver received a cut on his right hand and a bruised left foot. The damage to both cars was estimated at $150. Officer John Killourey who conducted the investigation was informed that Mr. Wright would assume responsibilities.

William H. P. Sweet who died in Norwich Wednesday, was one of the oldest members of Willimantic lodge No. 11, A. O. U. W.

The Jitney Players of Madison scored a distinctive success at the Model school auditorium Wednesday evening in their presentation of the four-act melodrama, The Murder in the Red Barn. There were three divertisements between the acts. The production was staged by Bushnell Cheney with Richard Skinner as pianist. There was an attendance of over 300.

The completion of the Jonathan Trumbull highway between Andover and Lebanon, via Columbia, is expected within a few weeks provided the weather holds fair. But two miles of the stretch, which is over eight miles in total, remain to be finished. The road is open to traffic.

At Columbia green state highway employes are engaged in abating the sharpness of the curve from the Columbia-Hebron road onto the Jonathan Trumbull highway leading to Columbia lake. Over 20 feet of the green was sacrificed to round the curve out. This necessitated the removal of the World War memorial, which has stood on the apex of the green, to a new location.

Arrangements for a turkey shoot before Thanksgiving and other feature activities were made at a meeting of the Willimantic Rod and Gun club held in the chamber of commerce rooms tonight. Captain Carl Rice was in charge.

The Willimantic police department will stage its fifth annual social and dance at the Al-Pierre Tabarin, the evening of December 11. Cliff Donnelly and his Masters of Melody will furnish the music. Lieutenant Edward P. Leahy is chairman of the arrangements committee.

Henderson S. Moulton, superintendent of the water department, was informed today that a sample of city water sent recently to the state board of health laboratories in Hartford for examination, showed the water safe for drinking purposes. Such examinations of the drinking supply are made periodically.

ASHFORD

STATE PAPERS FAVOR ALLEN B. LINCOLN AGAIN

In the New Haven Journal-Courier this week, Col. N. G. Osborne says editorially, regarding a prominent Ashford resident and Hartford business man:

He Should Be Included

We learn from the political columns of The Hartford Times, whose editor we take to be still our old friend Joe Mullins, that the voters of Ashford have in mind the re-election of Allen B. Lincoln to the state house of representatives next year. Mr. Lincoln has served in that capacity, and served his constituents and the state well. He is just the kind of a man to send to the legislature. He is as independent as "a hog on ice," and wears his own collar. He has views and the courage of them. The machine has no terrors for him and its blandishments fall from him like water from a duck's back. We are surprised to learn from The Times that "he is now approaching his seventieth year and it may be reasonably expected that he will show less vigor in legislating for the state at large than" when he was younger. If it is a wager we take it at the usual terms. If Abe Lincoln is returned to the legislature as he should be he will be just what he has always been, a cracker-jack of a fighter for the things he believes in, unashamed and unafraid. Speak up, Ashford!

DANIELSON

NATIONAL GUARD UNITS TO PARADE IN DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 7.—It was announced today that a battalion of the 192nd Field Artillery and special troops of the 43rd division will participate in the Armistice day parade in Danielson, giving the event a distinctly and appropriately military touch. The battalion will be made up of the 192nd Field Artillery band of New London, Headquarters detachment, special troops, 43rd division; Headquarters company, 85th infantry brigade, of New London; the Service battery, 192nd Field Artillery, and the Medical detachment, special troops, 43rd division. This provisional battalion will be commanded by Major E. L. Darble.

Major Darble's order sets forth that these commands having volunteered to form a provisional battalion to parade under arms in Danielson on Armistice day, and by authority of the adjutant general's office, that the formation will be in column of squads, and that the battalion will assemble at the state armory here to answer to calls as follows: First call, 12:45 p. m.; assembly, 12:55 p. m.; adjutant's call, 1 p. m. The bill of dresses provides for the wearing of the O. D. woolen uniform, caps, blouses, web belts and holsters. Officers will carry sabres.

At dismissal of the street parade, those attending the Armistice day observance here will have the privilege of witnessing the impressive military ceremonies of evening parade and retreat at the P. and A. grounds off Cottage street. All units of the provisional battalion will participate, and to those unfamiliar with the closing of a military day it will be well worth a special effort to witness.

The week end finds those charged with preparations for the holiday in Danielson very busy, but with their plans well advanced.

Mrs. Marjorie Walker, general chairman for Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross in the annual roll call to be undertaken here next week, today announced the following personnel for the solicitation of memberships and the sections of the borough in which they will operate: Float, Armistice day parade, Miss Mayette Paine; banks, Tri-Y Girls; mills, Francis E. Storer; merchants, A. Putnam Woodward; churches, Miss Emma F. Pilling; newspapers, W. H. S. Berkliots; Main street, Mrs. Herbert J. Barnett, Mrs. Benjamin Cogswell, Mrs. Oswald C. Street, Miss Susan Young; Broad street, Mrs. Clare N. Turner, Mrs. Irving W. Davis; Connecticut Mills district, Mrs. Charles F. Alexander; Mechanic street, Mrs. Henry Myers; Hutchins street, Mrs. George Keech; Winter street, Miss Carrie Fellows; Center street, Mrs. Franklin D. Crosby; Stearns, L'Homme and Potter streets, Mrs. Harold Roberts; Reynolds street, Mrs. Deborah R. Atwood; Hawkins street, Mrs. Harding W. Gaylord; Academy street, Mrs. Warren A. Tanner; South Killingly, A. E. Hall; Elmville, Mrs. Thomas Ralph, Mrs. Joseph Chadbourne.

Harking back through the years, great numbers of Danielson people recalled today that 11 years ago tonight Danielson witnessed one of the wildest demonstrations of pure joy that this town ever experienced. It was the night of the "fake" armistice, four days ahead of the actual Armistice. The fake part of it, of which the thousands of celebrators here were blissfully unaware, operated not even in the minutest degree to allay the flaming enthusiasm with which the populace greeted what was presumed to be the magnificent triumph of the Allied forces. The hullabaloo lasted until the following dawn, and left in its wake an utterly exhausted cross-section of humanity that had enjoyed a blow-off and a complete let down of a nervous tension that had endured for nearly a year and a half. Those who participated in that hectic celebration are likely never to forget it so long as life endures. That's why so many local people made mention of it today.

The following is a list of those who aided in making the Civic federation's Tag day effort here a success: Mrs. Alfred L. Reed, Mrs. Clinton W. Atwood, Mrs. C. N. Turner, Mrs. Thomas Ralph, Mrs. Esther Jacobs, Mrs. E. V. Johnson, Mrs. Marjorie Waller, Mrs. Theodore Hammett, Mrs. Mab Sayles, Mrs. F. D. Crosby, Mrs. William Hallowell, Mrs. William Levin, Miss E. F. Pilling, Miss Agnes Jacobs, Miss Olive Boulais, Miss Flora Keech, Miss May L. Young, Miss Gladding Hutchins, Miss Eloise Allen, Rebecca Pease, Phyllis Kenworthy, Marjorie I. Gaffney, Ruth Mellor, Isabelle Abbott, Barbara Turner, Charlotte Bacon, Clara Waldron, Mayette Paine, Margaret Stief, Alice Long, Mildred Liss, Betty Prentice, Barbara Street, May Riedwasser, Priscilla Codding, Theresa Clement, Marjorie Codding, Ruth King, Ella Nash, Ernie Jenkins, Dyllis Jones, Lucille Anderson, Phyllis Horn, Fernando Lapriesse, Russell Chandler, Roger Lapriesse, Fred Nash, Richard Turner, Frank Lemory, Antonio Del Pesco, Milton Harold, Albert Gallup, Burton Hallowell, Jack Waller, Armon Martin, Richard Marland, G. Del Pesco, Robert Gay, Francis Clemons, Oliver Pagnette, Earl Clemons and John Babbitt.

The results of the canvass were highly gratifying to the members of the Civic federation and they have expressed their appreciation to everyone who assisted them.

Treasurer Francis E. Storer of Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross today gave out the following statement covering the activities of the past year up to Nov. 1: Cash on hand, Nov. 1, 1928, $550.16; interest on deposits, $42.93; contributions, $70.10; 1,045 annual memberships, $1,045; nine contributing memberships, $45; one supporting membership, $25; total, $1,778.11. Expenditures—Home service, $140; remittance to headquarters, $527.50; cash on hand, Nov. 1, 1929, $1,110.69.

Today the commissioners of Windham county—Urgele LaFrance of Plainfield, Arthur Keith of Putnam and Albert Johnson of Woodstock—and County Treasurer Clifford H. Starkweather, Danielson, held a monthly meeting at the county jail in Brooklyn for the transaction of routine business. At the noon-day meal at the institution these officials had as their guests, Lieut.-Gov. Ernest E. Rogers and Luther M. Keith, state official in charge of highway beautification work in Connecticut.

PUTNAM

CONTRACT FOR STORAGE TANK NOT YET SIGNED

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 7.—Seven members of the present administration of city government met in council last evening, one of the remaining sessions left in their fast waning terms of office. Two of the present body, Alderman Charles A. Ryan and Edmund Dubois, who will not return to office next year, were absent.

It came to light last evening, when Alderman John Dean, ward two, inquired of the council if any new developments has taken place relative to the water situation that the contract for the construction of the steel standpipe, which has been awarded to the Chicago Bridge and Iron works, is yet to be signed by Mayor Charles A. Richard. The chief executive declined to disclose reasons why the document authorizing the purchase of the tank has not been signed by him, but asserted that the matter will be discharged within a few days. No further discussion of the water situation took place.

The report of activities of the police department for the month of October, submitted by Captain of Police William Jarvis, showed that 13 arrests were made during the month. Fines and costs collected in city court amounted to $96.54.

Alderman At Large Warren S. Ames reported that a representative of the Gamewell company, manufacturers of fire alarm equipment, will be in Putnam within a few weeks to make a survey of the fire alarm system with a view of devising a means to install a new type striker in the tower of St. Mary's church. Since the erection of the new bell in the spire, the fire alarm warning has been out of service. Residents of the north end of the city are anxious to have this matter remedied at an early date. Members of the Eagle Hose company in the north end are handicapped in answering alarms, especially those for night fires by the absence of any warning meidum in this section of the city.

Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston reported to the council that in recently conducted fire drills at the various schools in the city, pupils in each building had established satisfactory records in leaving the structure. All bills for the current month were read and approved, followed by an adjournment until Tuesday, December 3.

Plans for the dedication of a flag pole intended to adorn the center of Cargill park on Pomfret street, on Armistice day have been put aside by the Albert J. Breault post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, donors, because of the inability of the highway department to authorize the post members to place the flag staff on a selected site in the center of the plot, which would necessitate the cutting and partial defacement of trees.

Mayor Richard, in commenting on the subject, said that he appreciated the attitude of the ex-soldiers, but he was powerless to grant permission to cut the trees. This authority, the mayor said, is vested in the Landscape bureau of the state highway department.

Until late this afternoon officers of the Rhode Island state police patrol and local police had been unable to secure any trace of the driver of the heavily laden rum car abandoned in the vicinity of Burrills corners on the Providence Pike road last evening. Woodlands bordering on each side of the road were combed by police, but the mysterious driver was successful in eluding the police cordon.

Trooper Paul Normand, of the Chepatchet, R. I. barracks, who trailed the rum car for a distance of 20 miles, was in communication with Captain of Police Jarvis today in an effort to track down the operator of the vehicle, which is believed to be owned by a liquor smuggling ring of Providence and Springfield. Springfield police cooperating with the local authorities, have commenced an investigation which may result in the identification of the driver, exposure and arrest of leaders of the syndicate.

A seven passenger sedan in which the large cache of liquor was being transported, being held by the police, is still unclaimed by its registered owner who is Louis Cappes, of 47 Wilcox street, Springfield.

Old Charley, just a horse, for more than 18 years a faithful servant of the city, is dead. The venerable Charley by an act of Mayor Charles A. Richard was spared from a death sentence when he became no longer fit for service in the street department's daily activities and was committed to the beautiful farm of John Trowbridge in the Gary district, to spend the remainder of his days in comfort. But alas, fate was unmerciful to the animal, for he lived scarcely a month following his retirement. Charley's death was unheralded until Alderman Eugene Migneault informed the council members of his passing. Mr. Migneault stated that the remains of Charley repose somewhere in the Gary district in a spot which is unmarked. Thus the final chapter of the city's oldest beast of burden is closed. He died with his shoes on.

The annual drive for maintenance funds for support of the American Red Cross has been launched. The call is being sponsored and directed locally by the local chapter of the organization of which George Baker, of Fremont street, is president. Subscriptions to the drive from surrounding towns will all go to make up the Putnam quota. Early returns indicate a successful drive this year.

In the November issue of "Along the Line," a periodical published by the employees of the New Haven railroad, mention is made of the promotion of Albert A. Cross, of Danbury, former track supervisor of the Norwich branch of the New Haven road, whose headquarters and residence were in this city, from assistant divisional engineer of the Danbury division of the road to the position of divisional engineer. Mr. Cross replaces D. W. Curtis, who received a promotion to a higher office.

Mr. Cross came to this city in 1926 and remained until November, 1928, when his merits as a railroad official were recognized by his appointment to the Danbury division.

Members of the Putnam Rotary club listened to an interesting address on a farming topic, given yesterday at the club luncheon by E. A. Perregaus, a professor of rural marketing at the Conecticut Agricultural college at Storrs. In his talk the educator asserted that from statistics of the department of agriculture 86 per cent of the population of the United States in 1820 obtained their living by farming, while a hundred years later only 26 per cent of the population were found to be engaged in this means of livelihood. Allowance for this decrease is made because of the increased standard of farm efficiency, of the present day. He touched upon the cooperative selling as in modern business, this being done to compete with the increasing new methods of farming.

Juvenile Investingating Officer Peter A. Gardner, stated this morning that he is in receipt of a complaint from Mrs. Arthur F. Hughes, of Seward street, in which she complains that during the halloween festivities last Thursday evening, a porch chair mysteriously found its way to the pinnacle of a flag pole on her property. Mrs. Hughes informed Officer Gardner that the chair would be returned to its rightful owner, if his identity was revealed.

In discussing results of his investigations into halloween pranks at various residences in the city, Mr. Gardner said that he had rounded up several groups of fun bent youngsters forcing them to the ordeal of extending their sincere apologies to complainants inconvenienced by their fun-making antics. The caretaker of morals of the city's youthful citizens chuckled heartily when asked if he thought his investigations have permanently stamped out the aftermath of a "successful" halloween.

Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer, of Dayville, has returned to his duties in this vicinity following his return from a visit to a southern metropolis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Leslie Beebe, of Whittemore street, were in Niantic today where they visited Mrs. Beebe's mother, Mrs. W. J. Bartlett, of this city, who is at her summer home, convalescing from a recent illness.

Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin today urged the people of Putnam and vicinity whose children are attending schools and others interested in welfare of school children, to avail themselves to the radio programmes to be broadcast on Tuesday, November 12, and Wednesday, November 13, in connection with the observance of American Education week. The committee fostering the radio part of the week devoted to education have secured the foremost of American educators to address the American public over the "air." Tuesday's programme will be broadcast over a chain of station operating under the direction of the Columbia circuit, beginning at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday's programme will come to listeners over the N. B. C. chain of stations between 11:15 p. m. to midnight.

It was learned today that a chain store will locate in one of the stores of the Miour block on lower Main street, now nearing completion.

Police Captain W. J. Jarvis is highly in favor of the plan of linking the local police department with 18 others in the state, by the installation of a teletype machine. The teletype is the most modern aid to the undoing of criminals. A machine of this type has recently been added to the equipment of the New London police department. Captain Jarvis several times has recommended the adoption of such a device by the police department, to the city officials, but the expense which would be involved has been the chief objection to its installation.

A death in Pomfret last evening was that of Mrs. Randolph M. Clark, for many years a resident there. Mrs. Clark was in her 90th year.

Mrs. Clark was a native of Providence. She was the daughter of Rev. Alexander H. Vinton, an Episcopal clergyman. Her mother was Eleanor Stockbridge Thompson. She was married in May 1864, to Randolph Marshall Clark, of Boston, during her father's pastorate of St. Mark's church in the Bowery in New York.

Mrs. Clark, following her return from a visit abroad in 1873, removed from Boston to Pomfret where she made her home, which has since become one of the most beautiful mansions in Pomfret.

During her life in Pomfret, Mrs. Clark dispensed vast sums of her fortune to charity and relief of poor and suffering. The extent of her numerous donations were never disclosed to the public.

The condition of Anson A. Buchannon, of King street, one of Putnam's few remaining veterans of the Civil war, was reported today as considerably improved. Mr. Buchannon suffered a relapse last Sunday and until this morning his condition was regarded as critical.

"The land of the Midnight Sun," will be the subject of a stereopticon lecture to be given next Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Parent-Teachers association, by Mrs. S. Nickoloff, of Pomfret, who recently returned from an extended trip to the far-off countries at the top of the globe. The meeting will be held at Putnam high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dean attended a whist party in Wauregan, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker, of Southampton, L. I., are visiting Mrs. Walker's sister, Mrs. Mortimer Stetson and family here, where they formerly lived.

ENGLISH MINE OWNERS AGAINST REDUCED HOURS

LONDON, Nov. (AP) —The mine owners in declinnig ti discuss wages and hours with the government and miners stated that "any reduction in hours must have a disastrous effect on the industry and serious reactions of the wage position in every district where hours are reduced."

It alleged that it was impossible for the mining association to deal with wage questions, which it said were the concern of various district organizations.

The next move in the attempt to gain reduction of the working day to seven and a half hours from eight without reduction in wages, to which the government has already signified its willingness, is now up to the miners. The workers some months ago accepted a voluntary agreement for a short term reduction of wages which expires shortly.

JEWETT CITY

JIM COONEY HEARD FROM AFTER QUARTER CENTURY

Older residents of Jewett City remember the Cooney family that once lived here, with their home in the Ashland village. Especially do they recall Jim Cooney. During the summer of 1893 construction work was booming at the Aspinook dam, Jim was running a hoisting engine and handling the big derrick. Such jobs were new here then and hundreds went to see the work proceed. The contractors were not slow to recognize Jim's value, nor were they sparing in their words of admiration when they noted the skill with which he seemed to transform a 40-foot derrick boom, into a piece of almost human mechanism. Nobody locally has heard from Jim in close to a quarter of a century. This week, a steel worker here, inquired if anybody remembered Jim Cooney. The visitor told of being on a big iron job in Erie, Penn., some years ago. An attempt was being made, he said, to place a ten-ton steel girder across its proposed span. The frame was 200 feet in the air with the work being carried on by means of a hoisting engine far below. Repeated trials failed. All this time a seedy looking sort of chap sat up on the railroad bank near at hand, much interested in the proceedings, and laughing loodly as each swing of the great truss failed to land. The foreman on the job, as he proceeded to drive the unwelcome spectator away, heard a word or two of free advice, that seemed worthy of notice. Asked if the stranger could handle a derrick, the man allowed that he was at home on jobs like that. The boss invited him to try it on. Shifting the chains a bit, and dropping his boom, he gave her the gun, kept his eyes on the swaying stringer, and dropped it over the bolt shanks, just as nice and easy. "You've got a job right now," said the foreman; what's your wages going to be?" "I ain't workin'," said Jim.

Rabbi Lee J. Levinger, National Chaplain of the American Legion, makes the statement concerning the annual American Red Cross roll call.

The annual roll call of the American Red Cross will surely meet with its annual response from the people of America. We have had too much experience of its work in disaster, in home service, and in the life of our nation as a whole, ever to neglect this great organization, which penetrates too the very vitals of our national life. Organization for mercy appeals to all those who would extend mercy to others or who may ever, at any time, need mercy for themselves.

Stores To Close

William McGovern and Francis MacLaughlin called at the stores in the borough Thursday in the interest of closing on Armistice day. As a result there will be a general closing of these places of business Monday, as well as the barber shops. The slogan Saturday will be "Buy your Monday's dinner Saturday."

EIGHTY-THREE CANDLES ON THIS BIRTHDAY CAKE

Albert Burton's eighty third birthday was celebrated Wednesday evening at his home in the south part of the town, his children and grandchildren coming to do honor to him on the anniversary. An oyster supper was served, and a birthday cake, decorated with the proper number of candles, was the table centerpiece. Mr. Burton was born in this town and has always lived here, and his birthday celebration is an annual event in the family.

Pictured With Big Sheep

A Portland, Me., daily, this week, printed a three-inch double column picture of a Jewett City young woman, with this accompanying item. "Here is a two-year-old Leicester animal from the big sheep farm of William B. Kendall at Bowdornham, Me. The animal weighs 225 pounds and was one of the attractions at Topsham fair. It won first prize at the Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., this year. The pretty young woman with the sheep is Mrs. Sam Dorrance." Mrs Dorrance was Miss Ethelle Parkhurst, a Jewett City girl. Her husband is manager of the big Maine sheep farm.

At the Baptist church Wednesday evening 60 were present at the prayer meeting rally. The speakers were Rev. Harry Brothwell of Greeneville and Rev. Frank S. Robbins of Preston. Here's a ginger ale that gives you FULL-SIZE PINTS

Clicquot Club Pale Dry comes in full 16-ounce bottles . . . 1/3 more than most dry ginger ales

ONLY a few months ago we started to tell the women of America that Clicquot Club Pale Dry was the only nationally known dry ginger ale put up in full-size pints.

This news sent thousands of women to their dealers, asking them for Clicquot Club Pale Dry. And today these women will use no other ginger ale.

Flavor won them

The secret of Clicquot's great popularity is due to something more than giving full measure. It is due to a rare and mellow flavor found in no other ginger ale.

The secret of this flavor is ageing. Every bottle of Clicquot Club you buy is skillfully blended and carefully aged.

Pure table sugar, fine Jamaica ginger, mellow syrup of ripe fruit juices, and pure rock spring water are the ingredients we use. And every bottle of Clicquot Club carries a double-charge carbonation to give it that added zest and sparkle.

Just go to your dealer and compare a bottle of Clicquot Club Pale Dry with a bottle of any other nationally known dry ginger ale. Note the full pint bottle . . . so much more economical than wasteful near quarts that may "go flat" before you use them up . . . or little 12-ounce "pints" that won't go round.

Unlike others, all Clicquot Club ginger ales—Pale Dry, Golden, and Sec—come in clean bottles never used before. If you like a rich gingery drink, ask for Clicquot Club Golden. If your taste prefers an extra dry blend, buy Clicquot Club Sec—the ginger ale supreme.

AN INDUSTRIAL BUILDING

Norwich has reason to be keenly concerned in the revival of interest in industrial building development. If there is one thing which this city needs for the encouragement of industrial growth it is a building that will serve the requirements of new industries, those seeking a modern manufacturing plant, those which want more floor space and those which are looking for a place where their business can be conducted on an efficient basis.

Norwich has had a highly satisfactory experience with the industrial buildings it has sponsored. They served to encourage small industries, and a modern type of building, or a readiness to construct one to meet the requirements of any particular kind of manufacturing, will prove a highly valuable asset to any community that is desirous of industrial growth. It is through the plan of providing up-to-date buildings to serve the special needs of industries that many centers have obtained enviable results.

Norwich has its advantages for most any line of manufacturing business. That is invariably recognized by those who are seeking a new location, but it finds itself handicapped when it comes to showing any available manufacturing plants, or when it is confronted with the proposition of erecting such a plant as is desired.

Thus it is to be hoped that there will be some favorable outcome of the conference which has been held between the industrial commission of the chamber of commerce and the members of the Norwich Industrial Improvement Co.

Norwich needs more industries. It wants to see its present industries expand. It wants to experience the growth that will come from new industries and expanded industries. It has but little at the present time to offer in the way of manufacturing plants, and what are available have their restrictions. With an industrial building in readiness, or a company standing ready to meet the building requirements of companies that have opportunities to grow or new ones that are worthwhile, a big forward step in behalf of desired industrial development would be taken.

WAYSIDE STANDS

With the increased travel that was encouraged by the construction of modern roads, the opportunity was created for developing an additional outlet for garden truck. It appealed to the farmer in many instances and it was supported by those driving through the countryside who observed the attractive farm produce and sought to obtain it, being happy to locate such a chance to get desirable and fresh produce for their own use.

The result was that roadside stands sprang up and they have undergone various developments and, likewise, various results. In connection with this, Mrs. Henry Ford as president of a nationwide garden and farm organization, is advocating a model farm store to handle this business, and in presenting the arguments for the particular type of store which she advocates and which she also pictures, she lays particular emphasis upon the direct contact between the producer and the consumer. She believes her plan of such a store has merit because it permits of attractive display of goods, is cheap and operates to insure better foodstuffs.

All of that would be expected, and doubtless was anticipated by the promoters of the wayside stands, except possibly the type of structure to be erected, but the realization has not kept up with the anticipation. It was a good idea if it worked out as was expected. That it did in some instances, but not so in others, is apparent. It even became necessary to license such stands in many states in order to obtain a regulation that was quickly recognized as necessary. Instead of farm produce from the land back of the stands there was offered garden truck that had been brought back to those stands from the cities nearby, so that purchasers were obtaining just what they might have had in the cities without going to the bother of making a trip into the country. It was an open attempt to fool the buyer in the belief that he would not know the difference.

This has caused such wayside stands to suffer in reputation and business and there must be something more than the attractive display of goods, sold at figures which are the same as if handled by the middleman, before the degree of prosperity which they ought to experienne can be assured.

SHIPPING GAINS

The desire to get the American merchant marine into the hands of private capital has been long and persistent. It has been recognized that the government should get out of the business and end a competition in which corporations would not undertake to participate. It meant getting rid of many ships, all of which has not been accomplished, but some progress has been made and it is gratifying to note that the American bureau of shipping shows that construction in American shipyards is on the gain. Where there was but about 113,000 tonnage under construction it has experienced a jump in October which sent it to over 366,000 tons.

This gain, according to the view of the bureau, can be attributed to the merchant marine act of last year which provided a substantial sum from which shipbuilders could obtain large loans for the construction of new vessels and also made it possible to award mail-carrying contracts to shipping lines. This latter provision has run into some trouble due to the difficulty in interpreting just what was meant, but it certainly spurred up interest in acquiring existing lines and made it possible for shippers to see where they could make a good thing out of such ownership if they could get a mail contract.

Without a doubt the encouragement which has been held out to private capital by the government has been recognized. It hasn't resulted in the government getting out of the shipping business, but it has disposed of many ships and others can doubtless be moved as soon as congress makes it known what it intended to provide for the purchasers of government ships.

This country has not for many years taken a leading position in ship construction. It has been satisfied to sit back and watch other countries do it. But for the war it would not be as well supplied with merchant ships as it is. The advisability of having a strong merchant marine is apparent. The handicaps existing because of our shipping laws and the less strict laws of other countries are fully understood and it is only because of that that objections to government aid to shipping could be reduced.

GENERAL WM. A. AIKEN

Norwich has lost one of its grand old men in the death of General William A. Aiken, a man who was identified for long years with manufacturing activities here, one who was always interested in whatever concerned the welfare of the city, a citizen who commanded the respect and admiration of the entire community and a gentleman of the old school who never lost his interest in the topics of the day or yielded to another a greater interest in young people.

In spite of his advanced years he was surprisingly active up to a short time ago, keen in his direction of those matters which had come to be part of his daily life and eager to have a hand in every good cause.

Though he was not a native of Norwich he was as closely identified with its activities as if he had been, and that covered a period of many years dating back to the early days of the Civil war, during which conflict he was engaged not only in actual service but in the administration of highly responsible duties for this commonwealth, which brought him in frequent touch with Abraham Lincoln and members of his cabinet. His recollections of those contacts were vivid and well did he have reason for highly prizing them.

General Aiken carried a sincerity into everything which he undertook which was impressive. Whether it was in church, in business, in civic organizations, there was a real and helpful interest manifested. He was ever interested in local music, literary and historical activities and gave much effort to state and national organizations. He was one of the staunch citizens of this city, whose passing will be deeply regretted but whose influence will long linger.

SENATE LEADERSHIP

It has been almost a week since Senator Watson, republican leader in the upper house, left Washington for the south because of his health. Being obliged to shift his duties to other shoulders, there were expectations that the change might result in a greater display of speed.

Senator Watson has long been identified with senate activities and for that reason, which put him in line for it, he was made republican leader. It has been intimated, and probably with more or less reason, that the choice was not as happy a one as the requirements called for. Senator Watson has tried to meet his responsibility, tried in some instances where it was realized that it was against some of his personal inclinations, but he has not been the leader that the situation called for.

Whether the change that has been made in naming Senator Jones, a man not in the best of health, is going to supply the deficiency is a question. It hasn't been demonstrated as yet, although it is perhaps too much to expect it in less than a week's time.

Regardless of the leader at the present time it is evident that the coalition is of such strength that the regular republicans are seriously handicapped. If a tariff bill is produced by the senate it will be in accord with the views of the coalition. No other views can expect to get a look in, but there is nothing to indicate that such a product from the senate is going to captivate the house which, like the rest of the country which has been looking for tariff revision, must be disgusted with the developments which have taken place in what likes to call itself a deliberative body.

Whether a different leadership would have brought other results, it is quite apparent that it makes little difference now.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Politicians always have a job trying to find out why elections didn't have different results.

Everybody feels happy when the stock market reports return to their accustomed places.

The big question in France is how long Premier Tardieu can keep out of the ex-premiers' class.

The closing of the stock market on Saturday will have no harmful effect on the football games.

The man on the corner says: People who have nothing to do but have a good time encounter much trouble.

Senator Brookhart tells of being at a rum dinner, but it took a long time for him to decide it ought to become public.

These are the days when the turkeys are wondering why so much interest is being manifested in their welfare.

EXPERT ADVICE

For fifteen years Alice Lee had been the shock absorber for affairs of the heart. Her daily column in the Evening Mercury, of advice on problems of love—how to get it and how to keep it—was like a warm, bubbling spring. There was always that freshness of outlook, that quick understanding, that apt suggestion which bespoke not only the wisdom of experience but, strangely enough, Youth with a capital Y.

Many a "Sorrowful Sue" and "Jealous Joe" pictured the beloved Alice Lee as a young and beautiful and much-desired woman—a sort of Helen of Troy person who had turned her experiences to account for the benefit of benighted youth.

Actually, from a cold, unbiased viewpoint, Alice Lee may have possessed none of these flattering attributes. But, according to Trenton Allison, a very delightful man of her acquaintance, Alice Lee was young and beautiful and much desired.

Young? Well, 35 nowadays is considered just the happy side of crass adolescence. Beautiful? She was the most beautiful woman in the world in the eyes of Trenton Allison, even though her nose was a bit bumpy and her chin a bit too sharp. As for being desired! Trenton could answer for almost a lifetime of passionate but silent adoration of his ideal.

Early in Alice Lee's career as a columnist Trenton had sought out her ideas on matrimony as applied to herself, he being just too reticent to broach the subject from the very personal "you and I."

"It is all right for girls who have nothing else to do," she remarked. "But for the girl with a career—why should she sacrifice it for something which is at best a precarious risk?"

"But how about"—Trenton had trembled before uttering the sacred word—"love?" And the girl's merry, tinkling laugh had rung in his ears down through the years that followed.

A decade later Trenton and Alice Lee had come again as close to the delicate subject as this:

"Tell me, Alice, how have you managed to steer so clear of love and marriage?"

"By being mother confessor to thousands who have not."

"But don't you now that the exception often proves the rule?"

"So it seems—I'm wedded to my column!" And with another laugh, less merry but more metallic, the subject had been quickly changed.

And so matters had stood for another five years.

Then on a gay spring morning, Alice Lee found this letter among her professional correspondence:

"My dear Alice Lee: For years I have been madly in love with the most beautiful girl in the world. But—and here's the rub—I never have professed my love to her because, according to her own words, her career precludes the traditional viewpoint on love and marriage.

"After having known her, no other woman appeals to me as the sweetheart, wife and companion for which I have yearned so long. However, through shyness and the fear of losing her altogether, I hesitate to declare my love—to ask her to marry me. I beseech your advice. What shall I do? Faithfully yours,

"T. A."

Heading the Alice Lee column of the next evening's Mercury, was this letter. And immediately below it—a masterpiece of brevity—was the answer:

"Ask her, of course!"

On the following morning, the managing editor found this typewritten note in a conspicuous place on his desk:

"Dear Sir: Find a new Alice Lee. I have at last landed the fish I've been waiting for for fifteen years! Leaving Monday on honeymoon trip around the world. Sorry to rush you, but it's a matter of life and love, you see. Your love expert, Alice Lee."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—"Where," asked Senator Hi Johnson, of California, of the senate, "where, in the elegant language of the lamented Mr. Dooley, are we at in relation to this tariff bill?"

And for the next hour or so the senate sought to answer that question. Just what impression Senator Johnson got out of the answers he evoked, the Bystander does not know.

From the press gallery, however, it sounded very much like a sort of dress rehearsal of the obsequies of the bill—at least, as far as the special session of congress is concerned.

Those answers indicated one optimist. That was Smoot of Utah, boss of the bill on the books, although up to that time the democratic-irregular republican coalition had the whip hand in every voting clash. Yet Smoot pleaded with senators to "stick to the bill."

"I am going still to have hope that we can pass the bill before the end of the session, and that the bill at least can go to conference," he said.

Sees a Dead One.

But his colleague, Reed of Pennsylvania, second in command for the tariff old guard, disagreed.

"I have expressed it as my opinion that this bill is dead," he said. "That is still my opinion."

Then up spoke Arkansas in the person of the democratic leader, Senator Robinson. There never had been a chance of action on a conference report at the special session, he said, although he still believed it possible to get the bill out of the senate.

"Distinctly repudiating the effort of some senators to lay this bill on our doorstep (the democratic), I am entirely willing to go on as heretofore and facilitate the procedure in every possible way," Robinson thundered over the aisle at the republican side.

"The proceedings in the senate have turned the light on the bill. That will be carried forward and you (the republican regulars) will take your share of the responsibility for whatever happens to this poor infant."

An Explanation.

Simmons of North Carolina, veteran democratic leader in the tariff row, undertook to explain what was going on. Republican regulars of the senate finance committee had merely undertaken to "revise" the house bill, he said, while the senate itself was engaged in "rewriting it to meet the views of the majority of this body."

"It took three months to revise it in committee," he said. "I do not know how long it will take to rewrite it here."

And here's a choice bit from the debate:

Fess, Ohio—"There are some of us who have the itch for speaking on subjects of this kind who have not said a word in the interest of expedition."

Harrison, Mississippi—"The senator has not the itch; he has the St. Vitus dance when it comes to speaking."

Earlier, Fess figured that with 750 committee amendments to the house bill still to consider and an unguessable number of individual amendments to follow, "it will take just a year and four months to get through with it" short of a rigid limitation on debate.

So much for the tariff bill outlook with a month of the special session to go.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Mansfield School At Storrs

Mr. Editor: There are so many mistaken statements being made in regard to the proposed school building at Storrs that I believe the voters are entitled to the facts.

First, the vote of the town appointed a committee and authorized the committee to build a school. It did not instruct the committee to build the school of which a plan was circulated throughout the town by the town school committee. As a matter of fact the building committee, if continued in power, does not plan to build this building at all. It intends to build as economical and practical a building as will meet the needs of the situation. The building should be modern and substantial and big enough to take care of the pupils, but the committee has no intention of providing frills.

Second, the vote of the town authorized the committee to spend from the town's money not to exceed $25,000. The committee is composed of taxpayers who have got to do their part in paying the bill. It intends to keep the expense as low as possible and only spend such part of the $25,000 as is necessary. As for the poor taxpayers, we are some of them.

Third, if the vote of the town is carried out, for the building itself a 2-mill tax will pay the interest and pay off the principal in ten years if $25,000 of town money is spent, or in eight years if the school can be built with $20,000 of town money. A taxpayer assessed for $2000, for instance, would have to pay $6 extra a year for eight or ten years, or $48 to $60 total. As for the maintenance of the school, it is doubtful if the new building would make much difference in costs. The town now spends $7,000 a year for the transportation of primary pupils. The new building should reduce somewhat the transportation costs. Many children who would be in easy walking distance of the new building, now have to be transported at large cost. This item should largely offset any increased cost for heat and care of the building. A school building such as the building committee plans to build was heated last winter with 16 tons of soft coal. It costs a good deal now to heat the five rooms in which the children are cared for.

As a matter of fact the town is faced with the necessity of building some building. If any other plan for the building is followed, the cost of heat and maintenance are likely to be as great as in the school which the building committee proposes to build. The opponents of the plan cannot avoid these costs by any alternative plan.

At present it is possible to take advantage of the state's vote to pay one-half of the cost of the building. If we fail to build before that opportunity passes, we shall have to pay the entire cost.

As far as the committee knows, no one with any business judgment and knowledge of the facts is opposing the building of a school building now. Everybody agrees that the taxpayers need to have that building built at as low a cost as will give a decent substantial building that is going to meet the requirements. That is what the present building committee is trying to do.

DANIEL C. FLAHERTY,
Chairman of the Building Committee,
First Selectman of Mansfield.
Mansfield, Nov. 7, 1929.

Cause and Effect

Mr. Editor: What is the cause of all the unrest in this old world? We read of the troubles in the orient. And every day there is something new coming up, labor troubles of all kinds. Many northern mills have vacated and gone below the Mason and Dixon line to escape the labor troubles in the north. Have they been benefited by the change? Positively, no, for as we read the accounts in the papers of the conditions in the Carolinas we can but think they are out of the frying pan into the fire. And yet there are conditions today that are in the line of betterment for every one who works by his hands; the hours are better, the working conditions are in their favor. The sanitary conditions in the factories have improved over what was a condition that needed the attention of the mill owners years ago. Consider the hours the people worked and then consider this with today. In early days in and around Norwich the factory managers fixed their own hours. Didn't the Shetucket Co., in the Greeneville section work from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m., and six days a week! Today all through this country the usual hours are due to laws that have been enacted. In some states the week is only five days, with Saturday as a holiday and each working day only eight hours, or a total of 40 hours a week. In some places they pay on a basis of six days or they pay for 48 hours when they only work 40 hours as above. Everything it seems has been for the betterment of the people and yet there is a discontent. Who knows or who can give a reason?

Another angle is the pay day. Once we used to work four and five weeks on a stretch, from one pay to another and now many pay every second week and there are some places where the pay comes every week. People ride to work in high-priced cars and the girls dress better going to work than their mothers did years ago when they were going to church. Still there was a spirit of contentment in those early days and today it is just the opposite.

I recall the fact that the old Chelsea Paper Co. in Norwich used to work 12 hours for a day and used to run 24 hours a day. Some of the people who worked in this plant would be roused out of a sound sleep by some one whose business it was to go around from house to house and pound on the side of the house with a club and wake the man to go to work, and incidentally, he would waken the whole neighborhood with his banging on the side of the house at 12 o'clock at night. Just page Barney Keenan on this statement for verification.

Still with all these inconveniences I don't recall a strike or in fact any labor troubles. Yet with all this hard work the people, so far as my memory serves me, were happy and contented. Some one who reads this will perhaps rise up and say, "Well, they couldn't help themselves." I don't admit that, for today there is a discontented feeling apparent everywhere where there was peace and happiness, with plenty of work and but few hours for recreation.

Volumes could be written on this subject showing the poor pay the people received. One dollar and 50 cents a day was considered wonderful pay and today laboring men receive that amount in an hour. Think it over. Then wages were small, things for living were cheap. Now wages are high, and living expenses have risen almost to prohibitive prices. Board then was $4 a week and now $14 a week, and everything else in proportion. But why go on, it is here; a condition that none can understand for we are just drifting with the crowd. This is the day of specialists and to keep up with the parade men are learning more and are earning more through having secured technical educations. Today the laborer has become a business man and the business man has entered into a profession, each one has advanced into his own sphere of usefulness and the one who doesn't get up and hustle doesn't get anywhere, for he isn't going anywhere. There are many drones today in the bee hive of industry and you will hear some young fellow say, "Well, the world owes me a living." If so he has got to go out and collect it, for every one else is out on the same errand, and we can but think:

The heights by great men reached and kept,
Were not attained through sudden flight;
But they, while their companions slept,
Were toiling upward through the night.

Say, old timers, do you ever give a thought to Thanksgiving? That is the day Miss Caulkins said was dedicated to two saints, St. Stuff and St. Starve. But say, boy, I can even now, in imagination, see the oven door open and see that turkey taking on the color of a ripe chestnut. And the fragrance, who can describe it! Those glorious old pumpkin pies were a confection that those splendid old New England mothers used to make, and as Harry Lauder would say, "You canna beat them, hey?"

In conclusion I read the Social Corner and I note some are missing—Black Eyed Susie and Thirty Two. What is the answer?

YOUR HEALTH

Distinguishing Among Skin Diseases.

By Isaac R. Pels, M. D.
Baltimore, Md.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

From time immemorial there has existed an unfortunate fear of contagion regarding diseases of the skin. This is probably explainable on the grounds of tradition and on account of the startling appearance of the eruption. It must be remembered that the envelope of skin is a comparatively enormous portion of the human body, and when the greater portion of it is affected, the effect may be startling.

This erroneous fear is unhappily shared by many medical workers, but is based on crass ignorance of the facts. This attitude of antagonism and of repudiation has caused lamentable hostility towards the sufferers from skin disease, and in this country—regrettable to state—cutaneous diseases are looked upon with indifference, trepidation or disgust. So much so that the unfortunate sufferers in many instances are actually denied hospital attention on account of the fear of contagion, and on account of the unesthetic atmosphere which their presence among other sufferers excites. What are the facts?

First—one must distinguish between infection and contagion. Every infectious disease is produced by some germ or parasite and is not necessarily contagious. Indeed, many skin diseases which are presumably infectious are certainly no contagious as judged from long experience. Fortunately those diseases of the skin which are both infectious and contagious are comparatively few, well recognized and in the main well controlled so far as both contagion and treatments are concerned. By way of example we may mention syphilis, scabies (the common itch), louse infection, common warts, and ringworm.

Those common diseases which are not contagious include eczema, diseases due to poisons of all kinds, such as oak, ivy, primrose, weeds, chemicals, physical agents, cancers, moles and acne.

In summary it may be stated that with certain exceptions most skin diseases, even despite a possibility of infection (not proved) are not contagious. Prolonged experience has demonstrated this fact. Whenever doubt arises, a proper and accurate decision should be obtained from the family doctor as a special question or as part of the annual health audit.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Peter Rabbit Disappears.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Pray never think you've caught a rabbit,
Until you actually can grab it.
—Reddy Fox.

It looked bad for Peter Rabbit. Yes, sir, it looked bad for Peter Rabbit. There he was with the use of only three legs in a little bramble tangle in the Old Pasture, with Reddy Fox crawling into it from one side to drive him out, and Mrs. Reddy Fox hiding where she could catch him when he did come out. Things couldn't have looked much worse for Peter Rabbit. You see, Peter knew nothing about Mrs. Reddy.

Never in his life had Reddy Fox felt more sure of a thing than he did that, within a very few minutes he and Mrs. Reddy would have a Rabbit dinner. The brambles tore his coat and scratched his face. He paid no heed. He kept right on pushing his way into that bramble tangle. Once he closed his eyes as he pushed his head through the brambles. When he opened them again, Peter Rabbit had disappeared. Reddy blinked several times to make sure. But all the blinking in the world wouldn't make a Rabbit where no Rabbit was. Peter simply wasn't there.

Reddy looked eagerly to see if Mrs. Reddy had caught Peter. He couldn't see Mrs. Reddy and he couldn't see Peter. But one thing was certain and that was that Peter was not where he had been. Reddy looked around in the bramble tangle as best he could. He could see nearly all of it. There was the stump of a small tree with a lot of dead leaves around it, but he could see both sides of that little stump. Peter must have left the bramble tangle. Reddy began to hastily back out. He whined and whimpered several times as the brambles pricked him! As soon as he was once out, he ran swiftly around to the other side.

"Well," said Mrs. Reddy, joining him from her hiding place, "where is Peter Rabbit?"

"That's for you to tell!" snapped Reddy. "Do you mean to tell me that you let him get out without catching him?"

"He isn't come out," retored Mrs. Reddy. "Do you mean to tell me that you let him get out without catching him?"

"He certainly didn't get out on my side," declared Reddy. "He must have jumped out when you were not looking. I should have thought you would have kept your eyes open when you knew that he was likely to jump out any minute."

"I did keep my eyes open!" snapped Mrs. Reddy. "I tell you he didn't come out on my side! From where I was hiding I couldn't see into the bramble tangle where he was, but I could see every bit of this side of the tangle, and Peter Rabbit didn't come out. He must have dodged around you and got out on your side."

"Nothing of the sort!" replied Reddy, beginning to lose his temper. "I gave you the easiest part of the task and I think that the least you could have done was to have been ready for him. Look at me! All scratched and torn! Well, there is one thing certain and that is that Peter Rabbit couldn't have gone far in the condition he was in. We'll probably find him in another one of these bramble tangles."

"If you're so sure that he got out on my side, just find his scent!" snapped Mrs. Reddy. "He couldn't have come out and left no scent."

"I will!" barked Reddy, and putting his nose to the ground, he straightway began to sniff down the cowpath past the bramble tangle. He found no fresh scent of Peter Rabbit. He went over the ground two or three times. It was certain that no Rabbit had been along there recently. There was a puzzled expression on Reddy's face as he looked up at Mrs. Reddy, who sat grinning at him. Then without a word Reddy made a complete circle of that bramble tangle with his nose to the ground. Nowhere did he cross the trail of Peter Rabbit. Peter had simply disappeared and Reddy and Mrs. Reddy looked at each other with such crestfallen expressions on their faces as was laughable to see.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Java.

Installment buying has invaded even remote Java, according to U. S. trade reports.

"The Javanese like American-made products. American exports to the island last year were valued at more than $34,000,000," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Picturesque, horse-drawn carts with wheels from six to seven feet in diameter now must compete with speedier American-made auto trucks; and native two-wheeled passenger carts, once the only passenger vehicles in Java cities, are being crowded off the streets by shiny, new, American-pleasure cars. More than half the automobiles in Java are popular American makes. Italian factories rank next to the United States in exporting automobiles to Java, but American manufacturers ship about ten times as many as their Italian competitors, American commerce reports show.

"The island, about the size and shape of Cuba, is traversed by a network of good roads and railroads. While traveling on either the American tourist is seldom out of gunshot of American products or products of American machinery. A traveler may engage an Italian, British, Spanish or French automobile for a tour, but a portion of the road he traverses is apt to be the product of American road building machinery.

"Should a blowout occur on the highway, it is likely that one of the thousands of American-made tires that are shipped to the island annually would be as readily available as one of foreign make. And the new tire may contain some of the rubber which a short time before flowed from one of the trees on a vast rubber plantation nearby.

"The traveler who prefers seeing the island from a train window is unaware that machinery and tools bearing familiar trade marks help to keep his train running on schedule.

"Rice farmers, whose watery farms rise like a series of silvery lakes up the sides of Java hills, cling to antiquated wood implements, but here and there the blades of plows and harrows from American factories glitter in the Java sunshine on prosperous tobacco, sugar and coffee plantations. A glimpse inside the sugar mills, tobacco factories and waterways in the agricultural regions reveals American-made machinery.

"With more than 700 inhabitants to the square mile, the natives must be efficient farmers to feed the population. American fertilizer is the farmers' crop insurance, and when crops contract disease, American chemists furnish the medicine to bring them back to a healthful state.

"Situated but a few hundred miles below the equator, Java is hot, but the traveler often finds his hotel room made comfortable by an American-made electric fan. The power that runs the fan may come from one of the many electric generators imported from America.

"The streets of the larger cities that are filled with American automobiles and bicycles, have their oriental bazaars where a gay array of goods, ranging from cheap trinkets to fine mental ware and fabrics are on sale, but there are also modern shops, in which American cement machinery had a constructional part. There, too, American-made flashlights, batteries, spark plugs and other automobile accessories, are displayed under the rays of American-made electric light bulbs.

"Sometimes the same ships that take American products to Java return with many native products which are popular in this country. Many head colds and cases of malaria in America are treated with quinine extracted from the bark of the Java cinchona trees. The rubber heels on one's shoes or the tires on one's automobile may contain Java rubber. Perhaps your morning coffee and your afternoon tea originated on a Java coffee or tea plantation while there is a bare possibility that some of the small quantity of Java sugar imported by the United tates may have been used to sweeten these beverages.

"American varnish manufacturers use Java copal and damar; mattress and furniture cushoin manufacturers import large quantities of Java kapok; and the kitchen cabinet in the modern American home may contain vanilla, pepper, spices and chocolate from Java. The soap in the bathroom may contain Java palm oil."

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

JUNIOR BRANCH BAZAAR HAS SUCCESSFUL OPENING

The opening night of the bazaar conducted by Junior branch, No. 11, Sons of Hermann, in cooperation with Immergrun lodge, No. 12, and Germania lodge, No. 11, was a decided success. It was held Thursday evening in Germania hall, Market street, which was gaily decorated in Halloween attire "getter" with autumnal foliage that made a fine setting. The various booths tastily trimmed with vari-colored crepe paper and other decorations were freely patronized and the revenue obtained therefrom was of a substantial amount. An added attraction of the evening was dancing to a splendid programme of dance numbers played by Lyons orchestra.

Those in charge of the booths, which were arranged about the sides of the hall, were as follows: Novelty, Linus Charnetski, Raymond Portelance, George Lambert, Alfieri Dion, Chris Leipold, Frank Suntheimer, Miss Frieda Diermann; refreshments, Geo. Morris, Wallace Atterbury; dart board, Harry Wischnewski, Frank Decker, Jr., Herbert Charnetski; fortune telling, Charles Hamblen, Joseph Schaffhauser; candy, Herman Whitehead, Harry L. Clark; fancy work and cake, Mrs. Bertha Schlienz, Mrs. Ida Gresser, Miss Olga Zachae. The check room was in charge of Edward Christensen and the tickets were sold by Charles Barber.

The committee in charge comprised Linus Charnetski, chairman, Ellsworth Cramer, secretary, Henry Schaefer, treasurer, Raymond Portelance, Harry Clark, Chris Leipold, Frank Suntheimer, Harry Wischnewski, Herbert Charnetski, Charles Hamblen, Charles Barber, Edward Christensen, Herman Whitehead, Frank Decker, Jr., George Morris, Wallace Atterbury, Paul Winkel, August Ernst, Alfieri Dion and Joseph J. Schaffhauser.

BRILLIANT RECITAL BY MISS BOUTILIER, PIANISTE

Under the auspices of Nemrod Grotto at the Community house on Church street, Miss Alma Boutilier gave a brilliant piano recital Thursday evening before an audience of good numbers who were won to spontaneous and well-merited applause by the work of the artist.

This was Miss Boutilier's first public appearance in Norwich and she sprang into instant favor with the music lovers in the audience by the revelation of her talents. The poetic mood of the Beethoven group and the grace and charm of the Chopin numbers were expressed with artistic insight, while the vigor and power of the Liszt Tarentella were displayed with a command of technique that brought the evening to a triumphant conclusion.

The programme was given as follows:

Prelude and Fugue, C sharp major	Bach
Sonata, Op. 27, No. 2	Beethoven
a. Adagio sostenuto
b. Allegretto
c. Presto agitato.
Song Without Words	Mendelssohn
Minuetto	Schubert

Nocturne, Op. 27, No. 1
Mazurka, Op. 63, No. 1
Etude, Op. 10, No. 12	Chopin
Tarentella	Liszt

Two charming encore numbers were given, Caprice Vienva (Kreisler) which followed the second group, and Turkish March (Beethoven-Rubinstein) which came after the final number. Several beautiful bouquets of flowers were presented to the pianiste.

Miss Boutilier, who is a pupil of Professor Frank L. Farrell, is the daughter of A. R. Boutilier of Occum, a member of the Grotto.

The ushers for the evening were: Monarch Henry Gee, Prophets John C. Johnson, Louis Brown and Joseph Wellington and Past Monarch Herman Stelzner.

ZONING BOARD RESERVES DECISION ON FUNERAL HOME ON CLIFF STREET

Before the joint zoning board of the city and town of Norwich a hearing was given Thursday morning on the petition for a modification of the zoning ordinances so as to allow the premises at 32 Cliff street to be used for a funeral home, where the firm of Cummings & Ring wants to locate undertaking parlors. The petitioners are Rosa G. and Charles M. Hutzler and Louis L. Gotthelf. The Hutzler family is now occupying the premises, but is to move to a new residence which is being erected in the Harland road neighborhood.

Upon the conclusion of the hearing the board reserved decision.

The petitioners were represented by Attorney Thomas J. Kelly and the case for the opponents to granting a modification on the zoning ordinance was presented by Moses Blumenthal who had circulated a petition against the funeral home which had the following signers:

Rebecca Blumenthal, John J. Miller, Frank L. Arnold, Peter Sellas, C. G. Johnson, R. Warakomski, James A. Neil, Addie G. Brewster, Peter G. Drossos, Lena Rabinowitch, Elise Kinder, Fae Friedman, Samuel Jennes and Rev. S. A. Icick.

After First Selectman William S. Murray, who is chairman of the board, opened the hearing, Attorney Kelly called as his first witness Joseph P. Cummings of the undertaking firm which is now located at 322 Main street. Mr. Cummings pointed out the congested conditions in Main street which interfere greatly with handling a funeral there and said he considered the place on Cliff street would be an ideal location and the establishment of a funeral home there would be in accordance with the practice that prevails in such cities as New London, Bridgeport and New Haven. Mr. Cummings claimed that the location of the Grotto home on Cliff street and the Elks home on Park street eliminates this location as an A1 residential district.

He was followed by Charles M. Hutzler, who said he could not see how the location of a funeral home there would detract from the value of adjoining property. He said that no objection was registered by neighbors, including Mrs. Buckley, Mr. Prentice and Mrs. Brewster.

Louis L. Gotthelf testified to knowing of funeral homes being located in residence districts in Middletown, Waibury and New London. He thought property would be improved by the location of the funeral home in this neighborhood.

Attorney Kelly closed his case temporarily, reserving the right to call other witnesses later.

Moses Blumenthal of 18 Hawthorne street was first to testify for the opposition. He stated that his opposition to the location of the funeral home here was on account of the larger number of school children who passed this property daily going to and from the Hobart avenue and St. Joseph's parochial school, and also that the district would be thrown open to other business occupations if this modification were granted. Mr. Blumenthal said that 15 out of the 17 people he had seen had signed the petition in opposition.

James P. Sheridan of 30 Union street was called by Attorney Kelly. He said that he considered any place better than Main street to conduct a funeral portege and there would be no traffic difficulties on Cliff street. Charles A. Gager, Norwich undertaker, testified to the growing tendency to locate funeral homes in residential districts.

Several others testified briefly that they had no objection to the funeral home here. These included Mrs. Catherine M. Buckley of 15 Hawthorne street, which adjoins the Hutzler property. She admitted in reply to a question from Mr. Blumenthal that she would object if the applicant were a total stranger, but did not object to Mr. Cummings because she knew him.

Others who offered no objection were Alex Sharp, Rutherford C. Plaut, 83 Cliff street; George S. Powers, 5 Cliff street; George W. Pratt, 5 Robbins court; George P. Nolan, of 93 Fifth street.

RED ARROW BOOSTER CONTEST DRAWING VOTES

The Red Arrow club booster game is attracting wide interest in Norwich. About one hundred people have entered the contest for the five booster prizes which will be awarded to the person receiving the largest number of booster votes. The prizes will be awarded to the winners at the December 27 auction and consist of the following articles: First prize, diamond ring and setting, value $450; second prize, Kelvinator refrigerator, value $275; third prize, Hamilton gold watch, value $172; fourth prize, Savage washing machine, value $170; fifth prize, 57 pieces of Rogers plate table ware, value $87.

The merchants of the Red Arrow club have placed a bulletin board in the lobby of the Palace theatre, upon which is posted the names of all who have entered the booster contest and then umber of votes they have received. The names of the boosters and their standing in the vote contest are as follows:

Mrs. Louisa Atterbury 41,680, Miss Barbara Banes 1,000, Miss Mary Bundy 1,000, Mrs. J. D. Burke, 40,740, Arthur Chartier 44,500, Jennie Chiangi 1,000, Kenneth Church 1,000, Mrs. J. Clish 1,000, Mrs. J. D'Atri 1,000, Miss Emily Galiun 1,000, Louis Grover 1,000, Dr. Chas. Haddad 1,000, Ernest Haskell 1,000, Mrs. Ida Hough 1,000, Ruth Kinney 1,000, Earl Kramer 1,000, Mrs. Anna Leffingwell 1,000, Mr. Alec Levin 1,000, Miss Fannie Longo 14,360, Eugene Manning 27,015, Miss Thelma Marsh 1,000, Miss Eleanor O'Neil, 1,000, Mrs. Howard Peckham 1,000, Mrs. W. Rivers 1,000, Mrs. H. Robinson 1,000, Mrs. Ruth G. Sears 1,000, Mrs. E. W. Smith 1,000, Mrs. F. W Smith 1,000, Mrs. Jerry Sullivan 1,000, Mrs. Paul Turcotte 1,000, Miss Mary Williams 1,000, Mrs. W. I. Tsowski 1,000, Mrs. F. DiCarlo 71,000.

As the contest advances the standing of each booster will be announced, with exception of those who have not shown a gain in two weeks, in which case their names will be dropped from the contest roll.

There is also quite an interest manifested in the Red Arrow club offer of a bag of gold valued at $200 to be given to the organization bidding the highest amount of Red Arrow money.

Several churches, patriotic and fraternal organizations are interested to secure this bag of gold and their membership are contributing their Red Arrow money so that the organization may win the gold.

FORMER NORWICH MAN SUICIDE IN UTAH CITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 7—Despondent over death of his 12-months-old daughter, and subsequent estrangement from his wife, Clifford Cooper, 30, formerly a resident of Norwich, Conn., and son of Mrs. George Blake, 10 Thames street, Tonepah, Nevada, ended his life by shooting himself in a Salt Lake, Utah, rooming house.

Cooper's child was struck by an automobile last Christmas eve, and died shortly after. Her death affected Cooper, and he never ceased to grieve over her tragic ending. For several months past Cooper had been working at a smelter near Salt Lake, but recently quit his job, and since then, according to friends, has been despondent and morose. His body was found lying on the bed of his room, an automatic in one hand, the other hand clutching a photograph of his dead child.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT KINGS DAUGHTERS' CONVENTION

Forty-five members of the King's Daughters' in Connecticut who "entered the presence of the king" during the last year were honored in an impressive memorial service that was part of the second day of the 33rd annual convention of the Connecticut branch at the Central Baptist church in Hartford Wednesday.

Among the members whose memory was thus honored were:

New London County—Jewett City, Mrs. George Haskell, original member of the independent list; Friendship circle, Mrs. Charles Horton and Mrs. Hattie Crocker; St. James' circle, Mrs. Marie Stoddard.

Norwich—Home chapter, Mrs. Laura Hutchins, Mrs. Edward Fenner and Mrs. John E. Blackmer.

County activities were reported at the afternoon session by Mrs. Grace H. Manning of Norwich, for New London county.

KNIFE THROWER WILL SERVE TERM IN JAIL

Found guilty of charges of intoxication and breach of the peace, William Brown, 38, colored, of Stonington, was fined $5 and costs on each count on his appearance in the city court Thursday morning. Unable to pay his fine Brown was taken to jail and locked up. The accused was arrested Wednesday evening on the West Side by Sergeant Matthew Delaney and Officer Michael Pounch upon complaint of Catherine Harris, colored, of 28 High street, who testified in court that the accused hurled an opened knife at her in her house, while he was in a drunken stupor.

Mrs. Harris claimed that Brown came to her house and after making demands upon her, which she did not accede to, he brandished an ugly looking knife, which he later hurled at her. The knife lodged in the floor near her feet, she said. The officers procured the knife as evidence at the time Brown was arrested. The knife had a blade about three inches in length and opened upon applying pressure to a button on its handle. It was as sharp as a razor.

TO BUILD BIG BRIDGE FOR RAILROAD OVERPASS

Details of two extraordinarily important improvements in the Connecticut highway system were announced Thursday by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. Contracts for these projects together with others, calling for a total of 19 1-2 miles of new pavement and one huge railroad overpass construction, will be awarded shortly upon contractors' bids.

The two major improvements included are the construction of one of the state's largest overpasses on the Boston Post road at Fairfield, which will carry the highway above, instead of below the railroad tracks as at present; and the paving of North and South Broad streets in Meriden, which will shunt Hartford-New Haven traffic on Route No. 2 over a direct route through the city, avoiding central congestion and saving considerable time for through travel.

Although both pieces of work are on a par as far as convenience to traffic is concerned, the Fairfield project is the larger and more difficult. So large is the project that it has been decided to award the work under two separate contracts, one covering the construction of the big bridge over the tracks and the other covering the paving of approaches.

At the present time, the Boston Post road, traveling in the direction of South Norwalk, Stamford, Greenwich and New York, takes a sharp right turn on a narrow macadam pavement at Southport. It swings beneath the narrow railroad underpass and then sharply left. When the new project is completed, these curves will be eliminated and the Post road will travel in a straight line, crossing diagonally above the tracks.

This huge span, wide enough to accommodate four lanes of traffic, will require 380,000 pounds of structural steel and 295,000 pounds of deformed steel bars, and will necessitate the pouring of approximately 7,040 cubic yards of concrete in the sub-structure and foundations. The wearing surface will consist of 2,020 square yards of concrete and there will be 818 linear feet of concrete bridge rail.

Approaches for the bridge will require a large amount of earth, gravel and rock fill in order to carry the road to the required height above the railroad. The pavement on the approaches will be of waterbound macadam and will be about 4,734 feet long. The sides of the approaches, on the portions immediately adjacent to the bridge, will be lined with stone wall fence and on the other sections with wire rope guide rail.

During the process of construction, one-way traffic will be necessary at only one point although a detour may be used when operations reach their height.

The Meriden Broad street project calls for two sections of reinforced concrete totaling about 21,890 feet. The project will start at the present Yalesville underpass on the Wallingford side and travel in practically a straight line across the city, joining the Berlin turnpike again near Silver Lake. The paving will take place at both ends of the road, while the present city pavement will remain as the center section.

Although the new road will be only a little more than half a mile shorter than the present route through the city, it will avoid central traffic, many curves, the Yalesville underpass with its sharp turn and the Colony street railroad grade crossing. It is estimated that use of the new highway will cut from five to 10 minutes from average running time between New Haven and Hartford.

In this work, a large amount of excavation and fill will also be necessary in order to rectify the line and grade of what is now a typically rural dirt road.

The projects as advertised for bid are as follows:

Town of Bethel: About 1,363 feet of reinforced concrete pavement on Route No. 124 at the Silk Mill corner.

Town of Burlington: About 7,517 feet of waterbound macadam on the Burlington-Harwinton road.

Towns of Cornwall and Warren: About 27,351 feet of waterbound macadam on Route No. 152, the Warren road.

Town of Fairfield: Sub-structure and super-structure complete for bridge over railroad at the Southport cut-off. About 4,734 feet of waterbound macadam in connection with the approaches to the bridge over the Southport cut-off.

City of Meriden: About 21,890 feet of reinforced concrete on North and South Broad streets.

Town of Watertown and Woodbury: About 16,990 feet of reinforced concrete on the Watertown-Minortown road.

Town of Westport: About 1,400 feet of 2 1-2 inch bituminous macadam on 5 inch stone base on Saugatuck avenue.

Town of Woodstock: About 19,759 feet of waterbound macadam on the Eastford-West Woodstock road.

Town of Haddam: About 2,070 feet of waterbound macadam on the Rock Landing road.

WESTERLY MEN DEFEAT ARCANUM AT BRIDGE

The bridge players of the Square and Compass club of Westerly evened the score with the Arcanum club teams Thursday night, when they won the night's tournament play here at the Arcanum clubhouse by the score of 13,380 to 11,519, a margin of 1,861. Last week in Westerly the Arcanum men were the winners by a margin of 2,433. The next night of play will be in Westerly, either this week or next.

The Arcanum won on four of the six tables playing, but the two losing tables were so far behind their Westerly opponents that they turned the balance against the home players. A light lunch was served for the teams at the conclusion of play.

The scores were as follows:

Jordan and Bailey (N) 2021 vs. Smith and Broughton (W), 1475.

Harwood and Noyes (N) 2159 vs. James and F. Freeman (W) 1385

Evans and Ellison (N), 2287 vs. Counsel and Larsen (W), 2158.

Pierson and Gallup (N), 664 vs. Rhodin and Blackler (W) 3042.

Cudworth and Rathbone (N), 2430 vs. Riding and Barber (W), 2171.

Latham and Williams (N), 1958 vs. D. Freeman and Stillman (W), 3149.

For Community Synagogue Services

Rabbi A. Gordon, a graduate of Columbia university, is to officiate for the week-end services of Norwich Community synagogue which are to be held this (Friday) evening at 7:30 at the B'nai Brith rooms in the Uncas-Merchants bank building. The services are held under the auspices of the Jewish members who recently conducted the high holiday services at the Community house. The modern form of services with explanations of the reading and the sermons delivered in English made a favorable impression upon those who attended.

DEATH OF GEN. AIKEN IN HIS 97TH YEAR

Gen. William A. Aiken, the oldest member of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., and one of the oldest Civil war veterans in the country, who at one time was quartermaster general of the state of Connecticut, passed away at his home, 137 Washington street Thursday morning at about 3.45 o'clock. He had been in failing health for the past six months, his condition becoming serious during the summer.

General Aiken was born at Manchester, Vermont, on April 18, 1833, son of the late John Aiken and Mary Means Appleton. In Mr. Aiken's early boyhood his father moved to Lowell to accept the position of agent of the Lawrence Manufacturing company at the time when the great cotton mills of

GEN. WILLIAM A. AIKEN

Massachusetts were in their beginnings. His family subsequently moved to Andover, Mass., and from there Mr. Aiken went to school at Dummer academy, one of the oldest endowed schools in the country, of which at the time of his death he was the oldest living alumnus. After his schooldays he was given an appointment to West Point by President Pierce, Mr. Aiken's uncle. Because of defective eyesight he failed to pass the physical examination and subsequently entered the employ of one of the drygoods commission houses in Boston.

In 1854 he and his cousin, Dr. Samuel Green of Boston, with letters of introduction from President Pierce and Mr. Abbott Lawrence, United States minister to England, who was Mr. Green's uncle, embarked for Europe on the Bark "Sylph" and were thirty-three days from Boston to Gibraltar.

WHEN IS FLOUR TO BE CALLED "WHOLE WHEAT"

How much of the wheat kernel must be in whole wheat flour to make it "whole wheat?" This nicely pointed question is now before the food standards committee of the United States department of agriculture, which is considering it because of the confusion among both millers and consumers as to the distinction between whole wheat and graham flour.

Housewives sometimes get graham when they ask for the other. What is the difference, if any? To decide that is another problem of the standards committee.

"In practice, 'whole wheat' flour never contained the entire kernel," Dr. E. M. Bailey, head of the department of analytical chemistry of the Connecticut agricultural experiment station, who is a member of the committee, said Thursday.

"Graham flour is the product obtained by grinding the entire wheat berry with nothing added and nothing taken away. The effort to reduce the coarseness of such a product and yet retain its nutritive advantages resulted in a product known as 'entire' or 'whole' wheat flour, which makes use of the entire grain except a portion of the coarser outer layers.

"The logical interpretation of the name 'whole wheat' as applied to flour is that it, like graham, should consist of the entire grain. It is proposed to define graham and the other as identical and define the product made from modified grain under another name."

Graham flour was first so named after Dr. Sylvester Graham, who advocated the eating of bread made from unrefined wheat meal as one part of a diet which would remedy alcoholism.

Analysis made in the experiment station laboratory of these products as sold in Connecticut show that the content of "graham" flour is apt to be the same as "whole wheat" and that dealers and consumers alike make no clear distinction between them.

Before the food standards committee finally settles the matter, a public hearing, where the millers and consumers may present their views, will be held in Washington. At a recent meeting of the committee revision of the existing definitions was made.

OIL TRUCK DRIVER'S CLOTHING CAUGHT FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

MOOSUP, Nov. 7—William A. Day of Norwich had a lively time for a few moments here today when his clothing caught fire from a blaze that badly damaged the cab of the Standard Oil truck he was driving. Gasoline dripping from a leak in the tank was set afire when it came in contact with the hot exhaust and within a short time the cab was enveloped in flames. In trying to subdue the flames Day's clothing was ignited. He used the contents of an extinguisher upon himself and the truck, and a call was later sent to the Moosup fire department. The truck was set afire as he was backing it into an alley. It was later towed to Norwich.

RICHARD RE-NOMINATED FOR MAYOR IN PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 7—Mayor Charles A. Richard was re-nominated by the republican voters of the city for re-election as mayor at the general caucus held here tonight. Warren S. Ames was nominated for the office of Alderman-at-large, when Eugene Dumas, Ames' opponent withdrew.

Richard won over Walter N. King by 55 votes, Richard receiving 340 to 285 for King.

Harvey Grinsell defeated Arthur H. Plessis for the nomination for city tax collector by a majority of 113 votes, Grinsell getting 339 and Plessis 226. Lucius P. Merriam, city auditor and Herman G. Carver, registrar of voters were returned to office by votes of acclamation. Ratification of the names of Robert T. Chadwick, John M. Dean, David O. Breault and Eugene Migneault was made for aldermen. Judge M. H. Geissler presided as moderator and Lucius P. Merriam acted as clerk. There were 700 in the hall.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

PLAINFIELD PROS CLASH WITH FAST BROOKLYN DODGERS THIS EVENING

Another banner basketball attraction is scheduled for this evening at the Plainfield Community house when the Plainfield Pros clash with the Brooklyn Dodgers, a fast professional club that has beaten some of the best teams in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Last week the Dodgers were beaten in a close game by the Renaissance team, 37 to 29. Another night, the Chicago Americans were beaten by a similar score by the same team, which would make it seem that the Dodgers and the Chicago club were of the same calibre. Last week the Americans trimmed Plainfield in the opener, so it can readily be seen that the Pros are in for a stiff tussle this evening.

Realizing that they are up against strong opposition tonight, the Pros have been strengthened by the addition of Jerry Conway, who will play center. Conway is a rangy boy who has seen plenty of basketball with the Washington team of the American league and last year played for the Meriden Endees. Conway will give strength to a position that has always been a problem to the Pros.

Kasper and Brusso will hold down the forward line, while Bill McElwain and Bernot or Dissenger will be at guards. McElwain is playing his last game with the Plainfield club before joining the New York Celtics, who signed him last week. Playing with the Fort Wayne team against the Celtics, McElwain scored 16 points, which is no small feat. It was his fine showing in this game that won him a place on the team that is considered the world's greatest club.

For the preliminary game, the Buddies will clash with Art LeClair's All-Stars in what is expected to be a real basketball battle. Dancing will follow the game.

There are a few reserved seats left for the game tonight and these may be had by calling the Plainfield Community house. The preliminary is scheduled for 8 o'clock, while the main game goes on an hour later.

RECORD FIELD FOR CROSS COUNTRY RUN

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(AP)—A record field of 23 varsity cross country teams comprising a gand total of 284 of the best college long distance runners in the east, as well as a handful from the middle west, was announced today for the eastern intercollegiate cross country championship, to be run November 25, at VanCortlandt Park, here.

Michigan State college entered a team of nine men headed by Captain Theodore Willmarth and Lauren P. Brown. The 22 other contestants, all of them eastern institutions, are Bates, Carnegie Tech, City College of New York, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Fordham, Harvard, Lafayette, Maine, Manhattan, Massachusetts Institute of Tech, New York university, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Rutgers, Syracuse, Union, Williams, and Yale.

Cornell, with a pack of 34 men entered, leads the field in quantity but only seven are permitted to run on a team. At the opposite extreme is Lafayette which named only its speedy ace, Hugh M. Masterton, concentrating its ambitions upon the individual title. Penn State, which now holds the team championship and has pretty well monopolized it in recent seasons, nominated 23 men.

In the freshman chase will be Carnegie Tech, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Fordham, Maine, Manhattan, M. I. T., N. Y. U., Pennsylvania, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Syracuse, Union and Yale.

OCKFORDS CLASH WITH NEW HAVEN TEAM SUNDAY

The New London Ockfords will take up their warfare with the New Haven Williams where it was interrupted last Sunday by rain this coming Sunday at Mercer field, New London. In an Eastern Professional league game. Both teams will present practically the same fronts as were ready to go into action last Sunday.

The Ockfords will have Wally Rice, former Bulkeley halfback as an addition for this Sunday, who will team up with all the veterans on the squads, including many former Chapman Tech and Bulkeley luminaries. Two Norwich boys are on the squad. Frank Herbert, a halfback and Moore, center, formerly regular pivot man on the Sub Base. Tony Turello, former Chapman Tech star and Dick Gray, center for Bulkeley last year, will be in the lineup.

Lowell Textile Crippled.

LOWELL, Mass. Nov. 7.—(AP)—Lowell Textile Institute will depend heavily on substitute material to vanquish Newport Naval Training School here on Saturday. Practically every first string man on the squad is suffering from injuries, some slight and some serious. As a result, there have been few scrimmages in this week's practice, Coach "Rusty" Yarnell preferring to conserve the energies of the few veterans fit for battle.

MANY INTERSECTIONAL GAMES ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(AP)—With the biggest intersectional program of the season taking eastern teams to other parts of the country for Saturday's games and a home schedule as important and involving about as much traveling, football practice in the east today weakened rapidly while there was a boil market in train rides.

The two eastern contenders in the big intersectional shots of the week, Harvard and Army, wound up their home drills and started west. The Crimson boarded a special train for an early start for Ann Arbor, Mich. The Army squad took time for a final brisk drill before departing for Champaign, Ill. The Cadets worked on their fense, stopping the scrubs' Illinois plays without much trouble. Red Cagle shone in the defensive drill as much as he does carrying the ball.

Other teams, both travelers and stay-at-homes, eased up in their drills as the end of the week approached. Dartmouth ended a two-day of preparation for meeting Brown with a light workout designed principally to develop new plays made necessary by the absence of Al Marsters. Brown's practice was principally defensive and likewise light.

Colgate headed for New York to meet Columbia after a long formation drill. The Maroon was without the services of George Stollwerck, and Steve Duguid, halfbacks, Columbia staged a scrimmage with discouraging results. The varsity found much trouble breaking Colgate plays run by the Jayvees. Georgetown and Navy took opposite courses. The Hilltoppers put in a busy but not hard session while the midshipmen went through a rough offensive scrimmage.

Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson began to taper off in their work for Saturday's fray. Pitt's unbeaten and untied eleven worked at its kicking game while the unbeaten but twice tied Presidents had signal and formation drill.

Bert Harris of Rutgers pulled one of the training season's most brilliant feats, booting 53 successive placements from more than 20 yards. It was his fourth straight day of kicking drill in preparation for the Lafayette game. The Leopards busied themselves with punting and passing, attempting to develop a satisfactoroy replacement for Woodfin.

Princeton made both of its days of preparation for meeting Lehigh busy as well as surprising. A second scrimmage followed Bill Roper's announcement that Levine, former guard, would start at fullback and Ed Wittmer would return to his halfback post from quarter. Cornell also staged a scrimmage working for the western reserve contest. Villanova and Bucknell, old rivals, put on long final drills before starting for Scranton, the scene of Saturday's contest.

New York university worked out in the Yankee stadium, scene of Saturday's battle with Georgia. The violets drilled for two hours against a Georgia style of defense. Coach Chick Meehan centered his attention on developing speed in the attack.

MANDELL SINGS FOR BOUT AT MIAMI BEACH

MIAMI, Fla., Nov 7.—(AP)—Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, has accepted terms for about here December 6, it was announced tonight by G. R. K. Sarter, Miami Beach matchmaker. Mandell will meet Louis Gonzales, Cuban welterweight, or Harry Kid Brown, eastern boxer.

Gonzales and Brown meet here next Friday in the semi-final of Carter's first show, the winner to get the Mandell shot. The opening show features Dave Shade, well known California middleweight, and Dick Evans, Ohio fighters.

ALL AGGIE REGULARS BUT ONE READY FOR GAME

STORRS, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Every regular except Stanley, guard, will be in uniform for Connecticut Aggies' game with New Hampshire state here Saturday. All the rest of the squad is in good condition and went through its final drill of the week here today. The session was light consisting of signal practice, a short dummy scrimmage and work on kicking and passing. Stanzel still is on crutches with an injured ankle.

McGILL THROWS KAPLAN TWICE IN 45 MINUTES

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Pat McGill, Irish wrestler, won a chance to grapple with Gus Sonnenberg here tonight by throwing Abe Kaplan twice inside of 45 minutes. He gained the first fall with a toe hold and the second with an airplane whirl. Bibber McCoy, former Holy Cross football player, defeated Harry Mammus of Springfield, in the semi-final. McCoy's fall resulted from a combination head and body roll in thirty-two minutes.

Susie Says

As has been remarked before there comes to all of us an embarrassing moment.

Here's one of the embarrassing incidents in the life of a certain Norwich man which occurred in a neighboring city.

It seems that the Norwich man had violated a parking regulation of the city and had received one of those cute little tags that entitle you to aid in the support of the city court.

The Norwich man, seeing no reason why he should be tagged, wanted to know what it was all about. He did a very logical thing and sought out the officer on the beat.

He found him after only a minute or two of searching, which in itself is remarkable. The officer, according to the Norwich man, was of a nationality prone to forceful and prolonged argument.

The Norwich man wanted an explanation of the whys and wherefores of his being tagged when he was not aware of having violated any of the city's sacred parking regulations. He thought it was an injustice.

The officer told him in no uncertain words just where he got off, what he could do and where to go. The Norwich man became all hot and bothered and told the officer a few things regarding laws and the intelligence of policemen in general.

He finally concluded his argument by informing the officer that he was going to the police headquarters and enter a complaint about the officer and the way he had been treated, etc.

He angrily marches back to the car, drives around the block and heads for the police station. He arrives in due course of time and grabs the tag and hot-foots it into the station.

Bouncing up to the desk he announces in a loud tone that "I want to——," and that's as far as he got. The sergeant at the desk was the same baby that he'd given the argument a few minutes earlier.

"Well, whadda you want?" asks the sarge. "Nothing," says the Norwich man, "and I'll get it outside." And out he goes.

MARIANO AGAIN HANGS DEFEAT ON BEASLEY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Al Mariano, of Waterbury, again defeated Jack Beasley, New Haven, in a return bout at the Arena tonight. Mariano weighed 166, Beasley 163. They went the limit, three rounds.

The excitement of the evening was the shortest of Johnny Marrow. New York, weighing 118, and Steve Vane, Derby, 116, which Marrow won on points in three rounds.

Summaries:

Joey King, New Haven, 120, defeated Manuel Lugo, New York, 128-3.

Willie Attell, Norwalk, 109, scored technical knockout over Johnny Sabastino, Waterbury, 110-2.

Frankie Smith Norwalk, 124 1-2, defeated Nelson Chartier, Collinsville, 123 3-4-3.

Frankie Dillon, New Haven, 122, defeated Billy Moore, New York, 13-3.

Stanley Bethke, Highwood, 152 1-2, defeated Teddy Peters, Derby, 157-3.

Eddie Jessup, Torrington, 175, scored technical knockout over Everett Craig, Waterbury, 170-2.

Jackie Dillon, New Haven, 132 1-2, defeated Johnny Davis, Norwalk, 135-3.

Carmen Knapp, New Haven, 135, technical knockout over Nick Belvadere, New York, 134-1.

Billy O'Brien, Derby, 165 1-2, defeated Herman Weinert, New York, 161-3.

Joe Coleman, New York, 146, technical knockout over Jack Renault, New Haven, 146-2.

J. L. DEMPSEY, TURF WRITER, DIES OF HEART DISEASE

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 7 —(AP)—Thoroughbred racing lost one of its best known figures today when J. L. Dempsey, veteran turf writer and expect chart maker, died in his hotel room of heart disease.

A member of the staff of the Chicago daily Racing Form for 25 years, Dempsey came here to report the race results at Arlington Downs, the new $3,000,000 racing plant between Dallas and Fort Worth built by W. T. Waggoner, multimillionaire Texan.

Dempsey had been in poor health for several months and had worked only intermittently. Friends in Chicago sought to dissuade him from coming here lest he suffer dire consequences but Dempsey replied:

"I can beat that argument."

About sixty years old, Dempsey first became attached to racing forty years ago at the old Morris Park track in New York. Once he was valet to a jockey.

His entrance into the race writing field came late in the '90's in New Orleans when he started publication of a paper of his own, "Rail Bird Chatter."

Arrangements were made to take the body to New Orleans tonight for burial.

THREE NEW MEN IN YALE LINEUP FOR SATURDAY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7—(AP)— Head Coach Mal Stevens has his lineup for the Yale-Maryland game all ready, and three new men are in it. He announced the lineup tonight, after three hours of practice and supervised scrimmaging.

Bob Wilson, regular quarter who was injured before the Yale-Army game, will be in the line in place of Hall, and Chic McLennan, left half, will be in in instead of Snead. Jim Stewart, left guard, will substitute for Loeser. Albie Booth, quarter who distinguished himself in the game with Army and now with the second team, will be ready as reserve back, as will Austen, left half, and Ellis, right half.

Hickok and Barres will be at ends, Marting and Vincent at tackles, either Stewart or Greene at right guard, Palmer at center, Miller at right half and Dunn, fullback.

The varsity and scrubs and the second team and scrubs scrimmaged, with the coaches blowing the whistles before completed plays. In preliminary work, Coach Stevens tried out new running, forward and lateral passing plays with the backs and ends, and put the linemen to work on the charging machine.

There will be light practice tomorrow.

Bridgeport Wins

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Nov. 7.—(AP)—The Bridgeport roller hockey team defeated the New Britain team here tonight, 8 to 5. The Bridgeport team trailed up to the last two minutes of the third period when goals by St. Aubin and Therian on assists from Boucher tied the score. Therian made the winning goal in the last two minutes of the fourth period.

JOHNNY KOP LOSES HIS FIRST BOUT OF PRO CAREER; OUTPOINTED BY TOURAIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

HARTFORD, Nov. 7.—Apparently stale, Johnny Kop, Norwich boxing sensation, made anything but a sensational showing in his initial debut as a junior welterweight here tonight against Alex Tourain of New Haven, formerly of Putnam, who substituted for Young America of New York. In losing a six-round decision to the former Putnam simon-pure, Johnny appeared weak at the 140-pound figure rather than as strong as was expected by his many admirers. The Norwich lad had every opportunity to increase his kayo string to eight straight, having his substitute opponent on the floor for a nine count midway in the second round, but just didn't have the steam to put on the finishing touches.

Several times before the bout was over, the kayo artist was actually in danger himself, going down for a no-count in the fourth.

Tourain, with his orthodox style, proved a puzzle for Kop in the opening round and, try as he might, Johnny was unable to land a telling blow in the first three minutes of fighting. Coming out strong in the second, Kop chased the New Haven boy to the ropes and with a well-directed right sent him spinning into the dust. Hitting his head as he landed, Tourain appeared done for the evening, but in some unexplained manner he found enough strength to get back on his feet at the count of nine.

Kop tore after the stunned battler but appeared to have lost the sting that a minute previous sent Tourain spinning. As the round wore on, Kop tired rapidly and at the bell was as bad off as his opponent. Both boys wrestled and mauled their way through the third session, neither showing any distinct advantage.

The fourth found Tourain growing stronger and the local lad weaker. Shortly after the opening of the session Johnny went to the floor but was up before a count. Tourain had little trouble adding the round. Seeming to regain his strength, Kop came back in the early fifth and again had the former Putnam amateur in a bad way. Near the end of the round Kop, after practically tiring himself out, slipped to one knee and was taking the worst of the milling at the end of the round.

A final sixth-round rally won the verdict for Tourain. In this session Kop tired badly and was in a bad way at the gong. His defeat was a surprise to everyone at the ringside, particularly those who had seen him wade through all previous opposition. The defeat was not due to Tourain's supremacy as much as it was to Kop's poor condition.

Mickey Fiabive, 135, Hartford, won the decision over Georgie Day, 136, New Haven, in the feature 10-round bout. Frankie Marchese, 127 3-4, New York, knocked out Jimmy Scully, 131, of Boston, in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout. Vincent LaBella, 125 1-4, Middletown, won a four-round decision over Lester Oberheim, 122 1-2, Springfield, in a bout that was full of action from the opening gong up to the final. LaBella's strong rally in the last two rounds won the decision of Referee Conway. Rocky Rao, 133, Baltimore, now under the management of Hy Malley, of Hartford, knocked out Tom Napoli, 131 1-2, New York, in the third round of a scheduled four-round bout. Napoli substituted for Joe Pasquale, also of New York, who hurt his hand in training. In the opening four-rounder, Leo Gauthier, 145, Springfield, won the decision over Joe Thue, 148, California.

GODFREY-BYRNE BOUT DECLARED NO CONTEST

BOSTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—The scheduled ten round bout between George Godfrey, gant Leperville, Pa., Negro heavyweight and Jim Byrne, of Boston, was stopped at the end of the seventh round here tonight. Referee Johnny Brassill declared it no contest on the grounds that Godfrey was not trying.

Godfrey, who had a 61 pound weight advantage, was on the receiving end during most of the seven rounds. Byrne would land several left hooks to the head and then go into a clinch, a position in which the fighters were most of the time. Godfrey weighed 236 pounds and Byrne 195.

Godfrey was warned several times to get started and it was not until the sixth round that he started using his right hand, which he flayed against Byrne's body, the latter closed in on the huge Negro and succeeded in landing several left hooks to the head, none of which bothered Godfrey.

Godfrey gave a listless performance in the seventh and, though apppeared to be trying, the referee broke up a clinch and sent both to their corners. The official then ordered the Arena A. C. management to withhold both purses.

Referee Brassill's action met with the enthusiastic approval of Chairman Eugene Buckley of the Massachusetts boxing commission, who was at the ringside. Buckley said he would make every effort to prevent Godfrey from boxing again in this state.

In the eight-round semi-final, George Carney of Boston, won an unpopular decision from Pete Pacheco, who was announced as an Indian from Denver, Col. The latter battered Carney's features almost to a pulp but slowed up considerably in the last three rounds, which Carney carried.

Laddy Lee of Somerville, was extended to the limit before he received the award over Irish Paddy Mullins of Boston, a game youngster able to digest terrific punishment, in six rounds. In the other contests, Harry Allen of Brockton, scored a 25 second kockout over Dan Hurley of Boston. Jake Herman, Boston, out-pointed Joe Dow of Lawrence in four rounds, Sammy Mango, Boston, defeated Pat Santos, Revere, in four rounds and Steve Ketchell, Haverhill, gained a technical knockout over Jake Hicks, Boston, in the second round.

ADMITS YALE IS COMMERCIALIZING FOOTBALL

MILFORD, Nov. 7.—(AP) —Commercialized college football is justifiable and necessary, and its results are commendable. Harold F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale Athletic association told the Rotary club in the weekly luncheon today.

"I think it is only fair to admit frankly that we are commercializing football," he said, "but it must be borne in mind that the purpose is simply to provide funds for other undergraduate athletics," Woodcock said.

"Generally, people think of eleven men playing football for a college, but there are in addition hundreds of others in the background who are not chosen for the team who derive many hours of exercise, health and pleasure from our athletic facilities."

"Baseball, soccer, tennis, lacrosse—in these and in others there is interclass and intercollegiate competition. They do not attract the revenue football does, but why should not football be utilized to cover their cost?"

Mr. Woodcock declared that it was "especially unfortunate" that the report was made public at a time when, he believes, the most offending colleges are "cleaning house."

BROWN WILL HAVE STRONG TEAM AGAINST DARTMOUTH

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 7—(AP)—Brown went through a light drill here today, with the emphasis on the defensive end of the game. Joe Schein, the varsity right tackle, was in uniform and went through his first session this week, his injury at Holy Cross game having kept him on the sidelines all week. He seemed a likely starter against Dartmouth, Saturday, with Paul MacKesey in the other tackle post.

Lee Marshall looms as the likely starter at fullback, and the remainder of the eleven will comprise the same men who have made up the varsity for weeks.

Joe Mahood is the only member of the varsity squad who is out of the game, and McLaughry will field a squad that is nearer full strength than at any time this season.

CREEDEN IS BACK WITH BOSTON COLLEGE

BOSTON, Nov. 7 — (AP) — Captain Paddy Creeden rejoined the Boston college football squad today and, though he was not permitted to take part in the practice, was certified as being fit to hold down his halfback assignment in Saturday's game with Fordham.

Coach Joe McKenney worked his players until long after dark and the regular team spent much time solving the Maroon plays which the scrubs attempted in a dummy scrimmage. Line Coach "Tiny" McManmon, who has been dissatisfied with the work of his forwards for the past several games, reported that the return of Al Morelli, regular guard, has brought about an improvement in charging and tackling.

MYERS NOT TO PLAY AGAINST GEORGIA TEAM

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)— Dave Myers, New York university's star Negro quarterback, probably will be kept out of Saturday's game with Georgia, but this question will not be definitely decided until after an examination tomorrow. In today's practice, Myers left shoulder drooped and his left arm hung limply at his side. He tossed the ball around with his right hand, though a port sider.

Myers said today that he was not in condition to play and that three times during the Georgetown game last week he had told a trainer that he was hurt. The trainer, however, failed to relay the message to Coach Chick Meehan and Myers remained in the game.

ROLLER HOCKEY PERIODS ARE TO BE SHORTENED

NEW BRITAIN, Nov. 7—(AP)—Decision to shorten the playing period from 15 minutes each to 12 minutes each, effective November 10, was made a special meeting of the American Roller Hockey league tonight. As an experiment this year the league had shifted its playing periods from two fifteen and one twenty minute session to four of fifteen each. It was found that the four long periods greatly slowed down the play towards the end of the game.

Hugh J. Rorty, representing Hartford, stated that he expected to sign a contract on Friday morning which would assure that city of a club in the circuit.

MARYLAND PERFECTS PASS ATTACK FOR YALE

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Nov. 7—(AP) —The Maryland team finished its preparations for the Yale encounter todoay showing improved physical condition. The team staged a long signal drill, developing new pass formations to augment an aerial game which already has come in for extensive use this season. Coach Byrd is counting heavily on his passing game against the Elis.

AMBASSADOR MOORE WILL RETURN TO PERU

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The white house announced today that Alexander P. Moore, of Pittsburgh, would return to Peru as ambassador. Mr. Moore is in this country now, having returned on account of illness, but it was said he has improved and would be able to resume his duties shortly.

GIRL INSISTS KRAFT JUMPED OVERBOARD

POINT-A-LA-HACHE, La., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Testifying at the arraignment of John McGouldrick, ship's officer indicted for the murder of Jack Kraft, New York press man, Gloria Rouzer, alias Ione Orde, clung to her original story that her traveling companion had jumped over the side of the ship Creole as it steamed up the Mississippi river.

This testimony, District Attorney Leander Peres said, had taken the state by surprise as the girl had promised to turn state's evidence. He grilled her closely on the statement she had made to him that "Mac could have killed him."

She replied hotly that the district attorney had forced that statement from her under duress. The district attorney denied the charge and opposed bail for the girl until she had signed the transcript of the testimony. She was returned to the local jail along with McGouldrick.

New "Rip Van Winkle"

WENATCHEE, Wash.—(AP)—Experiments with the codling moth in this apple capital of the world reveal the pest a worthy imitator of Rip Van Winkle. Placed in cold storage for three years, cocoons returned to normal conditions have produced moths that lay eggs and otherwise perform long dormant functions.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Windham high in Willimantic will watch the Stonington-Westerly game at Westerly next Monday with interest and with a reason. The Thread Cityites have finished their conference schedule with two victories, one defeat and two ties for a total of six points (two for wins and one for ties). Westerly has played three of its five conference tilts and has six points also, gained through three victories. Westerly has two more games to play, with Stonington and Chapman Tech and by gaining either victory or tie in either, will clinch the conference championship.

The present standing:

	W	L	Ties	Pts.
Westerly	3	0	0	6
Windham	2	1	2	2

Stonington also enters into the reckoning with a mathematical chance. With four games played and a record of won 2, lost 1, with the one Monday with Westerly to play, and one with N. F. A., Stonington has four points with a possibility of eight. Westerly has a possibility of ten.

There are going to be a lot of fireworks Saturday at Torrington when the undefeated Torrington high eleven takes on the equally undefeated Naugatuck combine in what some have billed as the state title game. There is a question about it in the minds of many for these schools have not played the strongest kind of opponents and Stamford is, in the minds of a lot of followers, just as good a team as either one. However, Stamford is not a member of the Connecticut Interscholastic Athletic conference, which regulates high school sports in the state and this is brought up as an argument against awarding them any honors.

Nevertheless, the game on the week end is going to draw some crowd. At least 2,000 wild fans will come from Naugy, where everybody is football mad. Naugy is undefeated in two seasons while Torrington lost once last year.

The Torrington team is made up mostly of seniors who played here two years ago against the Academy and lost, 7 to 6. However, the outfit of sophomores showed plenty of promise that day and after the game Coach Geary predicted his boys would be heard from within a year or so.

Coach Billy Schofield has started basketball practice at Crosby with 75 turning out for the initial practice. A squad of 35 will be carried throughout the season, more than most schools usually have try out for the teams. Crosby's schedule opens Dec. 13 with the Yale Frosh.

Last week we picked the Academy to beat Windham 7 to 6, but the Academy lost, 6 to 0; Bulkeley to lose to Hartford high, 13 to 0, and Bulkeley lost, 20 to 6, (a margin of 13 points, anyway); Westerly to lose, 7 to 0, and Westerly lost, 14 to 13, to LaSalle academy; Stonington to beat Chapman Tech, 12 to 7, and Stonington won, 9 to 0, and Putnam to win, 6 to 0, but Putnam lost, 13 to 12. This is a record of three winners and two defeats but .000 percentage on the score.

This week we'll take N. F. A. to win, 12 to 0, from West Hartford; Bulkeley to beat Manchester, 13 to 7; Chapman Tech to beat Putnam, 7 to 2; Killingly to beat Tourtellotte, 18 to 0; Windham to beat Bristol, 6 to 0, and Westerly-Stonington about a touchdown either way.

And—two of the teams bid goodbye to their home fields tomorrow, N. F. A. and Windham—Windham has one more game after that with Manchester and the Wildcats two, with Stonington and Bulkeley—the Academy-Bulkeley game is just 15 days away—next Saturday, a week from tomorrow, Bulkeley's going to play Chapman Tech in their first football game in five or six years—the only thing in the line of athletic endeavor in eastern Connecticut today is a cross-country run between the Academy and Storrs Frosh at the campus—the Academy boys are going to run Chapman Tech next week and then rest until the national interscholastics at Newark Thanksgiving day—this will be their second long jaunt of the season—they went to Troy, N. Y. last month—the All-teams will be due in a week or two.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

SOME young golfer with enthusiasm and control of his shots under high pressure may be waiting with greatness just ahead for the big thrill of becoming a hero overnight. Last year about this time Horton Smith was a professional golfer with a good reputation in his own neighborhood in Missouri but only a tall, clean living young chap whose name meant nothing to the golf world as a whole.

The hard hitting young giant went out with the sharpshooters in pursuit of golf dollars from coast to coast and in addition to collecting far more than his share, became the most talked of member of the salaried golf clan.

Before Horton began to drive golf balls with astonishing ease for almost unbelievable distances, Bobby Cruickshank had a great run of successes through the winter play, but Bobby had made something of a reputation for himself by being runner-up in the open, soon after he changed his status from Scotch amateur to United States professional.

Johnny Farrell, who was later to go on to greater heights by winning the open, swept through a dozen tournaments to victory at an earlier stage of his upward climb.

There may be a comparatively unknown golfer polishing his clubs and oiling his shoes in preparation for the winter's golf who will show the older fellows the way when the shots begin to click for the serious money of the campaign.

"You never can tell," said Gene Sarazen. "Experience ought to be a big asset in this game but sometimes it doesn't seem to mean a thing. I've seen young fellows make shots that a veteran would not even attempt.

"I wouldn't be surprised, not a bit, to see somebody you or I never heard of jump in and win a lot of tournaments. Golf offers a great opportunity to the young fellows.

"These tournaments scattered all over the country are a great gamble. You can spend a lot of money traveling and it's hard to win these days. The competition is hard, plenty hard."

WHEN St. Mary's and the University of Oregon play football at San Francisco Thanksgiving day they may have the initial kickoff at 10.30 o'clock in the morning. It has been the custom to play football games either in the afternoon or at night on the Pacific coast and the suggestion made by Slip Madigan, St. Mary's coach, caused some comment. Many games have been played in the South in the forenoon of Thanksgiving day although in recent years, there has been a drift to afternoon rather than morning play.

The University of South Carolina and Clemson College played the other day, as they have done for years, at noon, an odd hour for a football game to start. The game is annually the outstanding feature of the State fair and always starts promptly as the noon whistle sounds.

—with the FINEST BODIES ever built for any motor car . . .

THE COACHCRAFT of the 1930 Nash "400" shows the world how a motor car body should be built. In the new arched-in upper-structure design Nash body designers have replaced customary upper body bulk with grace and slenderness. They have developed new methods of bracing and strengthening which make these 1930 Nash "400" bodies more rigid and less likely to develop rattles than any body ever put on any motor car. The new door, window and windshield opening devices operate with delightful ease. The interior is entirely insulated from the engine. Rear seats are nearly three inches wider. Twin cowl ventilators furnish the most efficient type of interior ventilation. A New generation of motor cars has arrived!

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Algernon (reading joke)—Fancy this, Percy, a chap here thinks that a football coach has four wheels.

Percy—Haw! Haw! And how many wheels has the bally thing?

—Union Pacific Magazine.

He—Darling, I'd fly to the ends of the earth for you.

She—But it would make me just as happy if you'd walk.

—Brooklyn Eagle.

Tramp—Lady, could you give me a bite?

Lady—I don't want a bite myself, but if you'll wait a minute, I'll call my dog.—16th Infantry News.

Shy Suitor—Er—would you object if I—er—imprinted a kiss on your—er—lips?

Her Young Brother (who is an office boy in a newspaper plant)—Aw! Run off a whole edition; she won't mind!

—Boston Transcript.

Bobby, sent by his mother with message to a lady down the street, got the wording of it mixed up a bit. "Mother declines with pleasure your invitation for next Thursday," he said, "and thanks you extremely for having given her the pleasure of doing so."

—Boston Transcript.

Young Daughter—Mother, why is it that in books and newspapers they always speak of "the blushing bride?"

Mother—It isn't to be wondered at that they blush when you consider the masculine specimens that most of them marry.

—Detroit News.

"They say Boggs is crazy on the subject of golf and his wife is equally crazy over auction sales."

"Yes, and the funny part of it is they both talk in their sleep. The other night a lodger in the next flat heard Boggs shout 'Fore!' and immediately Mrs. Boggs yelled 'Four and a quarter.'"

—Exchange.

A wealthy auto tourist lost his pedigreed dog while stopping in a small town. He inserted a lost ad in the newspaper, offering a reward of $100.

The next day he went to the office to inquire, but no one was to be found except a decrepit janitor.

"Where the thunder is the newspaper force?" asked the tourist impatiently.

"They're all out," the old man replied, "tryin' to find yer dog."

—Exchange.

UNION

Miss Delia M. Heck and Mrs. Howard G. Barber represented the Union Home Economics club, Tuesday, Nov. 5, at the meeting of the Home Economics clubs of the towns of Tolland county, held in the town hall in Columbia. The meeting was interesting and helpful, while the trip across country on the beautiful autumn day will be remembered with pleasure.

Tuesday, November 12, the Union Home Economics club is to hold a meeting in the town hall at 10.30, with Mrs. Sara W. Dimock in attendance. The subject for the morning demonstration is A Square Meal. Covered-dish dinner, as usual, at noon, followed by the afternoon session.

The Halloween social held by the L. B. A. in the town hall drew an attendance of ninety or more. Groups came from Stafford, Enfield and Worcester. The hostesses, Miss Delia M. Heck, Mrs. Howard G. Barber and Mrs. Walter Darling, served an excellent supper. Community songs were enjoyed as usual. The new pastor, Rev. William Bragg, led in the singing and Mrs. Frank Ballou accompanied with the piano.

Miss Grace Robinson and her pupils of Rock Meadow school carried out an interesting Halloween entertainment of songs, recitations, readings and two plays which the audience heartily enjoyed.

Rev. William Bragg attended the Congregational yearly conference held in Ansonia Tuesday and Wednesday.

Communion was observed at the morning service at Union Center last Sunday. The pastor and his wife united with the church by letters from the church in Haddam Neck. The service each Sunday at 11 a. m. is followed by Sunday school.

GRISWOLD

The harvest supper and entertainment given by Pachaug grange recently was well attended. The committee was Mrs. William Bitgood, Mrs. George Whipple, Mrs. Patrick Weaver, Mrs. Lucy Davis, Mrs. Victor Campbell and Mrs. Tom Brown.

Anna Cook visited at Mr. and Mrs. Victor Campbell's recently.

John Peckham of Sterling recently visited his sister, Mrs. Hattie Edmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Merit Usher and son Richard, of Willington have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Campbell.

Mrs. Charles Johnson, who has been visiting Mrs. Hattie Edmond the past two weeks, has gone to visit Mr. and Mrs. Howard Maynard, of Greeneville.

Mrs. Charles Campbell is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hill, of Coventry, Conn.

STAFFORD

Mrs. J. B. Hough is the guest of Hartford relatives.

The temperance picture "Deliverance" was given at the Baptist church Sunday evening to a full house.

The Boy Scouts held a field day at the park at Hydeville Saturday afternoon. There are three troops in town. All joined heartily in the exercises following which refreshments were served.

Wednesday afternoon the W. C. T. U. met at the Baptist church.

At the annual meeting of the Baptist church Friday evening the report of the year's work was given and officers were elected.

The number of persons speaking English has increased by 140,000,000 during the last hundred years.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

"ICE WELL" MAKES GOOD FARM REFRIGERATOR IN NORTH

On hot sultry days next summer the farmer and his family will be chasing the butter around the dish with a spoon unless some sort of refrigeration system has been installed on the farm.

Where the usual cooling systems are too expensive or otherwise impracticable the "ice well" may solve the problem, especially on farms in the north. This unique cooling system is described briefly as a "hole in the ground in which a large solid cake of ice is formed by running in a small quantity of water daily during freezing weather." A small house over the pit serves as a milk house through the summer. Cans of milk and cream are lowered to the ice through a trapdoor in the floor.

Dairy officials of the United States department of agriculture constructed and tested an ice well at the department's dairy field experiment station at Mandan, N. Dak., last season and report highly satisfactory results for that region. Freezing was started in January. By the end of February there was a block of ice 8 feet square by 6½ feet deep. Meat, fruit, and vegetables, as well as milk and cream, kept perfectly. Cream was kept in a perfectly sweet condition for 14 days during July, the hottest part of the summer. The ice lasted until well into October.

The ice-well method has been used to some extent in Canada. The southern limit of its adaptability in the United States has not been determined as yet. However, where climatic conditions are similar to those at Mandan the ice well should prove a satisfactory cooling system.

SILO FILLING IN CONNECTICUT

Silo filling alone constitutes about 40 to 45 per cent. of all labor required in caring for an acre of corn and putting it into the silo, or the largest single item involved. There are definite physical factors such as stoniness, small fields, inability to use large equipment, that influence the cost of raising corn in Connecticut, but, when raised, Connecticut farmers should be able to fill their silos as efficiently as those in the other states named.

To determine whether any saving in time was possible the Connecticut Agricultural College ran an experiment on two farms in the town of Columbia. One farm had 6.5 acres and the other 10.5 acres of silage.

The corn on both farms was cut with a corn harvester so that the corn was in tied bundles. Special low slung racks were constructed to effect a minimum of human effort in loading. They were built as follows: Two 4 in. x 8 in. timbers 16 feet long were bolted together in the form of a V at the front axle while the other ends were fastened to the under side of the rear axle; on these timbers were nailed 2 in. x 6 in. planks, laid flat and cross ways to serve as a platform which when completed was about 4½ feet wide and 10 feet long.

The crew on the farm with 6.5 acres consisted of 3 men, 3 teamsters, each with a wagon as described above, two men in the field to help load, one man to help unload, one man to tend engine and cutter and one man in the silo. On the other farm with 10.5 acres practically the same crew was used except that four teams were used with only one man in the field to help load and part of the time no one to help unload. The farm owner and his neighbors made up the entire personnel.

The average haul, from the fields to to the silo, on the two farms was 40 rods.—Economic Digest.

ONCE USELESS MARSHES NOW GROW PRIZE ONIONS

KENTON, Ohio— (AP) —Growing of onions on reclaimed marsh land, worthless a few years ago, is fast becoming one of Ohio's greatest agricultural industries.

In the Scioto marshes west of here upwards of 20,000 acres are producing onions. These reclaimed marshes will produce grades as fine and in as large quantities as any other onion belt, growers say.

Planting is started late in March and early in April. Seed is often blown from the ground by high winds and as many as five plantings have been necessary to get a stand. Cultivation sometimes is hindered by frequent rains and the excessive dampness makes weeding difficult.

The crop is harvested in August, and more than 600 workers were needed for one big farm alone. Most of the workers come in family groups from Kentucky.

In harvesting, one group pulls the onions, another tops them. Once pulled, they are left in the field for a day in windrows, then topped.

They then are placed in crates and left for 10 days in ricks, after which they go to a storage house for government grading and bagging.

White onions of the Globe type, and the Spanish, or yellow onion, a larger variety, are the leaders in the Ohio fields.

GET AFTER THE GARLIC!

A little garlic is all right in soup, if you like it, but the flavor in flour or milk is decidedly undesirable. Plowing late each fall and again in early spring, followed by the growing of a thoroughly cultivated row crop, is thus far the best known method of killing wild garlic on cultivated land, but this method must be followed for three years or more in order to clean up the weed, according to the United States department of agriculture. Fairly deep plowing should be started in the fall in time to destroy young late-summer plants before they produce new bulbs. This work should be done as a rule in October or November in the south and about a month later in the north. The garlic tops must be plowed under completely or else they will keep on growing.

FEED POULTRY FOR PROFIT.

Does your poultry flock return a good profit over the cost of feed during the year? It has been found that when laying hens are fed all the grain they will consume Leghorns and similar breeds eat from 70 to 80 pounds of grain a year. Breeds like the Plymouth Rock, Rhode Island Red, and Wyandotte eat from 80 to 95 pounds. All breeds eat from 2 to 3 pounds of oyster shells and about 1 pound of grit a year.

The average farm hen lays less than 60 eggs a year, principally from March to June, the season of lowest prices. Yearly profits in eggs depend largely on production in fall and winter, according to the United State department of agriculture. Rations for laying stock should include scratch grains, mashes, meat feed, green feed, mineral feed, grit and drink. The scratch ration should be scattered through the litter in the poultry house so that the hens will get plenty of exercise.

HINTS FOR THE FARM.

Corn silage, blown into the silo and not tramped down, should be fed by taking a layer off the entire surface, as the lighter parts of the corn plant collect on one side.

In applying poison to clear trees from farm land, cut a continuous ring of gashes around the trunk, penetrating into the sapwood, and making the cuts so that they will retain the liquid. Three men can ring and poison about 200 trees in a day. The effect of the poison is to hasten decay of the trunk, which in some kinds of trees occurs within a year.

Perhaps the most economical method of making silage from sweet clover is to utilize the straw left after threshing the seed crop. It is essential to wet the straw thoroughly with water while it is being put into the silo. If handled properly, this by-product, which might otherwise be wasted, makes excellent feed.

Weaning calves to be fattened as yearlings should be started very gradually on grain and brought up to a full feed in about 30 days. When on full feed they should be eating about two pounds of concentrates and about one pound of dry roughage, or the equivalent in succulent roughages for each 100 pounds they weigh.

WOMAN TAX COUNSELLOR CONVICTED BY JURY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. — (AP)— Miss J. Marjorie Berger, Hollywood income tax counsellor, was convicted by a federal court jury of advising Dorothy Mackaill, film actress client, to falsify her income tax returns. The conviction carries a maximum term of five years in a federal penitentiary and a $10,000 fine on each of the two counts of the indictment.

The federal court jury returned the verdict of conviction ten minutes after being given the case. It was disclosed later that only one ballot had been taken, the jurors being unanimous for conviction.

Miss Berger, who will be sentenced on November 11, went on trial October 22. Her attorneys announced that a motion for a new trial would be filed.

The indictment upon which the woman was convicted accused her of fraudulently manipulating Miss Mackaill's tax return for 1926. Numerous other counts, charging her with similar offenses had been brought against her in connection with her handling of the tax returns of other motion picture notables. These were dropped by the government when Miss Berger was ordered to trial in connection with Miss Mackaill's tax return.

Miss Mackaill's 1926 tax return, the government charged, bore illegal deductions of approximately $20,000.

On the witness stand Miss Berger denied responsibility for the deductions, declaring that all her actions followed the instructions of her clients.

COURT CRITICIZES CAL. "TRANSPORT BOAT" LAW

LOS ANGELES, Nov. — (AP) —California's law making transport of passengers to and from a gambling ship a misdemeanor was criticized by Superior Judge William T. Aggeler as "arbitrary, unreasonable, and oppressive" as he granted a writ of habeas corpus to George Byson.

Byson was convicted some weeks ago of operating a transport boat between Long Beach and the gambling shore but since removed as a menace to navigation. Byson's attorneys sought the writ on the basis that his conviction was illegal and unconstitutional. The matter was taken under advisement a month ago.

Judge Ageller agreed that the law was "destructive to property rights and business of citizens" and said strict enforcement would make it a misdemeanor for anyone to take "a physician to attend a dying man, or a minister on an errand of mercy."

HINT FRAUD AND THEFT IN ILLINOIS MINERS' WAR

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. — ¾ Charges and counter charges of fraud and theft were hurled in the latest barrage of the Illinois miners' war here when international officers filed an answer to the injunction proceedings brought in the Sangamon county circuit court to prevent the ousting of state officers.

In the injunction answer, International President John L. Lewis made ten charges of insubordination against the state officers and definitely charged State President Harry Fishwick with illegal use of $28,202.10 of union funds.

Answering Lewis' attack, the state president declared the charge that he misappropriated the $28,202.10 or any other sum of money belonging to the Illinois miners was falsehood. He countered by charging that the checks upon which Lewis based his accusations were stolen from the offices of the union here on September 4.

Fishwick said he had called in Springfield police to help him ascertain how Lewis knew about cancelled checks which he said were stolen from his files in September.

The nine other counts of insubordination cited by Lewis as cause for revoking the charter of the Illinois district were not discussed by Fishwick in his reply to Lewis.

MAIL FRAUD WARRANT AGAINST EASTERDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. —(AP)—A federal warrant charging use of the mails to defraud in connection with the brokerage activities of De Wolfe-Stewart company was issued against W. W. Easterday, now under arrest in Washington, D. C.

Easterday was convicted in 1922 with Jules (Nicky) Arnstein in connection with a $5,000,000 Wall street bond robbery. He is being held by Washington authorities for New York police on a charge of swindling the Melrose bank here of $13,000.

Deputy Attorney General Washburn said a preliminary examination showed that Stewart had converted to his own use thousands of dollars entrusted to him by customers to buy stock. Complaints were received, he said, from customers in New York, Rochester, N. Y., Washington and other cities where the De Wolfe-Stewart company had offices. He said one customer lost $20,000.

FENCES OUST HERDERS IN TEXAS SHEEP BELT

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—The lonely shepherd, whose picturesque figure has been legendary since Bible days, has disappeared completely from the vast sheep belt of western Texas.

Wolf-proof fences, from 36 to 52 inches high, have replaced shepherders throughout the Texas ranch country. Many hills have been denuded of cedar trees to build posts for fences that cost $250 or $300 a mile.

Ranchmen's operating costs have been reduced by substituting the fences for caretakers.

FARM SHIPS MUSKRATS TO CHINA AND EUROPE

QUESNEL, British Columbia (AP) — Thousands of live muskrats have been shipped from a farm near Quesnel this summer to places thousands of miles distant.

Three thousand were sent to northern China and smaller consignments of the little fur-breeders were for breeding to England, Scotland and other European destinations.

It is estimated that there are present 50,000 muskrats in this section about Swan lake.

GAUTEMALA DEATH TOLL PLACED AT OVER 4[illegible]

GUATEMALA CITY, Nov. — (AP) — The death toll from the eruption of the volcano Santa Maria was officially estimated at more than 400.

This placed the eruption, which began last Saturday and still was continuing as one of the most serious volcanic disasters in the Americas. The casualties have no where near approached those in the eruption of Mount Pelee in Martinique in 19[illegible] when 30,000 were estimated to have perished, but greatly exceed any reported in recent years.

Lava still was pouring from the crater newly opened on the volcano, but it was largely following the course of earlier flows and had caused no extensive new damage. The authorities have sent numerous relief expeditions to the stricken area, about 30 miles north of here.

CONFIDENCE OF AMERICAN PEOPLE IN INTEGRITY OF LEGISLATION

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

Out of the middle of the incomprehensible hullabaloo over the tariff which is going on at Washington, there emerged, last week, one utterance which attracted my rather blase attention. It came, of all imaginable sources, from a certain Caraway who either represents or misrepresents Arkansas in the senate.

Because Senator Bingham of Connecticut, who candidly admits that he doesn't know as much about tariffs as a tariff-maker ought to, applied at headquarters for information and advice about Connecticut's needs in the matter and secured the aid of an expert, Senator Caraway of Arkansas is "all het up," and wants Senator Bingham censured.

Such action, he solemnly reports, is "beneath the dignity of the senate." Which is saying a mouthful.

For anything which is "beneath the dignity" of the U. S. senate must be deeper down than the unaided imagination can easily conceive. Post Milton once told how Satan, seeking to escape from infinite wrath, found even in the lowest deep a lower deep gaping to receive him. So we have poetic authority for assuming that there can be something lower than the lowest, though it might take an Einstein to explain it. Therefore we don't deny that there may be something beneath the dignity of the senate, hard as it is to believe such a thing possible.

According to Senator Caraway, trying to find out about the effects of proposed legislation before enacting it, is a derogation of the senate's dignity, and so beneath that hitherto unplumbed depth.

But that, after all, isn't the most excruciatingly funny part of Senator Caraway's plaint. He gravely warns that such unprecedented conduct tends "to shake the confidence of the American people in the integrity of legislation."

I've read somewhere about a reed shaken by the wind. And I seem to recall how Kipling's Private Mulvaney once admitted himself shaken by "the shivers of invidjus apprehension."

But I never before heard of anything which doesn't exist being shaken. That is a stunt which even a continent-tipping earthquake couldn't get away with.

If Senator Caraway thinks that the American people have any infinitesimal remnant of confidence left in the "integrity" of legislation as enacted by the U. S. senate, some one ought to take him out behind his native Ozarks and mention to him, through the biggest megaphone that can be built, that he is, as usual, mistaken.

There ain't no sech amnimile. Perhaps there was, once, but it has disappeared with the dodo and the hairy mammoth.

Today the gravest indictment which the enemies of popular self-government can bring against it is merely to point to the U. S. senate. The spectacle of that body of inflated windbags, bombastically inefficient, conceitedly pretentious, peacock-ishly self-admiring, demagogically subservient, extravagant with promises but pauper in deeds, defiant of common sense but afraid of their own shadows—oh, well, what's the use of piling up accusations?—the spectacle of the senate, with its sectional "blocs" and its picayune peanut politicians, like them mount, with equal probability, be assumed to be right.

Naturally the vulture and the crow prefer carrion to fresh meat. They are made that way. But the most of us would prefer to have our table meats picked out by judges who don't regard rottenness as desirable.

One doesn't need to have been an admirer of that prodigy of stubborn egotism, Woodrow Wilson, to appreciate the accuracy of his characterization of the senate which blocked his schemes as "a little body of willful men."

The main trouble with the United States senate as a whole is that, both individually and collectively, it has fed so greedily and so long on the flatteries of toadies and lickspittles and lobbying Delilahs of both sexes that it has developed an inordinately swollen conceit. Its head has simply out grown its hat.

And there is more hope of a downright fool than there is of a vain, glorious and self-worshiping egotist.

Talk about the senate's "dignity"—The only source and spring of true dignity is in wise service, faithfully and humbly done. A drum major, festooned in yards of flaunting braid and strutting stiffly before his band, isn't an impersonation of dignity, but of ostentation and puerile "show-off-ishness." He's a fair symbol of the "dignity" of the U. S. senate.

And talk about "the integrity of legislation" as it is legislated by that same senate! Why, all the senate has been, for years, is a Punch and Judy show of puppets re-acting submissively to whatever pulls came from the strings held by their party bosses or local political managers.

It has been a constant stumbling-block in the way of legislation.

It has been an obstacle to overcome rather than an ally to assist.

Its slogan has been and is "We're ag'in anything and everything that doesn't originate in our own brains."—(mostly added).

It is and for some time has been a brake on the wheels of progress, rarely a motor.

It has the biggest capacity for loquacity and the smallest for action of any so-called legislative body in the land—and that includes the New York city board of aldermen. It can talk longer and do less than anything outside of parrot-dom.

But the majority of its members are convinced that "we are the people and wisdom will die with us." You may recall what the wise Solomon said about such critters. If not turn to Proverbs, chapter 26, verse 12.

Just at present, finding a man in the white house who is more concerned with constructive action than with shady carping, certain renegade senators, elected under false colors as republicans but actually political buccaneers and privateers, have formed a coalition with certain bigotedly partisan democratic senators to discredit him and his administration.

One way to do it is to refuse the legislation needful to enable him to redeem the promises he and his party made before election.

Hence the present ruction. Bingham is only an incident. They hope to hurt Hoover by mauling Bingham.

If they have already or shall later, solemnly censure the latter gentleman, it is to be hoped that he will modestly accept the tribute which envy and malice, despite themselves, pay to common sense and reasonable judgment.

THE FARMER

RIVER SHANNON FLOWS BUT INTO HUGE HARNESS

Many in Eastern Connecticut will be interested in the following present day description of the Shannon river as given by James O'Donnell Bennett in the Chicago Tribune as follows:

Hark to the twentieth century roar and rumble in this lordly Shannon valley where Brian Brou, who broke the Danish power in Ireland, had his favorite palace nine hundred years ago!

Far below you, as you walk the ramparts of one of the most significant of mankind's victories over nature, the concrete mixers are clattering and groaning and the engines are puffing and whistling. They are putting the finishing touches to the mighty "Shannon scheme," as this hydroelectric development is called throughout the Irish Free State.

A Beautiful Scene.

Three miles to the south rise the spires of Limerick, and in the far distance beyond Limerick is the mystical blue of the lovely hills of Kerry.

The height on which you are standing bears the name Ardnacrusha, which being translated from the Gaelic, means hill of the cross. The Irish will have their jokes, and because German engineers directed the building of the Shannon scheme Ardnacrusha is now called Ardnaprussia by the gay people.

Look to the north and your eye follows for seven and a half miles the mighty channel, some of it rock hewn, which brings 60 per cent of the flow of the Shannon at Parteen villa to the hundred foot fall at Ardnacrusha, where you are standing.

Bishop Blesses Channel.

Now move seven and a half miles northward with the Most Rev. Dr. Michael Fogarty, Roman Catholic bishop of Killaloe, within whose diocese the Shannon works lie, and you shall behold a ceremony without which no undertaking in the Irish Free State is considered auspiciously launched.

Attended by a great train of clergy and officials he takes his stand at Parteen villa and solemnly blesses the channel. Then William Thomas Cosgrave, president of the Free State, pressing an electrical control button, releases power which lifts colossal sluice gates ever so slightly. Cautiously the waters of the Shannon are admitted to their new channel.

Miracle of Engineering.

Then the miracle of modern engineering comes to pass.

At Ardnacrusha the diverted waters of the Shannon plunge down for a hundred feet at the rate of one hundred and five tons per second upon three turbines, each capable of producing thirty thousand horsepower.

Forthwith a new chapter in the history of Ireland begins.

"Insufferably long," the vivid Irish writer, D. L. Kelleher, said recently, "has Ireland been a twilight place. It is a good thing that a daring young government has been rash and young enough to invent the Shannon scheme. Now a million or more people, at the least, will have a new sensation of comfort and efficiency."

"Laziest River in Europe."

The Shannon scheme turns what has been called "the laizest river in Europe" into something besides a benefaction for salmon fishers. Engineers estimate that for untold ages it has been wasting one hundred and eighty thousand horsepower. Now they will make it produce ninety thousand horsepower with only three turbines. Three more turbines of equal capacity can be installed merely by extending the power house and enlarging the weirs. Already 90 per cent of the primary work required for that additional installation has been done.

By the end of this month the Shannon scheme will be equipped with networks to carry power into one hundred and thirty towns and villages, the smallest of which is five hundred population. In addition to lighting cities, this power will run factories. It will function on the Irish farm by running small motors for grinding grain, for pulping food for stock and for milking.

In the farm its future is assured because the Irish farmer faces a labor problem both in the matter of expense and in the lack of competent help.

Reduces Need of Coal.

Little by little the milling industries, the creameries, the manure factories, and other factories that have been running under steam will take Shannon power. The result will be that the three turbines already installed will vastly reduce the bill of seven and a half million dollars a year for coal imported by a country one of whose principal industrial difficulties has been the lack of native coal.

Consumers have been paying private companies a shilling a unit for electricity. The Shannon scheme immediately cuts that price in two for 90 per cent of the consumers and ultimately will do better than that.

The Shannon scheme has been an honest piece of work. The original estimate of its cost was twenty-six million fifty thousand dollars. That estimate has been exceeded by only 5 per cent, which the government's engineers told me they considered "most reasonable."

Compare Manchester Canal.

The work was begun in 1925 by a country which in 1922 and 1923 had run up bills for damages by civil war in the sum of 125 million dollars—bills which have since been paid. The Shannon project thus represents one of the most amazing readjustments from chaos to construction in the annals of modern states—and this particular state a new born state.

Shannon hydroelectric projects had been mooted for 50 years. One proposal was to harness the river, which is the largest in the British isles, in three stages at three different places, for the task of harnessing the whole river at one point was considered too gigantic. But in 1923, a young Irish engineer, Dr. T. A. McLaughlin, was perfecting himself by study at the Siemens-Schuckert works in Berlin. He was a patriot and enthusiast. The Shannon development was his dream. English engineers had launched at it.

But the Siemens-Schuckert company did not laugh. They listened, they investigated, they prepared a detailed scheme, they convinced the young Free State government. In the face of determined opposition by Irish reactionaries, who emitted the chronic whine, "Ireland is a purely agricultural country," the Shannon electricity act was passed by the Irish legislature.

At the peak of employment on the Shannon scheme 5,000 men were at work under the Siemens-Schuckert engineers. They comprised 450 skilled German workmen, 1,500 skilled Irish, and 3,000 unskilled Irish. At first the German engineers were extremely dogmatic, and German and Irish engineers have had their technical tiffs. But in a few months they began to work harmoniously in lonesome Brian Boru's beloved valley and thes killed Irish labor is now highly spoken of by the Germans.

The financial success of the Shannon scheme is assured.

Swiss, Swedish and Norwegian experts of international fame estimate that a consumption of 110,000,000 units by 1932 will put the Shannon scheme on a paying basis. But the supply board already has warrant for anticipating the consumption of 144,000,000 units by 1932.

Future Depends on Success

Upon the success of this project the future of the Free State, if it is to mean more to the world than butter and eggs, the Abbey theater and Roman Catholic theology, depends.

"The hopes of all who desire the welfare of the Free State," said the Irish Independent a few days ago, "are centered in this project, on the success of which it is scarcely too much to say the future prosperity of the country depends."

The vastness of the work has immensely stirred the imagination of the Irish people and the scrupulousness with which it has been done has made them proud. Guide lecturers take 300 visitors every week day and 3,000 every Sunday on the tour, which covers thirty square miles of head race, tail race, reservoirs, weirs, pumping stations, barge canal, fish passage, eel tunnel, and drained areas, which are comprised in the scheme. Among the visitors are engineers and economists from the United States, Canada, India, South Africa and Australia.

Three Indian observers have been on the scene for three years, studying the work in its bearing on the problems of irrigation in their country.

Today I saw a large party of nuns demurely picking their way over the colossal masonry the while they gave interested heed to the discourse of the guide.

Visitors are shown how at one point 1,700 acres have been flooded for the storage of water and how at another point 10,000 acres which used to be flooded by spring freshets have been reclaimed.

Provide for Barge Traffic

In order to carry the Limerick-Athlone barge traffic through the headrace and past the power house at Ardnacrusha two locks, each fifty feet high and fifty-five feet long, have been built. Through each a 150-ton barge can pass in twenty-five minutes.

The Shannon scheme has had a mighty psychological effect.

"Already it is curing the inferiority complex which was our curse," said Engineer Creagh, who took me over the work. "To the Irishman in Ireland such an achievement as your country's Panama canal was a crusher. But now he can honestly say, 'We, too, can do big things'."

One of the original insulators from the first overland telegraph line, constructed in 1861, was recently found to be still in position and intact.

Eleven were present at the fortnightly meeting of the Woman's Missionary society held with Miss Clara Johnson. The president, Mrs. F. E. Guild led the devotional exercises and the secretary's and treasurer's reports were given by Miss Dorothy Brown and Miss Johnson respectively. The first chapter from the new study book, Human Needs and World Christianity, was given by Miss Brown. Sewing was done on table-cloths, napkins and roller towels, for Pleasant Hill Academy, Tenn.

Next Sunday evening Rev. Charles Johnson of South Coventry, is to give his second illustrated lecture on "The Mediterranean" in the Congregational church at 7.30. The Chaplin, North and South Windham churches have been invited.

A supper of roast pork, mashed potato, cabbage salad, rolls, pies and coffee was served to about 75 Friday in charge of Mrs. John Webster, president of the L. A. S. Her assistants included Mrs. Wayland Jacobs, Mrs. Daniel Trigger, Mrs. Homer Wood, Mrs. Edward Phillips, Miss Marguerite Cook. A stereopticon lecture on Palestine was given by Rev. Charles Johnson of South Coventry and there were vocal solos by Mrs. L. P. Oehrig and cornet solo by Miss Margaret Oehrig, accompanied by Miss Dorothy Brown.

Miss Grace P. Bates of Hartford has been spending several days with Mrs. F. E. Guild and Mrs. E. K. Leffingwell.

The November meeting of the Parent-Teacher association was held in the school auditorium with an attendance of about 50. The program opened with the choral song, accompanied by Mrs. Guy Richmond. The president, Mrs. Vantine Anderson was in charge. The minutes of the October meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Harry Moseley. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. L. P. Oehrig showed a balance of about $24. $38.55 has been spent for new swing ropes, foot ball, volley ball and other playground equipment to replace that which was worn out. The chairman of the program committee introduced Frederick K. Vines, principal of Natchaug school in Willimantic and supervisor of the schools of the town of Windham who gave a very interesting and instructive talk on Some of the Problems of Teaching the Elementary School and How the Parents Can Help Solve Them. After the address sandwiches and coffee were served by Mrs. Guy Richmond, Mrs. George Keeney, Miss Clara Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Anderson and Miss Marie Rizzo.

Mrs. W. A. Raymold returned Tuesday from a two weeks' visit with her sister in Brooklyn, N. Y., and a cousin in Lebanon, Pa.

A number of the young people are planning to attend a missionary rally at the Congregational church in Willimantic Saturday evening when a teacher from Pleasant Hill academy, Tenn., is to speak.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Robinson left Wednesday by motor for their winter home in Deland, Fla.

Mark Sanford, of Lansdowne, Pa., has been spending a few days at his summer home here.

Miss Emma Neale attended the state librarians' meeting in Norfolk last week Wednesday and Thursday.

Nathan Bingham of Norwich was in town recently.

The annual meeting of the Comfort club of St. Paul's church is to be held with the president, Miss Sarah Johnson, Friday at 1.30 to be followed by the November meeting of the Woman's guild. At 3 o'clock the League of Women Voters is to hold its November meeting in the school auditorium.

Rev. E. F. Smiley attended the state conference of Congregational churches in Ansonia Wednesday.

Pape's COLD COMPOUND to STOP a Cold

On the Other Side

We go our ways in life too much alone;
We hold ourselves too far from all our kind;
Too often we are dead to sigh and moan;
Too often to the weak and helpless blind;
Too often, where distress and want abide,
We turn and pass upon the other side.

The other side is trodden smooth and worn
By footsteps passing idly all the day.
Where lie the bruised ones that faint and mourn,
Is seldom more than an untrodden way;
Our selfish hearts are for our feet the guide,
They lead us by upon the other side.

It should be ours the oil and wine to pour
Into the bleeding wounds of stricken ones;
To take the smitten and the sick and sore,
And bear them where a stream of blessing runs,
Instead, we look about—the way is wide,
So we pass upon the other side.

Oh, friends and brothers, gliding down the years,
Humanity is calling each and all
In tender accents born of grief and tears!
I pray you listen to the thrilling call:
You cannot, in your cold and selfish pride,
Pass guiltlessly by on the other side!

EASTERN VOLUNTOWN

Amasa Gardner, of West Greenwich, R. I., Mrs. Butler and daughter, of Escoheag Hill, R. I., were callers at Mrs. William Bitgood's Wednesday Mr. Gardner and Mr. Butler had Mr. Bitgood grind their apples into cider.

John Ray Barber, of Escoheag, R. I., was to Mr. Bitgood's cider mill with a load of apples recently.

George Green has been in Plainfield with his sister the past week. He is home now but expects to go back soon.

Charles Douglas returned home from Plainfield, Thursday, last week, but has gone back this week. Charlie is quite a busy fellow. He doesn't let the grass grow under his feet. He walks to Plainfield and back in one day. When he gets in a hurry he does not mind the walk. It is about 20 or 22 miles. Sometimes he carries apples and sometimes potatoes on his back. He takes them to his cousin.

Jefferson Barber is 85 years old, quite a feeble man but he walked one day this week about five miles or more but was all in when he got home. He has a bad cold and a cough.

Mr. Bitgood has a young man that helps him with his cider making and also cuts his wood in the woods and draws it to the mill and helps him saw it up then draws it to the wood pile ready to split up for the house. The young man has cut his hand quite bad so he had to go to the doctor with it but it is getting along as good as can be expected.

Clifford and Freddie Congdon called at William Bitgood's recently. Freddie s working for the state foresters.

William Bitgood spent the week-end at Oneco, with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Remington. One day he and Mr. Remington went to Scituate to see the big dam. They went to North Sterling, Moosup, Central Village, while Mr. Bitgood was there.

Woodrow Wilson Remington, Mrs. Bitgood's grandson, of Oneco, spent the week-end with his grandmother, at Eastern Voluntown.

Joel Barber, of Jewett City, spent Monday, with his grandparents, Mr. Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood.

Mrs. Clifford Congdon and son, Clifford, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Congdon, at Mount Misery.

George Green spent the evening Tuesday, with Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood and family. He will go to see his sister in Plainfield, Wednesday.

U. S. CUTS GERMAN MONOPOLY OF DYES

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Germany's virtual world monopoly of the dye industry has not only been broken but American products are now invading that nation's markets

The progress of the United States in the post-war industry, surveyed by the department of commerce, reverses conditions existing prior to the war.

During the first six months of this year, exports of package dyes totaled $139,887. Of this amount, $26,845 went to Germany, as compared with $148 during the same period of 1926.

In 1914 the total domestic production of synthetic dye amounted to 1,000,000 pounds. Spurred on by necessity when the German supply was cut off, it rose to 88,000,000 pounds in 1920 and to 95,167,905 pounds in 1927.

The United States is the largest consumer of dyes in variety as well as quantity. Less than a dozen individual dyes, however, are purchased from European countries in quantities sufficient to warrant the necessary research for their economical production in this country.

Because dye-making and munitions manufacture are both products of organic chemistry, the dye plants are rated by military experts as important factors because they can be turned almost overnight to defense purposes.

While American exports to Germany have grown, along with those to other countries, imports from that nation have dropped. In September, 1928, Germany supplied 50.4 per cent of United States imports. In September, 1929, they had fallen 42.95 per cent.

Farm Wives Study Sugar

BLOOMSBURG, Pa. (AP)—What effect proposed tariff increases will have on the price of sugar is a chief topic among rural housewives here. They say the average family uses from 150 to 200 pounds a year in canning fruits and vegetables and making preserves, jams and jellies.

COLUMBIA

BURIAL OF MISS DEWEY WHO DIED IN NEW HAVEN

Miss Lucina Dewey, 56, of New Haven, was buried in the Dewey lot in Columbia cemetery Monday afternoon. Miss Dewey was the daughter of Henry Dewey and leaves a brother, Dr. George Dewey, of Minnesota. She was a niece of Mrs. E. Stephens Henry, of Rockville. She was related to several Columbia families, the Deweys being early residents here.

The new hymn board which the boys made in the summer vacation school for the use of the church was used for the first time Sunday morning.

Wednesday evening at the grange two new members will be obligated in the third and fourth degree.

At the morning service of the church, the pastor invited the boys interested in forming a troop of boy scouts to meet at the parsonage on Thursday evening.

Rev. Major Johnson of Hartford and Miss Alice Anderson, of Auburn, R. I., spent Monday at the parsonage.

The West street school pupils held a Halloween party at the schoolhouse. There are 28 pupils and there were 62 visitors. The program consisted of 24 numbers, recitations, music and plays. One of the plays was especially interesting in that the pupils wrote and dramatized it themselves. It was called "Cinderella". The program won compliments for the children and their teacher, Miss Florence Martin. Cake and fruit punch was served. A few cakes remaining were auctioned off for $6.50 which will be used for some school project.

Monday evening Miss Florence Martin entertained at whist at the home of Mrs. Robert Cobb. There were three tables in play. Charles German and Charles Labonte won the prizes.

The Pine street school also held a Halloween party with parents and friends invited. The programme consisted of a play "The Haunted House", readings and music, and was announced as a radio programme, the announcer being John Zuryk. The children were in costme, prizes being given Ervin Holbrook, Lillian Stein and Grace Holbrook. At the close of the program the children played games and danced. Cake, cookies, lemonade and candy were passed. The entertainment was in charge of the teacher, Miss Mabel Reagan.

Mrs. Mary Lewis went to Hartford Friday to spend the winter with her daughter, Miss Viola Lewis.

Mr. and Mrs. James Grimm of Bridgeport spent the week end at the home of Mrs. Grimm's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert F. Collins.

Miss Elizabeth Bertsch went to New Haven Saturday for the Yale-Dartmouth game.

Mrs. Julia Little, Grace Little, Frank Bodwell, and Clarence Bissell, of Hartford are spending several days at the Columbia cottage of Mrs. Little. Mr. Little and Mr. Bodwell have been doing some hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Lyman, of Plainville are spending a week's vacation at the home of Mrs. Lyman's sister, Mrs. Junabel Squier.

Joseph Hutchins, who has been spending a week at his parents' home on Chestnut Hill, left for his home in Washington Saturday. He made the return trip in the same manner in which he came, in his airplane. He was accompanied as far as the Newark, N. J., flying field by his friend, Donald Woodward, who came back by rail.

Local friends learned with deep sorrow of the death Sunday morning of Mrs. Bailey of Westfield, Mass., who had for some time made her home with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter. Mrs. Bailey died in the Westfield hospital following a surgical operation.

Stevie Kozak, who attends Chestnut Hill school, a few days ago ran out of the school house and was knocked down by a passing auto. He was taken to a doctor's office, but was found to have escaped with bruises. This school is located practically on the highway since the new road has been put through, and at the town meeting held a few weeks ago it was voted to purchase more land and move the schoolhouse back from the road, as it was felt that such accidents were liable to happen. The selectmen are planning to move the building as soon as they can make the necessary arrangements.

"AG" SCHOOL TEACHING FARM MACHINERY REPAIR

MANTON, Mich. (AP)—Manton agricultural school is one of the first in Michigan, perhaps in the middle west, to add a course in farm machinery repair. It is attempting to teach the farmers of tomorrow how to repair implements on the farm.

The course is being given in a shop which the students have constructed since school opened in August.

Named in Plot

Mrs. Laura B. Price, above, wife of a millionaire Chicago manufacturer, has admitted, according to Chicago police, to a connection with an alleged plot to defraud an insurance company following a hold-up in which she lost $18,000 in jewelry and a $2,500 mink coat. Chicago police charge that four accomplices "framed" the hold-up and that the insurance collected on the lost articles was shared.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved, after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

MYSTIC

HONORARY PRES.-GENERAL ADDRESSES D. A. R. MEETING

The November meeting of Fanny Ledyard chapter, D. A. R. was held in Masonic Temple, Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Estella B. Bailey, the regent, presided. About 60 members and guests were present, it being Guest day. The regular business session was postponed until next month, on account of there being such a long program, which was given after the regular opening exercises. The feature of the afternoon was the address by Mrs. George Maynard Miner, honorary president-general, N. S. D. A. R., who gave her famous address on "The Deeper Meaning of the D. A. R." All present were very enthusiastic over this talk. Brief addresses were made by Mrs. Charles Bissell, recording secretary general N. S. D. A. R. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Catherine Avery of Groton, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Charles Gildersleeve, and by Miss Edith Lathrop of Stonington, who was accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Hammond. Mrs. George S. Scott and Mrs. Oscar Pendleton were at the tea table. Gifts were brought for the Christmas box which is to be sent to one of the many boys' schools sponsored by the N. S. D. A. R. Instead of Wednesday being the last day, as planned, the box will be left open for another week, and gifts are to be left with Mrs. C. C. McGaughey, chairman of patriotic education. Articles asked for are handkerchiefs, stockings, mittens, knives, neckties, socks, caps, scarfs, checkers, puzzles, games, baseball bats, tennis balls, scrap books, inexpensive flashlights or similar articles for boys of grammar school age. Money for gifts or magazine subscriptions may be given, if desired.

TOWN TEACHERS' MEET AT LOCAL ACADEMY

The annual meeting of the Groton Teachers' association was held in Mystic Academy, Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. All schools in the town of Groto nwere dismissed at noon, to enable the teachers to attend, and about 60 were present. The speaker was Dr. Charles Prohaska, of the physical education and health department of the state department of health, whose address proved very interesting. Reports were given by Mr. Butler, supervisor of the Groton schools and Miss Lila Seeley, teacher of the sixth grade at Groton Heights school. Her report dealt with the activities of the National Education association convention held at Atlanta, Ga., last summer. Miss Seeley represented Connecticut teachers of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. During this meeting officers were elected for the coming year. They are: President—Miss Joanna Burnet, principal and teacher of the eighth grade of Mystic academy; secretary—Mr. Hast, principal of Colonel Ledyard school, Groton; treasurer—Mrs. Dorothy W. Smith, teacher in the Noank school. Following the meeting, the teachers visited the different rooms. A lunch of doughnuts and coffee was served by members of the Parent-Teacher association of Mystic academy.

WESTERLY

SAILORS INJURED WHEN MOTORCYCLE KILLS DEER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 7.—On the Westerly-Stonington state highway Thursday about 4 a. m., in a collision, two sailors were injured, a deer killed and a motorcycle wrecked. One of the two men on the motorcycle was taken to Westerly hospital, the deer disappeared in a Massachusetts small-type automobile and the motorcycle was brought to Morrone Brothers garage.

Edward Knox, aged 19, of Los Angeles, Cal., and John Snyder, 20, of Philadelphia, seamen on Sub No. 6, stationed at New London, were the young men injured when the motorcycle, driven by Knox, struck a deer, which leaped from the side of the highway directly into the path of the vehicle. Knox and Snyder were bound from 17 Delance street, Providence, to the submarine base. Frank Dararich, of 9 Percy avenue, Reading, Mass., who chanced to be passing, went to the assistance of the two motorcycle riders. He brought them to Pawcatuck and Officer A. B. Sheldon accompanied them to Dr. M. H. Scanlon's office. Dr Scanlon had them taken to the hospital, but Knox was the only one entered, as Snyder escaped without serious injury. Knox is believed to have a fractured skull and sustained a cut about three inches long over his right eye. He was badly bruised about the body. Snyder escaped with a number of abrasions on his legs. Knox entered the hospital at 4:15 o'clock this morning.

The deer was reported instantly killed when struck by the motorcycle, but when Snyder and Dr. Scanlon returned, at 5 o'clock, to the location of the accident the deer had disappeared The deer, it is claimed, was carried off in an automobile bearing Massachusetts registration plate.

At 12:15 o'clock this afternoon Knox was removed in an ambulance to the submarine base. Chief Pharmacist O. S. Kastner came for Knox. Before he was allowed to leave the hospital, Drs. Scanlon and C. Grant Savage held a consultation and decided that it would be all right to move the young man.

It was learned that he was suffering from concussion and contusion of the brain. Snyder was able to leave the hospital early this morning.

TOO MUCH OF A KICK SENDS BOX CAR DOWN TO BLOCK RAILS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 7.—Kicking a box car of the New York Central lines too hard by a freight locomotive, caused a derailment Thursday afternoon about 3 o'clock at the old Burdick switch. The freight car went down the siding next to the eastbound main line track of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, the soft pile of dirt used as a bumper at the end of the side track failed to stop the car, which drove over it and struck the solid cement abutment at the Oak and High street approach to the Airybridge. The freight car then turned over on its side, blocking the eastbound main line. Eastbound trains had to cross over to take the next track to Bradford. By the aid of powerful jacks and a chain passed around the overturned car it was drawn clear of the main line tracks and was left upright on the side track, but without either truck under the body of the car.

The Midway wrecker arrived about 4 p. m., and a wrecking crew under Wreckmaster Grayson had the hook under the car body and slung it back on its own trucks in record time. Division Superintendent Monyhan of Providence was present to see that all speed possible was made in clearing up the derailment. The car was unloaded.

MASKED PARTY A SHOWER FOR MISS SUTCLIFFE

NEGOTIATIONS FOR NEW REPARATIONS AGREEMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. — (AP)—Edwin C Wilson, first secretary of the American embassy in Paris, has been instructed by the state department to proceed to Berlin to assist with the negotiations for a new agreement between the United States and Germany for the direct payment of German reparations to the United States.

The text of an agreement for such direct payments to be made outside the machinery of the Young plan was forwarded to Berlin through Wilson who will take the text to the German capital with him. Wilson, who was American observer at the recent reparations conference at The Hague, will act as the chief American expert during the negotiations.

The direct payments to the United States are very small when compared with the total reparations to be paid by Germany including only private claims of Americans against Germany growing out of the war and a portion of the costs of the American army of occupation on the Rhine.

Surprised on Birthday

A very enjoyable party given Mrs. C. S. Goodwin on her birthday Monday evening at the chapel of the Baptist church, was a complete surprise to both Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin. The chapel was beautifully decorated with pink and white crepe paper, a large birthday cake, made by Mrs. Jacob Legiar, iced with white and decorated with pink, had the words "Happy Birthday." It stood on a table with another birthday cake also decorated in pink and white made by Miss Leona Carpenter. Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin were seated by the table while Miss Beatrice Littlefield sang The Rosary and responded to an encore with another pleasing song. Miss Mary Chapel gave a violin solo, then Rev. A. G. Littlefield spoke briefly and in behalf of friends presented Mrs. Goodwin $47.50. She also received a beautiful bunch of pink carnations and a bouquet of chrysanthemums. She was too surprised to say very much but thanked all her friends for their kindness and Mr. Goodwin spoke briefly of the surprise to them both. Music was enjoyed, singing, both old and new songs, with Mrs. F. N. Taylor at the piano. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. About 90 were present, relatives and friends coming from Hartford, New Britain and New London.

PERFECT ROBOT TO FLY HUGE TRANSPORT PLANES

WASHINGTON, Nov. —(AP)—Perfection of a robot to fly huge transport planes more smoothly than possible by a pilot was announced by the war department coincident with the flight here from Wright Field, O., of an army tri-motored Ford plane equipped with the device.

The plane arrived at Bolling field after having been flown all but the last 30 miles of the way from Ohio by a gyroscopic pilot. Over Leesburg, Va. the propeller of a wind-driven generator furnishing power for the robot snapped, leaving it without power.

Two gyroscopes one placed vertically and the other horizonitally, form the "brain" of the robot. They maintain a definite position, regardless of the position of the airplane. If the plane tips to one side from a gust of wind, an electrical contact is made by one of the gyroscopes, actuating a clutch which grasps the proper control wire and rights the plane.

There are three clutches to control the three attitudes of the plane—directional, lateral and longitudinal. The clutches operate from a flexible power shaft from a wind-driven generator.

The device, a development of Elmer A. Sperry, inventor of gyroscopic devices, has been under test for nearly 50 hours in flights in all kinds of weather between New York and New Bedford, Mass.

U. S. AVIATION DRAWS TALENT FROM ABROAD

NEW YORK (AP)—The prospect of important developments in American aviation has had a magnetic effect on some of Europe's best known air talent.

The latest arrivals in the United States are Dr. Eckener's son, Knut Eckener, who has become an employe of the Goodyear - Zeppelin company in Akron; and Col. James C. Fitzmaurice, the Irish member of the Bremen's trans-Atlantic flight crew. The latter is reported to be negotiating a permanent connection with an American air line.

nOe report linked Colonel Fitzmaurice's name with a projected attempt by two German missionaries to carry the gospel by airplane to areas in Africa otherwise inaccessible.

Father Paul Schulte of Cologne, Germany, has arrived in his country in connection with the plan. He hopes to launch a missionary expedition by air in 1931 to Ovamboland, in Southwest Africa.

TOWN HAS AIRPORT WEEK AFTER BIRTH

BAKERSFIELD, Tex. (AP)—The Biblical story of a seven-day creation has nothing on this newest Texas oiltown. Here is its building log:

Oil found on Sunday; townsite leased Monday; hotel moved in Tuesday; first restaurant built Wednesday; first dry goods store Thursday; 20 buildings started Friday; talk of incorporation Saturday.

There was no rest Sunday, for Bakersfield laid out its airport that day.

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

NEW LONDON COAST GUARDSMAN SOLD JEWELRY STOLEN BY HARTFORD MAID

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 7—Carl E. Erickson, U. S. Coast Guard was arrested here this afternoon at the request of the police of West Hartford, charged with receiving stolen property. He was taken to West Hartford tonight by an officer of that department. Erickson used a young woman acquaintance as his tool in order to receive the stolen articles. The woman, who is employed as a domestic, had been employed at several West Hartford homes and she stole numerous articles of jewelry from her employers. The jewelry was always given to Erickson, who would either pawn or sell the trinkets. When the woman was questioned a few days ago by the West Hartford police, she confessed and implicated Erickson. The woman was arrested and is now awaiting trial.

A youth of but 15 residing on Belden street, was arrested last night by Automobile Patrol Officer Augustus Ray charged with theft. Today he was given into the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. The youth went to the Hotel Mohican yesterday and gaining access to the room of Braxton Garfield, he stole a pair of trousers and a vest. The youth has been arrested before for theft.

Hiawatha barnyard, No. 1, Dairymaids' association, celebrated its sixth anniversary last night in Eagles hall, Main street. The event was attended by a large number of members and a class of nine candidates were initiated. The committee in charge of the affair was Mrs. Hattie Brown, chairman; Mrs. Lavinia Prevost, Mrs. Eva Buckner, Mrs. Elsie Stockford, Mrs. Ida Fargo and Mrs. Nellie Johnson. The first in a series of whists, which will be conducted during the winter, is to be held at the residence of Mrs. Lavinia Prevost.

Mission for Italian Catholics

A series of spiritual exercises for the Italian parishioners will commence in St. Mary's church Sunday afternoon next, after benediction at 3 o'clock. These exercises, which are to be for the adult Italians who are unfamiliar with the English language, will continue throughout the week, the services each evening being held at 7 o'clock. Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan, with the co-operation of the officers of the various Italian societies of the city, will be in charge. At each service a sermon will be delivered in Italian. It is expected that a great number of the Italian parishioners will avail themselves of this opportunity to fulfil their religious duties and to hear sermons and instructions in their native tongue.

All the cases tried in the police court today were for intoxication or violation of the city's parking law. One man arrested on North Bank street was fined $5 and costs. Another man, a resident of Niantic, who was arrested at Bank and Shaw streets, was fined $10 and costs. A third man arrested on Douglass street, was fined $5 and costs. Still another man, who was arrested on Main street, was fined $10. A man, who was arrested yesterday on North Bank street, charged with intoxication and who was arrested by Patrolman Dennis Murphy when the former annoyed a merchant, failed to present himself in court and forfeited a bond of $25. Joseph Francois, 61 Hamilton street, Groton, was charged with parking overtime on State street. He, also, failed to appear and his bond of $2 was forfeited.

Fire at Groton School

The Robert Bartlett high school, Groton, was threatened with serious damage by fire this forenoon and but for the prompt action of the janitor, Charles Rowland, in subduing the blaze, it is believed that the damage would have entailed heavy loss. The fire was discovered about 7:30 o'clock by neighbors when clouds of smoke issued from the cellar windows and those on the first floor. An alarm sent in from Box 32 was responded to by Pioneer Hose company, but before the firemen arrived at the school, Rowland had discovered a lively blaze in a pile of rubbish. Rowland deluged the burning mass with water, causing the blaze to be quickly subdued.

WARD T. ALLING SPEAKS ON SPORTS TO ROTARY CLUB

A former Norwich man, Ward T. Alling, gave a very interesting talk on Sports, Sportsmanship and Sporting Goods, before the local Rotary club at its weekly meeting and luncheon today at the Mohican hotel. "Everything we do, from which we derive pleasure, we call sport," said Mr. Alling; "but what we have to do is called work." He said that the man who plays fairly and to the best of his ability the game in which he is invited to play and gives the other fellow his chance is a true sport. He told of the construction of the baseball, which he said consisted of a cork center, rubber case, covered with woven yarn, in piles, with a cover stretched over it. Mr. Allyn stated that it is not proper to use a baseball until it is six months old. Before that they are liable not to stay together, for they are not dried out and in that condition are known as green balls. He said baseballs are generally ordered in the summer, made in the fall, cured in the winter and sold in the spring. Regarding tennis balls, Mr. Alling said that the cores are made in England and are covered in this country. A small capsule is placed inside, which explodes when it is heat-cured, filling the ball inside with gas. He also told of the manufacture of footballs. Mr. Alling said that the reason more attention to sports is being manifested now is that people are taking better physical care of themselves.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the driver's license of George C. Haynes, 25 Jay street.

An automobile driven by John Arylla, in passing through Bank street last night, collided with an iron pole of the Connecticut Power company, demolishing the light, but the automobile escaped damage of consequence.

George Jones today filed at the office of the city clerk a bond whereby he has agreed to sell a building lot on Vauxhall street to Stephen J. Crouch.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Richard Curran

Mrs. Mary Curran, 63, widow of Richard Curran, died last night at her home, 162 Montauk avenue, after a lingering illness. She is survived by a son, Richard B. Curran, secretary of the Connecticut Power company, and a daughter, Mrs. Timothy S. Leary and two sisters, Mrs. Catherine May and Mrs. Peter Lusk, the last named residing in Derby. Mrs. Curran was born in New London, the daughter of Richard and Catherine Kane, April 26, 1863, and had always resided in this city. She was a member of St. Joseph's church.

FUNERAL

Miss Augusta G. Serafin

The funeral of Miss Augusta G. Serafin was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the parish house of the First Church of Christ, Union street, and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. The bearers were: Frank L. Chapin, of Baltimore, and William Serafin, of this city, nephews of Miss Serafin; Harry Brogan, of Groton, and William Miner, of this city. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Linwood Farrell, 8 Schoolhouse lane; Harry Setsky, 99 Howard street; Roderick and John Lawless, Montville; Harold Brown, Noank; Mrs. Walter Canner, 225 Pequot avenue, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital were discharged today.

LINEMAN'S CONDITION IS GREATLY IMPROVED

The condition of Oak Straghn 2 Thames street, Groton, employed as lineman by the Connecticut Power company, is reported as improved today at Lawrence Memorial hospital. Straghn suffered concussion of the brain and lacerations of the head when he fell from a pole on which he was working yesterday, on State street, corner of North Bank. The concussion has been greatly relieved and the lineman now is considered out of danger.

City Manager William A. Holt has not concluded his investigation of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, made against Patrolman Carlos Stone recently by Joseph Cordesi. Today, City Manager Holt summoned Patrolmen Frank Linehan and Thomas Lyden to the municipal building and interrogated the officers as to the general conduct of fans at football games at Mercer field, where both officers had performed duty several times. The investigation was started yesterday when Patrolman Stone, Cordesi and Frederick Benvenuti were questioned. Stone was on duty at the football field a week ago last Sunday and during an altercation and when Cordesi is alleged to have used obscene language to the officer, Stone dealt the fan a blow on the face.

William Barclay, residing at the Hotel Mohican, was arrested yesterday in Groton, charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving a truck that was not equipped with a reflector, which act is contrary to a state statute. He was ordered to present himself in the Groton town court next Monday.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Surpassing even the wildest fantasies of the Arabian Nights with its magic carpet which transported a castle to a new location over night, the entire city of San Francisco with its teeming population, massive buildings, and mysterious "under city" in Chinatown, has been packed into a metal can about 12 inches square, and as you read this is speeding Norwichwards on a modern magic carpet—a fast T. A. T. airplane, for so important do the "powers that be" of Paramount consider the Norwich opening at the Broadway of Harold Lloyd's first talking picture, "Welcome Danger." That a special print of the production was dispatched via airplane to the "Rose of Connecticut," to arrive in time for the opening tomorrow (Saturday), Harold's first production for the talking screen is also his greatest success, surpassing all his previous features in every way. Telling the story of a rather slow-witted professor of botany in a small Boston prep school, who is called back to San Francisco to aid the police in solving a mystery, and living on the reputation of his dad who had been a hard-boiled police chief, the picture moves with increasing speed amid gales of laughter which reach hurricane intensity as the picture progresses. Harold becomes embodied in a tong feud in the dim underground recesses of Frisco's Chinatown with side-splitting results, and his team work with a "dumb" copper is guaranteed good for a thousand laughs alone. Surrounded by hatchetmen and gunmen on all sides, the couple work their way to daylight, but it's a tough climb and getting tougher every second. The picture is very hard on the "blues," which haven't a dim chance after the opening flash of the picture. Ever since talking pictures started, a battle has been waging to get Lloyd to face the microphone, but he has steadfastly refused, until this opus, which like all good things, proved worth waiting for, as attested by the crowded houses and long engagements which have greeted its showing everywhere. With a stellar cast including beautiful Barbara Kent, Noah Young, William Walling, Charles Middleton, the entire Frisco police force and the whole population of Frisco's little known Chinese quarter, the picture is one series of hearty laughs from beginning to end, furnishing two solid hours of enjoyment such as only Harold Lloyd and his "bag of tricks" can supply. The latest Paramount Sound News is also shown on the long program. Saturday the performance will be continuous from 1.30. Sunday evening two complete shows, starting at 6.30, and weekdays three shows at 2.15, 6.45 and 9 o'clock, with regular Broadway prices prevailing for the engagement.

HAROLD LLOYD

Breed Theatre.

"Chasing Through Europe," produced by Fox Films, is a Cook's Tour de luxe, interwoven with a delightful and thrilling romance which features Nick Stuart and Sue Carol. The Breed theatre is showing it today and Saturday.

It was directed by David Butler and Alfred L. Werker and during the unfolding of the plot, one is taken to London, England; Paris, France; Lille, Belgium; Rome, Italy and to Mount Vesuvius.

The story has to do with a pretty young heiress whose guardian attempts to marry her to his dissolute nephew in order to save himself from the consequences of having stolen a part of her inheritance.

During the action, the prince of Wales and Mussolini appear in the picture, marking the first time that either of them ever consented to be filmed in an actual motion picture sequence.

Besides Miss Carol and Stuart, the cast includes Gustav von Seyffertitz and Gavin Gordon. David Butler codirected with Alfred L. Werker.

Tom Mix in "Sky High" is the added feature on this program.

Commencing Sunday for four days only the Breed will show "Four Devils", the William Fox Special production which thrilled blase New Yorkers for 12 weeks at $2 top.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

When Myra Stanhope, formerly Lady Wimborne, is divorced by her husband, Lord Cyril Wimborne, and her baby boy taken away from her and given to the father, all her troubles are caused merely through circumstantial evidence which has linked her name with that of the notorious wastrel, Major Pollock. That is the key to the situation behind the story of "Evidence," the tense moving drama which starts at the Palace theatre tomorrow.

Under the promise that she would meet her husband with whom she had quarreled, Pollock lures Myra to an inn, and there the two are found together by Lord Wimborne, who despite her protestations of innocence, is firmly convinced in his rigid legal mind that she has sinned and that the evidence is overwhelmingly against her. In his eyes she is an adulteress? CUT HERE

Throughout the play Pauline Frederick's acting is superb. She is not content merely to go through certain grimaces and gestures and to repeat automatically certain lines. When she plays a part, she lives that part. She is not an actress impersonating Myra Stanhope—she is Myra Stanhope—a bewildered desperate woman balked at every turn by the wheel of fate and crying out into the long night for her lost baby.

Today for the last time that rollicking port town comedy "Sailor's Holiday" is on the screen at the Palace. Don't fail to come and get an eyeful of Big Alan Hale, the boy who meant well but never could quite get along without trouble.

The Lost Battalion

In "The History and Rhymes of the Lost Battalion" by L. C. McCollum, America's most popular war poet, which is now on sale here by the members of Robert O. Fletcher post of the American Legion, poetic justice is done to a notable gallery of American war heroes. They include Major General Robert Alexander, commander general of the 77th division, Col. C. W. Whittlesey, commander of the Lost Battalion, Major George G. McMurtry, second in command, and Captain (now Col.) Nelson M. Holderman, in charge of right flank of the famous battalion which fought it out with the enemy in the Argonne.

McCollum's book contains fine photographic reproductions of these noted leaders as well as biographical sketches. The book is prefaced by beautiful tribute to the American soldier by Col. Whittlesey.

Among the historical points cleared up in McCollum's book is an answer to the query: "Did Col. Whittlesey, commander of the Lost Battalion," send a reply to a demand to surrender, telling the Germans to 'Go to Hell'?"

One of the features of the book is the story in his own words of Private Lowell R. Hollingshead about how he was captured by the Germans and of being sent back by the German commander with a demand for the American's surrender.

Norwich has more than passing interest in this book. It tells the story of the war experience of Charles W. Frink of this city, a member of that battalion and a member of R. O. Fletcher post, of Norwich. The story is one of interest and belongs to Norwich people. Ask a Legionaire about securing a copy.

The first aerial ascent by living creatures was made by a sheep, a cock and a duck, in the basket of a hot-air balloon at Versailles, France, in 1783.

Walks Miles Daily Without Getting Sore Feet

A Cleveland letter carrier, a popular veteran, suffered so greatly from sore feet that periodically he had to lay off and stay in bed until his tired, aching, painfully swollen feet got well enough that he could resume his route.

It happened that among his "customers" was a well known pharmaceutical manufactory whose chemists had just perfected a balm containing organic iodine (a new scientific discovery) and other powerful antiseptic, astringent, germ-killing, healing medication for the relief of sore feet. They decided to test it out with their friend, the postman.

Results were almost miraculous—far beyond their fondest hopes. The new balm instantly soothed, relieved the aches and pains the old man had suffered nightly. In a few days all swelling had vanished, corns and callouses had disappeared. Now he walks his daily miles with youthful spritefulness and perfect comfort!

This amazing prescription is called McCulloch's Foot Balm. It is delicately scented and doesn't stain clothes, hose or bed linen. It worked wonders with the old postman. It is guaranteed to bring YOU relief—or money back! Try it—TODAY. At all good druggists.

ANOTHER HEADLONG DROP IN STOCK PRICES CHECKED YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—For the third time within a fortnight, a headlong drop in stock prices was checked today, and once more powerful financial interests were inclined to the belief that the crisis was past.

Although the latest sinking spell carried hundreds of issues to new low levels for the year or longer, it was not accompanied by the panicky conditions which have prevailed during the past two weeks, and it was regarded in many quarters as a mopping up of weakly held stock, which had been hanging over the market since last week.

The market opened with wholesale dumping of stocks in blocks of 5,000 to 26,000 shares, which carried leading issues down 2 to 15 points. The tide of selling began to ebb by the end of the first hour, however, and strong buying appeared. Some two score of important shares closed with net gains of 3 to 18 points, although early losses were not generally recovered, and scores of issues closed lower. Sales for the three-hour session, ending at 1 p. m. totaled 7,154,060 shares, which was at the rate of nearly 12,000,000 shares for a full session.

After the two false bottoms from which the market has recently rebounded, today's upturn did not so readily disperse the Wall street gloom as did those of Oct. 24 and Oct. 29. Heads of commission houses did not look for such a new crop of speculators as appeared with the upturn last week, and expressed earnest hopes that at last a period of quiet might appear. The market will close again at 1 o'clock tomorrow, and will be closed all day Saturday.

Foreign advices indicated a notable sobering of sentiment in European financial centers with this last drop in Wall street, and some observers were inclined to the belief that a substantial amount of the liquidation yesterday and early today came from London, where several houses have been sorely pressed, first by the Hatry collapse, then by the collapse of this market.

SETTING STANDARD GRADE FOR CONNECTICUT TURKEYS

The approach of Thanksgiving brings with it the adoption of an official grade for turkeys grown in Connecticut. The Connecticut native fancy grade which was established by the state department of agriculture at the request of the recently organized Connecticut Turkey Producers association, will become effective on Nov. 22, 1929.

Estmiates based on the best available information place the increasing turkey population of the state at approximately 15,000 birds. The grade which has been adopted is purely voluntary and it is expected by the state department of agriculture that it will be of great assistance to Connecticut consumers by stopping the masquerading of shipped-in birds as Connecticut turkeys.

Turkeys sold under this grade shall be birds grown in Connecticut, which are young, soft-meated and well-fleshed with broad, full breasts. They must be well bled and cleanly picked, with no noticeable feed in crops. No flesh bruises or prominent skin abrasions will be allowed. There shall be only slight discolorations, none of which shall be on the breasts. Slightly dented breast bones (not to exceed 1-2 inch in depth) permitted but there shall be no crooked breasts or other deformities. There shall be no broken bones excepting wing tips. Birds must be dry picked or semi-scalded; shall be clean and dressed with head and feet on.

The grade further requires that no birds shall be sold under this grade excepting those identified by the official yellow tag bearing the New England quality label and the name, address and registry number of the producer. This tag shall be firmly attached to the right wing of each bird.

Each producer of Connecticut native fancy grade turkeys will be registered with the state department of agriculture from where the official tag and label may be received. Inspectors from the department will visit the farms when the turkeys are being prepared for market and pass on birds to be sold under this grade. Judging from the early interest shown by growers it is expected that more than 50 per cent of the Connecticut turkeys will be sold this year under this grade. Those interested in marketing under the new grades or in the purchase of Connecticut native fancy grade turkeys may receive complete information by writing the state department of agriculture at Hartford.

In spite of the increased turkey crop for the country, the state department of agriculture believes, in view of the activities of buyers, that there will be a good demand for Connecticut graded birds at a price which is consistent with quality. Although one sale of 100 fancy Connecticut young tom and hen turkeys is reported at 65 cents per pound live weight, it is the belief of the department that the Thanksgiving diner should be able to receive his much-coveted bird at a price ranging from 60 to 70 cents per pound, depending upon whether it is purchased alive or dressed ready for the table.

In order that the growers may familiarize themselves with the latest methods of preparing birds for market, a turkey killing, picking and grading demonstration will be held at Woodsmere Poutry Farm in West Willington on Nov. 12 at 1:30 o'clock. Turkey growers throughout the state who are interested in selling graded birds may attend the demonstration. The killing and picking part of the demonstration will be conducted by one of the poultry specialists from Connecticut Agricultural college. Director of Marketing Sidney A. Edwards will explain the grade and demonstrate the easiest way to segregate the birds so that they will meet with the greatest favor when they are marketed.

RED CROSS GAVE AID IN PORTO RICO RECOVERY

The progressive recovery of Porto Rico from the effects of the great hurricane of September, 1928, recalls a unique disaster relief operation of the American Red Cross, dealing with a people of Spanish language and customs under tropical conditions. It also involved a novel form of agricultural relief, which has justified hopes.

With the cooperation of the federal and insular governments, the usual feeding, housing and medical care was given promptly to some 600,000 sufferers through the Red Cross relief staff. Reconstruction consisted of giving out materials to repair and rebuild homes and aid to agriculture.

Porto Rico has a teeming population. In the mountainous section devoted to coffee, the laboring class was left without food, work, or the prospect of work. Even the growers were in want. They were ruined by the loss of an unharvested crop, the largest since the American occupation. It would take six years for new coffee bush and trade trees to restore normal crops. Free food supplies of the people, such as bananas, had been totally destroyed.

To meet this situation, the Red Cross employed the laborers to clean the debris from plantations in order to give the undestroyed bush a chance to bear again. In enabling thousands of heads of families to earn their living, the Red Cross restored in part the earning capacity of the plantations so as to insure future employment. All planters received free Red Cross vegetable seeds to share with their laborers, with the result that quick growing vegetables supplied homes and brought in revenues from the town markets. Free coffee seedlings were supplied to growers.

Thus the Red Cross tided over a period of actual starvation until the federal road and school building appropriation opened up further employment. It expended in all $3,216,262 from the general West Indies hurricane relief fund, raised by the American public. To this general fund the Red Cross contributed $50,000 from its own treasury.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR PUTNAM HIGHWAY WORK

The contract for 8,492 feet of waterbound macadam on the Putnam-Putnam Heights road was among five in which the awards were announced Wednesday by State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald. This goes to Zolli & De Michiel, of Torrington.

Other awards were made as follows:

Town of Somers: The extension of a two-span concrete arch bridge at the Somerville Manufacturing Co. factory on the Hall Hill road, to Mariani Construction Co. of New Haven for $6,154.54.

City of New Britain: 800 feet of bituminous macadam on the drives at the state normal school, to L. Suzio Construction Co. for $2,764.

RACE OF ANTIQUES WON BY CAR OF 32

LONDON (AP)—When an Englishman buys an automobile he expects it to last at least as long as a horse. He doesn't look forward to trading it in on a new one next year.

And so it happened that while exhibitors at the annual motor show at Olympia were golating over the sleekness of their 1929 models, a smaller but even prouder group of automobile enthusiasts were indulging in their annual "Old Crocks" race from London to Brighton.

It was a race in which age preceded beauty. Although the 35 cars in the contest ranged from 25 to 36 years in age, only four of them failed to finish—and those were by no means the oldest.

A 32-year-old horseless buggy with wire wheels, owned by a woman, won the 50-mile struggle on points for the best all-around performance.

The best time was made by Lord Ridley's 28-year old Lanchester, which arrived in Brighton 2 hours 33 minutes after departing from London. It surprised modern motorists by traveling 30 miles an hour quite comfortably on the straightaways and climbing hills without difficulty.

The veteran of the race was an 1895 model Panhard, winner of the "Old Crocks" race in 1927. Despite its 36 years it rumbled the 50 miles without getting out of breath, and in less than four hours.

ENGLISH LINE'S VOLUME LOWERS FARE FOR FLIGHT

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—The cost of high flying is coming down, at least in the north of England.

Northern Air Lines, Ltd., which began operations here last April, has had such a volume of business that it has reduced its fares 33 1-3 per cent and cut its air taxi rate to 20 cents a mile.

Since April the company's 10 planes have flown 78,165 miles and carried 24,280 passengers without injury to any passenger of employe. Joyrides at $1.25 a flight, instructional flying and air taxi service account for most of the mileage. Five pilots are on the payroll.

MURDER CHARGE LODGED AGAINST ALLEN WALKER

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Allen Walker, who fled into Mexico more than a year ago after a charge of violating the prohibition law was filed against him, today was indicted by the Webb county grand jury for murder in connection with the deaths of General Lucio Blanco and Colonel Aurelio Martinez of Mexico, whose bodies were found handcuffed together in the Rio Grande near here in 1922.

Walker, a former deputy United States marshal, and a captain with the Philippine scouts during the Spanish-American war, is the second man to be indicted in connection with the death of General Blanco. Duke Carver, San Antonio constable, was released yesterday under $10,000 bond after he was charged with slaying the general.

Officials said they would seek extradition of Walker.

AUTO FATALITY SUIT FOR $10,000 ON TRIAL

Trial in the automobile fatality suit for $10,000 damages brought by Albert F. Johnson of Pawtucket, administrator of the estate of Thomas P. Burke, late of that place against Ralph Calvert, coast guardsman, was begun in the superior court at New London Thursday before Judge Earnest C. Simpson and a jury.

The suit is the result of an accident near the Rone Ferry bridge at Niantic when Burke was struck while walking by the Calvert car on May 11, 1928.

Hull, McGuire & Hull represent the plaintiff and Attorney Philip Z. Hankey the defendant.

The following jury is hearing the case:

New London—Cecil P. Caulkins, Thomas F. Gannon, Harry D. Burdick, Reginald M. Rowland.

Groton—Philip J. Blackert, Elmund P. Calvert, Percy H. Morgan.

Stonington—Joseph Leahy.

Montville—Frank J. Martin.

Waterford—Alfred G. Chappell, Vine W. Starr.

East Lyme—Charles J. Luce.

SETTLEMENT MADE IN OLD LYME PROBATE APREAL

After nearly two days of trial before Judge Earnest C. Simpson and a jury in the superior court the appeal from probate of Frederick Haynes and others of Lyme against Elisha J. Ashley, executor of the will of Chester C. Haynes was settled out of court at New London late Wednesday.

The plaintiffs appealed from the probate court of Lyme, which admitted to probate the will of the deceased. They claimed that undue influence was brought to bear upon Chester C. Haynes and that therefore, the will was not in accordance with the law.

SWARM OF BEES WAS STOLEN IN COLCHESTER

COLCHESTER, Nov. 7.—(AP)— The rarest crime was committed here today.

Somebody stole a swarm of bees, with their honey, from the farm of Kutis brothers.

Residents recalled hearing four years ago that twenty swarms of bees, with honey, was stolen at Salem, six miles from here.

After cruising about the Mediterranean and making an extended tour of Europe, they returned to this country and Mr. Aiken went to the west where he entered the employ of Goodrich & Terry in Milwaukee. He there met Governor Buckingham, and his daughter to whom he became engaged and subsequently married.

Shortly before the outbreak of the Civil war, he returned to the east and for some time prior to the actual beginning of hostilities between the north and the south, he was engaged in carrying communications on behalf of Governor Buckingham to the authorities in Washington, which brought him in frequent and most interesting contact with President Lincoln and members of his cabinet. On the outbreak of hostilities he obtained a commission as assistant paymaster in the navy, was married in Norwich on August 28, 1861. He was immediately ordered to report at the Brooklyn Navy yard where he was assigned as paymaster to the U. S. S. Curlew attached to Dunont's squadron. He accompanied the fleet south, where, during his service, his vessel was on blockade duty and, with Dpont's fleet, took an active part in the attack on and reduction of the Confederate forts at Port Royal and Hilton Head.

Quartermaster General.

Upon the expiration of his term of service, he was prevailed upon by Governor Buckingham to surrender his commission, as Governor Buckingham felt that he could render more useful service both to him and to the state as quartermaster general of Connecticut, and he was appointed to this position at the age of thirty, serving throughout the Civil war until the demobilization of the Connecticut troops. During this time he had complete charge of the equipment and maintenance of the troops of the state so far as responsibility lay with the state authorities.

After the war he engaged in a number of manufacturing enterprises in Norwich, continuing active business until about twenty years ago, when he retired.

Mr. Aiken, although never taking an active part in politics, was deeply interested in civic and national affairs. His early interest in the reform of the civil service, taking it out of the hands of the spoilsman, brought him in close and intimate friendship with George William Curtis, Carl Schurz and their associates, which friendship lasted during their lifetime—in the establishment of the National Civil Service Reform association, of which Mr. Aiken was honorary vice-president at the time of his death.

He has been for many years, a trustee of the Otis library and president of the board of trustees from March 30, 1885 to the time of his death. It was largely through his enthusiasm and desire to extend the usefulness of the library to the citizens of the town that appropriations have been obtained from the town for the maintenance of the library as a free public library available to the whole community.

He had been during all his life in Norwich an active member of the Broadway church was a deacon up to the time of its union with the Second Congregational church under the name of the United church, and served as deacon of the combined churches until he became deacon emeritus, which position he held at the time of his death. He was for many years superintendent of the Buckingham Sunday school, a mission Sunday school founded by Governor Buckingham and supported and maintained by the Broadway church in its building on Boswell avenue now occupied by the Greek church.

Mr. Aiken took an active interest in the affairs of the Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., and was for some years its commander.

He was a companion of the first class of the New York commandery of the Loyal Legion of the United States.

Mr. Aiken was a man of broad cultural interests, an omniverous reader, and had an enthusiastic interest in and appreciation of music.

He was married in Norwich on August 28, 1861, to Eliza Colt Buckingham, daughter of Gov. William A. Buckingham, who died July 31, 1924. Seven children were born of the marriage of whom three, William Buckingham Aiken, John Aiken and Edith Matson Aiken Palmer, are deceased. He is survived by his daughters, Mrs. Benjamin W. Bacon of New Haven, Miss Mary A. Aiken and Jane McO. Aiken of Norwich, and one son, Alfred L. Aiken of New York, four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

His Recollections.

General Aiken, who was quartermaster general for the state of Connecticut from the summer of '62 till the end of the war, was the oldest member of Sedgwick post and one of the oldest Union veterans at the time of his death.

In his capacity as quartermaster general for this state under Governor William A. Buckingham whose home in this city is now the property and headquarters of Sedgwick post, Gen. Aiken had unusual opportunities to see and talk with President Lincoln, whom he had heard debate with Douglass and had seen nominated for president at Chicago.

Recalling some of these incidents at one time, Gen. Aiken said that his first knowledge of Lincoln was in connection with a debate in Illinois between Lincoln and Douglass, of which he heard one. My next knowledge of Lincoln, continued Gen. Aiken, was in attending the nomination in the Wigwam at Chicago when Lincoln was nominated for the presidency the first time. I heard all the speeches and witnessed the nomination, a most dramatic sight. He was nominated on the third ballot by the delegation for Vermont changing its vote from Seward to Lincoln. This made the Illinois men crazy with delight and nominated Lincoln.

While visiting in Norwich and before I was in the service, Governor Buckingham said to me in the library at the Buckingham Memorial that he wished he knew the right man to send to Washington to tell President Lincoln that Connecticut would support the government with men and war material in every way possible. I was forward enough to say to the governor, "Would I do?" He turned to me and said, "Will you go?" I answered "Any time." This was just after South Carolina had fired upon Ft. Sumpter. Washington contained no federal troops at that time except the First Battery of U. S. artillery and no state troops except the Sixth Massachusetts which I followed through Baltimore into Washington to see Lincoln at the white house.

This was the most interesting of eight interviews which I had with the president during the war. I had in my pocket dispatches for Gen. Winfield Scott, Secretary of War Cameron and for the president, which I delivered to him. This was at the saddest part of Lincoln's life, for Washington was apparently besieged. The president finally sent me down to the office of Mr. Seward, secretary of the state, the object to get some money to carry me back to Connecticut, as I didn't want to go back through Baltimore, knowing that I had been watched and called a damned northern spy on the way down. I pulled out my pocketbook and showed the president that I had $250 in northern bank bills, an amount insufficient to pay one night's lodging at the hotel. The president gave me an order on Seward for $250 in gold coin, which Seward gave me in $20 and $10 gold pieces and made me feel quite independent. As Mr. Seward gave me the money he said: "Mr. Aiken, you look blue." "If there is any bluer man in Washington than I am, I'd like to see him," was my answer. "We felt so ourselves," said Seward, "but we feel better today."

"When you go out," said Seward to me, "put your eye on the senate wing of the capitol, and if you see a little white flag floating over that wing you will know that the Eighth Massachusetts and the Seventh New York have arrived." I had not left the place ten minutes when I saw that flag raised above the senate wing. I ran as fast as I could to the depot of the Annapolis railroad and to my great delight saw the blue coats of the Massachusetts Eighth and the gray coats of the New York Seventh as they deceended from the cars.

I passed the next two days going north through Maryland and Pennsylvania and upon arriving at a railroad station in Pennsylvania that I would be in Connecticut as soon as the rails would carry me, I returned to Hartford and reported my trip to the governor.

After seven more intresting interviews with Lincoln during his presidency, Gen. Aiken said in concluding his collections, I was summoned by Governor Buckingham to accompany him to Washington to attend the funeral of the assassinated president in the east room of the white house, which I did.

In the first year of the war, Gen. Aiken had a term of service in the navy, being on the gunboat Curlew in the first large naval engagement off Hilton Head, S. C.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Moderate selling pressure was exerted on the bond list today causing prices irregularly lower in an active three-hour session. Obligations of the United States government and some of the underlying rails moved against the easier trend, but other carriers, in common with the industrial and utility groups, shaded lower.

The liquidation was attributed to "distress selling" by bond holders who needed money for stock accounts, but declines were mostly nominal in contrast to the sharp drops of last week, and offerings found ready absorption.

Share feature bonds reduced or eliminated early losses when stock prices reversed their course. An exception was the public service of New Jersey convertible 4 1-2 per cent debenture, which fell to the new low of 149, closing a point above that figure for a net loss of 19 points. Its previous 1929 minimum had been 162 1-2. American telephone 4 1-2s recovered a 10 point decline and closed even. International Telephone 4 1-2s were off 3 on the day. Commercial Investment trust 5 1-2s dropped 5 points to equal their low at 85.

Utilities finished at about the day's lows, with losses of 1-2 to 1 point in Bell telephone of Pennsylvania 5s, Consolidated Gas of New York 5 1-2s, federal Light & Traction 5s, Louisville Gas & Electric 5s, Laclede Gas 5 1-2s, North American Edison 5 1-2s, New York Telephone 6s and Brooklyn Edison General.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Big speculative buying that overwhelmed all obstacles swept the wheat market upward today with momentum increasing rapidly at the last. Much of the demand was of a highly concentrated character, and appeared to be under leadership of a noted eastern trader who is reputed to have operated of late on a large scale, changing quickly from one side of the market to the other. Today's rallies in stock exchange values counted notably toward promoting wheat prices advances, and so likewise did Argentine frost reports, as well as substantial new trans-Atlantic call for North American wheat.

Chicago closing quotations in wheat were strong at virtually the day's top figures, 2 3-4 to 3 1-4 higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1 3-8 to 1 5-8 up, oats 1 1-2 to 1 3-4 advanced, and provisions varying from cents setback to an equal gain.

Unusual resistance which the wheat market here showed to depressing effects of today's early breaks in stock exchange values attracted particular attention, and helped to inspire much of the confidence that quickly began to develop among friends of higher wheat prices. Word that export buying today of wheat from the United States and Canada amounted to 1,150,000 bushels or more tended further to accelerate upward swings of prices here for future deliveries.

OFFICERS APPOINTED FOR STORRS MILITARY UNIT

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 5—J. Earle Williams, '30, of Hartford, has been appointed major of the R. O. T. C. unit of the Connecticut Agricultural college, according to an announcement made here today by Captain Thornton Chase head of the military department at college. Theodore J. Von Sabo, '30, of Shelton; Ray Ryan, '30, of New Haven; Leo T. Duffy, '30, of Hartford; and L. Stuart Champiny, '30, of Hartford, were appointed as captains of companies A, B, C, and D, respectively. Warren J. Kennedy, '30, of Windsor, was appointed as adjutant.

Six first lieutenants were also appointed. Francis E. Dorsey, of New Britain; Douglas W. Logee, of Danielson; Louis Tomey, of Norwalk; Joseph P. Blais, of Hartford; William McCombe, of Hartford; and Joseph J. Gebel, of New Haven. Four second lieutenants were appointed, and consist of Norman H. Hueston, of New Milford; Robert H. Fiers, of Winsted; Charles M. Dittrich, of Waterbury and Anthony Lynch, of Hartford.

First sergeants appointed are: Edward Montstream, '31, of Hartford; Raymond L. Walker, '31, of Derby; Nathan Jacobson, '31, of South Coventry; and James Gwin, '31, of Tyrone, Pa. Sergeants appointed are: David Larsen, '31, of Stratford; Sterling E. Mills, '31, of West Haven; Kingston S. Wilcox, '31, of New Haven; George E. Pinckney, '31, of New Haven; Stuart Joslyn, '31, of Chester; Nelson Smith '31 of Danbury; Russell S. Anderson, '31, of Cromwell; Charles N. Waite, '31, of New Haven; Bruce G. NEW BAND AT ACADEMY STARTS WITH 21 MEMBERS

Red and White, Norwich Free Academy newspaper, has the following: Last Tuesday after school, at Slater hall, twenty-one recruits for a band reported for practice. Under the able direction of John M. Swahn, the rehearsal proved to be far better than expected. Because of his knowledge of music and instruments, John P. Murphy, former Holy Cross band leader, is a valuable asset. The project is sponsored by a baseball fund of $500.

Since some instruments are at the disposal of the students, it is expected that ten or more pupils will take an interest in the proceedings. Sometime in the future, the members of the band will wear white flannels, red sweaters and red and white overseas hats.

It is doubtful whether the band will make any public appearance before the Bulkeley game.

KILLED IN BATTLE WITH RUM RUNNERS

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 7—(AP)—Toledo police were tonight questioning one suspect arrested in connection with the slaying early today of Deputy Marshal Ralph Zahndle, who was fatally wounded in a gun battle with rum runners in a suburb here.

Zahndle was shot when four men in a sedan guarding a liquor truck which he and a fellow officer, E. H. Genzler, were following, turned into the middle of the road and fired several rounds into the pursuing car. Genzler was not wounded.

When police arrived the gunmen and the truck had disappeared but the car from which the fatal shots were fired was found.

MRS. HOMER BROOKE NOW IN CALIFORNIA

Mrs. Isaphene Ives Brooke, formerly of Norwich, is now in California, halfway between Hollywood and Los Angeles. Mrs. Brooke's present address is 1352 South Dunsmuir avenue, Helen Eddy apartments, Los Angeles.

After a visit with New London relatives and a stay at her home in Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Mrs. Brooke left for California this fall.

Addressed New London D. A. R.

Mrs. Clarence E. Wickham, of Hartford, state chairman of the patriotic education committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, addressed Lucretia Shaw chapter, New London, Monday afternoon on the work of the society in schools throughout the country. Sixteen schools, of which 14 are in the south, are endorsed and aided by the D. A. R. The New London chapter voted to send $3 with a like sum contributed by Mrs. Wickham to Tamassee, S. C., and voted to send boxes later to several of the schools. Three prizes were offered by Mrs. Wickham to the chapters which do the most work along this line with the largest proportion of membership assisting. The committee to judge is composed of Mrs. George Maynard Minor, Mrs. John L. Buel, of Litchfield, and Mrs. Ernest E. Rogers.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Nash Car.

KENOSHA, Wis., Nov. 7—Pressing national demand for the Nash Twin-Ignition Eight—the brilliant new leader of the Nash "400" series for 1930—has made it necessary to augment the usual shipping methods employed by the Kenosha manufacturing plant with fast express shipments, and to face one of the most insistent public demands for immediate new car delivery in company history, sales officials declared today.

Twenty-two fast express loads of the great new straight eights have been dispatched to Atlantic points in the last ten days to supply a small part of the orders taken by Nash distributors and dealers during the formal announcement rush which brought thousands of interested buyers into Nash show rooms early this month. Regular shipments of all three of the new series, the Eight, Twin-Ignition Six and Single Six, are going forward as rapidly as the famous Nash precision production lines can supply the new cars, but a big administrative problem lies in the just distribution of cars to all points of the country.

"Nash factories are using every available facility to meet this inspiring flood of orders for the new '400's'", C. H. Bliss, general sales manager, said today. "No more striking assurance of public endorsement of the new Nash product is needed than this insistent demand. All of the new Nash buyers seem to want the car of their choice the minute they sign their order, and of course we are doing our best to meet their wishes. This type of public demand is gratifying in the highest degree, but it also creates a delicate problem in the matter of dividing available cars equally among members of our sales organization.

"Nash plants are working full time and some departments are on night shifts to supply this big demand and to adequately meet the certain industrial success revealed in this stirring indication of public appreciation and approval."

BRITISH PLAN TO CELEBRATE RAIL CENTENARY NEXT YEAR

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (AP)—Steam railroading will celebrate its hundredth birthday anniversary here in September of next year, and plans are to make it an international event.

It was in the fall of 1830 that the Liverpool and Manchester railway was opened. Locomotives already had pulled trains, both in England and America, before that; but the opening of the L and M was the first railway undertaking of sufficient magnitude to convince the public that a new form of transportation actually had arrived.

"HOOVERAM" SUGGESTED AS NEW NAME FOR R-101

LONDON (AP)—The report that R-101, Britain's new state airship, would be given a new name soon has brought on an avalanche of letters to newspapers.

Numerous suggestions have been made to name the R-101 after some member of the royal family. Other name-pickers favor a resounding word like "Brittania" or "Glorious."

One volunteer, however, insists the ship should be called the "Hooveram" because it was launched in England while President Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald were holding their peace parley in America.

GREENEVILLE

OLD GREENEVILLE HOUSE BEING TORN DOWN

Owing to the delapidated condition of one of the first houses built in Greeneville it is being torn down. The house, years ago, was known by the natives as the long house, but of recent years it was designated by the younger generation as the bathing house. It is a one-story building and has housed four tenements. The house was built in the early thirties and was erected by the Kennedy Cotton Mills, who had their factory on the present site of the United States Finishing company, and what was formerly the Shetucket Cotton mills.

Held Monthly Meeting

The Ladies' Aid society of Greeneville Congregational church held their monthly meeting in the assembly hall of the church Wednesday evening with 35 members present. Regular business was transacted with the vice president, Mrs. Jennie Young, presiding, in the absence of the society's president, Mrs. S. S. Lathrop, who is at present the guest of her sister, Mrs. Braun, at Portland, Me. Reports were read and accepted by the secretary and treasurer and reports from the entertainment committee were given. Much credit was given Mrs. L. Prentice for her untiring efforts in making the last entertainment the grand success it was. Mrs. Prentice also announced that the play would be repeated this month. During the meeting a letter was read from President Lathrop. After the business session refreshments, consisting of assorted sandwiches, fancy cookies, tea and coffee, were served by the reception committee, namely Mrs. Charles McMillan, Mrs. Fred Thompson, Mrs. Howard Rydholm, Miss Florence Tilly and Mrs. George Geer. At the December meeting plans are for a Christmas party.

Mrs. Kispert 90 Saturday

Mrs. Katherine Kispert observed her 90th birthday Saturday, at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Sutthill, 229 Central avenue. Mrs. Kispert enjoyed good health until two years ago, but for the past two years she has hardly been able to leave her bedroom. Mrs. Kispert was born in Germany and came to this country when of middle age, making her first home in Baltic where she lived for about one and one half years, then moving to Taftville where she resided for nearly 27 years. She has been a resident of Greeneville for the past sixteen years. There were 10 children of whom only two daughters, Mrs. Alex Sutthill and Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, also of Greeneville, and one son, Michael Kispert, of Baltic, are living. Mrs. Kispert is the oldest of four generations, namely, her daughters and son, 9 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. Mrs. Kispert received a shower of birthday cards, flowers, potted plants and useful articles from her many friends.

TAFTVILLE

A meeting of the members of Council Bagnon, No. 208 Union St. Jean Baptiste was held Thursday evening at the council rooms on Merchants avenue. This being the monthly meeting of the union, a number of important business items were transacted.

Christopher Krauss of Blissville and George Kramer of Greeneville, were fox hunting Thursday, and Mr. Krauss barred a reynard. On Wednesday Mr. Kramer shot a large fox, bringing the score of foxes shot by both men over the same dog, to four this season.

Letters advertised at the local postoffice this week include mail for Peter Grenier, Louis Barton, Wilfred St. Hilaire and John Francis.

John Ely of Blissville has purchased a new 'coon dog, which has recently arrived this week from Arkansas.

The members of the American Legion auxiliary held their annual election of officers Wednesday evening at the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building, Miss Aurette Fournier was elected president; first vice president, Mrs. Albert Vetter; second vice president, Mrs. Delima Dufour; secretary, Mrs. Patrick J. Fogarty; treasurer, Mrs. James Emerson; historian, Mrs. Andrew Frohmader; chaplain, Mrs. William Emerson; sergeant-at-arms, Mrs. Robert J. Celino. Mrs. Thomas Perkins Sears, acting as state vice president, installed the newly elected officers. After the business session there was a social hour, refreshments being served.

NEW APPROACH PROVIDED TO REACH THE MASON MONUMENT

At a special meeting of the Mason Monument association which was held Thursday afternoon in the office of Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, with the mayor presiding, the report of the special committee was accepted as to a right of way to the monument. The committee reported that it had effected an exchange with Mrs. Alfredina Houghton, wife of Don Houghton, by which a release is given of a right of way which existed over a portion of her property and in exchange a new approach to the monument is secured. The new right of way is an extension of Lee avenue, 90 feet long and 40 feet wide, directly to the monument. The old right of way was only five feet wide, and went by a roundabout way through the Sterry property, through the backyard of Mrs. Mary Mara's property and across several of Mrs. Houghton's lots.

The meeting discussed what was to be done with the old stone entrance posts and it was voted that First Selectman William S. Murray should make such disposition of them as should seem to him proper.

The matter of fencing in the monument was taken up and after discussion the mayor was empowered to name a committee of three to take this into consideration. Mayor Robbins named B. P. Bishop, H. H. Pettis and William S. Murray.

Those attending the meeting were: William S. Murray, Gilbert S. Raymond, Arthur L. Peale, Edwin A. Tracy, B. P. Bishop, George H. Gilman, Henry H. Pettis, Mrs. E. E. Rogers, Mrs H. B. Wightman, Herbert L. Yerrington, Eben Learned, Mrs. William H. Dawley, John P. Huntington, H. S. Burt and Lee R. Robbins.

BOUCHER IS IMPROVING AFTER TROLLEY INJURIES

It has been learned that the address of Albert Boucher, 45, who was seriously injured by a Norwich bound trolley car early Monday morning at Uncasville, is Clark Lane, Waterford. This information was given the officials of the W. W. Backus hospital by a visitor, who went to the hospital to see Mr. Boucher. According to hospital authorities the Waterford man is rapidly improving, his condition being such that he was able to sit up in a chair Thursday.

Mr. Boucher is suffering from concussion of the brain, numerous contusions and abrasions, received when he ran into the trolley, which he was intending to board for New London. He was rendered unconscious from the crash, remaining so until about 10 o'clock the morning of the accident and then was semi-conscious many hours thereafter. He was able to give his name in this period of semi-consciousness, but failed to disclose his address after repeated questioning.

PICKING MACHINE FIRE WAS QUICKLY EXTINGUISHED

A bell alarm from Box 25, corner of Franklin street near Chestnut avenue, was rung in at 4:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon for a fire in a picking machine in Sussman's Bedding Co. Inc. building at No. 129 Chestnut street. Only slight damage was done to the machine by the blaze, which was caused from sparks from the picker.

Before the apparatus arrived employes used the contents of chemical tanks and a garden hose to put out the flames, which were held to the machine and later subdued by the firemen with the use of pump cans. A 1 1-2 inch line was also laid in case the blaze got out of control, but this was not needed. Engines Nos. 1, 3 and 5, Squad A, Chief Henry R. Taft and Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan responded to the alarm.

NEW YORK NORWICH CLUB TO HAVE DINNER

The fall dinner of the Norwich Society of New York is to be held on the evening of Nov. 15 at the New York Athletic club. The invitation sent out to the members contains the announcement that the speakers will include some friends from Norwich. J. Olin Howe is president and John R. Powelson is secretary of the club. According to the seating arrangements, the tables will indicate different sections of this city as follows: Big Plains, Broadway, Falls, Greeneville, Jail Hill, Laurel Hill, Little Plains, McKinley avenue, Norwich Town, Thamesville, Washington street, West Side.

TRINITY CHURCH MEN ARE GIVEN TRAVEL TALK

The regular monthly meeting of the Men's club of Trinity Episcopal church was held in the parish room Thursday evening. After supper the business meeting was addressed by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, who spoke of the death of Bishop John G. Murray, and Henry F. Parker, who spoke of the coming, Every Memer Canvas. Harry W. Cardwell was the speaker of the evening who addressed the club on his experiences in Italy during the past summer.

TELLS NORWICH LIONS ABOUT POLICE FORCE

George Brenn, a member of the local board of police commissioners, gave an interesting talk on the police of Norwich at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club held Thursday noon in the Wauregan hotel. The meeting was in charge of Vice President Lee Dix, the blessing was offered by Louis Crandall and the song leader was Rudolph Henschel, Frederick Geer being at the piano.

Mr. Brenn said that the present police force was not equal in size to handle the large volume of traffic that passes through the city and expressed the hope that the citizens would see the imperative necessity of an increased force and vote an appropriation for the addition of several officers. The commissioner mentioned the new finger print system that is being used by police headquarters and alluded to the capable manner in which the traffic was handled in Franklin street, which is very narrow and heavily traveled.

In conclusion Mr. Breen spoke of the serious problem of protecting the school children in going to and from school, stating that with the small number of police to spare it is taxing the ability of the department. He said that the commissioners are endeavoring to receive the full cooperation of the board of education in protecting the children. One plan that has been suggested, the commissioner said, was to give the school janitors, police authority to direct traffic as the children were leaving school. The Lions, led by Louis Fontaine, roared in honor of the speaker after passing a vote of thanks for his address.

In reporting on a Lions meeting in Taftville, President Charles W. Cassidy made the suggestion that it would be better for the Taftville citizens interested in forming a Lions club to join the Norwich organization. By a show of hands it was revealed that all the Lions present were willing to contribute towards the Lions Thanksgiving dinner for the poor boys of the city.

UNIVERSALISTS ARE TO MEET IN MIDDLETOWN

Editor of "Wayside Pulpit" and Biographer of ex-President C. W. Eliot. Hymn and benediction.

The hymns to be dramatized under the direction of Mrs. A. N. Foster of this city are: Father, in Thy mysterious presence, At first, I prayed for Light, I would be true, O, Love that will not let me go, Day is dying in the west.

WILL INAUGURATE COLLEGE PRESIDENT AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 7.— The inaugural exercises at which Dr. George A. Works will be formally made president of the Connecticut Agricultural college will take place here Friday. More than 35 colleges and universities will be represented at the inauguration.

The order of exercises, as arranged by Dean Charles B. Gentry, chairman of the inauguration committee, will be as follows: Academic procession with Professor George S. Torrey, member of the state college staff and representative of Harvard university, as marshall; invocation by Reverend J. Garland Waggoner, pastor of the Storrs church; singing of America; addresses by Governor John H. Trumbull, "Greeting from the State"; President James L. McConaughy, of Wesleyan university, representing the colleges of New England; and Chancellor Samuel P. Capen, on "The place of the state college in the new movement in higher education." Harry G. Manchester, vice-president of the board of trustees will preside.

Included among those who will take part in the inauguration are John H. Trumbull, governor of the state of Connecticut; Lieutenant Governor Rogers; Chancellor Samuel P. Capen, of the University of Buffalo; President James L. McConaughy, of Wesleyan university; Captain Ralph Earle, president of Worcester Polytechnic institute; Howard Edwards, president of Rhode Island State college; Charles A. Plumley, president of Norwich university; Dr. Nicholas Moseley, provost of Albertus Magnus college; Dr. Arnold Gesell, of the Yale Psycho-Clinic, who represents the University of Wisconsin; Frank C. Babbitt, secretary of faculty, Trinity college; Raymond A. Pearson, president of the University of Maryland; Laurence S. Doggett, president of the International Y. M. C. A. college, and Walter F. Friary, S. J., dean of freshmen, Holy Cross college.

A banquet in honor of the new president will be held Friday evening in the college dining hall. At this banquet the faculty will be represented by Miss Edwina Whitney; the student body by Leo T. Duffy, of Hartford; the alumni by Charles Brock; Connecticut colleges by Henry S. Graves, of Yale university; Connecticut College for Women, by Dr. Catherine Blunt, president, Rufus W. Stimson, former president of the state college, and President-Emeritus Charles L. Beach will also speak.

Dr. Works has been at the state college since August 1, when he came to take up his executive duties. Previous to that he was dean of the graduate library school at the University of Chicago. Dr. Works is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, in the class of 1904, and since then has had a wide experience as an educator. He was, for several years following his graduation, a superintendent of schools in the smaller cities of Wisconsin, going to the University of Minnesota in 1913 and later to Cornell university.

President Works went to the University of Chicago as dean of the graduate library school in 1927, after conducting a survey of college libraries which attracted national attention. He received his master of science degree at Cornell university in 1912, and his doctor of education degree at Harvard university in 1925.

Dr. Works was married in 1904 and has five children, three girls and two boys. He is a member of the National Society of Vocational Education, American Association of University Professors, American Association for the Advancement of Science; Delta Epsilon, Alpha Zeta, Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa and the Masons.

Flags At Half Staff

Out of respect to the memory of Gen. William A. Aiken, who was president of the board of trustees of the library, the flag on the Otis library building was flown at half staff Thursday. The flag at the Buckingham Memorial, the home of Sedgwick post, was also at half-staff.

SCHOOL BUILDING AGAIN BEFORE MANSFIELD MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 7.—A town meeting, the second within three weeks, will be conducted by the town of Mansfield in Hawley armory of Connecticut Agricultural college, on Saturday morning. The purpose of this meeting is to review the action of the previous meeting at which it was voted that the town should construct a grade school building at Storrs.

A committee was appointed and was authorized to use a sum not to exceed $35,000, to be added to an equal sum appropriated by the legislature of the state, for the building of the school. It was also voted that a two-mill tax be laid which would provide for the interest and principal within a period of ten years.

The action at the previous meeting was strongly opposed, with Mr. Kirby and Mr. Benson as leaders of the opposition. The location of the new building and the cost were subject to much adverse criticism by the minority. It is expected that at the meeting Saturday, an attempt will be made to at least modify the action taken at the previous meeting.

D. J. Flaherty, chairman of the building committee and first selectman, is equally strong in his approval of the proposed building. He states that the necessity of building is unavoidable and that upkeep after the structure is completed will be approximately the same whatever the type of building. He also points out that under the conditions of the legislature's action it is now possible for the town to build at one-half the cost of the structure, and that if this opportunity is not accepted the town will later have to pay the entire cost.

The selectman also stated that transportation costs for primary pupils, which now averages $7,000 a year, will be materially reduced by the proposed location of the school building.

WILL BE SPEAKER FOR ARMISTICE DAY HERE

The principal address at the Armistice day exercises to be held at Union square, in front of the city hall building, will be delivered by William Murray, state adjutant of the Connecticut department of the American Legion. His talk will probably be on the meaning of Armistice day. A large gathering is expected to attend the celebration that will follow the three minute period of silence at 11 o'clock, to be observed by the entire population of Norwich.

His Honor, Mayor Lee Roy Robbins, issued the following statement Thursday in connection with the celebration:

"It seems to me that every citizen should appreciate the significance of Armistice day. The local committee appointed to arrange for a proper observance of the anniversary are asking every one to pay tribute to those Americans who fell in the World war by suspending all work and keeping a silence for three minutes after the stroke of 11 o'clock in the forenoon. Public observance of the event is arranged for in the form of a community gathering at Union square at this hour and it is hoped that everyone so far as possible will meet there to evidence through common expression the gratitude that all loyal hearts should feel on this day."

NORWICH TOWN

SHOWED VIEWS ON INDIA TO ILLUSTRATE ADDRESS

In the chapel of the First Congregational church Thursday evening, in place of the regular mid-week service, an interesting meeting was held, under the auspices of the programme committee of the Woman's department of the League of Service. This also took the place of the November meeting of this committee, connected with the League of Service. The devotional period was in charge of Mrs. Ronald Nelson. Of special interest to those present was an illustrated lecture by Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro, of Norwich, whose father, the late Charles Hyde, for many years was a beloved deacon of this parish. The lecture dealt with India, where Mrs. Zumbro was located for some time with her husband, the late Rev. William M. Zumbro, as missionary. The pictures shown were postcard views of India, thrown on a screen by the aid of a baloptico. This machine was loaned by the Misses Lucas, of Sachem street, who also generously gave of their time in advance of the meeting in getting the machine equipped for use in the chapel, as a favor to Mrs. Zumbro. The meeting opened with the hymn, Christ for the World We Sing. Scripture reading from the 18th chapter of Acts, by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, followed. After the hymn, Hail to the Brightness, prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Bailey. The report of the secretary, Miss Jennie M. Case, was submitted, after which Miss Susan C. Hyde, chairman, reported for the programme committee. A rising vote of love and sympathy was expressed for Mrs. Charles E. Reeves, who is ill, and who was to have had a part on the programme. Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington reported for the work committee and Mrs. John L. Browning for the supper committee of the league. The hymn, We've a Story to Tell to the Nations, was followed by the lecture by Mrs. Zumbro, who was presented by the leader, Mrs. Nelson. About 100 pictures of India were shown. The baloptico was operated by the Misses Lucas. Upon request of Rev. Mr. Bailey, they and Mrs. Zumbro were given a rising vote of thanks. A closing hymn and benediction by Rev. Mr. Bailey was followed by a social hour when punch and wafers were served. Organist H. L. Yerrington accompanied for the hymns.

Population of 440,000,000

Mrs. Zumbro began her talk by saying that we generally think of India as a country like Great Britain, but that we should think of it as a continent like Europe, for it is the size of all Europe exclusive only of Russia. It stretches over 28 degrees of latitude and 40 degrees of longitude. Of the 440,000,000 of people who make up the British empire, 320,000,000 are Indans. India practices nine great religions and speaks 130 different dialects belonging to six distinct families of speech. Those figures would live for us if we could travel over India and meet her various types of people, hear them speak in their various languages and dialects, see them worshipping in their temples and mosques and before countless wayside shrines. India is a land of contrasts which adds to its great charm. Mark Twain says: "All men want to see India and, having seen it once even by a glimpse, would not give up that glimpse for all the shows of the earth combined."

Ceylon the Gateway

Ceylon is the gateway to India on the south and no one should miss a glimpse of this beautiful island which is so wonderful in its luxuriant vegetation. A new bridge which connects the very sacred island of Ramaswarem to India makes the trip by steamer very much shorter than formerly and we are soon speeding on our way to Madura, the City of Palms, one of the largest cities in the Madras presidency. Many pictures were shown of street scenes, all so full of interest to the traveler. Thence on to Bombay, one of the best-known gateways of India on the west, with its beautiful harbor and imposing public buildings, of more than usual interest to this gathering because it is the home of Miss Gertrude Avery, of Norwich Town.

World's Finest Buildings

Ahmenabad, Delhi and Agra are filled with unsurpassed architectural remains of tombs, temples and mosques. No building in the world can compare with the exquisite Taj Mahal, in Agra. Many pictures of Benares, that most sacred city of India, were shown while all imagined themselves floating on the Ganges, looking at this brilliant panorama. Various mountain resorts were pictured, the most striking being Darjeiling, with its peaks of everlasting snow, "the abode of the gods." Calcutta, another gateway of India on the east, was the last city visited before the ship bore her passengers down the treacherous Hoogly river into the Bay of Bengal, so often swept by cyclones.

TARIFF RATE INCREASES SLASHED BY COALITION

Resistance Offered By Administration Group Crushed By Opposition—Existing Duty on Automobiles and Motorcycles Cut From 25 to 10 Per Cent—More Than a Score of Amendments Adopted at Yesterday's Session of the Senate—House Will Stand in Readiness Until December Session, if Necessary, to Consider Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—Crushing resistance offered by the administration group, the coalition of democrats and republican independents continued today to slash increases in tariff rates on metal products proposed by the finance committee majority.

Much progress was made, more than a score of amendments being adopted. Many of the reductions approved were proposed by the committee republicans themselves. The most important of these was the cutting from 25 to 10 per cent the existing duty on automobile and motor cycles and elimination of the countervailing clause which now permits the United States to meet all increases imposed by foreign countries on American cars.

The important paragraphs proposing wholesale revision of the watch and clock duties were reached, but at the suggestion of Senator Barkley democrat, Kentucky, they were put off until Monday.

The only roll call of the day defeated, 43 to 29, a committee proposal to increase from 25 to 45 per cent the duty on screws of iron or steel commonly called "wood screws."

Led by Senator Norris, republican independent, Nebraska, the coalition also wiped out the proposed increase from 50 to 65 per cent in the levy on silver-plated kitchen utensils but allowed the higher duty to stand on such wares plated with gold or platinum. The Nebraskan contended the poor people and hospitals using such articles would be severely hit.

Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, said the farmers of Nebraska may use gold and platinum kitchen articles, but the poor people of Pennsylvania whose kitchens he had visited certainly were not in a position to buy them.

"The senator says he's been in the kitchens of the poor," replied Norris. "That's been so long ago he doesn't remember what he saw. If he wanted to go in a kitchen he would send an emissary with gold braid dressed in a high silk hat and toothpick shoes."

Adverting to Reed's recent description of the actions of certain senators on the tariff as "worse than all the communists combined," the Nebraskan asserted if any one voted against the committee increase they would be "denounced as bolsheviks."

Senator Barkley observed the proposed increase might also affect pancake turners and when R[illegible] said all the pancake turners he ever had used were made of steel, Norris interjected:

"The only time the senator from Pennsylvania ever turned a pancake was while the pancake was traveling down his gullet."

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee later volunteered:

"This is the United States senate."

The senate rejected a proposal to make dutiable at 25 per cent cream separators valued at $40 or more and restored existing law which permits free entry of these articles worth $50 or less.

Reductions also were made in existing duties on steam turbines, printing, book binding and paper box making machinery, and safety razors and blades. Cuts in house increases were made in the rates on cheap penknives, surgical and dental instrumnets, pliers, machines for knitting full-fashioned hosiery, metal buttons, pins and pens, crochet needles and all articles for producing and distributing electrical energy such as refrigerators, motors, heaters and ovens. Among higher tariffs approved were from 40 to 70 per cent on bells, not classed as carillons, and from 40 to 60 per cent on drawing instruments.

HOUSE AWAITS ACTION ON BILL BY SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—Representative Tilson, republican floor leader, announced today the house would stand in readiness until the December session if necessary to consider the tariff bill.

His statement followed a conference with Speaker Longworth and numerous senators.

Tilson arrived from Connecticut last night to determine on the program of the house during the remainder of the special session. After numerous conferences with senators and house leaders, he said.

"The house cannot assume that the senate will not pass the tariff bill at the special session. It will remain in readiness to consider the measure when it is passed by the senate. We have no propositions to make to the senate and we have no information as to whether the senate will pass the bill."

The house leader said it was decided the house should remain in session meeting every few days and adjourning in order. "That it will not be responsible for any failure of passage of the measure."

FIVE MEN BLOWN TO PIECES BY DYNAMITE

COLDBROOK SPRINGS, Mass., Nov. 8—(AP)—Five workmen were blown to pieces and two others injured in a premature explosion of dynamite 460 feet underground in a shaft of the Metropolitan Water Development here today. The blast was in one of the tunnels of the $14,000,000 Swift river project and increased the death list resulting from the development to a total of 12.

The dead are:

Joseph M. Edricomo, 35; J. Piotti, 40; R. Pondel, 41; Joseph Lukes, 38, and Joseph Lorenzo, 38. All were employed by the West Construction company, of Worcester, contractors for the work and resided on the temporary company property at the job. The injured are: Nicholas Imorelli, and Edward Drudac. They were taken to a hospital in Holden, where they were reported suffering from shock and from shattered eardrums. It was held doubtful whether they would regain their hearing.

The cause of the explosion had not been definitely determined and investigators expressed doubt whether it ever would be determined satisfactorily.

The injured men said that sometime prior to the explosion, they and the five other victims, under the direction of Piotti, a foreman and an expert in the handling of dynamite, had set off "a shot" at a point more than a mile inside the boring. Then the work gang moved toward the mouth to blast at another point. Piotti and four of the men, carrying two boxes containing eighty pounds of dynamite, went ahead and Imorelli and Drudac followed them some distance in the rear. When the party reached a small chamber, about 12 by 14 feet, hewn in the rock, the dynamite exploded.

Imorelli and Drudac fell unconscious. Imorelli, a stepson of Piotti, was first to revive and he groped his way for a mile through the boring and ascended to the surface where he sought aid. A party of workmen led by Peter Vrisbo, superintendent of the job, penetrated the shaft to the rock chamber where they found the fragmentary remains of five of the victims and the unconscious form of Drudac.

ADVOCATES STRONGER RULE BY FED. RESERVE BOARD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 — (AP) — Stronger rule by the federal reserve board against "men in the financial world who imagine themselves superior to the existing governmental banking system," was advocated today by Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, as a means of preventing "such disasters in stock gambling operations as have recently disgraced the country."

Senator Glass, who was secretary of the treasury under Woodrow Wilson, voiced his views and suggested legislation to carry them out in a letter to the member bankers of the Boston Federal Reserve bank. He mentioned no financial leaders by name.

RIOT CALL QUELLED ANTI-FASCIST DEMONSTRATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(AP)—A riot call, bringing a squad of police reserves speeding to the Italian consulate, was necessary to quell an anti-fascist demonstration by a crowd of several hundred Italians here, today. Eleven persons, including two women, were arrested.

FOURTEEN MEN HELD FOR GASTON SUPERIOR COURT

GASTONIA, N. C., Nov. 8—(AP)—Fourteen of the 16 men charged with murder and conspiracy to murder in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, Bessemer City textile worker, when Judge P. A. McElroy began his inquiry last Monday into her death were bound over to the January term of Gaston superior court at conclusion of the investigation today.

The hearing came to an abrupt close when the defense, which yesterday had announced it would have perhaps 100 witnesses, decided not to offer any evidence and moved for dismissal of the charges. The state offered no new witnesses today and the only testimony placed in the record was the cross examination of Deputy Sheriff Miles Wiggins, who has been assigned by the sheriff's office to investigation of the slaying. Wiggins, who is not related to the woman slain, was called as a witness by the state yesterday. His cross examination was brief, dealing only with his hopes of securing rewards offered for the conviction of the woman's slayer. He declared the fact rewards had been offered had not influenced him in his investigation of the case.

Judge McElroy ruled the state had failed to show probable cause as to Roy Carver and Howard West and ordered them dismissed. Horace Wheeler, Loray mill employe, who three witnesses testified, fired the shot which killed Mrs. Wiggins, was held under $5,000 bond.

The other defendants, Jack Carver, W. M. Borders, Troy Jones, Fred T. Morrow, E. F. Haynie, L. M. Sossoman, Lowry Davis, O. H. Lunsford, Theodore Simms, George Fowler, W. H. Holbrooks, L. H. Thompson and Yates Gambill, were held under $2,500 bond. Bonds for all were posted by the Loray mill of the Manville-Jenckes company, the employer of most of the men.

NO POLICE IN BOSTON NIGHT CLUBS ARMISTICE EVE

BOSTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—Boston's night clubs and hotels will be without police protection Armistice day eve on order of Supt. of Police Michael H. Crowley, it was announced tonight.

In a general order, read in all police precincts at roll call tonight, Supt. Crowley forbids any police captain allowing any officer in his station to do duty at a hotel or night club holding an Armistice day celebration, from midnight Sunday until Armistice day morning.

In the past, hotels and night clubs holding midnight cabarets or dances have hired officers to make an appearance and preserve order. The officers performed this duty on their own time and have been paid by private interests in charge of the cabaret or dance.

GUILFOILE PETITION FOR RE-INSTATEMENT POSTPONED

WATERBURY, Nov. 8—(AP)—Hearing of Joseph C. Guilfoile's petition for re- of Joseph C. Guilfoyle's petition for reinstatement to the practice of law, was postponed indefinitely today because court officials time was taken up with other matters. A definite time for the hearing may be set next week. Mr. Guilfoile, was suspended from practice last May by Judge Edwin C. Dickenson after a hearing on counts preferred by the grievance committee of the New Haven County Bar association.

Ten Years Probation For Mrs. Pantages

Wife of Theatrical Magnate Ordered By Court to Pay $78,500 Damages as Result of Fatal Auto Collision.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 8—(AP)—Probation for ten years, accompanied with a judgment to pay $78,500 damages was imposed upon Mrs. Lois Pantages, society matron, today as the culmination of her recent manslaughter conviction for the death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese gardner, following an automobile collision last June.

Brought into the courtroom in a wheel chair by two nurses, Mrs. Pantages broke into tears as Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy read the ruling which released her from a possible one to ten years in San Quentin prison.

Five floors above Judge Hardy's court room, in a county jail cell, sat her wealthy husband, Alexander Pantages, who tomorrow morning is to be sentenced for assaulting Eunice Pringle, 17 year old co-ed dancer. The 54 year old multimillionaire theater magnate faces a possible prison term of one to fifty years.

Mrs. Pantages also was ordered to surrender her automobile driver's license, forbidden the privilege of driving any of her expensive cars for ten years, and forbidden to drink intoxicating liquors during the same period. Violation of any of the probationary orders would result in the convicted woman being ordered to serve the manslaughter term.

The damage award was divided by the court into payments of $35,000 to the estate of the dead Japanese, $15,000 to his widow, $15,000 to his oldest son and the balance to two minor children and those of another Japanese family who were in the Rokumoto car. Judge Hardy said his investigation has disclosed that Mrs. Rokumoto had suffered a "permanent injury of a serious nature" in the fatal collision, and that others in the car also had been injured seriously.

Belgians Withdraw From Conference

Delegation Left For Brussels After Vote to Locate International Institution in Switzerland Was Adopted.

BADEN-BADEN, Nov. 8.—(AP)— At the expense of alienation of the Belgian delegation, the conference for establishment of the bank for international settlements broke three weeks of deadlock over the domicile of the bank tonight by deciding on Switzerland.

Governor Louis Franck, of the Bank of Belgium and his associate delegate Paul Van Zeland left for Brussels as soon as the vote was announced, offended that that city had not been selected although they had the support of France and Italy.

The other leading candidate, London, supported by the English, Japanese and Germans, was no more successful. The Americans had expressed no choice in the matter.

When a compromise became inevitable Holland and Switzerland were the two countries considered and the latter won presumably because of evidences of stock exchange speculation at Amsterdam recently. No city in Switzerland was named tonight but Zurich was believed the most likely to receive the new institution for handling German reparations payment with the prestige that will be its inevitably in Europe.

The Belgian delegation left behind two members, Maurice Frere and J. M. Marx, as liaison officers. M. Frere told this correspondent that he and M. Marx were mere observers who will "see what is developing."

He emphasized that the withdrawal of the principals of the Belgian delegation does not mean that Belgium will not support the International bank nor participate in its management.

The Belgian delegation issued a communique tonight which said in part: "This International bank organizing committee today took under advisement the seat of the bank. In the course of the session there was an incident. The Belgian delegation, having thought considerations urged against Brussels were of a political nature, withdrew from the deliberations.

"It declared it had no political mandate and therefore must refer matters to the Belgian government. The latter replied it approved of the attitude taken and asked the delegation to adhere to it, political questions being foreign to the session and having to be submitted to the government."

TARDIEU CABINET WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE

PARIS, Nov. 9. (Saturday)—(AP) — Unofficial figures gave the government of Premier Tardieu a majority of 43 on the vote on a motion of confidence early today. The votes were being checked.

The government majority was greater than had been expected when the session began last evening. The vote was taken at 3:30 a. m. and before the count had been checked it was unofficially reported in the crowded lobbies that the government had won, although by a smaller margin than the actual majority.

M. Briand, the last previous premier and now foreign minister in the Tardieu cabinet, had been defeated by nine votes at the opening session of parliament last month. The last vote of confidence in the cabinet of former Premier Poincare last June gave him a majority of 140 votes after he had appealed for three months, in which to deal with pressing affairs.

M. Briand had spoken for hours yesterday at the first session of the chamber ,reviewing his long career in the service of France and justifying his acts particularly in regard to occupation of the Rhineland and German reparations. Nearly all parties except communists shared in the ovation given him at the close.

Premier Tardieu took up the task of winning support for the new cabinet at about 11:00 o'clock last night. He obtained cheers from the right and center by declaring that the Rhineland would not be evacuated on June 30, 1930, unless the Young plan had been put into force.

Observers credited the victory of the government in this first tilt with the chamber to the oratory of these two men. Tardieu with energy, good humor and practical sense had explained his ambitious programme of tax reforms and reductions and was ready with a reply to all critics. Briand's lucid exposition of the foreign policy allayed the fears of many with regard to French security.

After these two had completed their work speaker after speaker occupied the tribune to attempt by every subterfuge to embarrass the government. The opening of the night session at 9:30 p. m. had been watched from a distance by one of the largest crowds ever to be assembled along the banks of the Seine to await the fate of a cabinet.

VETERAN SAYS DEAD MAN PERPETRATED 'FRISCO BOMBING

DAYTON, Ohio, Nov. 9—(AP)— Frank O. Stevens, aged inmate of the National Soldier shome here, today stated that he could produce affidavits to the effect that Lewis "Lew" Smith, former Cleveland man, who now is dead perpetrated the San Francisco preparedness parade bombing in 1916, for which Tom Mooney, labor organizer, is serving a prison term in California.

COURT TAKES SNOOK MOTION UNDER ADVISEMENT

COUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 8—(AP)—Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State university professor, under sentence of death November 29, for the murder of Theora K. Hix, Ohio State co-ed, June 13 last, continued his fight for life today when his attorneys argued before the district court of appeals a motion for a new trial.

At the conclusion of the argument, the court announced that it would take the case under advisement and render its decision as soon as possible.

The court also withheld action on the application for a stay of execution pending the outcome of the appeal. The motion, however, was filed upon advice of the court with a promise to consider it in the event of a delay in reaching a decision on the motion for new trial.

WORKS BAD CHECK GAME ON EAST HAMPTON MAN

EAST HAMPTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—The "scar faced" stranger who mulcted a Middletown baker of $20 on a bad check came to town tonight and relieved Earl C. Hitchcock, proprietor of the Chatham phramacy, of an alarm clock and $15.20 in cash.

He used the bad check stunt with Hitchcock.

After dickering for an alarm clock selling at $3, the stranger decided to buy. He presented a check made out to "cash" and signed George Raymond. He told the druggist that he was Raymond Hitchcock, observing the check bore the name "East Hampton Bank and Trust company" thought the transaction was safe and sold the clock and gave "Raymond" the change.

WRECKED SCHOONER WILL BE TOTAL LOSS

TRURO, N. S., Nov. 8—(AP)—The Newfoundland schooner, Saucy Arthusa, Captain Kenneth Oxford, went ashore in a fog near Sambre, Halifax county, at "False Dawn" today and will be a total loss, maritime experts believed tonight. She carried a cargo of 2700 quintals of dried fish, valued at $26,000. The schooner was valued at $25,000.

The Saucy Arthusa was built at Essex, Mass., 22 years ago. She is 157 gross tons and hails from Harbor Grace, N. F.

GOV. BUDGET CALLS FOR OVER THREE BILLION

Total of $3,830,000,000 to Be Submitted to Congress Next Month is $110,000,000 Less Than Government Expenses For Present Fiscal Year—Budget Asks $10,000,000 Extra For Waterway Development and Provides For Continuing Five Year Army Aviation Programme.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)— The first budget of the Hoover administration will call for $3,830,000,000 to cover government expenditures during the 1931 fiscal year when it is submitted to congress next month.

President Hoover announced today that the total was $111,000,000 less than the total government expenditures for the present 1930—fiscal year, during which $3,941,000,000 has been appropriated by congress. Both figures, however, do not include the appropriations for the farm board, which this year received $150,000,000 and whose requirements for next year have not been ascertained.

The first Hoover budget will call for $158,000,000 more than was asked of congress when the final Coolidge budget was submitted last December. That called for $3,672,000.00 and deficiency appropriations made during the year increased the expenditures by nearly $300,000,000.

The 1931 budget will provide for an additional appropriation of $10,000,000 for waterway development. Of this, $5,000,000 will be spent for actual waterway improvement work and $5,000,000 for continuing Mississippi flood control work. In addition to this amount about $5,000,000 will be available for waterway improvements through the use of the sum left over from the Ohio river development which has been completed.

The budget will provide for continuing the five year army aviation programme this year, which will be the fifth of the programme, will see a full year's project undertaken. In the past the aviation programme has lagged during some of the years and if congess approves, it will be fully completed in the sixth year and be provided for in the 1932 budget.

Complete figures on the budget estimates are expected to be ready within the next week.

INVESTORS ALLEGE THEY LOST HALF MILLION

CHICAGO, Nov. 8—(AP)—Search was begun today for Louis I. Gottlieb, 54, lawyer and mortgage loan operator, simultaneously with the announcement by his attorneys that a preliminary investigation indicated Gottlieb's customers had suffered losses approximating $500,000 through frauds.

No charges have been filed, the search having been instituted by police at the request of Gottlieb's wife and his partner, Harold Shapiro, who said he had been missing ten days.

Officers of the Prudential State Savings bank said Gottlieb had had a large account in their bank but had withdrawn it October 25, and added they were not concerned with his disappearance.

The state's attorney ordered a search for Gottlieb when complaints of investors were brought before him.

Samuel Hoffman, one of the attorneys who handled mortgage transactions for the missing man, said he found Gottlieb had sold duplicates of second mortgages to some clients. He said he believed if Gottlieb returned the matter could be adjusted without much loss to creditors.

Mrs. Gottlieb said her husband left on an eastern trip ten days ago and failed to return. He was expected last Wednesday.

FEDERAL AGENTS SEARCH FOR "KING OF TIPSTERS"

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(AP)—Federal agents tonight began a search for George Graham Rice, so-called "king of tipsters," after his lawyers' plea for a stay of execution of a prison sentence for mail fraud was denied by the United States circuit court of appeals.

The agents, armed with a federal warrant for his arrest, visited a hotel where he had lived while out on bail, but were told he had not been there since yesterday.

Rice was convicted with Walter K. Yorston, the Idaho Copper corporation, and the Wall Street Iconoclast, Inc. Rice was sentenced to serve four years in federal prison, and Yorston nine months. The circuit court of appeals recently sustained their conviction.

Today Rice's attorneys, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and Daniel F. Cohalan, former justice of the New York supreme court, applied for a stay of the mandate of the circuit court on the ground they wished to bring the case before the United States supreme court. This was denied.

A warrant also was issued for the arrest of Yorston, who has been on bail. Federal agents said they felt confident he would surrender.

GIRL LOST MILLION IN STOCK MARKET

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Shotwell today said her daughter, Miss Margaret Shotwell, 22-year old "cigarette heiress" of Omaha, and concert pianist, had lost all her money in the stock market. Mrs. Shotwell placed the loss at nearly $1,000,000.

Miss Shotwell now is in New York city, where her mother said, she has been compelled to move from a suite of rooms in an expensive hotel to a single room.

Miss Shotwell's money was left to her by the will of John Neal, stockholder in the F. J. Reynolds Tobacco company and a district manager for the company, who died in 1923. The bequest was said to be $1,000,000, and included $75,000 worth of Reynolds stock.

WORCESTER BROKERS FILE DENIAL OF BANKRUPTCY

BOSTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—Charles H. Riley and Michael D. Fitzgerald, copartners of a Worcester brokerage firm, which was petitioned into bankruptcy several days ago, as a result of the slump in the stock market, today filed a denial of bankruptcy in the United States district court.

The partners said that they have not committed an act of bankruptcy mentioned in the original petition, namely that they transferred a portion of their property to Clark, Childs and company, of New York with the intent to make that company a preferred creditor. They said that they were not insolvent and should not be adjudicated bankrupts.

ACTOR JUMPED FROM FIFTH FLOOR WINDOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(AP)—Emil Hinz, 26, an actor, was fatally injured tonight in what the police said was a leap from a window of his room on the fifth floor of a West 43rd street hotel.

Hinz's body hurtled to the sidewalk narrowly missing an elevated structure and several pedestrians. Police said that before jumping he had slashed his chest and wrists with a razor.

He died an hour after admission to Flower hospital. No explanation was obtained.

PREMIER ANDRE TARDIEU WINS STRONG APPLAUSE

PARIS, Nov. 8—(AP)—Premier Andre Tardieu won strong applause for his government from the right and center groups of parliament tonight when he announced that evacuation of the Rhineland by June 30, 1930, would not occur unless the Young plan for reparations was in full operation.

He was making his maiden speech as premier before the chamber of deputies in a late night session which was expected to determine before daybreak whether he held the confidence of parliament in the task of guiding France in its foreign relations and through its domestic difficulties.

This declaration by the premier did not bring the cheers from the left groups that had greeted the earlier speech of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand who had won thunderous applause by his personal justification of his part in French affairs since the war made in one of the longest speeches of his career.

M. Briand had informed the chamber that the German government had assured France that "the question of the Young plan plebiscite would be settled before the end of December and by that time all necessary legislative dispositions for putting the Young plan into execution would have been voted by the Reichstag."

ARNOLD TRIED TO ENLIST SUPPORT OF SEN. EDGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—An unsuccessful attempt by J. A. Arnold, of the Southern Tariff association to enlist the support of Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, in an effort to obtain votes of southern senators for the tariff bill, was disclosed today by the senate lobby committee.

With Arnold on the stand for his sixth day, the committee produced further correspondence taken from his files by its examiners. In one he had written Edge, a member of the tariff-making senate finance committee, he asserted it was important to get southern senators to vote for the tariff measure.

Edge replied that "some of us will resist to the bitter end efforts on the part of senators from any section to be protectionists in their vote for paragraphs directly affecting their section and anti-protectionists for other parts of the country."

Replying to this letter, Arnold told Edge he was "absolutely correct" in his position, and added that "the republican party should have taken this stand a long time ago," because "it is the only way to bring the south to protection."

STOCK EXCHANGE TO CONTINUE SHORT SESSIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(AP)—Trading in stocks returned to an almost normal basis today but the accumulation of work from recent big markets was still so great that governors of both the New York Stock exchange and the New York curb voted to continue the abbreviated trading schedule, next week. The hours of trading will be from 10 a. m., to 1 p. m., from Monday to Friday, with the exchange closed all day Saturday.

Stock prices rallied briskly at the opening of today's markets. But most of the early gains, which ran from $1 to $10 a share in the active issues, and much higher in a few specialties, were lost, and prices generally closed lower, with the losses on the New York stock exchange running from a few cents to $22 a share.

Total sales on the New York stock exchange for the three hour session were 3,214,650, or less than half of the 7,184,060 total in the same period yesterday. Total sales on the New York curb were 1,274,100 as against 2,380,100 yesterday. Both tickers kept within half an hour of the market throughout the session.

DISMISSED $150,000 BREACH OF PROMISE ACTION

AMARILLO, Tex., Nov. 8—(AP)—The $150,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Imogene Smith, an Amarillo stenographer, against Habib Kahn, said to be a member of the Afghan royal family, was dismissed here today. A recent trial of the suit resulted in a deadlocked jury.

Kahn was said to have amassed a fortune, first as a silk importer in Alaska during the gold rush and later as a hot tamale vendor here. He now is in his native country.

REFUSE INSURANCE FOR GRAF ZEPPELIN FLIGHT

BERLIN, Nov. 8—(AP)—German insurance companies today declined to underwrite policies covering the projected Polar flight of the Graf Zeppelin next spring. They held that there were too many hazards and pointed out that total premiums paid by aviation companies since the war were insufficient to cover even partial damage and much less the total loss in event of destruction of the airship

Daniels (incumbent). Candidate King was escorted to the stage, where his remarks were greeted with rousing applause.

Contests developed in two of the ward caucuses. In the first ward, Robert Hanna received the nomination for alderman over Chauncey A. MacFarlane (incumbent), by a vote of 45 to 34. On motion of Mr. MacFarlane, Hanna's nomination was made unanimous. Alfred R. Handfield was chairman of this caucus and George C. Wilcox clerk. The second ward nominated Ex-Alderman John P. Carlson unanimously. Raymond A. Parker was chairman and Lester H. Blish clerk. In the third ward, former Selectman James M. Smith received unanimous nomination for alderman. This caucus was presided over by G. A. Lamoureux with Roy Keables clerk. A contest between Alderman Eugene B. Lewis and Frank Cyr for the nomination in the fourth ward was won by Alderman Lewis, the vote being 49 to 36. Mayor Charles A. Gates was chairman and Frank M. Smith clerk.

OFFICERS OF ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL ARE ELECTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 8.—The annual meeting of the board of incorporators of St. Joseph's hospital was held this forenoon in the directors' room at the hospital. The following officers were elected: John F. Carr, president; John E. Brick, vice-president; H. Clinton Lathrop, secretary. The board also elected the following to fill vacancies caused by death during the past year and one-half: George W. Hickey, Joseph B. Riordan, Attorney E. Frank Bugbee, George F. Stiles, William F. Maine, Louis A. Kingsbury and Andrew F. Roux.

A board of directors was chosen to include: John F. Carr, John E. Brick, H. C. Lathrop, Rev. Henry E. Quinn, Rev. J. J. Papillon, Dr. F. E. Guild, J. E. Sullivan, William B. Sweeney, Attorney E. Frank Bugbee, Joseph B. Riordan and John Reilly. The directors then elected as officers: President, John F. Carr; vice-president, John E. Brick; secretary, William B. Sweeney; superintendent and treasurer, Rev. Mother Superior Geraldine. The following are members of the executive board, appointed for the year: Rev. Henry E. Quinn, Dr. Frank E. Guild, John Reilly, J. E. Sullivan, John E. Brick, William B. Sweeney, Joseph B. Riordan, John F. Carr and Rev. Mother Superior Geraldine.

The report of Rev. Mother Superior Geraldine as treasurer showed receipts of $57,197.88 and expenditures of $56,864.20, leaving a balance of $333.68. The statistical report showed that 1,176 patients were admitted during the year, while the total number cared for was 1,213. The number of deaths was 59, births 93. The largest number of patients on any one day was 47 and the lowest 22, the average daily being 85 patients. There were 90 ambulance calls during the year. The average cost per patient per week was $27.43.

Samuel Gaylord of Ward W. Cheney camp, No. 13, South Manchester, conducted the annual inspection of A. C. Tyler camp, No. 18, United Spanish War Veterans, at the regular meeting held in the G. A. R. rooms Thursday evening. Commander David Loree was in charge and introduced District Inspector Gaylord. It was voted to cooperate with Department Commander James Haggerty of the G. A. R. in an effort to secure the 1930 encampment of the state G. A. R. in this city. The camp accepted an invitation from Gold Star post, No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to attend a joint meeting in G. A. R. hall Tuesday, Nov. 19. At this meeting the camp will be honored by being mustered into the post in an honorary capacity. The camp members will participate in the Armistice day parade. Commander Gaylord was accompanied by Past Department Adjutant Arthur E. Keating and Past Commanders Charles D. Warren and J. Maher, also of Ward W. Cheney camp. The session closed with a social and smoker.

Mrs. Elsie G. Keating was re-elected president at the election of officers of the auxiliary to James J. Shea post, No. 19, American Legion, held at the semi-monthly meeting Thursday evening. Mrs. Nellie Livezley was elected vice-president; Mrs. Margaret A. Moriarty, second vice-president; Mrs. Ellen Keith, chaplain; Mrs. Edna Litterick, historian; Mrs. Olive Nield, sergeant-at-arms. A secretary and treasurer will be appointed later.

The mistake of a hunter cost the life of Sure Mike, brown race horse owned by A. R. Martin of this city. It was revealed today. Sure Mike had been retired from the track after an excellent career, having been generally conceded as one of the greatest race horses ever to enter New England. He was found dead on the property of H. L. Switzer, Jordan road, with a rifle shot penetrating the head. Dana Martin purchased the horse in the west some eight years ago and the animal met with immediate success in the track with a mark of 2:10. He ran 138 races and was the winner in 38, seldom being outside of the money in the remainder.

An invitation shoot, open to all comers, will be held at the range of the Willimantic Rod and Gun club in Mansfield, Sunday, Nov. 17. There will be three or more classes with the scoring under the Lewis system, known to all clay pigeon trap shooters. Two prizes will be offered in each class, the first award to be a turkey and the second a chicken. The scoring will be on 50 birds.

With the expiration of the original appropriation of $20,000 and a special one of $10,000, work on the construction of new sidewalks in the city was halted today by Contractor David P. Ahern. The expenditure of $30,000 indicates an unusual number of sidewalks being built in the city during the past season. There are many applications on hand that will have to go over until next year, unless action for their immediate care is taken at the common council meeting next Monday night.

Governor John H. Trumbull flew to Storrs today to attend the inauguration ceremonies of President George Alan Works of the Connecticut Agricultural college. The pilot was unable to make a landing, however, due to the poor topography of the fields, and returned to Brainard field, Hartford. The governor then came on in an automobile, arriving at the college for the second time about 1 o'clock.

JOHN REILLY NAMED BY DEMOCRATS FOR MAYOR

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 8. — John Reilly, present alderman, received the nomination for mayor at the democratic caucus held in the superior courtroom tonight. His name was presented by T. Frank Cunningham. The only contest that developed during the evening was for the office of city clerk and treasurer. Roderick G. Dion received the nomination over John C. Barstow by a vote of 116 to 35, in vote of 162 cast. The list of nominees: Alderman-at-large, first, James E. Gavigan; second, Herbert I. Sanderson; city clerk and treasurer, Roderick G. Dion; city sheriff, William A. Guilford; assessors, first, Joseph F. Gaudreau; second, Mrs. Loretta V. Costello; chairman of the city committee, Robert O. Snow. The ward aldermen as unanimously nominated were: First, Amie J. Boucher; second, Harry D. Grimley; third, Louis C. Vigiard; fourth, John T. Meikle.

A community advertising sign board for the chamber of commerce is being erected on the town farm property, near the junction of the Hartford, Springfield and Willimantic highways on upper Main sreet. The work is being done by students of the Willimantic State Trade school under Instructor George H. Jay of the carpentry department. Similar signs for other main entrances to the city are being planned for. It is hoped to have these electrically lighted.

At a session of the Columbia town court held this morning, Roy E. Jones of Storrs was charged with driving his automobile at too great a speed on a thoroughfare of poor construction. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs, the fine being remitted. The costs of $9 were paid. A car driven by Jones collided with a truck driven by Max Kassman on Post Hill, Columbia, Nov. 1. The truck was damaged and Kassman injured. Justice of the Peace Fannie Dixon Welch presided at court.

REMODELED CHAPEL IN USE BY STUDENTS

The work of remodeling and redecorating the former Congregational chapel is completed and this week the Bacon academy students began using the building for their domestic science experimental work.

The building was several months ago turned over to Attorney Edward M. Day of Hartford, former local resident and graduate and trustee of Bacon academy, through whose generosity the edifice has been remodeled and given to the academy. The basement is to be used as domestic science quarters and the main floor as a lecture and assembly hall.

The domestic science laboratory, in charge of the instructor, Miss Pearl M. Tiffany, is attractive and unusually well-equipped with its new electric refrigerator, kitchen cabinets, well-placed cupboards, new, up-to-date plumbing fittings, new furniture, dishes and kitchen utensils, new hardwood floors, freshly plastered walls and a new indirect lighting system. At the northwest end of the basement is an attractive window seat on each side of which are shelves filled with books pertaining to domestic science work.

The main floor, which will be used as an assembly and lecture hall and for the presentation of class plays, is most pleasing with its freshly plastered walls, restained floor, new heating and lighting systems, a new up-to-date stage with footlights and ante-rooms and a wide gallery. One hundred fifty new walnut-colored folding seats have been put in place during the past few days and about twenty-five folding seats have been placed in the gallery.

DANIELSON PREPARING FOR ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 8—Danielson is all prepared for the most elaborate observance of Armistice day since the town gave its official welcome home to the boys who were with the colors during the World war. That official welcome was in the spring of 1919, and a colorful affair it was.

Perhaps it is not quite accurate to record that Danielson is "all prepared." It is insofar as general preparations for Monday's 11th anniversary celebration is concerned. Of course, there are little details that will receive attention over the week end.

Sunday night will mark the beginning of the Armistice day observance here. The first event will be the union Armistice day service at the Methodist Episcopal church at 7 o'clock. To this the public is cordially invited.

A few minutes after Sunday midnight—in the early hours of Monday morning, a dance will begin at the state armory. From 10:30 Monday morning until noon the Killingly high school band will give a concert at the bandstand at Davis park. The big Armistice day parade is scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m., divisions forming on streets leading into North Main and proceeding down through the business section to the West Side, thence, in returning, via Franklin, Furnace, Carter and Broad streets, where the massed bands will play on Davis park as the divisions disband.

Immediately after the dismissal of the parade the provisional battalion of national guardsmen, escorted by the 182nd Field Artillery band, will proceed to P. and A. field off Cottage street for the evening parade and retreat, a function seldom witnessed in Danielson. At 7:30 p. m. there will be a display of fireworks at P. and A. field. A band will be in attendance. At 8 o'clock another dance will start at the armory and continue until midnight. Six bands will be in the parade and also the East Killingly drum corps.

Chief John McFarland stated this afternoon that parking on Broad street between Reynolds and Broad streets will be prohibited Armistice day from noon until after the disbanding of the parade. The float section of the parade is to form in this area, and allowing parking would block traffic completely. The chief also is requesting local residents not to park their cars in the business section from noon until after the parade, to avoid congestion and hinder the organization in the parade. A number of special borough officers will be on patrol duty. A detail of state police officers will be at the head of the parade.

Beginning next Monday the Connecticut company is to inaugurate an additional service in the interest of several hundred mill employes at the Connecticut Mills avenue plant of Powdrell and Alexander and all others who may find it convenient to use this new service. The service will be effective only on week days. In the morning the new service will be as follows: The bus now leaving North Grosvenordale at 6:15 a. m., will run ten minutes ahead of the present schedule after leaving North Grosvenordale, leaving Putnam at 6:35 a. m., Dayville at 6:50 a. m., Danielson at 7 a. m. and Wauregan at 7:15 a. m. For Central Village—via Lewis boulevard, Mechanic, Main Franklin and Dyer streets—bus now leaving Dayville at 6:30 a. m. Bus now leaving Dayville at 6:30 a. m. for Danielson, via Main Lewis boulevard, Mechanic, Main and Franklin streets. The 6:45 a. m. bus now leaving Danielson for Dayville will also run via Mechanic street.

In the evening a bus will leave the Powdrell and Alexander mill at Connecticut Mills avenue for Danielson at 6:03, connecting at Danielson for points south. The bus leaving the Main street plant of Powdrell and Alexander at 6 p. m. will run via Mechanic street and Lewis boulevard to Dayville, connecting at that point for Putnam. Saturdays there will be a bus north and south from the mill at 12 noon.

The Danielson Lion's club in Danielson is organized with 21 charter members: Attorney L. A. Wolsard, president; Nathan Blumenthal, first vice-president; Jack Butler, second vice-president; Dr. C. R. Garcin, third vice-president; Lucian S. Lambert, secretary; J. Leo Bodo, treasurer; Berliard Casey, tail-twister; Henry Bodo, lion tamer. Other members are Dr. William Levin, Robert Fleishman, Dr. W. C. McLaughlin, Isadore Florman, Albert T. Bernier, Earl Wood, Joseph LaBelle, J. Beauteau, G. Rene Caron, Norman A. Reeves, M. H. Berthiaume, Jr., Roland Boulaine and Harry Evergates. The charter night of the club is set for next Wednesday night at The Maples.

George Butts and Hiram Warren, residents in the East Killingly section, reported today that they were startled just before midnight last night when either shot or rifle balls began to whiz uncomfortable close to them as they were engaged in changing a flat tire on their machine in that section of the town north of the Chase reservoir where roads radiate to East Killingly, Ballouville and Killingly Center. Fearing to be hit, they abandoned their effort to change the tire, jumped into the car and drove off at the best speed that the flat tire would permit. It later developed that they were shot at by a former resident in that neighborhood who claims to have had more or less pestered by night prowlers of late.

Additional workers in the Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross roll call and to localities to which they are assigned are: Spring and Oak streets, Mrs. Homer Brown; Franklin and Carter streets and Green Hollow road, Mrs. Wilfred Pluze; Furnace street, Mrs. Veronica Fournier; Cottage street, Mrs. Ina Keech; High street, Mrs. E. C. Eopkins; School street, Mrs. W. W. Worch; lower Franklin street and Dyer street, Mrs. Arthur Lassler; Water street and White Row, Miss Jennie Miewizgek; lower Academy street and Railroad square, Mrs. E. R. Warren; Riverview, Miss Carrie Oates, Mrs. William Halliwell; East Brooklyn, Mrs. George Beener; Brooklyn, Miss Mildred Pike, chairman; Goodyear, the school teachers; East Killingly, Herbert Chase, Miss Laura Jacobs.

Watch for it! Arthur Craft, Boston, has purchased the entire stock of Melnick's Field of Dry Goods, 70 Main street. Closing out sale, with amazing values, opens next Thursday, Nov. 14. Much of the stock originally from the stocks of the F. E. Bitgood and G. O. Thomas stores.—Adv.

This afternoon at the church in Westminster funeral services for Charles H. Robbins were conducted at 2 o'clock, by Rev. Harry Small. Burial was in the Bennett cemetery in Canterbury. The bearers were Arthur Robbins and Elmer Robbins, sons of the deceased. Allen Moody and Edward Baker, L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Newly elected officers of Killingly grange are: C. E. Haynes, master; Kenneth Preston, overseer; Mrs. Maude Keech, lecturer; William Williams, steward; Louis A. Bradford, assistant steward; Mrs. Edith E. Jordan, chaplain; Charles A. Downs, treasurer; Mrs. M. Short, secretary; Francis Ingraham, gatekeeper; Rosina Wlaszkwiecz, Pomona; Jessie Wlaszkwiecz, Flora; Florence Wood, Ceres; Estella Converse, lady assistant steward.

Hundreds of Danielson's workers get quite an extended holiday for this time of year with the coming of Saturday noon. They will not be required to return to work until next Tuesday morning.

Motorists find the new bridge over the Moosup river at Central Village a great improvement over the old-type narrow structure that it replaces. However, the old bridge, set a little to the west of the new one, remains in place and open to traffic, but is used comparatively in small degree.

A minor accident in which three cars were involved occurred in front of the Brooklyn Savings bank early this afternoon. As a machine operated by Charles Cutting of New Haven pulled out from the curb another operated by Edward Simoneau, coming to Main street, caused Mr. Cutting to swing in to avoid a collision, and in doing so his machine struck a car owned by Joseph Gilleran, Central Village, that was parked near the curb, and the Simoneau and Cutting cars collided. Mrs. Gilleran, seated in the parked car, was thrown against the windshield, but was uninjured. Chief John McFarland checked up the accident.

Rev. R. W. E. DeWolfe of Moosup will be the speaker at an Armistice day service to be held under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches at the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. A young people's choir made up of singers from various churches will be heard at the service. Rev. Mr. DeWolfe is a veteran of the World war.

Girl wanted for stenography and accounting. Dec. 1, at general offices of the Quinebaug Co. Danielson. Apply to J. A. Atwood, treasurer, Box 1125, Providence, R. I.—Adv.

Announcement was made today of the reappointment by district court judges of Attorney Louis A. Wolsard of Danielson as referee in bankruptcy for a period of two years from Saturday, Nov. 9, for Windham and Tolland counties. Heretofore Tolland county has been annexed to the Hartford county jurisdiction. Attorney Wolsard already has served four years as referee.

The Windham County Kennel club, including in its membership dog fanciers in various towns of the county, has arranged to hold another dog show here on a Saturday late in November. Previous shows of the kind in Danielson have been successful.

New uniforms for members of the fire department have been distributed, and the members are very much pleased with them. The department should make the best showing of years in the Armistice day parade Monday afternoon.

Brick ice cream 20 cents pint, 37 cts. quart. Saturday, Sunday and Armistice day at Mose the Druggist.—Adv.

Rene Peloquin, local bantamweight, was scheduled to take on a Boston opponent in a six-round bout scheduled to be held in Mechanics hall in Worcester tonight. Peloquin has various engagements for the late fall and winter season.

VOLUNTOWN

Ghosts and goblins were abroad in the village and made merry Hallowe'en in a very orderly manner, no complaint being made of any mischief. During the evening an amusing incident occurred. A party of merrymakers from Glasgo came to the village to serenade some of the employes of Glasgo Finishing Co., who reside in town. Arriving at what they thought was the home of one of their friends, they rapped on doors and called and serenaded in true Hallowe'en fashion, with no result, there being no one at home. They had serenaded the wrong house.

All Saints' day was observed at St. Thomas' church with mass at 5:30 a. m., giving mill workers a chance to attend, there being a good-sized congregation. Saturday, All Souls' day, requiem masses were celebrated at 5:30 and 8 a. m.

Saturday the board of assessors held the final session for the recention of lists of the property owners, at Union hall, from 9 to 5. Property owners sending in a list after that date will be assessed an extra 10 per cent as by law required.

The rainstorm of Sunday and Monday was a very welcome relief to farmers and property owners, as many local wells were getting very low.

Many householders are preparing for the winter months. Coal is arriving at many homes, wood piles are being increased and several homes are being shingled.

Sunday, at St. Thomas' church, after the 10 o'clock mass there will be a meeting of the Union of Prayer. All new members have been requested to be present.

Monday, Armistice day, it is hoped that flags will fly in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kaufmann, who have been spending some time in New York, have returned home.

Charles and Peter Violette, of Jewett City, called on friends in town Sunday.

Mrs. Hazel Hall, of Hillsgrove, R. I., was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bitgood.

Mrs. Harry Burgess and son and Mr. Mason, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Kaufmann.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bitgood, of Quonochontaug, R. I., were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bitgood Sunday.

WESTFORD

Rev. Walter Lanphear is to preach at the village church next Sunday at 2 p. m.

Rev. H. A. Coolidge has been asked to preach at Hill church in all its services till the end of the year, Nov. 17, Dec. 1, 15, and 29.

Work of resetting stones in the Hill cemetery has been begun. A small fund has been received for this purpose, besides which a few people are paying to have their lots looked after.

When a sedan ran into a monster Union Pacific freight engine, the latter was put out of use until repairs could be made. The automobile, driven by C. A. Overman, farmer, knocked the blow-off jet from the engine so that the steam and water escaped. The car was demolished, but Overman was not injured.

PUTNAM

MAYOR RICHARD APPRECIATES SUPPORT GIVEN HIM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 8.—Mayor Charles A. Richard spent today in relaxing from the effects of the most strenuous part of his, thus far, successful campaign for re-election as mayor. This morning the mayor was wearing a victory smile and when asked to comment on his victory at the republican general caucus last evening when he was favored with the party nomination over his last-minute opponent, Walter N. King, Mayor Richard said, "I sincerely appreciate the expression of the people and from the bottom of my heart. I wish to thank all my fellow citizens who helped to put this over. I am greatly indebted to the newspapers for the publicity given me in the campaign thus far and if elected in December, I will endeavor to give the city of Putnam, efficient, honest and economical government, which has always been the sole objective in my political career."

The nomination of Mayor Richard last night was believed by many today to be the forerunner of a complete republican victory in the city elections in December. The general caucus last evening went into the annals of political history today as the largest ever held by any party. Six hundred and thirty voters cast ballots and it was estimated that over 750 jammed the city hall to occupy every available space of standing room.

It came to light today that the expected contest for the alderman at large nomination was ruled out when Eugene Dumas of 56 Mill street, who was to have been Warren S. Ames, opponent failed to comply with state laws when he did not have a written motion prepared to offer the chair of his intentions of nominating by ballot. Judge M. H. Geissler, city court judge and moderator of the meeting asserted this afternoon that he offered to delay the progress of the meeting to enable Mr. Dumas' supporters to draw up the required motion in writing.

Rumors this afternoon were to the effect that opposition to the republican nominees is brewing. Names of several prominent in local democratic politics are considering running for the nominations at the party caucus to be held next Tuesday evening.

Leon A. Talbot, representative to the 1929 session of legislature, who scored a sweeping victory over his republican opponent last fall is being openly talked of as the choice of the democrats for alderman-at-large. Mr. Talbot when asked to comment on the rumors today remained non-committal.

Frederick Dumas, chairman of the democratic city committee when asked if the committee was to name candidates for the offices of mayor, alderman-at-large and tax collector asserted that he was uninformed on the subject, saying, "We will know after the meeting of the city committee tonight."

YARN DEPT. OF ADAMS CO. SUSPENDS OPERATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 8—The yarn department at the Adams Manufacturing company on Main street suspended operations this week. Employees in that department were discharged, without promise of their positions being reopened to them at any date in the immediate future. The large weaving room, consisting of about 400 looms is operating on a small scale. It was said this afternoon by a foreman of the plant that appearances are that the weaving room will continue to operate partially until the present supply of warps and yarn shall have been woven into cloth.

No information was available today as to what the company's intentions for the future are. A few weeks ago rumors were current that the Adams plant was contemplating removing to another city where other plants owned by them are established. These stories proved to be without foundation, when a statement from officials of New York offices was made to the effect that manufacturing conditions in the city are ideally suited to the requirements of the concern. It was also stated at this time, that no consideration whatever was given to the closing down of the Putnam plant.

The authoritive statement however was not substantiated by any sudden business boom and since no explanation of the present situation has been made, the rumors current a month ago may yet prove to have been partially founded.

Installation operations at the silk plant of the M. Salzberg & Son., Paterson, N. J., silk manufacturers, who recently acquired a lease on a floor of one of the mills formerly known as the Manahansett company on Canal street, continue to go through at a rapid pace. Machines are being set into position under the direction of Edward Pizeon of Central Falls, R. I., former Putnam man, who has been in the employ of the New Jersey concern for some time. Members of the New Industries committee of the chamber of commerce, whose efforts, primarily were responsible for the concern locating in this city, hope that everything will be in readiness so that operations will commence at an early date.

Mrs. Charles F. Franklin of Chapman street is substituting at Putnam high school during the temporary absence of Miss Abbie H. Keith, head of the English department.

The annual Thanksgiving day appeal of the Day Kimball hospital is meeting with a good response on the part of the people of Putnam. Bags are being distributed about the city. Each food container is stamped with a list of articles desired by the hospital authorities, together with a mention of places where donations may be left.

The members of the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter, D. A. R., met yesterday at the Odd Fellows' hall on Pomfret street. The feature program number was an address by Rev. Robert W. McLaughlin, the subject of which was, "Taking Yourself Too Seriously." Miss Corrine Wilson, of this city, talented vocal artist sang several numbers. She was accompanied by Mrs. George Vaughn, Jr., at the piano.

The hostesses for the day were Mrs. Edna Bradford, Mrs. Sylvia Averill, Mrs. Helen Bacon, Mrs. Florence Dartt, Mrs. Edith Perry, Mrs. Mary Nichols, Mrs. Mabel Johnson, Miss Lucy Farrows, Mrs. Helen Mansfield, Mrs. Carrie Ballard, Mrs. Gladys Murdock, Mrs. Nina Harrington, Mrs. Ellen Wheelock, Mrs. Marilla Keech, Mrs. Pearle Gifford, and Mrs. Lucy Baker.

FUNERAL
Mrs. Sarah Keith.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Keith were held this afternoon at three o'clock at her home on King street. Rev. Henry H. Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city of which Mrs. Keith was a member, assisted by Rev. James F. English, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated.

The Keith residence was filled with scores of friends and relatives of Mrs. Keith. Putnam high school was represented by the faculty and by representative groups of students from each class who attended to pay tribute to Mrs. Keith, mother of Miss Abbie H. Keith, head of the English department at the high school. Burial took place in Grove street cemetery. A committal service was conducted by the officiating clergymen.

There is a present a movement underway in this city, being fostered by a group of local men, assisted by Eastern Connecticut Boy Scout officials, to revive scouting activities here, apart from the Boy Scout organization under the direction of St. Mary's church. Officials from the Eastern Connecticut headquarters in Norwich were here this week conferring with local sponsors in an effort to lay out a schedule of pre-organization work.

Miss Helen Bankanowsky of Jewett City, recently appointed physical instructor on the teaching staff of the educational department of the town has commenced her training courses in all of the schools of the city. Miss Bakanowsky succeeds Miss Elizabeth Francis of Danielson, who is now director of physical education in the school department of the town of Farmington, this state. Her successor is a graduate of the Posse-Nisson Normal school in Boston and comes to this city highly recommended.

Superintendent of Schools Leon M. Farrin is making arrangements for a public speaking course for men and women in the town, to be given through the State Department of University Extension. Mr. Farrin intimated today that if a sufficiently large group becomes interested in the plan lectures on the subject would be held once each week. Dr. Henry K. Deninger, who instructs in public speaking at the state college at Storrs, will conduct the course in this city. Superintendent Farrin is anxious to begin the work at once. Anyone interested in the plan should enroll at once at the school offices of the superintendent of schools at the Israel Putnam school.

WAUREGAN

CONG. MEN'S CLUB HEARS ADDRESS BY THOMPSON PASTOR

The November meeting of the Congregational Men's club was held Wednesday evening. Rev. Everett S. Lyons, of Thompson, addressed the men on the subject of the fully-rounded character, basing his remarks upon "What Steinmetz said to Dempsey." A bountiful supper was served by the Earnest Workers under direction of Mrs. J. A. Atwood, assisted by Mrs. Addison Tracy, Mrs. C. H. Robinson, Mrs. Arthur Milligan, Mrs. F. T. Johnson. Nominations for officers for the coming year were presented, to be acted upon at the next meeting.

Rev. W. Williams reports an excellent conference at Ansonia when the Congregationalists of the state met this week, with outstanding addresses by Dr. Fred B. Smith, moderator of the National council, and Dr. Brewer Eddy, of Boston.

The Earnest Workers were entertained Monday by Mrs. A. J. Atwood at her home. New missionary projects were discussed and adopted.

Services of worship appropriate to the Armistice day season will be held at the Congregational church Sunday.

The Wauregan mills are rushed with orders and are running late into the night.

The South Windham Six-Church conference is to meet at Ekonk, Miss Lydia Hartig, pastor, next Wednesday, Nov. 13. Rev. Harding W. Gaylord of Danielson will be one of the principal speakers.

Mr. Weiss has been in ill health, leaving his work in Ashland mill last April. He died Thursday. Only his wife survives him. Mr. Weiss was born in Germany and had lived on Brown avenue for three years.

MOOSUP

Pastor to Answer Questions

After the book sermon on "All's Quiet on the Western Front," Sunday night in the Methodist church, Rev. A. Elwin Tinsley will answer the following questions: Is it wrong to play cards? Should a church member attend the movies or dance? Is masonry a religion? Why do some men think masonry a substitute for the church? What is the real difference between the Baptist and the Methodist churches? Do you think that petting parties and drinking among our young people show that they are worse than young folks of former times? Is it necessary to subscribe to a creed to be a follower of Christ?

Mrs. Samuel Adams and her son Robert from Providence were calling on Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Denison recently. Miss Alice Robinson was with them.

Misses G. E. Preston and L. E. Millett were visitors recently in Worcester with Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Wiekand, (Gwendolyn Wheeler). While there they motored to Boston and were entertained at luncheon by Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Wheeler.

The Junior Achievement club of Grade V, has chosen for its name the Busy Bees. The officers are: President, Isabel Seaton; secretary, Rose Duprey; treasurer, Stephen Zagurski. All are busy making gifts for Christmas.

Ernest Godreau post, Moosup, American Legion will parade Armistice day in Danielson at 1:30, leaving Moosup at 12:30.

The American Woolen Co. mills will not run Monday. The Aldrich Bros. and Cranska's will probably run.

Armistice Sunday Service

The Armistice Sunday service in the Baptist church will be from 11 to 12. The local patriotic societies have been invited. Ernest DeForge is to play the bugle calls in connection with Mr. DeWolfe's talk on Life's Bugle Calls. The Sterling Hill church is uniting in this service and will give up its own service on the hill.

John Baker and Nathan Goldberg set out fishing at 5:15 a. m. Wednesday, in order to get a good catch by the time the store opens. Mr. Goldberg reports they didn't get a bite. John says he got one. The week before Baker caught ten pickerel in a half hour.

Invited to Danielson

Sunday, church school at the Baptist church will be 9:45, the Armistice service is at 11. In the evening the church people have been invited to meet with the Federation of Churches in Danielson, the young people being invited to sit in the choir with the Baptist young people of Danielson. The local pastor is to preach the sermon.

At the Methodist church there is to be a special Armistice day service, Rev. A. Elwin Tinsley speaking on Woodrow Wilson and the Ideal of World Peace. There will be a children's story, One Boy's Work on the Battlefield. In the evening there will be special music by the young peoples chorus with a story sermon on Remarque's "All Quiet on the Western Front."

STATE'S MOTOR ACCIDENTS

According to the motor vehicle department, there is an opportunity this year, even though the year is more than five-sixths gone, to effect a decrease in the total number of motor vehicle accidents.

It is to be remembered that there is always such an opportunity at the beginning of every year, an opportunity which has not been accepted in any one of the past dozen years thus far, and there is no assurance that it will be accomplished this year, although with 20,440 up to the 25th of October there was a chance to keep under the 27,539 for the full year in 1928. This meant that we would have to get along with less than 3,500 accidents a month during November and December in Connecticut. Whether that is asking a good deal of motorists will be revealed by the figures for the entire year.

It is worthwhile to look over the accident figures for the last 12 years as furnished by the department. They show that in 1918, the last year of the war, there were but 1,987 motor vehicle accidents in the state. At that time it was considered too many, but the next year it more than doubled and as many more again were added for 1920. There were ten times as many in 1924 as there were in 1918 and last year there were about 14 times the number. Isn't it time that there was more serious thought about cutting down the steadily increasing, yearly record?

It is to be realized, of course, that there are more automobiles each year, but with that goes the obvious fact that with more cars there should be more care. It isn't possible to use the highways with the same abandon that was done in 1918. This involves all the users, the motorists and the pedestrians.

However much one hates to be involved in an accident, the many cases and the circumstances surrounding them do not indicate that the proper amount of simple effort is used to prevent them. Thus, while there is a chance during November and December to be unusually careful, and thereby lower a previous year's record for the first time in a dozen years, there has been little evidence that such a goal is ever seriously aimed at.

How much need there is for cutting down the yearly record is painfully revealed by the statement that there have been 368 fatalities up to October 25 this year and in addition 7,268 persons were injured, or nearly 800 more than the same period last year. It is a frightful indictment of safety on Connecticut streets and highways.

THE THOMAS SUPPORT

Claim everything, is an old political maxim which is still freely employed. It is used during campaigns when leaders are predicting the outcome of the election and it is utilized after the election is over to emphasize the accomplishments.

Since the contest in New York on which much interest was centered, much attention has been directed to the vote that was received by Norman Thomas, the socialist candidate for mayor, the same man who ran for president a year ago as the nominee of the same party. As was indicated during the campaign, Mr. Thomas piled up a heavy vote because he furnished the opportunity for many voters to use their ballots as a protest against the leading candidates. Those who were opposed to Tammany and Walker and those who did not like LaGuardia exercised the privilege of voting for Thomas, not because they thought he had a chance, but because they could not vote for any other candidate. The probability is that some of them were influenced in their course by the announced attitude of certain prominent figures to support Thomas, but not because they thought he would win.

Support that was given to Thomas outside of the socialists gave him a bigger vote than any other socialist but it was not because he was a socialist nor because they desired to support socialistic policies. Yet it is seized upon by Mr. Thomas as a party rather than a personal endorsement and he is hopeful that it means the beginning of a campaign that will put his party in control of the city of New York. He is, in fact, already planning for such an accomplishment.

If it were so that socialist principles had attracted such a large and sudden increase in the party vote in New York city as was given to Mr. Thomas this week there might be good ground for his enthusiasm. There isn't any question about the fact that he is thoroughly a socialist, but it was Thomas and not socialism that was represented by the increased vote given him for mayor. He may not be aware of it now but he will find it out. He is engaged at the present time in claiming everything. He is endeavoring to submerge self and boost party but, from the study of the figures, he's got a long way to go before realizing his ambition.

THE BRITISH AND SOVIETS

As the result of the negotiations that have been going on between the British and the soviet governments, the British house of commons has received a favorable report from its foreign minister and has voted to accept it and carry out its recommendations by a substantial majority. This means that the British are going to reengage in an experiment that failed on a previous test.

High hopes were entertained by the British under a former administration that benefits could be gotten tradewise from a recognition of the soviet government. It was considered advisable to find out and it was found that all was not what it appeared to be. The outcome was that the soviet government was ousted bag and baggage.

Since then changes have taken place in Russia and other governments have recognized Moscow, so that the British are practically alone in Europe in not being represented at the Russian capital. It is not obtaining the trade advantages which might go on without recognition because of the feeling that followed the previous experiences.

Inquiry has developed the belief on the part of the foreign minister that, following recognition and the exchange of representatives, there can be negotiated such an agreement as will satisfy the British demands. There is an insistence that there be an effective end to revolutionary propaganda and that there be an adjustment of the debt which Russia owes the British.

Great Britain is not the only country that has made such demands but the representations have been such as to convince the British foreign office that negotiations will be satisfactory in connection with British demands. This represents a different attitude in Moscow and has been able to get much support in England, sufficient at least to secure the necessary authority for a test, and will be a trial that will command plenty of attention outside of the British empire.

STORRS' NEW PRESIDENT

Inaugurating a new president is not a formality of frequent occurrence at the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs. This institution has been fortunate in those who have been selected to head it in that they have not only administered well their duties but have given it the benefit of continued service.

In the march of progress and time, changes are inevitable and at this time it augurs well for the college and the state it serves that Dr. George A. Works accepts the responsibilities that go with its presidency. He follows a distinguished line of educators in undertaking the guidance of this institution of which Connecticut is duly proud and there is every reason to believe that his administration will be especially beneficial in maintaining its standard and bringing it to such a development as is logically to be expected.

It is believed that the state is fortunate in being able to secure the services of Dr. Works as the head of the Connecticut Agricultural college. He has not only had the benefit of excellent training but that has been reinforced by a varied experience in handling problems of a similar character in other fields. He thus comes well fortified to maintain and increase the success of this college in which so many are interested because of the benefit it has been to them and because of the opportunities which it holds out to others. The educational and other advantages afforded at Storrs reach out to all sections of the state and under the guidance of Dr. Works we look to see them become greater and more effective than ever. He has accepted the responsibilities for a stewardship that it is believed will be fruitful.

THE VIRGINIA ELECTION

Attention has been centered upon the political contest which has been waged in Virginia for the past several weeks in the belief that it would determine whether the Old Dominion state was to definitely cast its lot in the republican column or return to the democratic fold and thereby disclose whether the solid south might once more obtain.

The election is over, the democratic state ticket has won by a handsome majority and the elation of the democrats is unlimited. The outcome is claimed by the democrats as a demonstration that the Hoovercrats are once more democrats and there is nothing further to fear about backsliding.

That is the interpretation of democratic leaders, but it doesn't exactly jibe with the view of Dr. John Pollard, the successful democratic candidate for governor. He takes the position that there were no national issues involved, that it was a straight state contest, in which various efforts were made to influence votes through bringing up past events, but making it clear from his viewpoint that there was nothing about it by which it could be determined that Virginia would not do the same thing it did last November if the conditions were the same. The Pollard position would appear to be the sound one.

However much Virginia may be looked upon as a barometer for other southern states it would appear that the election this week proved, if it proved anything, that Virginia was prepared to vote as it pleased. If it believed the democratic candidates and policies should be supported, it would give the necessary support. Last November it believed and voted otherwise. It hasn't been proved that it wouldn't do so again, or it hasn't been shown that it will abandon all thought of maintaining two parties.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

In scores of ways the present generation is much better regulated by law than formerly. Take a single but pertinent illustration of this fact. Take for instance the wild life of our forests only a few decades ago, what protection did they have from anyone who was disposed to kill and maim? If one was hungry for a little amusement, whether he was a young lad or an old man, all he had to do was to go out into the woods with a shotgun and fire away at any living thing except his own species. He only had to be prompted by his own inclination to do a bit of inhuman savagry. It would not have been so inhuman if in all cases these hunters had been keen marksmen whose aim was deadly. But boys with little practice could fire away at small game in most cases wounding and not killing. We can imagine what suffering was thus needlessly caused. Let us be thankful that the law has stopped this!

Along other lines laws have been enacted in the interests of humanity, and the people as a rule take these laws to be in the interests of a general advancement as to the purposes of life in general. There are laws today regulating fishing that were never dreamed of less than a century ago. Now this law means business and the high as well as the low must conform to it. The president of the United States must do his fishing "under the same seasonal permits" as the country boy living in the backwoods. Now all this is only a specimen of the many things now under the dominion of law that were once absolutely free of all legal control. It is not so many years ago that steps were taken to protect the people from food adulteration. And yet we hear about "the good old times."

At this time of the year football is in the height of its season. It certainly is a scientific game that requires skill and strength—when rightly played—and develops manly qualities. But it certainly creates some unfortunate conditions that are harmful to those who do not have great moral stamina. I mean by that statement, the game sometimes creates conditions where foul work can be put in, and those players who are not possessed of high moral standards can get in some "dirty" work that may escape notice. Of course if the player is strong enough when under great provocation to resist the impulse to do any crooked work he is made stronger by resisting the temptation. The game would have greater popularity if it were not so fraught with danger. Many a man in middle life is painfully reminded of a certain game that he once played that he has never fully recovered from.

Do we put as much emphasis as we ought upon the desirability of social contacts? These contacts have a far greater psychological value than is commonly supposed. It takes something of vastly greater importance than fat hogs and big squashes to bring people to an agricultural fair. Aunt Sally comes from Smith valley to see her cousin from Woodville. Take a county church meeting—and that brings together as much intelligence as anything—and yet the social hour is as much enjoyed as the set speeches. We are so constituted as to yearn for the human touch. We see the same instance in the lower animals. The birds live in flocks; cattle, both wild and domestic, in droves; human beings in villages, towns and cities. It goes farther than that and insists on the larger unit of nationhood. All the evidence goes to show that the organism is vitally joined to the unit.

There is an innate desire on the part of mortals to break away from the conventional and to indulge in the weird and mysterious. It is akin to our love for ghost stories. Exactly why the eve of All Hallows should have been selected for this plunging into the realm of the mysterious is not quite clear. History tells us that in England when the festival of All Saints is celebrated it was long customary to crack nuts, duck for apples in a tub of water, and perform other harmless fireside revelries. It was simply the natural outburst of youthful enthusiasm; one method in which the pent up energy of youth sought an outlet. It ought, however, to be said that no depredation was committed; it was rather wholesome fun finding expression along harmless channels. To most young people the strange and weird have a strong fascination, but its outward expression ought to be under rigid control.

We are now on the eve of another Armistice day, which is a day of great public significance to the entire modern world, both the civilized and the uncivilized. One hardly knows the right word to use in referring to it. Shall we say "observing" Armistice day, or "celebrating" it? Observing the day simply means taking notice of it quite apart from the emotions it arouses, but celebrating the day refers more to the joyful feelings it produces. We can somewhat imagine the emotions of the heart-broken mother on Armistice day whose only boy lies sleeping beneath the flowers of Flanders field! If she has no Stars and Stripes waving in the breeze on this particular day, don't call her unpatriotic, but pity her in her loneliness, and remember the supreme sacrifice she made!

You cannot make a hard and fast rule as to the choice of "observe" or "celebrate" in attempting to describe an event, because the one is general and the other particular. As an illustration take two very common events, weddings and funerals. As a general thing we are justified in referring to weddings as celebrations, because joy and happiness predominate, but we never use that word in referring to a funeral. A marriage takes place where the bride is the only child of the home. The bride, like her mother, is a lovable character; the father is "the skeleton in the closet". The bridegroom is a most desirable companion, but he lives 500 miles away and the mother will see her daughter only at rare intervals. She is too much of a real woman to oppose such a favorable match. But to her the wedding is all she can stand. Amid the general joy there is an aching heart. She is left alone with the "skeleton".

I have remarked in the above that the word "celebrate" is never used in connection with a funeral—and it never ought to be—and yet death comes sometimes as a most precious relief from the cruelties of pain. Let one striking illustration suffice: The poor girl is under twenty, but is in the last stages of tuberculosis. It seems incredible that a human being could be so emaciated; scarcely more than skin and bones. Not a word need to be said about her long and terrible suffering, but it is mostly over now. There is no final spasm. A strange look without a trace of pain comes into her face, it is the look of transfiguration. Then all is quiet, the battle is over. It is an impressive moment to those standing by. Unconsciously there is a relief because death has come as a kindness and not as cruelty.

Turkey, to embark on a good roads program, requires all male citizens as well as foreigners of six months' residence, to put in ten days of yearly road service. A $4 fee will exempt them from actual work.

ARCTIC WAGTAIL IN NORWICH RECALLS WINTER BIRDS OF '93.

Now that the American pipit, or wagtail, has condescended to leave his home in the arctic to feed for a while in the fields near Norwich state hospital, the old-time ornithologists are recalling the memorable year of 1893 when a greater variety of birds from the northern regions visited hereabout than has ever been recorded since. In January of that year The Bulletin reports the coming of the Acadican owl and the sheldrake; in March of the Icelandic sawtooth merganser; in December, of the little auk. True, the birds reported, with the exception of the sheldrakes, were only isolated specimens; but on the other hand were it not for the unusually severe weather of that year Connecticut might not have been favored with the presence of even these few specimens.

The bird visitor of 1893 which had the local ornithologists puzzled was the sawtooth merganser. It was shot by a Plain hill farmer at the northern end of Fairview reservoir and sold on March 24, 1893, to Somers Brothers, who at that time ran a market at 218 and 224 Main street. The farmer reported that at the time he shot this one, two other like birds got away.

For a whole day the bird dangled in front of the store without being identified. Local experts saw that it resembled a wild duck in many ways, but were nonplussed by the head and the markings, which were entirely dissimilar. In the evening a back-country farmer, who had travelled extensively in his younger days—the description seems to befit a retired whaler—recognized it for what it was, a wanderer from Iceland, which only the coldest winters could tempt so far south. "Sportsmen," added The Bulletin reporter, "will be on the lookout for the bird's mates."

The visit of the Acadican owl, which was captured near Plantsville, prompted The Bulletin's Jewett City correspondent to write in the issue of Jan. 16, 1893: "The heavy hemlock and spruce woods on the northern and western boundaries of Jewett City give shelter these winter months to several varieties of owls, but never before has one like this little fellow (Nyctale Acadica) been seen."

The Acadican owl is not only one of the rarest birds to visit eastern Connecticut, as the Jewett City correspondent pointed out; it is also one of the smallest. It is about the size of a robin, being only seven inches in length. Its head in front of a grayish color with a few lines of white, upper parts reddish brown, face and under parts ashy white, tail brown with each feather spotted white.

In Massachusetts it is known by the name of "saw-whet," the sound of its love notes bearing a great resemblance to the noise produced by filing the teeth of a large saw.

"But," continued the Jewett City correspondent, "in connection with the owl a word should be said about the sheldrakes that can be seen any day now sitting composedly on the ice around the vents that appear now and then upon the frozen surface of the Quinebaug, where the swiftly moving water prevents freezing.

"Fifteen or 20 of these hardy ducks are seen daily by travelers on the cars between Jewett City and Norwich. They are about the size of a large farmyard duck and now in color they are plain black and white. We find them exceedingly hard to come at when on foot with a gun. Although they rise from the water or ice with considerable difficulty, yet very stealthy must be your approach to get a shot at them.

"It is exceedingly interesting to watch five or six of these ducks strike the water after a flight of one or two miles. Down they come at a sharp angle from a height of 300 or 400 feet above the stream, and when they come in contact with the water a great splashing takes place, and the water flies about as though a small ship had been launched. They stay with us all winter and are not disturbed, as they feed in these open places, by a passing train or team; but they will spy a lone man in an instant and—whir!—they are gone."

The last arctic visitor of the year, the little auk, was captured at Stonington Point by a man in the employ of Thomas W. Palmer, on December 1, 1893. It had never before been seen in eastern Connecticut. The capture was immediately identified by its other name of dovekie or alca alle. Mr. Palmer's little auk was a quaint little plump bird with very short wings. Its head, neck and the upper parts of its body were covered with glossy black feathers. The wings had a small patch of white, while the under parts were all white, and the bill was coal black.

The little auk is a web-footed bird and spends most of its time in the water. Its length is about eight inches. To mariners who visit the extreme north it is known by the name of the Greenland dove.

Its native heath is far within the arctic, approaching the pole itself. It is said to be the last bird observable within the desolate and glacial boundaries of the earth.

In Greenland these birds congregate in large flocks. When an open fissure appears in the ice they take advantage of the opportunity to obtain the marine life on which they feed. The little auk's wings, though small, are capable of propelling the bird with great velocity. It is an expert diver and can swim under water with great swiftness.

When wearied it tucks its head under its little wing, and, "rocked in the cradle of the deep," it sleeps as calmly as an infant in its crib. Its food consists of fish, marine crustacea and small crabs. It lays its solitary egg, pale greenish blue, on the ledge of an ocean cliff or amidst loose stones on some high elevation overlooking the sea.

"The bird," adds The Bulletin's correspondent, "is being mounted and will prove a rare accession to some ornithological collection."

It was in this same year of 1893, in the issue of Jan. 14, that The Bulletin first called attention to the presence of a "not uncommon but seldom noticed, winter visitor, the winter wren, Troglodytes Hyemalis." The bird is described as follows:

"This little stranger comes to us from the north, sometimes as early as October, and soon after the disappearance of our common house wren, for which it is probably usually mistaken, though it is somewhat smaller and has a smoother plumage.

"Wilson says, 'With tail erect, mounted on some projecting point or pinnacle, he sings with great animation.' We must confess, however, that though we have seen him on such points and pinnacles dozens of times we have never yet heard him sing. He is a cheery little fellow, however, and doubtless could sing if he chose. When spring approaches he disappears and is seen to the north of us on his way back to his breeding place."

It would be interesting if some reader of The Bulletin were to use this newspaper as a channel through which to inform other naturalists when and where the winter wren or indeed any of the other birds mentioned above, was last seen hereabouts.

Another winged visitor which used to be seen even on the city streets in cold weather, but is now encountered only in the woods, if met with at all, is the snow butterfly. In fact the last time this creature was mentioned in The Bulletin was on January 12, 1882, when the following item appeared:

"A butterfly of the genus Vanessa, popularly known as the Camberwell beauty, was seen taking an airing on Franklin street yesterday. These flies live in hollow trees during the winter and are always to be seen near their haunts on mild winter days. They spread their pinions and frolic above banks of snow as well as beds of flowers whenever the weather permits."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—In the woods of Maryland and Virginia that fringe Washington, you can still find many a canny old fox that has laughed for years at the pursuing John Peels of the capital.

The Bystander has a friend who knows them all by name, almost. For two decades this transplanted son of North Carolina has roved the colorful, autumn-tinted hills of Maryland, following the lilting cry of his hounds.

Face wind and sun lacquered to as ruddy a hue as the dying leaves that fall about him, this man in whose veins perhaps runs the blood of many a hard riding, fox hunting English squire is a familiar sight to dwellers on the city outskirts.

His dogs clustered about him in a rattletrap car, he goes careening from one well known fox run to another, forever in chase, but rarely if ever driving through to a "kill."

It's just the love of going in the glorious autumn woods that calls him on year after year.

Congressional Hunters.

Nor is he the only foxhunter of Washington. True, there is no business of "pink" coats and white buskins to set off the sport; but there is distinguished company nevertheless to take the field when the "frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock."

Time was when former Rep. John Smithwick of Florida earned himself the title of "The Old Foxhunter" by his tireless journey after poor Reynard.

And now there are Steagall of Alabama and Morehead of Nebraska and goodness knows how many others who take joyously to the open of the Maryland hills each year about the time the apples lie in glowing heaps beneath the trees and the cider mills are busy all along the wide highways.

Among them is another very distinguished man, not of official title. He is the sometime "Big Train" of baseball, Walter Johnson, once the greatest pitcher of his time, now manager of the Washington Senators.

A huge man, Old Barney, big of shoulder, long of leg yet agile as a boy when he takes to the hills a-horse or a-foot to run a wily fox for miles.

Sometimes, out where the rumbling of city traffic is stilled by distance, you will hear the fox hunter's horn and the clamoring baying of a galloping pack.

Fox Enjoys It.

Even the fox most times seems keen for the sport, fleeing with new zest each year down the same old runways but also with new tricks to baffle the whimpering dogs as they check, at fault.

The Bystander's foxhunting friend insists that he always can tell just which crafty old sinner it is his dogs have scented when they give tongue and shoot in pursuit.

He knows just about where the chase will turn and double, and many a time has strolled off at right angles with the line of the hunt and presently stood at ease on a hillside and seen the chase go by below him.

That is his version of foxhunting and the fox seems to know it, for run one of these old timers as he will, they always are there again next year in the old cover.

And having fought it out again, this modern John Peel goes happily home in the dusk with his sore-footed but happy dogs beside him on the seats of the old Ford.

Sunday Morning Talk

Our Need of the Bible.

How far would we progress in commerce or business of any sort without a standard of measure? Gold is the standard of monetary values. The yard stick is the standard of measuring many materials and in other lines we have other standards. But for our lives we have but one standard, one measure whereby we may measure our deeds, our thoughts, our words. No other standard of measure is true. No other to be trusted or relied on. This standard measure is given by our Creator, our Heavenly Father in His word the Bible. We cannot safely measure our lives by those about us for how far short we would come. For we would soon be lost in a maze of doubt and uncertainty. One would say one way was right, another would say it was wrong. How far apart are God's measure of right and that of man. What a comfort to go to His word for guidance. It is as a guide book in a strange land. Without it we are like a ship drifting at sea. What would we think of a person taking passage on a ship knowing there was nothing to guide that ship. How much more foolhardy to start out on the voyage of life to drift without a guide, when all we have to do is to go to our Father's word, a sure and true guide. We may go forth with confidence and joy. We have the confidence of one traveling a familiar road. We feel sure of arriving at our goal. So when we take the Bible as our standard and guide we feel confident that we are on the right and will not lose our way. We will not waste time or get on the wrong road and cause ourselves and others much sorrow. May each one of us ever take this True Guide Book of life looking ever to our Heavenly Father for strength.

YOUR HEALTH

Mouth Infection.

By Oliver T. Osborne, M. D.
New Haven, Conn.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

This term generally means a chronic infection of the gums, teeth or tonsils. It includes "trench mouth," pyorrhea and infected roots of teeth. Mouth infections, often called focal infections, may cause disease to localize in different parts of the body.

An adult's full set of teeth consists of thirty-two. Therefore in the adult there are thirty-two opportunities for tooth infection.

Very many persons carry in their mouths the germs of pneumonia. Others carry various germs that produce pus or that attack the joints and the heart. These germs of disease are all communicable from one person to another by any kind of close contact, from kissing to using the same drinking cups, spoons, forks and towels. They may even be acquired by a person shaking the hand of one who has contaminated his hand with his infection. The frequency of these germs being carried in the mouths of apparently well people is evidenced by the increase in heart disease, by the frequency of neuritis, by various types of rheumatism, by some diseases of the blood, and not infrequently by boils, carbuncles and skin eruptions, and by enlargement of the glands of the neck. The thyroid gland, the goiter gland, frequently becomes abnormal from mouth infection.

No one wishes to lose his teeth. Therefore he should take every sensible means to prevent their loss. This is done by eating proper food that is food which contains considerable calcium, phosphates and vitamins; by properly cleaning the teeth; and by frequent visits to a dentist.

No one can question the absurdity of neglecting a pyorrhea of the gums when pus, even in small quantities, is swallowed with every bite of food and with every drink. Though one may not be harmed for some time by these bacteria and their excretions (every live germ eats and excretes) but sooner or later some disease will be caused, for germs become a special menace during or after any severe illness, any serious injury or operation, or when the person has become debilitated.

Diseased roots of teeth present a most dangerous form of mouth infection. While these roots may become infected from pyorrheal pockets or from neglected decay, the most frequent cause is the death of the tooth. A dead tooth is never a healthy tooth, for however carefully a dentist fills the canals, subsequent infection is not prevented. Such a tooth may become infected after only a few months.

X-ray pictures of the teeth will show advanced disease at the roots, but they can not show when disease begins. Therefore, every dead tooth is a menace to the future health of the individual, and should be extracted.

Armistice Day

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

LONDON—Armistice day again—sacred moment of remembrance for those millions of gallant men who gave their lives that their children might have peace.

Armistice day again—and we are looking forward to the momentous naval conference to be held in London in January, when the great powers will assemble at the call of Premier Macdonald and President Hoover to see if they can lessen the possibility of war by destroying some of the instruments of slaughter.

Europe still weak from unhealed wounds and struggling pitifully in the Slough of Despond created by the World conflict is hopeful. At the eleventh hour of the eleventh day when widows and orphans and former fighting men with broken bodies stand at attention during the Great Silence a universal prayer will go up for the success of the naval conference. The widows and the orphans and the old soldiers want peace.

And as that prayer goes up there will come again before the mind's eye of every one who was on the fighting front a picture of the butchery and savagery and destruction of the days of war; days when men became so callous that life meant little and death meant nothing; days when men laughed as they drove their bayonets home and cursed if the steel stuck.

I am looking back to a year before the armistice. Out on the British front in France we were at the end of the disastrous Passchendaile push, fought through the awful mud by that hell-role known as the Ypres salient the cockpit of Europe. The British casualties alone were more than 250,000.

I returned to my headquarters one night to find an American visitor, a magazine writer, waiting for me. He was seeking first-hand information about the war. I had spent the day on the battlefield, and he wanted to know about it. He asked rather hesitatingly if there were many dead.

"Dead?" I repeated. "Sure, the place was covered with dead Heinies. I saw a funny thing, too. I ran across a shell-hole filled with dead men who were standing with their feet at the apex of the hole and were leaning against the wall in symmetrical formation that made them look like the petals of a big flower. There wasn't a mark on any of them; they had been gassed."

I looked up to find my visitor regarding me with horror.

"You shock me," he exclaimed, "by the cold blooded way you talk of Heinies and death. How can you speak of it in such an off-handed manner? Doesn't death mean anything to you men out here?"

That brought me up with a start. It gave me a shock too, to discover my frame of mind.

I had spent the day wallowing in the filth of the battlefield among the bodies, dodging shells, along with others who were doing the same thing as a matter of course. Once I had been hit by shrapnel.

I finally had sat down behind the protecting wall of a concrete pill-box to eat my cheese and bread. I happened to glance round and found a dead man sitting beside me, watching with unseeing eyes as I ate. His presence had meant nothing to me whatever. I went ahead with my food and forgot him.

That was the state of mind men reached during the war. Just as the cashier handles his mountains of greenbacks mechanically without any thought of their value, so we plodded along among the dead like machines, registering little or no emotion. It was all part of a day's work.

But the numbness has gone from the minds of the old soldiers now, and there has crept in a horror of the past—a horror of being able to see death and to kill without shuddering. They want peace, and they are looking forward to the naval conference.

A golfer drove off for the fourth hole at the Columbia (Mo.) Country club. "Fore," he yelled. Fore was obliging. He turned in time to get hit by the ball. Fore was Allen W. Fore, student at the University of Missouri.

SPEAKS FOR CULTURAL OPPORTUNITIES FOR MEN AND WOMEN IN FARM LIFE

STORRS, Nov. 8—(AP)—With prominent educators and state officials in attendance, Dr. George A. Works was formally inducted into office today as president of Connecticut Agricultural college. He assumed his duties at the college on Aug. 1.

Greeted on behalf of the state by Gov. John H. Trumbull, Dr. Works, one time dean of the Graduate Library school at the University of Chicago, emphasized the need of equal cultural opportunities for men and women engaged in agricultural occupations.

Representatives of 35 American colleges and universities were present, and witnessed the long academic procession, arranged by Prof. George S. Torrey, of the state college, which preceded the inauguration exercises.

Among others who had a part in the ceremony were Chancellor Samuel P. Capen, of the University of Buffalo and President James L. McConaughy, of Wesleyan university, who represented the colleges of New England.

Address by President Works

In part President Works spoke as follows:

The ideals that this country generally holds for farming offer a clue as to the significance of the liberal subjects in the education of the farmer. We have rejected the idea of a farm peasantry as being incompatible with our ideals of a democratic society. It is true that in the minds of some, the farmer is thought of chiefly as a source of cheap food. The fact that farming is a basic vocation that conditions the life of millions of our people is overlooked. Fortunately for all, this view does not receive gengral acceptance.

In a recent address the Hon. Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, said: "These six millions of farmers (i. e. the farmers of the United States) are the most efficient farmers on earth. In numbers they are one-twentieth of the world's farmers but they produce two-thirds of the world's corn, three-fifths of the world's cotton, one-half of its tobacco, one-third of its hogs, one-third of its poultry, one-fourth of its oats, one-fifth of its wheat, one-seventh of its cattle and one-tenth of its sheep. The other contributions while small in percentage of the world's totals, yet bulk large in the feeding of their own nation."

In a measure this relatively great productivity is to be explained in terms of our extensive system of agricultural education and in the natural fertility of our soil. However, the human element is more important than either of these. The quality of manhood and womanhood found on American farms, and the standard of living of our farmers, are the largest factors in making for our highly efficient agriculture. The conditions that have surrounded life in the open country have been such that farming has drawn to its ranks men and women possessing much natural ability. It is not the quality of manhood from which springs a peasantry. Let all who are interested in our national welfare strive to maintain such conditions in farming as shall result in its continuing to draw its due proportion of persons of superior ability!

The education of the parents will be a vital factor in determining the atmosphere in which the country child will be reared. Many who are country bred are going to leave it because there is no need on the farms for all who are born and reared there. Still, others are going to leave in order to find opportunity to develop their talents in lines not offered them by the open country. It is important that this movement from country to city should always be readily possible. The country boy or girl should be able to enter the activities of city life without being handicapped as a result of having spent his or her early years in a home environment that lacked intellectual stimulus due to the poor educational background of the parents.

Few in number are those who would contend for less generous educational opportunities for farmers than for other important economic groups. It is my belief that the great majority of the people of the state of Connecticut do not favor such discrimination. However, the development of the college so as to make possible the realization of this ideal is certain to make more acute a problem that already presents difficulties to the citizenry of the state. To what extent shall persons be admitted who are not interested in the technical phases of the curricula in agriculture, home economics, and mechanic arts? The two issues should be kept entirely separate. They are now confused by those who believe that the offerings of the college in humanities should be of a meager nature, thereby keeping the enrollment down.

The work in the sciences and the humanities that is now offered attracts larger numbers than can be accommodated of young persons whose primary interest does not lie in the fields of endeavor that have been enumerated. As the quality of our efforts in these directions are improved as they should be, the pressure will be increased from those desiring to participate in the benefits to be derived from the offerings of the college. Such a result is inevitable. The course the administration must follow in this matter is clear. The people of the state through their legislature have limited the total number that may be housed in state owned dormitories at five hundred. It is the obligation of the college authorities to comply with this mandate. It is now being adhered to and will continue to be so long as it remains in force. The college authorities must select from the available material those who give greatest promise of making a contribution to the state and national welfare as a result of such advantages as this institution may be able to offer them in consequence of its attempts to accomplish its purposes for which it was established.

However, believing as I do in the benefits that are to be derived by individuals and the state from higher education I would be remiss indeed if I did not point out to the citizenship of this state from time to time and on appropriate occasions ways in which I believed the college could serve the state in a larger manner. The state has no more important asset than its human resources and no money is more useful in its spending than that which goes for the development of these resources through education. As a believer in state supported higher education I would be derelict in my obligations to the state if I should fail from time to time to direct your consideration to needs that might be met through the work of the college.

These views with reference to the policies of the college in relation to the state's needs in the field of higher education have been placed before you in confidence that whatever merit they possess will receive due consideration at your hands. The conditions fixed by legislation and the other elements of lay control are accepted on my part whole heartedly and in good faith for I am not only a believer in state supported higher education, but I am also a thorough believer in lay control of education. It and when the limitations that have been established prove to be barriers to the college's largest usefulness to the state I shall carry plans for a modification of policies to the state with confidence that they will receive full consideration and such a decree of approval as their merit warrants. By whole hearted cooperation of all concerned and by this means only will this college rise to the highest degree of usefulness to the state.

LEFFINGWELL UNION MET WITH GARDNER LAKE MEMBER

The Woman's union of the Leffingwell church met Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock with Mrs. William A. White of Gardner Lake. Eight were present. White Cross work was done under the direction of Mrs. Forrest Leffingwell, the White Cross chairman. Mrs. John Rathbone conducted the devotional service, singing All the Way My Saviour Leads Me. Scripture and prayer was by Mrs. A. H. Beebe and reading from Helen K. Wallace's book entitled "Stewardship in the Life of Women." Instrumental selection entitled, Carry Your Cross With a Smile.

Letters were read from Miss Ethel K. Ryan, Miss Webster and Miss Abbie G. Sanderson, telling of their work.

The November work committee, Mrs. A. H. Beebe, reported plans for a roast pork supper to be held by the men of the church.

The nominating committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. Forrest Leffingwell, Mrs. A. H. Beebe and Mrs. S. C. Rogers.

The December meeting will be held at the church. This will be a White Cross meeting, followed by a supper to which the men and interested friends will be invited. At 7.30 the program will be presented.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction. Refreshments, sandwiches, cookies and tea were served by the hostess.

BOY SCOUTS TO WEAR UNIFORMS ARMISTICE DAY

A large group of local Boy Scouts are expected to attend the Armistice day exercises at Union square Monday morning. The Scouts have been asked to wear their uniforms to school in the morning and to take part in the celebration. All Scouts who have uniforms will wear them as a means of showing their reverence and respect for the soldier dead.

AMHERST PASTOR SPEAKS AT SIX-CHURCH CONFERENCE

The seventy-third six-church conference including Hanover, Pachaug, Lisbon, Preston, Jewett City and Plainfield, was held Friday at the Plainfield Congregational church, 158 attending. The morning service was opened with an organ prelude played by Mrs. Henry Leach of Wauregan. Rev. William C. Prentiss, pastor of the church, presided. The invocation was offered by Rev. G. H. Reese of Central Village, and the responsive reading led by Rev. Harold Arnold of Pachaug. The Scripture was read by Rev. G. F. Goodenough of Jewett City, and prayer was offered by Rev. D. C. Stone of Hanover. Two musical selections which were very pleasing, were Open the Gates of the Temple, and an offertory hymn sung by James Royle, who has been connected with the music in Plainfield church for fifteen years. The offering was received by Deacon Kingsley and Deacon Barstow of Plainfield, E. A. Douglas of Sterling and E. H. Hiscox of Jewett City, and the offertory prayer, was by Rev. William Williams of Wauregan.

During the morning hour the large audience listened with interest to the sermon by Rev. John A. Hawley, pastor of the First Congregational church of Amherst, Mass. The speaker had to tell of a growing belief that has been expressed of late that the church stands in the way of advancement, adding that some there are who no longer believe in God. In the words of his text, the speaker said, Be of good courage. He believed that one right way to get ahead of the enemies of religion, was to pay but little attention to them and their doctrines. The address was in four divisions, Stand By, Surrender Not, Sacrificial Life, and Spontaneity. Upon these he enlarged a line of thought of much interest and profit. Reference was made to Dr. Haas' experiences in Turkey. In closing the speaker read the poem by Vandyke, Hudson's Last Voyage, which ends with the line, "Sail Ahead and Leave the Rest to God." The Benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. J. Reynolds of Lisbon.

Dinner was served in the vestry by the Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. Lotta L. Dodge, president. The afternoon devotional service was led by Rev. G. W. Clark of Preston, with Rev. W. J. Reynolds presiding. The minutes of the last conference, were read by the scribe Mrs E. H. Hiscox of Jewett City. She called the roll, 17 responding from Pachaug, 26 from Hanover, 4 Jewett City, 9 Lisbon, 28 Preston City, 21 Plainfield and 43 visitors. A vote of thanks was extended the church for its hospitality and to the speakers and for the music.

In the afternoon address by Rev Dwight E. Lafolette, of Sterling, the speaker told of the educational program of the church today, as connected with the great task of social betterment. He said that the great statesmen of the country, were asking help and council from the Christian churches in the present perplexing problems of peace in the world. In speaking of his interest in church and school education, the main idea, he said, is to prepare us for complete living, this being the function of education today.

Some time was given during the address, to an outlining of new methods in church and school instruction for children. Plans and classes of picture teaching were illustrated by stereopticon views.

Rev. W. J. Reynolds gave a two minute outline of the general conference at Ansonia, and the session closed with the benediction.

The program showed the organization of the churches as being: Griswold 1720, Hanover 1766, Jewett City 1825, Lisbon 1723, Plainfield 1705, Preston City 1698.

PAULINE FREDERICK ON STAGE OVER 25 YEARS

The appearance of Pauline Frederick on the screen at the Palace theatre in "Evidence" at the present time obtains added interest from the fact that her father, the late Robert O. Libby, was for a number of years a resident of this city, living in the house on Broadway at the corner of Willow street.

Miss Frederick has been on the stage for over 25 years. She made her theatrical debut in New York city in 1902, appearing at the Knickerbocker theatre in the company of the Rogers Brothers in "In Harvard." A comparatively few years thereafter she became a star in her own right, and in the course of a long stage career was presented in "It Happened in Nordland," "Titania," "Madame X," and many other plays. She appeared not only in the United States, but in England as well.

She first appeared in motion pictures as the star of "The Eternal City," and continued as a screen luminary for a number of years. Among her most successful productions were "Paid in Full" and "Three Women."

After returning again to the stage, Miss Frederick headed her own company in a tour of Australia and New Zealand, playing "Spring Cleaning" and "The Lady," in which she had already appeared in the United States.

The advent of the talking picture signalized her return to the screen, and she was placed under contract by Warner Bros.

Given Surprise Linen Shower.

A surprise linen shower was given Miss Jennie Bernal at her home in Occum Wednesday evening. Miss Bernal is to be married Nov. 11 to John Donie of Taftville. Games and dancing were enjoyed and an exhibition of the latest dances were cleverly given by the Misses Pie Rainville and Astrid Penson. Sandwiches, fruit, assorted cake, soda and coffee were served by Mrs. Beatrice Bernal assisted by Mrs. Emily Adams and Mrs. Katherine Bernal. Among those present were: Alice Fontaine, Roselda Champagne, Rose Roberge, Ovelina Champagne, Lucy Dugas, Leona Gadue, Amelia Gagne, Astrid Benson, Della Dugas, Mary Gadue, Agnes Gadue, Eva De Vito, Flo. Rainville, Bertha Bernal, Alice Coffey, Emily Adams, Antenia Lafleshe, Carolina Bernal, Annie Coffey, Katherine Bernal, Mary Chrzan, Hilda Rondeau, Rose Brand, Jennie Bernal, Victoria Mercik, Beatrice Bernal.

Attended Atlantic City Meeting

Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt returned Thursday night from a two-day conference in Atlantic City, which was for a meeting of the board of managers of the American Baptist Foreign Mission society of which he is first vice president. One entire session was devoted to a conference with Dr. John R. Mott who has returned recently from his fourth trip around the world. This last trip grew out of the Jerusalem conference held on the Mount of Olives in the spring of 1928.

Gen. Aiken's Funeral Public

Through error announcement was made that the funeral of Gen. W. A. Aiken was to be private. The service at the United church is for all the friends of General Aiken who may wish to attend. The burial is to be private.

ACADEMY PLAYS LAST HOME GAME OF SEASON TODAY WITH WEST HARTFORD

It will be a determined battle that will be fought out this afternoon at the campus between two teams, hungry for the taste of victory. The Academy and West Hartford are the principals and the game starts at 2:15. This is the final home game for the Wildcats.

Each team is going through something mighty strange to its followers during this 1929 football season, namely, that of losing more games than it wins. West Hartford, year in and year out, is right in the thick of the Central Connecticut league title scramble and occasionally wins it, while, although the Academy has never won the championship of the Eastern Connecticut league, it hardly ever has such a mediocre campaign as the present wearers of the Red and White are enduring. Each team has won but one game. West Hartford from Meriden in the opening game, and the Academy, also in its opening game, from Chapman Tech. The Academy, though, has tied the strong New Britain high team, which probably gives it an edge on the season's work.

The Academy so far has played championship football between the 20-yard lines but, once they get within scoring distance, the attack fades completely away and the Wildcats either fumble or play the wrong play and lose the ball. The team has played the football of which it is capable in only two of its six games, namely, Chapman Tech and New Britain. They beat Tech 14 to 3, with a great late rush, and tied New Britain, admittedly one of the state's best, 12 to 12, fighting back to tie the score in the last period against a much heavier club. But, against Bulkeley of Hartford, when they lost, 13 to 0, Harding, 19 to 12, and Westerly and Windham, 7 to 0 and 6 to 0, the team lost all its power and tossed games away that would easily have been victories with any of the New Britain or Chapman Tech games' fire.

West Hartford's weak line has lost it most of the games but Coach Eric Nordfeldt, who, by the way, turned out a great baseball team last year that almost trimmed the Academy, has worked hard this week and thinks he has the forward wall in much better shape. Batterson and Hunting will be at ends, Morander and Lindell at tackles, Bigelow and Foley at guards, Capt. Horton at center, Drago at fullback, Popowicz at quarter and Hellyar and Sperry at halves.

The Academy will probably take the field as in the Windham game, with Flather and Captain Berghinso at ends, Hertz and Crowell at tackles, Stevens and Wojstasiak at guards, Cruickshank at center, Brewer or Sherry at quarterback, Cotter and Gembeskie at halves and Barber at fullback.

YALE NOT PLANNING ON A SET-UP FOR TODAY

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 8.—(AP)— The Yale-Maryland game, a set-up that is being taken seriously here, will be played in the bowl tomorrow, with six men on the visiting team who played when Maryland defeated Yale, 6 to 0, last year.

Fifteen thousand Connecticut school children, guests of the Yale Athletic association, and from 15,000 to 20,000 paying spectators will see the game.

The Maryland team, with 13 others, including coaches, will arrive in the morning and hold practice at the bowl a few minutes before the game.

The Maryland lineup will have Pease and Heagy at ends; Lombard and Carlis, at tackles; Heintz and Krajcovic at guards; Madigan at center; Evans, quarterback, Miller and Chalmers at halves, and Radice, fullback.

In the Yale lineup will be McLennan and Miller, halves; Wilson, quarterback; Stewart and Greene, guards; Hickok and Barres, ends; Palmer, center; Marting and Vincent, tackles, and Dunn, fullback. Head Coach Mal Stevens said Albie Booth and Bob Hall, quarters, will be ready as reliefs, with Booth more likely to play than Hall.

Yale has played nine games with Maryland, and lost two.

The Eli team had light practice today, using Yale field, less slushy than the bowl, for signal drill, kicking and passing. Clouded skies promised rain for the game.

SWIMMING TO BE VARSITY SPORT AT ACADEMY

Swimming is to be recognized as a varsity sport at the Academy, according to an announcement Friday after a meeting of about 20 boys had been held at the school to make arrangements for the campaign. John P. Murphy, a graduate of Holy Cross and who is enjoying success with the cross-country squad, will coach the team.

Meets are to be scheduled with leading schools in New England and some have been tentatively booked at present with Plainfield, Hartford and Springfield Central highs.

Among the most promising candidates are Fat Stevens, Tommy Lynch, Walter Sura, Mike Abugie, Bob Geer, Charlie McNamara and Billy Potter.

First practice will be held in the Y pool in about two weeks, or after the football season closes. The Y pool is expected to be used for all home meets. For the present, those candidates not on the football squad will be given conditioning exercises by Coach Murphy.

ILLINOIS FAVORITE TO BEAT ARMY TODAY

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 8.—(AP)— The Army gridiron forces, led by Captain Red Cagle, encamped here tonight on the outskirts of the opposing stronghold, ready to battle Illinois tomorrow in the first intersectional warfare with a big ten team in 24 years. The soldiers will play the western conference champions before a crowd of 65,000 in the Champaign stadium.

In the Pullman car comfort of a special train, the squad of 39 husky West Pointers completed the jaunt of about 900 miles early this afternoon, in time to enjoy a snappy workout under Head Coach Biff Jones, display an appetite that would make a longshoreman envious and manifest sophomoric enthusiasm at a motion picture show.

Except for a patched up left eye of no less a warrior than Captain Cagle himself, the squad arrived with every indication of being in good condition, as well as confident spirits. Cagle's eyebrow was decorated largely for protection of a slight cut. Wendell Bowman, quarterback, who was injured early in the Harvard game, has been dismissed from the casualty list and will call signals for the first time since the battle of Cambridge.

"The boys realize they are up against real competition," said Jones. "I expect them to make a good showing but Illinois has a more experienced team and figures to be favorite.

"From all reports I have had, Zuppke has a fast set of backs with a seasoned line, strong from end to end. I expect to see a lot of passing and if Cagle gets the range we will have at least a chance to win."

Over at the Champaign Country club, Bob Zuppke put the finishing touches to his team's drill and indicated the versatile "Frosty" Peters, out of the game for some time with a cracked rib, will be at quarterback tomorrow. With Fritz Humbert, plunging fullback also in shape, the Illinois have Walker and Timm to round out their strongest ball-toting four, with capable reserves in Mills and Yanuskus.

The game will be broadcast over a network of the National Broadcasting company. Kickoff is at 2 p. m.

HARVARD-MICHIGAN GAME TODAY NOT IMPORTANT

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Harvard and the University of Michigan will meet tomorrow in their first football clash in 15 years. Close to 90,000 spectators will be in the Michigan stadium although the game will have no significance other than the renewal of an old rivalry and the first appearance of a Harvard football team west of the Alleghenies.

The Crimson warriors worked out in the stadium here today and tonight retired to the Oakland Hills Country club where they will remain until just before game time tomorrow. The Michigan squad also will spend the night at a country club.

Both teams have been beaten in previous engagements, Harvard losing to Dartmouth while the Wolverines have been trampled on by three big ten teams, Purdue, Illinois and Ohio State.

There will be at least 12,400 Crimson supporters in the stadium tomorrow, that many tickets having been sold by the Harvard Athletic association. The Harvard band will be present.

Michigan has met Harvard on the gridiron on four occasions, beginning in 1881. The Easterners won each of the contests by small scores.

GEORGETOWN SQUAD HAS DAY OF COMPLETE REST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Rest was the rule for the Georgetown squad today by way of topping off preparations for one of their hardest clashes of their season with the Navy at Annapolis tomorrow.

Their cleats had been digging into the turf at topspeed all week, with emphasis placed on tricky plays built around Johnny Bozek, the 145-pound halfback from Manchester, N. H. With the President and Mrs. Hoover ready to be on hand at the 50-yard line, plans were set for virtually the entire Georgetown student body to journey to Annapolis as well as rooters for both the rivals.

Coach Lou Little has been spending time drilling Captain Jim Mooney in his punting, and developing cross-check plays so a surprise might be held in reserve.

90. MANCHESTER BEATS N. L. BULKELEY, 12 TO 6

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 8.—South Manchester high defeated the Bulkeley Tigers here this afternoon, 12 to 6, in a hard-fought game. The Orange and Black, who meet Chapman Tech and Norwich Free Academy in their next two concluding engagements, have now lost five and tied two games.

One Change In Penn Line

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8. — (AP) — Coach Lou Young has decided to make only one change in his lineup when the University of Pennsylvania meets Penn State tomorrow. John Olson, of Brooklyn, will start at right tackle, instead of Curtis Morris, of Bridgeport, Conn.

PLAINFIELD NOSES OUT DODGERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Nov. 8.—Led by Bill McElwain and Kasper, who accounted for 17 points between them, the Plainfield Pros won a hard basketball tussle here tonight from the Brooklyn Dodgers, 25 to 22. As may be seen by the score, the game was close throughout and at no time did either team have what might be considered a commanding lead. Although Plainfield outplayed the visitors in the first half, the Dodgers came back strong in the second half to cut into the seven-point lead that Plainfield had at the end of the first half.

McElwain played a brilliant passing game, as did the remainder of the Plainfield club. His uncanny eye for the basket from the foul line accounted for 5 points for the Pros. The Dodgers also played a brilliant game, Gilkinson, a former Celtic player, and Clough starring.

In the preliminary, the Buddies nosed out the LeClair All Stars in another nip and tuck game, 24 to 22. The summaries:

And now we come to another Saturday with its football games.

From weather conditions it looks like the vote would be heartily in favor of raincoats rather than raccoon coats.

Still there are those who will feel that a football game is not a football game unless they are wrapped in a fur coat about four sizes too large for them.

I don't know what Norwich people will do for their football this week-end, there's not much in sight that will draw 'em away from the radio into the rain.

The best bet is the Brown-Dartmouth at Providence. Looks like it would be a pretty good game even with Al Marsters out of the fray. The absence of Marsters and Clark puts the two teams on an even footing.

However, I'll stick with Dartmouth to nose out the Bruins by about one touchdown. In making this choice I'm not counting on any dumb plays like last week.

The Connecticut Aggies meet New Hampshire in the big game of the season. This ought to be a good contest at Storrs. Here is another close game with the Aggies having the shade by a point or two.

Another contest within traveling distance of Norwich is the Wesleyan-Williams game at Middletown. This is a Little Three game. Another close game and here we pick Wesleyan more through sentiment than comparative scores, which favor Williams. Billy Tirrell plays with Wesleyan, which probably influences our choice.

In the Yale-Maryland game we would back Yale to take over the Maryland team if Booth gets into the fray, Maryland beat Yale last year and may give a good account of themselves.

Of course there are a number of other contests in the east. We pick Holy Cross to swamp Boston university, Columbia to beat Colgate, Navy to shade Georgetown, Georgia to take N. Y. U. In the intersectional games, we would say that Michigan should nose out Harvard and the Army would win from Illinois, but not by much.

We shall see, what we shall see.

INTERSCHOLASTIC RUN MONDAY AFTERNOON

The annual cross-country of the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic conference will be fun off between the halves of the Westerly-Stonington game at Westerly Monday (Armistice day) afternoon. Teams representing Westerly, N. F. A., Bulkeley, Chapman Tech and Stonington will compete.

PRES. HOOVER WILL SEE ACCUSATION OF SUBSIDIZING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—President Hoover will see his first football game since he took office when Navy and Georgetown play in Annapolis, tomorrow.

Although a football fan, the president has had no opportunity to see a game until this time. He will sit on the Navy side.

The trip to Annapolis will be made in white house automobiles and the party will include only members of his immediate official family at the executive offices.

A brief military ceremony will be held in his honor on arrival at the naval academy, after which he will go to the home of Rear Admiral S. S. Robinson to be received formally by Secretary Adams.

The last football game the president saw was that between Stanford university, his alma mater, and the University of Washington shortly after his election last fall. The game was played in Stanford stadium at Palo Alto, Cal.

This is the second time this fall that the president has left Washington to attend a sports event. Last month he went to Philadelphia to witness the closing game of the world series between the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Mrs. Hoover will accompany the president.

DARTMOUTH ON SHORT END IN BROWN GAME

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Dartmouth football team, minus its brilliant Al Marsters and accompanied by only a few supporters, halted here tonight while en route for Providence and the farewell game with Brown.

The Indians, slated to start as underdogs in their 24th clash with the Bruins, planned to make an early departure for Providence tomorrow. The Green team has not recovered from the battering it received in last week's Yale game and Head Coach Jackson Cannell has not been able to do much with his offense this week, having only two days for practice.

He has succeeded in shifting his attack about so that all of the backs receive the ball directly from the center. In all of the other games this season, Marsters was the key man on every play.

The Dartmouth line, however, remains intact and this will be the Green's strongest point.

MARTINS PLAYS RETURN GAME WITH JEWETT CITY

It is hoped that a large crowd will turn out to watch the soccer game on the J. B. Martin ground on Sunday afternoon when the local team is scheduled to play a return game with the fast Jewett City team. Manager McCluggage has promised to bring down a strong line-up, having signed up some new men as he is determined to reverse the decision of a few weeks back when the J. B.'s journeyed to Jewett City and defeated them on the Ashland park ground. The locals, anticipating a stiff game, have put in several practice sessions this week and are in tip top shape. Manager Laycock will probably use the following line-up:

Goal, F. Orcutt; rfb, F. Hargreaves; lfb, E. Eccleston; rhb, A. Headon; ch, L. Day; lhb, H. Seidel; orf, E. Erickson; irf, J. Houston; cf, Capt. F. Thompson; ilf, I. Archibald; olf, B. Labenski. Referee, F. Knowles; linesman, A. Puchta. Kick off, 2:30 p. m.

Rocco Kayoes Kirby

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Emmett Rocco, Elwood City, Pa., heavyweight, won by a knockout from Tom Kirby of Boston in the ninth round of a 10-round bout here tonight.

Ted Sandwina, a heavy from Sioux City, Iowa, landed a knockout on Big Boy Peterson of Chicago in the fourth round of another 10-rounder.

Armand Emanuel, a Los Angeles heavyweight, won from Rosey Rosales, a Mexican battler, by a foul in the ninth round of a third 10-round match.

BROWN-DARTMOUTH GAME TOPS LIST OF FEATURES IN EAST TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—High-flying banners of Harvard and the Army will be borne into battle on a western front tomorrow but the rest of the eastern football mighty will combine to provide the home sector with a flock of blue-ribbon battles.

While the golden-jerseyed Cadets of West Point are tackling Illinois and the Crimson cohorts of Harvard are confronting Michigan in games that mark the first invasion of Big Ten territory ever undertaken by either team, the fans of the eastern seaboard will find plenty to shout about at such features as Yale-Maryland, Princeton-Lehigh, Penn-Penn State, Dartmouth-Brown, Colgate-Columbia, Georgia-New York university, Pittsburgh-Washington and Jefferson, Detroit-West Virginia, Lafayette-Rutgers, Boston college-Fordham and Navy-Georgetown.

The fray at Annapolis between the Middies and the Hilltoppers of Georgetown will be favored by the presence of President Hoover, who hopes to see as many thrilling feats as the final game of the late world series produced for his enjoyment. There is no popular favorite in this game, which finds the Navy beaten twice and Georgetown once. The advance dope labels this one almost anybody's ball game.

At New Haven, where little Albie Booth has supplied the Eli Bulldog with teeth, the up and coming Yale is to tackle Maryland without any particular misgivings, despite the memory of a 6 to 0 defeat at the Old Liners' hands last year. Beaten three times and tied once, Maryland takes an unimpressive record into the bowl and is generally conceded little chance to stop rejuvenated Yale.

Princeton in any other year would be an even greater standout against Lehigh but the dreary record of the Tigers, who have not won a game in their last four starts, gives no ground for optimism.

Dartmouth, with its injured star, Al Marsters, now permanently out of the lineup, meets a tough opponent in Brown at Providence. At full strength for the first time since early in the season, the Bruins are particularly anxious to win this game which terminates their rivalry with the Indians for a couple of years at least.

Colgate has cut more of a swath than Columbia's unlucky team and hence is favored, but very little advantage on either side is discernible in the Penn-Penn State, Detroit-West Virginia and Boston college-Fordham affairs. Williams should defeat Wesleyan in their "Little Three" engagement at Easton.

Considerable interest will attach to the doings of the east's two big unbeaten teams—Pittsburgh and Cornell. Pitt takes on a tough defensive proposition in W. & J., but Cornell's not so big Red team anticipates little difficulty with Western Reserve, invader from the middle west.

Syracuse, with little to gain and everything to lose, enters the Niagara contest with the heartfelt hope that the defense against forward passes which cost the Orange the Penn State and Nebraska games has been strengthened, as the Falls team is reputed to be unusually clever at the overhead attack. Holy Cross should trim Boston university.

Some of the best football of the day is likely to be seen at Scranton where Harry Stuhldreher's Villanova team attempts to repeat its victory of last year over Bucknell. Davis and Elkins and West Virginia Wesleyan also should produce a round of fireworks in their game at Elkins, W. Va.

DOCTORS RULE AGAINST MYERS' PLAYING TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—A committee of surgeons today announced that, in their opinion, Dave Myers, Negro quarterback of the New York university football eleven, was in no condition to play against Georgia tomorrow.

The committee's announcement was made after Myers had been examined in the offices of Dr. George David Stewart, past president of the American College of Surgeons, and Dr. Edward A. King of St. Vincent's hospital. Dr. Stewart and Dr. King, with Dr. Michael Teteiman of the French hospital, made up the committee.

In effect, the surgeons declared Myers had suffered a severe shoulder injury and ought not to play against Georgia for fear of possible permanent injury.

The committee's announcement follows:

"Mr. Myers already has damaged severely the acromio-clavicular ligament in his left shoulder and we are of the opinion he ought not to play for fear of permanent injury."

Some days ago the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged that Myers would be kept out of the Georgia game because of his race. After much argument, pro and con, with New York university denying the existence of a "gentleman's agreement" with Georgia that Myers would not be placed in the lineup against the Southerners the college announced that the Negro star would play "if able."

In an effort to combat the avalanche of criticism that descended upon it, the university said it would ask a committee of "unbiased surgeons" to make an examination of Myers. On their verdict would depend whether Myers would get into the game or not.

Myers himself said that he had informed a trainer during the Georgetown game last week that he had suffered an injury to his shoulder. The trainer, it was said, failed to inform Head Coach Chick Meehan and Myers played the entire game.

Dr. Stewart said that Myers might not be able to play again this season. He remarked that in some cases with which he was familiar, such an injury had remained sensitive for many months. The only cure, he said, is complete rest.

PEASE REPLIES TO ACCUSATION OF SUBSIDIZING

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 8.—(AP) — President Arthur Stanley Pease today replied to the accusation of subsidizing athletes recently directed toward Amherst college, at the sixteenth annual alumni meeting here.

He pointed out that the report, compiled in 1926, did not reflect present conditions, but said that the matters criticised were of sufficiently recent occurrence to indicate that colleges must guard against the tendency to subsidize.

"You and I want Amherst to be completely and continuously clean, but it is obvious that while a college can control admission and awards of scholarship, it cannot be in a position to know what single alumni or groups may be doing," President Pease said.

Harvard Beats Yale

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 8.—(AP)— The Harvard class champion, the class of 1932, defeated Yale's champion, the class of 1930, at Yale field today, 26 to 0, in football.

MANY INTER-SECTIONAL GAMES SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The roar of the inter-sectional challenge will be the dominant note in the football clamor tomorrow as the conflict continues along a far-flung battle line.

Army, in the west for the first time since 1926 when the Navy was played at Chicago, is at Urbana, to play Illinois, retiring champion of the Big Ten.

Harvard, also making football history by a trip west, spends the day at Ann Arbor, clashing with the University of Michigan.

In addition to the double meeting of east against west, the south tosses a challenge to the east, when Georgia moves into the Yankee stadium to play New York university, the engagement marking the first appearance of the Bulldogs of Dixie in the metropolis.

The attention of middle west football followers will be only momentarily diverted by the presence of Army and Harvard in their midst, for a game between the home folk will have an important bearing on the conference title, which apparently is about to be vacated by the Illini. Two strong teams meet face to face when Minnesota and Iowa exchange kicks and passes. A defeat by one point has marred Iowa's record but the Gophers have successfully withstood all attacks.

Followers of the game in the Big Six will turn with rapt interest to a game between Oklahoma and Kansas, with the Sooners trying to maintain their record of victory inside their organization.

Utah, moving under continued momentum in its quest for another Rocky Mountain conference championship, must dispose of Colorado college. The contest between the two states of Utah and Colorado grows more interesting as the Aggies meet, too.

On the Pacific coast, the banner event on the card will be the battle between the Cardinals of Stanford and Huskies of the University of Washington.

Two undefeated but tied teams of the east are engaged in Boston with Fordham going against Boston college, interest being increased by the fact that Frank Cavanaugh, Fordham's coach, came to his present assignment from Boston college. Dartmouth and Brown, who will not play next season, say farewell for a time after tomorrow's game. Pittsburgh, undefeated and untied, will play Washington and Jefferson, the Panthers taking the contest with the Presidents in deadly earnest. Other neighbors playing are Pennsylvania and Penn State.

In the south, Georgia Tech, after a disappointing season marked already by three defeats, will go to Nashville keyed for a desperate effort to stop the Commodores of Vanderbilt. The undefeated Kentucky team meets a severe test in Alabama.

Two games of wide sectional interest will pit North Carolina against South Carolina and Virginia Poly against the University of Virginia.

OCKFORDS FACE STRONG OPPOSITION ON SUNDAY

The New London Ockford A. C. football team will play the New Haven Williams team at Mercer field, New London, Sunday afternoon. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m., and is an Eastern Professional league contest.

The New Haven team comes to New London boasting one of the best combinations that has ever represented New Haven. Nine former New Haven Boys' club men, three former East Rocks and two former Branford Laurels have teamed up, with Firpo Huber, a Massachusetts Prep school star tackle; Herr, a University of Illinois tackle; Polo, a N. Y. U. halfback; McLean, from Georgetown, and Appecelli, who was three times all-state fullback. Captain Tom Tookey plays right half and has the reputation of being one of the best backfield men New Haven has ever turned out. This takes into consideration that Albie Booth, the present Yale star, was a teammate of Tookey's two years ago on the New Haven Boys' club.

Against this array, the Ockfords will pit the best from this section of the state. Francis Herbert, halfback, and Oliver Moore, former regular center of the Submarine Base, are Norwich's contribution to the team. John Scroggins, from Noank; Dick Gray, from Mystic, and the Camillucci brothers, from Hudson, Mass., have also been signed to strengthen the New London team.

Walter Rice, former Bulkeley and Roxbury prep triple threat man, will appear in the backfield with the veterans, Fulford and Gadbois. One of Bulkeley's star halfbacks of former seasons, Joe Allen, has been transformed into a quarterback. John Grippo, former Chapman Tech fullback, will see plenty of action Sunday. On the line the Ockfords have fortified themselves with Snyder, Francis Gadbois, Romo Gentilella, Tony Turello, Dick Gray, Oliver Moore, Sam Camillucci and Perry. It was announced that Jumbo Belgrade, who has been playing with Manchester this season, had been signed to play with the Ockfords Sunday. The ends are Fred Philopena, Barney Hutchison, Bruno Camillucci and Bruno Guiliani.

LORD OUTPOINTS JARRETT IN 10-ROUND BOUT

BRISTOL, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Eddie Lord, Waterbury 134-pounder, outpointed Tommy Jarrett, New Haven, 136, in the 10-round feature bout at the armory here tonight. It was a hard fought battle, with Jarrett giving Lord a tough time in the infighting but losing out because of his cautiousness.

In the semi-final, Joe Curry, of New Haven, 131 1-4, won the decision over Jimmy Garcia, Worcester, Mass., 134, in eight rounds.

Other results:

Jerry Emard, Holyoke, Mass., 135 3-4, decision over Pancho Villa, Hartford, 141, six rounds.

Billy Herman, Holyoke, 129, outpointed Kid Carter, Middletown, 132, six.

The first bout, between Ed Skinner, 174, New Haven, and Roy Sanborn, 167 3-4, Hartford, scheduled to go four rounds, was stopped in the second by Referee Bill Conway because Skinner had opened a wide cut over Sanborn's left eye. Conway had the approval in this action of State Boxing Commissioner Thomas E. Donohue, who was present.

Nevada Team In Air

GLENDALE, Cal., Nov. 8.—(AP) — Whatever it does in tomorrow's game with the University of Southern California, the University of Nevada football squad "took the air" today, arriving here 32 strong—in nine airplanes. The flight from Reno was made in four hours and 20 minutes.

HARVARD HARRIERS WIN FROM YALE FOR 5TH TIME

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The Harvard varsity and freshmen cross-country teams maintained their supremacy over Yale for the fifth consecutive year here today, when both sets of Crimson harriers outdistanced their ancient rivals over rugged courses.

The Harvard varsity won by a score of 19 to 53 and the freshman victory was even more overwhelming, 15 to 82.

In the varsity race, Captain Wilson Smith, of Yale, had a 100 yards lead on Ken Hallowell, of Harvard at the half way marker. The Crimson runner uncorked a beautifully timed spurt and passed the Blue leader just 400 yards from the finish. Smith was trailing by 50 yards when Hallowell broke the tape. The latter's time for the five and a half miles was 28 minutes, two seconds.

The next four runners to finish were Captain Aldrich, Fox, Barrie and Burre, all of Harvard.

The Harvard freshmen won the first six places, Wesley ran the three and three quarters miles in 17 minutes, 39 seconds, and he was followed home by Murphy, Captain Foote, George, Hughes and Hayes. Woodland, who crossed the line in seventh place, was the first Blue yearling to finish.

BILLY TIRRELL TO START AGAINST WILLIAMS TODAY

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 8.—(AP)— The "little three" Wesleyan-Williams series—varsity and frosh football and soccer—will be played here tomorrow, both as part of a regular program and as part of the Wesleyan alumni week end program. The largest crowd of the season is expected, despite a threat of rain.

The soccer and frosh games will be in the morning. The varsity football elevens will meet in the afternoon. The Williams' varsity lineup will have Williams and Kipp, ends; Wood and Schwartz, tackles; Gardner and Hulse, guards; Wheeler, quarter; Stevens, center; Brown and Scott, halves, and Langmaid, fullback.

The Wesleyan team, but for Lum, right tackle, out with injuries received in the Amherst game, will be full strength. On it will be Steege and Gray, ends; Sweet and Schwenk, tackles; Eldridge and Coffin, guards; Miller, center; Blakeslee and Tirrell, halves; Millspaugh, quarter and Bagg, fullback. Wilcox and Guernsey will be in as reserve halves.

PACIFIC COAST A. A. U. WITHDRAWS APPLICATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)— The Southern Pacific association of the Amateur Athletic union today withdrew its application for the National A. A. U. track and field championships for 1930.

The coast association's formal application was to have been acted upon at the A. A. U. convention at St. Louis Nov. 17, 18 and 19.

The coliseum at Los Angeles in which the championships were to be held is to undergo alterations for the Olympic games in 1932 and the work, which has just started, will not be completed for at least nine months.

The withdrawal of Los Angeles leaves the field open for the 1930 championships. Lincoln, Neb., and Cleveland, Ohio, already are in the field for the 1931 event.

ACADEMY HARRIERS DOWN AGGIE FRESHMEN, 18 TO 46

With George Lambert, the Academy's star freshman runner adding another first place to his record in convincing fashion, the Academy cross-country team gave the Conn. Aggie freshman runners a decisive trimming Friday afternoon at the campus. The count was 18 to 46. The first three runners were Wildcats: Lyons, second and Szarca, third, the latter showing a great burst of speed at the finish to gain his place. Beebe, of N. F. A., was fifth with Richardson seventh, Levitsky, eighth and Lenkiewics, ninth.

Lambert's time was 13 min. 6 2-5 seconds, just a trifle short of the course record, which is 13 min. two seconds.

PROVIDENCE COLLEGE PLAYS COAST GUARD ACADEMY TODAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 8.—With memories of the tie game of last year as an incentive the Providence college football squad, 33 strong, will invade New London tomorrow for its annual clash with the Coast Guard eleven at Mercer field in what promises to be one of the best small college games of the day. The two outfits battled to a 6 to 6 decision here last fall, and it will be practically the same eleven which will take the field for the Friars as faced the Cadets last campaign.

BROWN AND DARTMOUTH TEAMS REST IN MASS.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Massachusetts became the scene of the armed camps for the Brown-Dartmouth game tonight, when the Brown varsity squad of 20 men moved from this city to Attleboro, while Dartmouth was entrenched in Boston. Both teams will move to Providence tomorrow morning at an early hour.

Coach McLaughry sent his team through a light signal and play drill, while Coach Cannell elected to rest his Dartmouth squad in Boston.

Swiss-German Team Leads

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Lapping the field just before the close of the 24th hour, the Swiss-German team of Emilio Richili and Willie Reiger, jumped into the lead in Chicago's 22nd six-day bicycle race tonight.

The spirit of Richili and Reiger broke the four-cornered tie for the lead which had existed all day, and gave them total mileage of 392 miles and six laps, a lap better than the teams of Spencer and Debates Beloni and McNamara, and LeTourner and Brocado.

The Swiss-German pair is making its first appearance in America but ranks among the best in Europe.

AGGIES CONFIDENT OF WINNING OVER WILDCATS

STORRS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Connecticut Aggies will go into the game with New Hampshire here tomorrow, confident of victory, though its line is weaker than the one which held the "Wildcats" to a scoreless tie at Durham last year.

The confidence this year is based on the record of four games won out of six played and the fact that Ryan, three letterman, who has been out because of injuries, and Lamoureux, star in the game with Vermont, will be in the line. The visitors, who will have a strong team, are expected to put up a good struggle, however.

CLARK'S SOIL IMPROVEMENT PROGRAMME TOOK PRIZE

County Agent Walter T. Clark of the New London County Farm bureau, whose programme of soil improvement has won him a prize in the contest sponsored by the National Fertilizer association, will have a trip to the annual meetings of the American Society of Agronomy in Chicago, Nov. 12 to 16.

The Connecticut program was one of liming for crops requiring it, reenforcement of manure with superphosphate, growing of more legumes, adequate fertilization of corn and hay, pasture soil improvement and re-seeding, proper fertilization of cash crops, drainage, green manuring for vegetables and correct management of fruit trees. A few of the methods used in carrying on this program are publicity, meetings, demonstrations, visits, soil testing, tours and co-operation with dealers.

Some of the results of the program in New London county are: Liming increased from 400 to 1,950 tons in four years; superphosphate used for re-enforcing manure increased from 50 to 223 tons; alfalfa and clover seedings greatly increased; use of fertilizers more intensive; pasture improvement with fertilizers increasing; more green-manure crops grown, and fruit now better fertilized.

NORWICH BOYS GOING TO YALE-MARYLAND GAME

About 150 Norwich boys will be hoping for fine weather this (Saturday) morning to give them a promising start to see the Maryland-Yale game at New Haven.

That is the number who will be assembled at the Y. M. C. A. at 9 o'clock this morning prepared to accept the transportation to the game which is to be provided by 25 automobile owners who have volunteered for this service in order to give the boys the chance to see the game in the big Yale bowl. E. H. Davis, boys' secretary, said Friday night that the prospects of rain promised to make quite a problem, in case some of the car owners don't want to drive in the rain and he might be able to use two or three more cars than those already promised.

It is planned to get the cars started as close to 9 o'clock as possible, sending them off as fast as their loads are made up and not trying to group them at all, as it will contribute to the safety of travel if they make no attempt to keep together on the way to the game.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The republicans were victorious in the city election held in this city fifty years ago for the election of representatives to the legislature. A very small vote was cast. The republicans chosen were John P. Barstow and Increase W. Carpenter. The democratic members who were defeated were N. Douglas Sevin and Horace A. Briggs.

Other interesting extracts taken from the files of the Norwich Morning Bulletin are in part as follows:

Monday, Nov. 3, 1879—The democrats of Preston held their caucus for the nomination of representatives to the legislature Saturday evening and the following were nominated: For first representative, Charles A. Burdick; second, Seth Main. The republicans named William Burton for first representative and Nathan Ayer for second.

WESTERLY

PLANS FOR ARMISTICE DAY INCLUDE MORNING PARADE

For Armistice day in Westerly Monday, arrangements are in charge of the British-Colonial Great War Veterans. Plans were perfected at a meeting held on Thursday night when Colonial Veteran Harry Long presided. The anthems to be sung at the memorial services in Wilcox park and at the West Broad street memorial will be furnished by a quartet, the members of which have volunteered their services. Attorney Samuel H. Davis will be the speaker at the Pawcatuck memorial services and Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, pastor of the Broad Street Christian church will speak at the services in the park.

Parade at 10 O'clock

The time of the morning parade has been changed from 10:30 as originally announced to 10 o'clock. The parade will start from Broad and Elm streets. Wreaths will be placed on the Pawcatuck Memorial and the Hiker Memorial in Wilcox park by members of the women's auxiliaries.

Marshal Long will have as his aids Shelby C. Nicholas of the Spanish War veterans, George Harris of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and John B. Taffon of the American Legion.

All Gold Star mothers have been requested to communicate with some member of the committee or the Legion headquarters and an automobile will call for them and return them to their homes. All veterans, whether members of any of the organizations or not are being urged to be in the parade.

Factories to Close

The sub-committee appointed to confer with the merchants and business establishments concerning closing has reported that the Merchants' association has voted to recommend that all stores close for the entire day. Of the factories, the C. B. Cottrell plant and the Thread mill have announced that they will close down for the day, but the other factories are undecided, most of them expressing a willingness to abide by the decision of the majority.

The football game between Westerly and Stonington high schools will be played in Westerly in the afternoon.

The committee voted to express thanks to the members of the Merchants' association for the consideration given their request.

The fire departments of Westerly and Pawcatuck will be asked to sound the fire alarms, one to give the signal at 11 o'clock and the other to sound two minutes later. During those two minutes citizens of Westerly will be asked to remain silent in tribute to those who gave their lives for their country. All traffic on the streets is expected to pause during this period and men and women are expected to cease from whatever occupation they may be engaged in.

At a meeting of the Westerly Central Labor Union in Granite Cutters' hall the delegates voted to endorse the recommendation of the local war veterans relative to the places of business and manufacturing plants closing for the day.

In the Third District Court

Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Third District court Friday morning disposed of matters as follows: New writs entered—A. M. Gencarelli and Co., Angelo Gencarelli and Frank Sposato, vs. Frank Cella of Pawcatuck. Book account to collect $135 alleged due. Manchester Nurseries, C. E. Wilson & Co., vs. Linwood H. Johnson, book account for $13.50.

Criminal docket—State, James E. Holliday, member department state police vs. Edith R. Mazotta, East Weymouth, Mass. Attorney John J. Collins for the department of state police in the alleged reckless auto driving case, stated that, awaiting the arrival of witness, he desired the case passed temporarily. It was later taken up. Attorney Sullivan of Boston representing the defendant. State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. Albert Fraser. Continued two weeks. vs. Charles E. Mack. Ready.

Civil docket—McCaskey Register Co. vs. John A. Tillinghast. McCaskey Register Co. vs. Economy Garage, both continued one week. Flore Pignataro vs. Frank H. Bliven. Ready. John O. Mills vs. Arthur Faverio. By agreement of attorneys judgment entered for plaintiff, to recover $10.65 and costs. Charles A. Odell vs. James Ferraro and Frederick P. Babcock vs. E. S. DePeldon, both continued one week. Utilities Co. vs. A. L. Panciera and Utilities Co. vs. Harry Peckham, both continued two weeks. Jerry Dotolo vs. George L. Edwards. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim.

Trial of Criminal Cases

The trial of criminal cases occupied the entire morning session of the court Friday and trial of civil cases completed the afternoon period.

In the case of State, T. E. Brown, vs. Charles E. Marks, for support of wife, Mrs. Marks of 86 Elm street testified that she had received no financial assistance from her husband who had gone to Pawtucket. She told the court that he drank to excess. The defendant, formerly employed at the Geo. C. Moore plant, denied that he was a heavy drinker at the time and said that he had been to Rochester, N. Y., Jersey City, N. J., Bridgeport, Ansonia, Providence and Pawtucket to secure work. He said that he had left home because of visitors who came to his home, which fact was denied by his wife. He admitted his willingness to support his wife in Pawtucket. The case was disposed of at a recess session in a conference in chambers between parties.

Woman Driver Fined $50

After a lengthy hearing, Edith R. Mazotta of East Weymouth, Mass., was found guilty of reckless operation of her auto on the Noose Neck Hill road, in Ashaway, on Oct. 11, colliding with the automobile of Howard Wright of 12 Longfellow street, Pawtucket, the defendant's automobile being overturned. She was fined $50 and costs. Witnesses for the state were Miss Mae Mulvey, a friend of the complaining witness, State Trooper James E. Holliday.

STONINGTON

SPLINTER TAKEN OUT AFTER SEVERAL YEARS

Fred Spencer, of Stonington, had a splinter of wood that has been there for several years, taken from his right hand by Dr. Taylor Wednesday. It was an inch long and an eighth of an inch square. Mr. Spencer met with an accident several years ago while swinging a painter's stage. The wound healed and caused no trouble until a few days ago.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

The Other Days.

"Backward turn backward," O Time in your flight,
Make it all seem but a spook-haunted night;
Five-cents for sugar and eggs twenty-four;
Bring back the days when barbers cut hair
For twenty-five cents and considered it fair;
Backward across the past seven years' leap,
Make living cheap again—make living cheap.

Backward, flow, flow backward, O Tide of the years!
We are weary of striving to please profiteers—
Toil without recompense, hoping in vain.
Daily new burdens to add to the strain;
We have grown weary of trying to pay
With no chance of cutting a dollar away.
Bring back the days when existence was cheap.

Taxes have come, through the years that have flown,
We figure and worry and mumble and moan;
The exemptions we get for our children we use
In six months or less to provide them with shoes;
We hardly recover from our racking pain
Before there's a boosting of prices again;
Backward, O Time, let the pendulum sweep
To the days when the cost of existing was cheap.

Our clothes have grown thread-bare and ragged and old;
Our Liberty Bonds at a discount are sold
To pay for the stuff that they tell us is coal;
They are steadily crushing us body and soul;
If we say it is wrong they get angry and shout,
That unless we can like it we ought to move out,
Carry us backward tonight, while we sleep,
To the halcyon season when living was cheap.

November.

Autumn lurches down the year,
Like a crone who's lost her way.
How the rasamuffins jeer.
How the rude old people near
From their curtained homes today!

Naughty white chrysanthemums
Follow in her roistering train.
Laughing at her strange disaster.
Flaming sumac and pink aster
Scoff and nod amid the rain.

She is old, and worn, and tired:
She has lost the joy of life,
All she hoped for and aspired
Now is gone. No more required,
She is a discarded wife.

Yet behold that ancient flame,
Burning in her tragic eyes!
Gold of dreams without a name,
Something sweet she cannot tame,
Rising upward to the skies!

My Cellar Shelf.

For queens may have their jewels fine,
And costly gems to share;
But they cannot more brightly shine
Than those, I will declare,
On basement shelf, line upon line,
My jams and jellies rare!

The pickles are exotic jade,
The grape is amethyst,
The cherries brilliantly arranged
Are rubies, I insist;
And tiny onions masquerade
As pearls within a mist!

The gold of apple and of pear
Is scattered through the store—
What richness this! No millionaire
Could surely wish for more!
So cellar shelves I scan where'er
I think that I am poor!

NATURE

Dear Editor and Friends: Autumn in its last stages is the crowning period of nature and the fulfillment of man's summer toils.

In springtime, when the frozen earth returns to life after its winter slumber and we note the fallow ground, also the tiller of the soil, man the sower of seeds going forth with a lavish hand presents a gift of precious seeds to mother earth and as she receives it the offering is clasped in a warm embrace endeavoring to meet the requirements of the great laws of nature. The little seed soon begins to show signs of life, taking root in the parent clasp and with an upward push of nature's force breaks through its enclosure to the light of day. Watered by the rain and dew, warmed by the sunlight of heaven and cared for by man, the little seeds of various kinds, all of which governed by the same laws of nature, grows to vine or stalk and when the warmer days of summer approaches visible signs of development are seen true in color and shape to its parent seed.

The growing grain is waving in summer breezes, are drawing to the fulfillment, man the sower of seeds with pardonable pride views the efforts of his labor. But sometimes on the home run before the goal is reached the products of the soil are caught by Jack the Nipper and man's labor has been in vain; but as a rule nature provides the allotted space of time for ripening at the close of the process, mother earth graciously yields her abundant increase up into the great storehouse of autumn and the transformation of a little seed life is then complete. BUSY WITH THE HARVEST.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is a long time since I wrote but I have not forgotten the Corner and it is the first thing I read when Saturday's Bulletin comes.

I have been real busy since I wrote. Harvesting and canning and caring for the sick and all takes time these short days. Last week I spent three days visiting with relatives in the historical town of Lebanon and rambled through the woods and took long hikes and just had an enjoyable time. Sunday we were invited for dinner in Rockville and went. Although it rained we enjoyed the trip.

How many of you have thought about Christmas gifts? I have made a few. Perhaps some of you think it is early to think about it, but it will be here soon. I am expecting to go to work soon and am getting odd jobs and all work caught up so as to be ready when called. I am sending recipe for ointment, which is very nice and hope others will benefit by it.

Ointment Recipe: 1-2 pound vaseline, 1-2 pound mutton tallow, 2 oz. camphor gum, 2 oz. turpentine, 1-2 teaspoon carbolic acid. Bee's wax size of walnut or enough to make ointment firm. Melt altogether, put in small jars.

May you all have a happy Thanksgiving and may God bless all the sick and shut-ins and those in trouble is the sincere wish of

THE PILGRIMAGE TO CLARA BARTON'S BIRTHPLACE

Dear Members of the Social Corner: One of the sisters asked for an account of the pilgrimage to Clara Barton's birthplace, by members of G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Union Veterans of Civil war, 1861-65, and others, on Oct. 27, 1929.

Our car left Norwich at 11 a. m., traveled the northern trail to Putnam and just beyond Mechanicsville we turned right, and drove through Thompson, Conn., a town of beautiful homes, over "Brandy hill" and past the lovely lake at Webster, called for short "Chargogagogmanchogagogchabunggungamaug." Its full name would send this letter to the waste basket in a hurry. Through Oxford, Mass., to North Oxford, we went and following directions given by a friend in Oxford, we traveled a good country road, until I saw "Old Glory" waving a welcome to us, from a flagstaff on a hill, just back of the old farm house. Several cars with their "pilgrims" were there ahead of us, so we joined with them and ate our lunch out of doors in the lovely yard. After that we explored the house, a one story structure, with a large, square room each side of the front hall, all furnished with beautiful old fashioned furniture. We saw the room Clara Barton was born in, her baby chair, a doll pincushion, one of her treasures, and the desk she carried through the Civil war was the one we were asked to register in. The fittings of the home were in perfect accord with a house of its type, old china, a piece of an old linen bed-spread (one of Clara Barton's mother's) a spinning wheel, and yarn winder attracting much attention. I believe the Universalist Society of Massachusetts owns the farm and has a girls' camp there in the summer. It is in the care of a capable care-taker and we were shown every courtesy. The exercises of the afternoon were held on the hill under the flag. The "D. Louise Drum Corps" of Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, Daughters of Union Veterans of Civil war 1861-65, with Scout Edward Jordan, bugler, led the way, with members of G. A. R. Comrades Curran and Whiteman, members of W. R. Corps, Sons of Veterans, Daughters of Union Veterans and friends following. The singing of America opened the programme. Miss Florence Hoffman, president of the tent, gave a word of welcome. Judge Barnes spoke for the G. A. R., Miss Lillian Bailey for the W. R. Corps, Charles Coit for the Sons of Veterans and D. Louise Atterbury for the Daughters of Union Veterans. Mrs. Helena M. T. Church read an interesting paper on the life and work of Clara Barton and said it was very appropriate that members of Clara Barton Tent, No. 7, D. of U. V. should make this pilgrimage. After singing America, the Beautiful, we all drove back to the Oxford cemetery, where a programme was given at the tomb of Clara Barton.

The singing of Nearer, My God to Thee, a few words by Rev. C. H. Ricketts of Greeneville preceeded the placing of a beautiful wreath of red roses and laurel on the grave of Clara Barton by a grand niece of Miss Barton, Mrs. Olney of North Oxford, who thanked all for the love shown the memory of her ancestor. She said Miss Barton was very fond of the red rose and it was appropriate that we should have chosen that flower for our tribute. With a final hymn, Onward Christian Soldier, the benediction by Rev. Mr. Ricketts and taps by Bugler Jordan the exercises closed and another red letter day in the Daughters history came to a close.

I hope the sister will enjoy this account half as much as I did the day, and that was wonderful. Best wishes to the Corner. GACK

THE GLORY OF THE AUTUMN

Dear Social Corner:

"Leaf after leaf drops off, flower after flower
Some in the chill, some in the warmer hour.
Alive they flourish, and alive they fall,
And earth who nourished them receives them all."

The glory of our foliage is once more a thing of the past, small flocks of belated birds flit among the roadside weeds and our house plants are again ensconced in the sunny windows making us a troublesome comfort for months to come.

But there is one shrub which chooses this season to display its yellow fringe like flowers to the best advantage. The witch hazel begins to bloom in September but is at its best in late October and early November when the leaves have fallen. As for the nut it takes that a whole year to reach maturity, then frosty nights and warm days open the husks and equipped with an interesting mechanism it becomes as lively as a Mexican jumping bean and has the faculty of throwing its polished seed many feet from the parent plant.

Bayberries are another shrub that I associate with the autumn season. When quite a girl I read about bayberry candles and decided that it would be very nice to make some of my own, perhaps I might even sell them. Going up to the ten acre lot where they grew most plentifully, I collected what I believed a considerable supply and borrowing one of mother's kettles placed them in it along with some hot water and set it to heat with the view of melting off the wax like substance which was to compose my candles.

Alas, only a thin little scum of wax arose to the surface not enough even to skim and gone were my dreams of great profits from bayberry candles. Another Mississippi bubble burst. However I did put some of the berries in a little bag and rubbed my flat iron over them as this was said to make a nice polished surface.

I cannot say whether or not this made me a more proficient ironer, but I know that the heated berries gave forth a most delicious odor.

And crushed sweet fern leaves, don't you love their fragrance? Did you delight in opening the fuzzy little sweet fern husks and crack the tiny shells of the seed within?

Penny royal, again a delight to the sense of smell and taste but what an aggravating faculty the leaves have of working under one's tongue.

I always think of the Aunt Jane of Kentucky stories when I smell pennyroyal, those delightful leisurely tales, full of good humor and fine shrewd common sense and pervaded with the fragrance of the delightful old herbs.

Shall we not say with Lucy Larcom,

"I like the plants that you call weeds,
Ledge, hardback, mullein, yarrow
Which knit their leaves, and sift their seeds
Where any grassy wheel track leads,
Through country by ways narrow."

BO PEEP.

CLUB 2 MEETING NOV. 12TH

Dear Cornerettes: I want to have you all who like to attend club meetings in the Buckingham Memorial to remember Club 2 meets on Tuesday, Nov. 12, the day after Armistice day. If Georgette hasn't a program I think poems for Armistice day would be nice so come prepared with something in case no other program is planned. Don't forget the food for the table. Come and bring your neighbor, a friend who would like to join us.

Aunt Susie: Before you read this I, no doubt, will be back home from the basketball game in your home town.

Whirlwind: The G. C. was at our temple this week. Had a nice roof full of visitors. Wish you could have been there. A fine supper.

White Chrysanthemum: Received the surprise cake recipe. Made it and we all liked it. Try this prune cream pie, it's very rich.

Prune Cream Pie: Cook until soft and remove stones in prunes and cut in small pieces. To 1 cup of prune pulp add 1 cup milk, 1 cup sugar, 2 beaten egg yolks, pinch of salt. Bake in one crust like custard and cover with beaten stiff white of two eggs and brown.

Hoping to see a good company on Nov. 12. Visitors from all clubs are welcome.

True Blue: Isn't it your birthday on Corner day. Mine follows soon after yours. CALLA LILY

BRINGING UP CHILDREN.

Dear Corner Members: I have so often been helped by the hints on the bringing up of children, especially boys, that I just wanted to add one that might help someone.

This is the incident which caused me to write. A woman with two boys about nine and 12 years of age entered a street car. The boys could find no seats and loudly shouted this fact to their mother the whole length of the car.

She, however, found a seat and seated not herself but those two boys and prepared to hang on to a strap herself when she happened to see another seat.

I have seen this incident repeated over and over, mother's finding seats for big boys and doing other wholly (shall I say almost criminal things?) for them because of misguided love.

It is a boys' birthright to guard and help a woman and he should be taught this from the time he is old enough to know anything. He should stand at the table until mother is seated, should offer her the best chair if he has it, should carry parcels and open doors for her to pass through. Of course these things cannot come all at once but as the years pass, he should learn to do these things as automatically as he reads or writes. He should find a seat for mother on the car, pay her fare and help her off and on.

We have a boy of nine and though rough and ready at play, how he does enjoy protecting mother and having dad put mother in his care. And how big he feels to be able to buy street car tickets, get transfers and even stand while mother has a seat.

Give a boy his birthright of first learning to protect mother. Then any woman who needs it from him will instinctively get it through life.

HUMMING BIRDS NESTS.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: We notice Royanco is a new member, who is interested in humming birds, and has asked about their nests. It was a pleasure to read of her experience with the little fellows at rest near the bee balm. Thank you for it.

To Royanco and others interested, I want to write to say I have had two humming bird nests, both salvaged after the brood of two had taken flight. While resting in a hammock underneath a large maple tree in our lane one day, I discovered a ruby throat darting about above me, resting for a moment on what seemingly was a knot on the limb. A long ladder solved the "knotty" question. It was a small nest, that from the ground was almost invisible, so well did it blend with the bark of the maple tree.

It was constructed, outside, of small lichens, the kind we see in such beauty upon stones that have remained a long time unmoved, a gray green color, a perfect camouflage for casual observation. The inside lined with milk weed fluff, creamy white and soft. No bird could have a nicer, downier place to be hatched. Two little birds about the size of small bumblebees were all I have found in each nest. Humming birds may lay more than two eggs, but there were two in each nest here. When they had taken leave of these small homes, we cut the branches, trimmed them neatly and presented one nest to the New York (Bronx) society for which we received a certificate of membership, but alas! when our old home burned, July 1923, all our precious papers were destroyed.

The other nest we now have. It is very interesting and marvelous in construction. Will be glad to send it by mail to Royanco for observation and pleasure if she so desires.

USING THE PILOT BURNER

Dear Social Corner: I have been helped so often by timely suggestions but have never happened to see my pet helps here. I cook oatmeal over my pilot burner at night by merely giving it about a minute's start on the gas burner and then set it over the pilot burner. By morning it is all ready to use. I use my double boiler for this.

I have a waterless cooker and I have found by turning the wire rack upside down on the base and placing kettle part (also upside down) over rack, potatoes can be baked in forty minutes with just a tiny fire. You can also bake a pie by placing rack right side up over base and setting kettle part upside down over rack. I find it so much easier than lighting up oven and, cheaper. Pies bake in less time and brown beautifully.

I never hesitate over recipes calling for yolk or white of egg separately as I use remaining part in scrambled eggs or omelet next day.

NEW ENGLAND SUNDAY MORNINGS

Dear Social Corner Readers: Is anything so beautiful as a New England Sunday morning? Just to hear the church bells ringing, watch the golden sunshine on beautiful foliage, listen to neighbors exchanging friendly greetings, and look across the fields to God's acre, where the loved ones rest, those dear souls who founded our town, built up the prosperity we now enjoy, and were always waiting with a kindly, helpful hand to give aid to one or all who sought them in grief or trouble.

My dear friends do you take comfort in visiting there, reading the names of old settlers, and feeling almost as though they were with us once again? It seems good to know there are those left to take a timely interest and pride in the loving care shown to their memory.

I have never attended a Social Corner meeting, but would love to, and when I do, I hope there will be a table devoted to needle-work, recipes, etc., for I think such things are an inspiration. Often a person is talented, not every one alike. Some excel, and I do enjoy looking at quilts, rugs, and useful articles, which may often be made from practically useless, discarded goods.

Recently I had the pleasure of calling on two ladies, who were in the midst of quilt-making. I returned home, and started a log-cabin quilt of white, green, blue and gold strips, using a gold rayon square for center. I now have 24 blocks done and I really think it is the loveliest quilt I have made. All the cloth is just as it is worn, rayon, and I believe the sisters feel as I do. If they make something inexpensive, and have good results, of course they take pride in their work, and if I am at the meetings, I do hope I see many tokens to copy. THE BANSHEE.

A VISIT TO NEWGATE PRISON.

Dear Social Corner Members: I have been enjoying the descriptions of other members' trips to various places immensely and in each instance it was interesting to note what stood out most prominently on that trip in the mind of the writer. For a long time I have been making clippings of various interesting places that I some day hope to visit. It's fun looking them over on a rainy day and planning how you can some day take that trip.

One day in September in company with relatives I visited old Newgate prison in East Granby. If the members have never been there, go by all means, some time. We had a long, beautiful ride through the tobacco sections of Connecticut before reaching Windsor Locks, where we go to the left and west into the very beginning of the Berkshires. The old colonial prison is built on the declivity of Talcott mountain directly over the first chartered copper mine in America. A passage inside the prison walls leads down into the mine and here the prisoners worked and even slept in preference to the rooms above. I think they showed good judgment there for the prison had only barred openings for windows, no means for heating and it must have been awful sleeping through our cold, severe winter nights in this open place with none too many clothes or bedding. Here Washington sent prisoners, tories and others in sympathy with the king during the revolution. It must have been a hard journey in those days to bring prisoners through the long, lonely wooded hills.

The prison was built of brick brought from England and carted from Hartford by ox teams. The first prison, which was burned, was built of logs made stockade fashion. A capable guide takes you around the yards and tells you interesting facts and anecdotes connected with the prison and its inmates. Then we went below into the mine down a steep ladder in a deep well-like hole. I was glad I wasn't an awful fat lady or I might have stuck fast. Passages lead underground hewn out of clear rock to all parts of the prison yard.

On top of the main building that contains curios, is an observation tower. It is beautiful up there, surrounded by hills of redstone formation, Hartford in the distance and the peaceful countryside spread out before us.

There is quite a collection of animals in the prison yard, a small black bear, rabbits, squirrels, raccoon and a small monkey, which just missed my cousin's hat by a hair's breadth, otherwise she might have come home hatless as he seemed to have a propensity for tearing things into shreds.

We took our lunch and ate it beside the walls of the prison overlooking a lovely valley. It was one of the most interesting trips I have ever enjoyed and I haven't told you a quarter of the things to be seen there. We came home feeling a little better acquainted with some of our own state history after all, ought to lie nearest our hearts, and I took out one clipping from my envelope that I have been waiting two years to make use of.

Last week I entertained over the week end an old schoolmate with her little daughter. While they were here we made a trip to the woods for greens and red berries for window boxes in their city home. Little daughter came back with her hands full of treasures, colored leaves, a chip of white birch bark, pretty stones, pine cones and fresh water clams from the edge of the lake, the latter I think mother will not appreciate after a few days in a warm house. These treasures will be talked over and admired for days. This old world of ours is certainly full of any number of interesting things if we use our eyes.

I hope all the members are enjoying this nice weather as I am.

WINTER ROBIN (Club 6).

QUICK COFFEE CAKE.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: First of all, many thanks for my "golden slip". It came unexpectedly, was much appreciated and will come in handily for my Red Cross membership which will soon be due.

Some one may like to try this recipe for coffee cake. I nearly always bake it on Saturday and leave in the pan (granite) to cool, then it takes very little time to re-heat, while coffee is making on Sunday morning.

Quick Coffee Cake: Sift together, twice, 1 cup flour, 1-2 cup sugar, 3 level teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt and 1-2 teaspoon ground cinnamon. Mix to a dough, with 4 tablespoon melted butter, a well beaten egg and 1-2 cup sweet milk. Spread in a shallow pan and sprinkle thickly with sugar and cinnamon. Bake in a quick oven. I hope some try this as it is really very good.

AMERICA AS LOVELY AS EUROPE

Dear Social Corner: First I want to thank the editor for my yellow slip, and to explain why I am so late doing it. I have been away again for five weeks visiting and so missed my paper. Tried to get the Saturday Bulletin in Hartford and Manchester but did not succeed, so I was surprised to find check waiting for me when I returned home.

Almost every day of my visit I was autoing through the country, and surely America is as lovely as Europe. Things and people we see every day we seldom appreciate. Then we cross the ocean we notice so many things that would get a fleeting glance at home.

I was surprised at the controversy over commercializing the Corner. I think Biddy is right, except I don't think one to sell should be in need. It's just they have something to sell that some one else would like to buy. I think selling chances and raffling is just gambling. We have laws against it but every lodge, order and church I know of, do it. I was told "Every one does it so it's all right," and I was a back number, maybe so!

Cretia: Your letter was very interesting. Nets were before my time, but I have some with loops, also with white beads in the center. I keep them and they may come back in style. I used to wear rats and a pompadour about as tall as my face was long and thought I looked lovely. SUSANNA.

WHERE ARE THE MISSING ONES?

Dear Editor and Social corner Sisters: It has been a long time since I have written. What has become of Effie M., Tuny Ann and California Girl? Some time since we heard from you all.

Allara: You have my sympathy. Things will turn out all right.

Am interested in all the talk about commercializing the Corner. Why not help the hostess with the expense. She is good enough to invite us and do for us so why not be fair and share the expense for all her kindness. I for one don't see what harm there is in a sister bringing her fancy work and trying to sell it if she can.

Optimist: Do come to the next meeting Nov. 10th. I have got to help the hostess. Best wishes to all.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

How far should the world be swayed by circumstantial evidence in the judging of a woman's character? That is the burning question which is taken up so thrillingly in the all-talking picture, "Evidence," which is now playing at the Palace theatre with Pauline Frederick, a Norwich girl, starred in the feature role.

How much agony and heartache and misunderstanding has been caused by false estimates which people have made of men and women! How often have reputations been irretrievably blackened because someone saw or overheard something which sounded incriminating! How many lives have been ruined all through circumstances which, in themselves, were innocent enough!

That is what happens to Myra Stanhope, fomerly Lady Wimborne, wife of Lord Cyril Wimborne. Through a tragic prank of fate Myra loses three things, her husband, her baby and her good name. It seems as if she will never be able to recover any of them. It all happened when a rankish and profligate bachelor Major Pollock lured her to an inn on the pretext that she could confer there with her husband with whom she had recently had a slight quarrel. The husband came there all right, but when he saw her there with Pollock, he decided at once that she was an adulteress, and as such, not fit to be his wife and the mother of his son. He stripped her of her reputation and flung her into the world childless and alone.

Meantime, Pollock, true to his nature, had drifted off to Burma until the scandal should blow over. While there he goes thoroughly "native," and for some years finds his pleasure three thing, her husband, her baby with the allurements of a native girl. Then hearing that Myra is back again in London, he pulls himself together, spurns his dusky paramour and takes passage to England. But at last destiny, working silently and slowly in the dark of the long years, spin out a satisfying solution for the affairs of poor Myra Stanhope, even through it can never give her back her lost youth.

Strand Theatre

The Strand theatre, under a new management, last night played to an enthusiastic house. The program was varied and full of humor and action. "Smilin' Guns," featuring Hoot Gibson, is the thrilling romance of a crude ranger, crazy about a society girl at a fashionable ranch. To win her he buys some canned culture and crashes the smart set as social instructor to the cowboys.

Besides this stirring film a new thrilling superserial, "Final Reckoning" with Jack Daugherty was an added feature. A roaring comedy, news and short subject completed the program.

Sunday night the Strand will show John Gilbert in his greatest love story, "Desert Nights." "Desert Nights" is a thrilling romance of the desert where for the love of a beautiful girl a man won out single-handed against murderous bandits. "The Pony Express Rider" with Kit Carson and a new crashing serial "The Black Book" and Aesop's Fables complete the bill.

Armistice Picture at Y. M. C. A. Sunday

In keeping with the spirit of Armistice day the local Young Men's Christian association has arranged to show the specially impressive moving picture feature "The Enemy," in the Gymnasium Sunday at 4 p. m.

The story is adapted from the original play by Channing Pollock—held to be one of the drama's greatest contributions to the cause of peace. It deals with the psychological havoc of war rather than its physical damage—was as it is fought by the people who are left behind.

Paul Arndt, played by Lillian Gish, is loved by two friends, one an English youth, the other an Austrian out is won by the Austrian, a native of her own land, but this does not disturb the friendship between the two boys.

However, war breaks out and because of the love of each for his respective country they become enemies. Carried through the havoc that war wrought away from the firing lines, we find at last a greater understanding—we learn that our enemy is not our opposing nation—but that our real enemy is hate. The theme of the story, teaching international friendship, finds an echo everywhere.

A special invitation is extended to the adult public, and boys and girls 11 to 15 inclusive will be admitted if accompanied by their parents or guardians. None under 11 are expected.

Next Week At Woman's City Club

The November meeting of the Parliamentary Law class will be omitted, the date previously decided upon conflicting with other club activities. The next meeting will be held Monday, December 9, at 4:00 p. m.

On Wednesday, November 13, at 7:45 p. m. the civics group presents Mrs. Warren J. Scott, state director of sanitary engineering, who will tell us "How the State Protects its Drinking Water." This meeting will be held in the club-room at the Wauregan hotel, and is open to the public. Mrs. Scott will be glad to answer any questions that may come up for discussion.

On Thursday, November 14, at 4:00 p. m., Miss Carola L. Ernst will give her fourth lecture in the course on Contemporary European Literature.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS

The regular meeting of Clara Barton tent, No. 7, was held in the Buckingham Memorial, Tuesday evening, with the president, Miss Florence Hoffman, presiding.

It proved to be a busy meeting, the floor work of the ritual being rehearsed in preparation for the annual inspection which will occur at the next meeting. All members are expected to be present then for there will be a reception to the department officers at 5:30 followed by the annual banquet at 6 o'clock, and the state inspector will be present at the regular meeting afterward.

A pleasing report of the pilgrimage to Clara Barton's home and grave was given by the chairman, Mrs. Helena M. T. Church.

After the routine business of the tent, the nomination of officers for the next year took place.

The meeting was closed in regular form by the salute to the flag and singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

B'NAI BRITH

For the B'Nai Brith district conference by the women's auxiliary of the order which is to be held here Nov. 16 and 17 preparation is being made by a committee that comprises Mrs. Abraham Curland, chairman; Mrs. Nathan Gilman, vice chairman; Mrs. Herman Bruckner, Mrs. Casper Graff, Mrs. Samuel Millef, Mrs. Fred Herman, Mrs. Charles Jacobson, Mrs. Mary Rosoff, Mrs. Frank Goldstein, Miss Sarah Novik, Mrs. David Trachtenberg and Mrs. Abraham Levine.

Delegates are expected from New England, New York and Canada, including the cities of Ottawa and Windsor, Canada; Buffalo, New York city and Yonkers, N. Y., Bangor and Waterville, Maine, Manchester, N. H., Boston, Springfield and Salem, Mass., New Haven, New London.

There is to be a reception and tea from 4 to 6 at the Wauregan hotel on the afternoon of Nov. 16 after the arriving delegates have been met at New London by the transportation committee. At 7 o'clock there will be a banquet with notable speakers and an entertainment programme.

The conference will be held at the Wauregan hotel on the forenoon of Nov. 17 and at 1 p. m., the same day a Dutch luncheon will be held at the B'Nai Brith rooms which will be attended by the delegates, members and visitors from neighboring cities. After the luncheon the guests will be taken on a sightseeing auto trip in and around the Rose of New England, finishing the hospitality by conveying the conference members to the railroad stations for their return to their home cities.

Fraternity lodge, No. 743, of New London, has extended an offer of help in entertaining the conference if their help is needed.

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS

The regular meeting of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 15, was held in Buckingham Memorial Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the president, Mrs. Althea Brown, in the chair. It was voted to invite the department officers of the G. A. R., the local G. A. R., the department officers of the Woman's Relief corps and the Westerly, Mystic and Stonington corps to a dinner and meeting on Nov. 22. Patriotic Instructor Mrs. E. Grace Fowler read a paper on the causes of war in honor of Armistice day.

Twenty-three members of Sedgwick corps accepted the invitation of Francis S. Long corps, of Willimantic, to a dinner and meeting on Nov. 6.

Mrs. Grace A. Manning, treasurer of Sedgwick corps, added much to the enjoyment of the meeting by giving two humorous readings.

After the salute to the flag the meeting closed in regular form.

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

Clover temple, No. 8, held its regular session with Goldie Herman M. E. C. in the chair. The meeting opened at 8.15 p. m. with 54 members and visitors from Willimantic, New London, Durham, Middletown, North Haven, Hartford, South Manchester, the occasion being the first official visit of the new grand chief, Nellie Bailey and her staff, accompanied by some of the bi-knights including Past Chancellor Mitchell of Hartford. Speechmaking was in order as is usual at the good of the order. A gift from the temple was presented to the grand chief which was accepted with love and thanks. The usual prize at this time was drawn by one of the visitors. At the previous meeting the representative, Anna Ableman, had a good report from the October grand session. A whist and pinochle is planned for next meeting. The visitors enjoyed a hot supper at 6.30 to which the 54 sisters and brothers did ample justice.

They each voiced the same sentiment that we always look forward to the visit and entertainment given by the faithful few of Clover temple.

FORESTERS

An appetizing Italian dinner prepared by Bruno Pedace was enjoyed by a large number of members of Court Norwich, No. 63, Foresters of America, at their rooms Thursday evening. Past State Ranger Henry A. Congdon acted as toastmaster and called upon the following for remarks, Fire Chief Henry R. Taft, a member of the court; William Ryan, chairman of the membership drive committee, William Smith, chief ranger of Court Wequonnoc, Taftville, Peter Barber, chairman of the fourth anniversary committee and Benjamin Hannes, a charter member of the old Court Sachem. Remarks were also made by Frank and Bruno Pedace.

The committee in charge of the successful supper were William Ryan chairman, Henry A. Congdon, Peter A. Barber Joseph Riley and Louis Sautter.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY

The auxiliary to Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, was held at the armory Monday evening at 8 o'clock. A very satisfactory annual report was given by the treasurer. Various matters for the good of the auxiliary were talked over and planned. The new officers were installed by Past President Mrs. Grace Willey. Cards and baskets of fruit were planned for the disabled ex-service men for Armistice day and Thanksgiving. The next meeting will be on the night of Nov. 18, when a large attendance is desired as business of great importance is to be transacted.

LADIES' AUXILIARY A. O. H.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of Ladies' auxiliary, A. O. H., No. 54, was held Wednesday evening with the president, Miss Nellie McCarthy, presiding. Mrs. M. V. O'Neill, chairman of the Halloween masquerade, reported the affair a financial success. Arrangements were made for a whist and pinochle, the first of the season, in charge of Mrs. Annie Connelly, assisted by Mrs. Mary McCarthy, Mrs. Julia Brock, Mrs. Nellie O'Neil and Mrs. Julia Breen, the scorers to be the Misses Catherine Twomey, Dolly Tobin, Margaret Dwyer and Jane Breen. The prizes were donated by the members.

Preceding the election of officers, Miss Nellie McCarthy, retiring president, thanked the members for their fine cooperation during her three-year term of office. The following officers were then elected: President, Mrs. Catherine Coughlin Sullivan; vice president, Mrs. Julia Breen; recording secretary, Mrs. M. V. O'Neill; financial secretary, Miss Catherine Twomey; treasurer, Misss Margaret Dwyer; mistress-at-arms, Miss Dolly Tobin; chairman of standing committee, Mrs. Annie Brooks; sentinel, Miss Jane Breen, and Irish historian, Mrs. Annie Connelly. Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May was re-elected chaplain. It was voted to have a requiem mass said for the deceased members.

SHEPHERDS OF BETHLEHEM

Rose of New England lodge, No. 62 held a successful whist and pinochle at the home of Mrs. Minnie Smith in Fitchville. The prizes were awarded as follows: In whist, ladies' first, Mrs. Margaret Rogers; consolation, Mrs. Emma Beaver; gentlemen's, first, Mrs. Fulton; consolation, Mr. Webber; in pinochle, ladies' first, Mrs. Herbert Neilsen; consolation, Mrs. Ethel Hosick; gentlemen's first, Herbert Neilsen; consolation, M. J. Duggin. The scorer for the evening was Miss Gladys Wilson. After the card playing refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Smith, assisted by Mrs. Bessie Wilson. The next home card party is to be held with the chaplain, Mrs. Margaret Rogers, on Main street.

COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST

Nevins-Carver circle, No. 1235, held a short meeting Monday evening in Foresters hall and it was voted to hold a banquet on Nov. 12, to celebrate the anniversary of the circle. After the meeting a whist and pinochle was held and a good sum was realized.

The committee in charge expressed thanks to Brother Michael J. Duggin for his help and co-operation with the circle in all the recent affairs which have been so successful. The prizes were awarded as follows: In whist, ladies' first, Mrs. Sullivan, 3-piece toilet set; second, Mrs. Orcutt; consolation, Mrs. Chatterton; gentlemen's first, Mr. Sullivan; second, Mr. Webber; consolation, Paul Colande; in pinochle, ladies' first, Mrs. Marian Bjork, pair of silk stockings; second, Mrs. Hunt, fancy salt and peper shakers; consolation, Mrs. Brown; gentlemen's first, Mr. Heibel, broadcloth shirt; second, Dave Kane. The scorers for the evening were Mrs. Ellen Smith on whist, and Mrs. Nellie Dorr, on pinochle.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

At Toronto, Martin Carmody, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, was unanimously elected second vice president of the International Boys' Work council, at its sixth annual convention held in the Royal Park hotel there for two days the past week. More than 1,000 delegates from nearly all fraternal and benevolent organizations attended the meetings of the council. Among the organizations represented, besides the Knights of Columbus, were Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions, B. P. O. E., Boys' Club Federation, Boy Scouts of America, the Masons, and the Salvation Army. In addition, representatives of Canada and the United States and of philanthropists of both nations were present.

HIBERNIANS

Joseph Nevins, of this city, county vice president of the A. O. H., paid an official visit to Father Joynt branch of New London Thursday night and a large attendance was on hand to greet him. President Nevins spoke of a membership drive which is to be inaugurated throughout the state during the winter months and called upon the New London branch to do its share in recruiting members. John Donnelly, of Bristol, has been appointed to direct the drive, the speaker said. He also announced that the state officers of the A. O. H. and the ladies' auxiliary will hold a joint county installation at Norwich the third week in January.

LEDYARD

The Missionary society held an all-day meeting at the parsonage Thursday with an attendance of 15 members and five visitors. A short business meeting was held. The day was devoted to tying quilts and packing sacks to be sent to needy A. M. A. schools in the south. The members served lunch at noon.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Minstrel Show at Plainfield

Among the features of the Superb Minstrel Show to be presented in Plainfield Community house, Saturday evening, November 9, at 7:30, are latest songs, wonderful choruses, novelty dances, banjo and deoncertina solos, male quartets and a rare grist of jokes. The show will be followed by a dance, led by Leach's orchestra.

The minstrel is a mixed minstrel, in a glorious stage setting, where colorful costumes dazzle, music makes glad and jokes enliven. For months on end, a large group of persons, most of whom have many times appeared in minstrels, have been preparing Saturday's presentation under expert direction and leadership, for the benefit of St. Paul's church.

TRADING SLOWS UP TO NORMAL RATE IN THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. —(AP)— Once more the furore in the stock market appeared to be ended today, as trading slowed up to a normal rate. Price trends were diverse and confusing, but in general the market gave a good account of itself, in the face of considerable profit taking and preholiday selling.

Yesterday's rally was carried over into today's early trading, but after the first hour, leading shares generally began to sag, and the closing quotations presented a fairly even distribution of net gains and losses running to about 10 points, although fluctuations were wider in a few specialties.

Total sales for the three-hour session were only 3,214,650 shares, or less than half yesterday's turnover of 7,184,060. Despite the apparent passing of feverish trading, however, the board of governors of the stock exchange decided to continue through next week the arrangements, begun on Wednesday, of closing at 1 p. m. instead of 3, and all day Saturday. Even with normal trading conditions, it will take Wall street some time to straighten out the thousands of orders that went astray during the recent panicky trading.

Today's performance of the market was generally regarded in Wall street as the most satisfactory since the first signs of panic three weeks ago. While in some aspects it resembled the dull Saturday session which followed the drastic break of Oct. 24, the artificial support then in evidence was notably lacking, and many observers expressed the opinion that the market was once more giving evidence of being able to stand on its own feet. Wall street has been fooled too often, of late however, to have another premature case of optimism, and caution was the dominant theme of virtually all commission house advices.

The day's selling was generally attributed to profit taking by traders who bought stocks "for a turn" at the bottom of the last break, liquidation of stock bought for support purposes, and lightening of accounts by traders not wishing to carry their holdings over the two-day holiday.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Shaken by 5 1-2c a bushel breakdown of the rye market here and with Liverpool wheat showing unexpected weakness, Chicago wheat values suffered sharp setbacks today. Rye tumbled because of evidence that likelihood of United States export business in rye this season has vanished. Announcement of additional loans of government funds to domestic wheat growers failed to act as a counterbalance.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were nervous at 2 3-8c to 3c a bushel under yesterday's finish. Rye closed at 3 1-2c to 3 7-8c net decline, corn 3-4c to 1 1-8c down, oats 5-8c to 7-8c off, and provisions varying from 7c setback to a rise of 10c.

Giving special significance to the fact that the Liverpool wheat market today instead of reflecting yesterday's advance in prices on this side of the Atlantic was showing an unlooked for drop, reports current here indicated that large arrivals of wheat were continuing at Liverpool, and that demand abroad was poor. Moreover, detailed statements were circulated that even should the United States wheat visible supply total undergo between now and May 1 next a shrinkage equaling the largest witnessed in ten years the supply remaining on May 1 would be 140,000,000 bu. an unprecedented big total comparing with a ten-year average of 47,000,000 bu. adding to the handicaps of friends of higher prices. Eastern traders who yesterday were conspicuous on the buying side of the market here became active sellers today.

Treasury Balance

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for November 6 were $2,040,76.93; expenditures $,163,439.25; balance $181,075,133.07.

At four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, a party for members of the junior home-time, will be held at the Community house. Games will be played, a simple supper served and the children started for home by 5:30.

Broadway Theatre

Possessed of the most infectious laugh in the world, and not a bit averse to infecting those about him with the same ailment, Harold Lloyd in "Welcome Danger," his first all-talking picure, which opens at the Broadway today, bids fair to start a violent epidemic of laughter during his engagement here. Known in all his previous pictures as the "king of komedy" Lloyd in this, his first "talkie," adds more laurels to his crown of fame, and succeeds in keeping his audiences in a continuous uproar of laughter and applause. A rather bashful professor of botany in a little school in Boston, he takes a trip to his Frisco home and even before his arrival is mistaken for a famous detective. His efforts to live up to his suddenly acquired reputation, due in part to the fact that his father had been the hard-boiled chief of the Frisco police, lead him into a side-splitting series of adventures, culminating in the unearthing of a den of Chinese smugglers and a seething tong war, with most of the battling in the underground haunts of Chinatown. A dumb cop who is his bosom pal is responsible for many laughs also, and altogether "Welcome Danger" promises to surpass anything that Lloyd has ever done and it must be conceded that he has contributed heavily to the world's humor in his previous screen efforts. Barbara Kent, sweet and winsome, is Harold's "girl" and Noah Young, Charles Middleton and William Walling are also prominent in the big cast. At today's matinee every child attending will be given a Harold Lloyd cloth doll, which will provide plenty of amusement for the youngsters.

BURGLAR TRACE IN NEIGHBORHOOD OF MERIDIAN STREET, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 8.—An attempt, it is believed, was made within the last two nights by thieves to gain entrance to the tea room at 14 Meridian street, conducted by Miss May Flowers. Miss Flowers reported to the police this evening that the lock on the front entrance had been tampered with.

Pastor Loses Watch

Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, is mourning the loss of his gold watch and fob. The clergyman left the church last evening and a short time later discovered the watch and fob missing. Both watch and fob bear the initials "J. R. D."

Joint Installation

The officers of Groton post, No. 114, American Legion, and the Women's auxiliary to the post, were installed at a joint meeting of the organizations, held in District hall, School street, Groton, tonight. Following the installation ceremony, there was a lunch.

Whipple Improving

The condition of Palmer Whipple, of 1 Perry street, Groton, suffering from concussion of the brain and a fractured arm, injuries sustained Wednesday when he was struck by an automobile, is reported as improved at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

Owners of automobiles, who have garages, are making frequent complaints to the police because of other drivers parking cars in the driveway, thereby preventing the owners from driving to the highway.

Mrs. Gilbert Crocker has returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., after having attended the funeral of a relative in New London.

To Observe Anniversary

Bishop Seabury Memorial church, Groton, will observe the 200th anniversary of the birth of Samuel Seabury, first American bishop of the Episcopal church, Sunday, Dec. 1, with special exercises. Bishop Seabury was born in Groton, but was ordained in Scotland.

CORTICELLI SILK CO. ELECTS J. P. ARMSTRONG PRES.

The annual meeting of the Corticelli Silk Co. was held yesterday and the following officers were elected: President, J. P. T. Armstrong; vice-president and general manager, Robert L. Smith; second vice-president and sales manager, H. G. Stine, New York; treasurer, J. P. T. Armstrong; chairman board of directors, F. W. Eaton, succeeding the late Benjamin A. Armstrong; directors to fill vacancies, Robert L. Smith, H. G. Stine and W. E. Eaton.

Unloading Lumber Cargo

Freight steamer Helen Whittier arrived in port shortly after 7 o'clock this morning and docked at the state pier, where her cargo of 1,300,000 feet of western lumber will be unloaded. The arrival of the steamer provided work for 100 or more men, transferring the lumber from the craft to freight cars.

MRS. GLADYS COX, BRIDE, SUICIDES BY INHALING GAS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 8.—A bride of but two months, Mrs. Gladys Cox, 20, wife of Hershel Cox, U. S. Coast Guard, of 30 Federal street, committed suicide early today by inhaling illuminating gas, at her apartment. That Mrs. Cox deliberately planned her suicide there is no doubt, for she left a note for her husband, which clearly indicated that the young wife intended self-destruction. Cox and his bride, who came here from New Bedford, several weeks ago, were married Oct. 7 by Justice of the Peace Charles A. Gallup.

Some time during last night, the young woman wrote the note to her husband. She seated herself in a chair in the kitchen, after having turned on the jet of a gas light, and remained in that position until the poisonous fumes caused her to become unconscious, when she fell to the floor. About 2:30 o'clock, a girl lodger in the Cox home, Vivian Barrier, arrived at the house with two sailors, one of the bluejackets being Edward A. Pushard, a member of the crew of U. S. S. Cook. Leaving the sailors and entering the house, the Barrier young woman detected a strong odor of gas and returning to the street she informed Pushard of her discovery. All the doors to the apartment were locked, but Pushard forced a window, through which he entered, to find the unconscious form of Mrs. Cox on the floor close to the rear entrance. Shutting off the flow of gas, Pushard communicated with the police and Patrolmen Edward Skoczylas and Anthony Turello were sent to the house. Before the officers arrived, Patrolman Frank Philopena, on whose beat the house is located, was notified. The ambulance of Lawrence-Memorial hospital was summoned, but on its arrival at the institution, it was determined that Mrs. Cox was dead.

The note to her husband which Mrs. Cox had written stated that she hoped that he would find her lifeless body and that he was responsible for her act because of allegations that he had frequently made, accusing his wife of too much going about. When questioned by Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman, Cox admitted that he had accused and censured his wife for going on "parties."

Miss Lillian O'Brien, of Groton, is in Boston to spend the week end.

Keith Christianson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Christianson, 175 Parkway, is a surgical patient at Home Memorial hospital. He was recently operated upon for mastoid trouble. His condition is reported as improving rapidly.

Capt. Lionel Conary and Hollis C. Conary, 545 Ocean avenue, have left for Maine, for several weeks' hunting.

MONTVILLE CONSTABLE SAYS SELECTMAN IGNORES ARRESTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 8.—Peeved because arrests he makes are ignored by Ambrose Sullivan, first selectman of the town of Montville, Constable Edmund Mattison made it known at the New London courthouse today that he intended to resign, for he said "they are trying to make a monkey" of him and that he is "sick of such stuff." Mattison has been a constable but two weeks, having succeeded George Sisson, resigned.

This forenoon, Mattison went to the courthouse and requested an interview with State Attorney Arthur M. Brown. That official was seated in one of the offices with a group of attorneys and Mattison at once voiced his grievance against the method of providing law and order in Montville. He said that since he was appointed constable he had arrested three motorists on charges of violation of the state motor vehicle laws and each time First Selectman Sullivan had destroyed the stubs of the tickets, which had been served on the alleged offenders by the constable. Sullivan declared, it was claimed, that he did not intend to cause the prosecution of such offenders as Mattison had arrested. State Attorney Brown informed the constable that the grievance should be taken to the grand juror of the town and not to the state's attorney.

Gordon Erickson, U. S. Coast Guard, Betty Baucher, 25 Fremont street, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Columbia Woman Driver Reckless

Bessie H. Natsch, Columbia, was arrested in Waterford yesterday by State Police Officer William Elmer MacKenzie, charged with reckless driving and will explain in Waterford town court Monday afternoon next at 1:30.

OBITUARY

William J. Winn

William J. Winn, 89, formerly of Bridgeport, died this morning at Odd Fellows home. He is survived by his wife.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the driver's license of Frank Marshall, 26 Maple avenue.

Case Is Nolled

The continued case of William T. Lugenbwel, U. S. Coast Guard, charged with breach of the peace, was disposed of by a nolle being ordered. Lugenbwel was arrested Sept. 5 last, and the case was continued from time to time, until today, when final disposition was made. The only other case tried was that of Peter Donohue, a stranger, who was arrested last night by James Daly, New Haven railroad special agent, charged with train riding. Donohue was given suspension of judgment.

Another mechanic's lien has been levied against real estate on Shaw street, owned by Nicolo and Angiolo Sammataro. The lien is for $152.68 and is brought by Raymond Alexander for material furnished the man and woman in construction work on a garage.

John Persia has sold a one-half interest in the business known as "Mother's Doughnut shop, to George Nicholson.

CINCINNATI AUTO THIEF TAKEN BACK FOR TRIAL

Frank Bayer, Cincinnati, who has been a prisoner at the county jail about two weeks on a charge of being a fugitive from justice, was taken in charge last night by a detective from Cincinnati, who started for the western city with Bayer. There, the latter will stand trial on a charge of automobile theft. Bayer, it is claimed, stole an automobile in Cincinnati and when in New York abandoned it. Bayer eventually arrived in Niantic, where he was employed. The Cincinnati police obtained trace of Bayer and when he was located in East Lyme, the state police were requested to arrest him. This was done and since his arrest Bayer had been a prisoner in the local jail pending the arrival of an officer to take him back west for trial.

Patrolman Penalized

Patrolman Carlos Stone today was penalized on a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer. City Manager Holt ordered Captain Charles A. Pinney to deprive the officer of the latter's monthly two days' absence from duty. Stone was complained against by Joseph Cordesi, a football fan, through a friend, Frederick Benvenuti for a scrap.

TWO UNRULY BOYS TAKEN TO MERIDEN REFORM SCHOOL

Two boys, who appeared destined to become criminals unless placed under restraint, were committed to the State Reform School for Boys at Meriden yesterday by Deputy Judge John McGarry in the juvenile court. The boys were taken to the school by Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. One of the boys, who is but 15, was arrested Wednesday night by Automobile Patrolman Augustus Ray, charged with theft in stealing apparel belonging to a bellman at the Hotel Mohican. The boy has before been arrested on a similar charge the last time during the summer when he stole from two or three residences at the Pequot. The other boy is apparently an incorrigible, for he had refused to sleep at home, and instead, would do his slumbering in automobiles, fields or barns. He was arrested Wednesday by Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey after the police had received a request from relatives because of the boy's acts.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

"Womanless Wedding"

The first rehearsal of the men taking part in the "Womanless Wedding," which is being sponsored by the museum committee of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., Inc., was held Thursday evening and an excellent showing made. The men are hearty in their enthusiasm and this promises to be the funniest affair ever staged in Norwich.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell has been chosen to be the beautiful, blushing bride but the identity of the groom remains a secret. His name will not be revealed until the first night of the play. However, the public is assured he will be one who is prominent and handsome.

The motto of this play is: "If you can't laugh, don't come," so make your plans to be "among those present." It will be presented two evenings next week, Thursday and Friday, November 14 and 15, at the new Masonic Temple auditorium, at eight o'clock. Tickets are on sale at Cranston's and can be purchased from any member of the D. A. R. Mrs. W. Tyler Browne is general chairman and Miss Bulamae Sympson of Bardstown, Kentucky, is directing.

SALESMEN.
An old established, million dollar concern with a nationally known line of advertising service for banks, manufacturers and leading business institutions is enlarging its sales force to meet the requirements of its rapidly growing business. The type of man we want is one who knows from past experience that he can sell, one who knows that he is capable of earning more money than his present position affords and who is interested in stepping up to a position of greater earning possibilities. He will probably need a brief course of intensive training in our line in the field, which we are prepared to furnish at our expense on a temporary basis of nominal salary and commission, after which he will be assigned to an exclusive territory of his own on full commission with weekly remittances. Write or wire us, giving an outline of your experience, age, recent references, etc., and a confidential personal interview will be arranged. The American Art Works, Inc., Coshocton, Ohio. nov9 1t

MARTHA J. BARBER,
Executrix.

GEN. WILLIAM A. AIKEN

On May 14, 1867, Gen. Wm. A. Aiken became a Trustee of the Otis Library of Norwich, Connecticut. On March 30, 1885 he was elected president of the Board of Trustees, which position he has honored until this day, November 6, 1929, when Death has compelled him to relinquish it. During these years of service to the Library, he has built his own life into it. He has efficiently guided its administration through many changes. His has left the influences of his exceptional personality on Trustees and members of the Staff. Through his review have passed most of the books received for use, and these books will long reveal his own catholicity of interests and the high standards of his literary tastes. All responsibilities borne here he practiced with the contagion of never-failing courtesy and assured wisdom. His associates on the present Board of Trustees would express their sense of spiritual indebtedness to General Aiken, whose persuasive leadership in practical affairs and whose endearing qualities of human spirit make them mindful of a Great Gentleman who was a Great Friend.

PRESTON PERSONAL TAX NOTICE
By Virtue of the Conn. Statutes

Statute all persons between the ages of 21—60 residing in the Town of Preston on Oct. 1st, 1929, unless exempted by law are liable to a personal tax.
Exemption from this tax is granted for some service that is being or has been performed in the government service.
All persons so enrolled and included are hereby notified and warned to pay a personal tax of $2 within the 20 days between Nov. 15 and Dec. 14, 1929.
After December 14, 1929, all unpaid personal taxes of this enrollment are by statute raised to $3. All persons neglecting or refusing to pay this tax by Dec. 23rd, 1929, will be prosecuted as the statute directs.
For collecting the above personal tax I will be at the Norwich State Hospital, Saturday, Nov. 16, between 2 and 3 o'clock p. m. and on Monday at the store in Hallville, from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. and at the store in Poquetanuck on the same day from 3 to 5 o'clock p. m.
CHARLES C. ZABRISKIE,
Collector of taxes.
Telephone 3675-5. R. F. D. No. 1, Norwich.
Dated at Preston, Conn., October 25th, 1929.

THE LEBANON PERSONAL TAX

Enrollment of October 1, 1929.
The Connecticut State Statute presumes all persons from 21 to 60 years of age, residing in Lebanon on October 1, 1929, as enrolled for this tax whether or not their names are on the official list; and at any time the Selectmen have authority to add names which have been omitted and to erase names which should not be taxed.
EXEMPTIONS from this tax are granted in return for some service that has been performed, or is being performed, in the government service.
All persons so enrolled and included who have not qualified for exemption in the several classes as provided by law, are hereby notified and warned to pay the Lebanon Personal Tax of $2.00, within the 20 days between November 15 and December 14, 1929.
After December 14, 1929, all unpaid Personal Taxes of this 1929 enrollment, are by Statute raised to $3.00.
No tax bills will be sent, except for $3.00 taxes unpaid on December 14, 1929. After bill and notice, all $3.00 taxes unpaid by December 22, 1929 must be collected by town court or by constable or deputy sheriff, as commanded by the State of Connecticut.
This Personal Tax is a Connecticut Tax and is in no way related to any personal tax assessed or paid at any time, outside the State of Connecticut. Tax receipts from cities or towns of adjoining states are not valid as excuse from the Connecticut Tax, which is based on residence in Connecticut on October 1, 1929, and pays for the year in advance—to October 1, 1930.
Pay at the Lebanon Probate Office any Saturday forenoon or any week day evening from 6 to 8 p. m.
GEORGE E. BRIGGS,
Special Collector of Personal Taxes.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Reddy Fox Looks Foolish.
By Thornton W. Burgess.

Be not too sure; it doesn't pay.
Chagrin may be your lot that way.
—Reddy Fox.

What had become of Peter Rabbit? Reddy Fox didn't know. Mrs. Reddy didn't know. They walked around that little bramble tangle in the Old Pasture, looking it through and through. Peter wasn't to be seen. Neither was any trace of Peter to be found outside that bramble tangle. It was just as if he had turned into nothing at all.

"I hope you are satisfied now that he didn't come out on my side," said Mrs. Reddy somewhat sharply, after Reddy had tried in vain to find some scent left by Peter's feet.

Reddy grinned somewhat sheepishly. "Yes, my dear. I am quite satisfied," said he. Then he added, "I hope you are satisfied that Peter did not get out on my side."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Reddy. "I have been all around on your side and I cannot find the faintest scent of Peter Rabbit. But if he didn't get out on my side and he didn't get out on your side, he must still be in that bramble tangle. Yet my eyes tell me he isn't."

Reddy stood thoughtfully looking into the bramble tangle. He was thinking as well as looking. Then, without a word, he began to crawl into that bramble tangle. The brambles clutched at him and scratched him. Now and then he whined. Once or twice he yelped as a bramble pricked him very sharply. But he kept on. Mrs. Reddy watched approvingly. She knew that Reddy intended to find Peter's scent in there and follow it. He meant to find the answer to that riddle.

It was slow work and hard work and painful work. There were passages through that bramble tangle big enough for Peter Rabbit to pass along easily, but they were too small for Reddy to get through without a great deal of suffering and many scratches. Now, Reddy is one of those who do not give up easily. Having set his mind on getting at the bottom of this mystery, he didn't intend to allow anything like a few scratches and a tear or two in his coat to stop him.

Presently Reddy reached the stump of a little tree in the middle of the bramble tangle. It had been a small tree, so, of course, now it was a small stump. Around it had drifted a little pile of dead leaves. On one side of it was a small rock. It was when he had reached this that Reddy understood the mystery of the disappearance of Peter Rabbit. Between that small rock and the stump was a hole, hidden by the drifted leaves. From outside the bramble tangle that hole couldn't be seen. Reddy put his black nose into that hole and sniffed. It was enough. Peter Rabbit was down in there. Yes, sir that is just where Peter Rabbit was!

Reddy's face looked the disgust he felt. It was of no use to try to dig Peter out, for the roots and the rocks were in the way. Peter was as safe for the time being anyway, as if he were at home in the dear Old Briar Patch. Reddy turned and disgustedly made his way out the way he came in. Mrs. Reddy said nothing, but there was a question in her eyes.

"A hole!" grunted Reddy. "A hole under that little stump. We may as well go home, for we can no more get Peter out of there than we can fly."

So Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy trotted off home, as disgusted-looking a pair of Foxes as ever lived. And down in the hole under the little stump in the bramble tangle, Peter Rabbit grinned as best he could, because of the pain in his leg.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The southwestern disturbance has advanced southeastward to the Texas coast with diminished intensity, and pressure is relatively low and falling off the Atlantic coast. A disturbance of wide extent and marked intensity is moving east-southeastward over the Hudson bay region. High pressure prevails over the Canadian maritime provinces and almost generally over the United States.

There are some indications that the Texas disturbance will move northeastward during the next two days. As a result, rain is probable over most of the Washington forecast district during Sunday.

The temperature will not change materially.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate northeast and east winds, fresh over south portion, and overcast thick weather with rain Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate, possibly fresh, north or northeast winds and overcast weather with occasional rain over north portion Saturday.

Forecast

Eastern New York: Cloudy, possibly rain, in southeast portion Saturday; Sunday mostly cloudy, probably rain Sunday night; not much change in temperature.

Northern New England: Cloudy, probably light rain in south and rain or snow in north portion Saturday; Sunday generally fair; not much change in temperature.

Southern New England: Cloudy, probably rain Saturday; Sunday mostly cloudy, probably followed by rain Sunday night.

TAFTVILLE

The Army and Navy club gave a very successful card party Thursday evening, which was largely attended. After cards, there was dancing. The first prize for ladies went to Miss Alma Dupuis; the second to Miss Eva Dugas, and the consolation to Miss Diana Belisle. Raymond Yerrington won the first prize for gentlemen; the second going to Roderick Molleur, and the consolation to Ernest Gauvin. So successful was the affair that the club is planning to give another in the very near future.

OBITUARY

Lee Heap

After an illness of several weeks, Lee Heap, well-known resident of South Second avenue, died Thursday in Hartford. He was 61 years of age. Mr. Heap was born in Colne, Lancashire, England, and came to this country when a young man. For many years he had been in the employ of the Ponemah mills, and later was with the Lawton Mills Corp. of Plainfield. He was a man who put his home first, but he found time to cultivate friendships and to aid wherever he was needed. His death is a severe loss to the community. He was affiliated with Shetucket lodge, I. O. O. F., of Norwich.

Surviving are his wife; three sons, Harold of Adams, Mass., Edwin and James of Taftville; and three daughters, Mrs. Nell Finlayson of Norwich, and Mrs. Harry A. Greene and Miss Edith Louise Heap of Taftville. There are also two grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. James E. Ringland, of Noank.

Arthur Parent of Shannock, R. I., a former resident of this village, was a caller on friends in town Friday.

Mrs. Abram J. Klassen of Mountain Lake, Minn., is the guest of Rev. and Mrs. William Penner and family of South Second avenue.

WHIST AND PINOCHLE BY O'CONNELL BRANCH

An enjoyable evening of whist and pinochle was held Friday by Daniel O'Connell branch No. 1, in A. O. H. hall with about 20 tables in play. The prize winners were: In pinochle—women, Mrs. Davenport 7410, Miss Irene Wholey 7210, Mrs. Hunt 7280; men, R. Beetham 8070, John Mehrholz 8010, T. Ryan 7160. In whist, Mrs. John McKenna and Mrs. Joseph Fitzgerald, 39, the latter winning first on the cut; Mrs. Elizabeth O'Neil 38; men, Edward Sullivan 46, Mr. Webber 42; Thomas Mara 38. The committee in charge comprised Patrick O'Neil, Michael Duggan and John McKenna.

FORMER NORWICH MAN IS TROY CITY TREASURER

John F. Shannon, a former local man, was among the victorious democratic candidates in the Troy, N. Y., election the other day, receiving the appointment of city treasurer. Mr. Shannon, who was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Shannon, left Norwich about 30 years ago and has for some time been engaged in the real estate and insurance business in Troy. He is a nephew of Joseph Shannon of Broad street and John Murphy, of Broadway.

NEW WHARF AND DEEP CHANNEL FOR DAWLEY YARD AT FORT POINT

The Dawley lumber firm of this city is making extensive improvements involving the expenditure of about $20,000 at its yard and mill at Fort Point on the Thames river, where a new wharf is being built and an 18-foot channel is to be dredged to the wharf from the main channel.

Now that the Thames river channel has been dredged as far as this point to make an 18-foot channel from New London, the lumber company is to make this advantage available by having a channel of the same depth of water to its wharf at Fort Point. Hitherto there has been only a 14-foot channel and as the boats bringing lumber cargoes have all drawn more than that the company has had to lighter all its lumber from New London. With the 18-foot channel the lumber boats can come all the way to the wharf at Fort Point.

The dredging work is to start within a few days. Dredging equipment of the Saybrook Dredging company was towed to the scene of operations Friday by the Thames Towboat company tug Aquidneck. The dredge to be used on the job is now having a new tail shaft and propellor installed at the plant of the Electric Boat company and work will be started as soon as the dredge is ready for commission again.

RESERVES DECISION IN TEN HIGHWAY CASES

Judge Earnest C. Simpson took the papers and reserved decisions on motions to expunge and for more specific statements in each of ten cases brought against State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald at Friday's short calendar session of the superior court in New London.

All were in connection with the ten appeals from the reestablishment of highway boundaries on the Boston Post road in Waterford. The ten cases are brought by Davis, A. Leverone, R. Leverone, Barrett, Denehee, Maynard, Moosbroker, Richards, Smith, Wilson, all against the highway commissioner.

The court granted $10 a week alimony to Phyllis Eccleston Brown against Philip S. Brown of Mystic, pending the trial of the divorce action brought by the petitioner on the grounds of cruelty.

Judge Simpson took the papers and reserved decision in the motions of arguments of demurrer of James Colgrove and Emma Colgrove in the case of John B. Colgrove & Co., against James Colgrove and others.

Motions for disclosure of defense and for judgment in the three cases of the Atlas Realty Corp. against the Commodore Realty Co. and others were continued for another week.

PAPER ON PNEUMONIA FOR MEDICAL MEETING

The November meeting of the Tri-City Medical society, comprising Norwich, New London and Willimantic, was held Thursday evening at Uncas-on-Thames, with an attendance of about 55. Dr. Clarence G. Thompson, the president, welcoming those present, who included several visitors from Westerly.

The paper for the meeting was by Dr. Frederick P. Lord, of Boston, upon "Certain Aspects of Lobar Pneumonia." It was discussed by Dr. Henry F. Stowell, of Hartford, and Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, superintendent of the sanatorium.

Luncheon was served at the conclusion of the meeting. The December meeting of the society will be in New London.

NEMROD GROTTO MEMBERS GOING TO CEREMONIAL

Plans are underway by Nemrod Grotto, M. O. V. P. E. R., to have the local organization represented at the ceremonial to be held at Springfield, Mass., Saturday evening, Nov. 23. The work is to be conducted by Bela lodge of Springfield and a large class of candidates is expected to take the degree. Delegations from various Grottoes in New England will be present.

The local lodge is planning to charter a bus to make the Springfield trip, arranging for reservations through George Wallen. Efforts are being made to have a number of local men take the degree.

FOUR RIBS BROKEN IN FALL UNLOADING COAL

Salverino Gonsalves, 65, of No. 8 Quarry street, a foreman of the Chappell Coal company, is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital, suffering from four fractured ribs and abrasions sustained about 10.30 o'clock Friday morning while unloading coal from a barge at the docks. He is said to have been hurt when the rope he was holding, attached to a bucket of coal, gave way and he fell backwards onto a pile of coal. He was taken to the hospital, where it was found that the third, fourth, fifth and sixth ribs were fractured and he had suffered abrasions. He was reported to be resting fairly comfortable Friday afternoon.

COUPE IN THAMESVILLE IN COLLISION WITH TRUCK

Shortly after noon Friday on Shipping street a Ford coupe owned by Stanley C. Izbicki of Uncasville, was in a head-on collision with a Mack truck owned by the By-Rolly Trucking Co., of Waterbury and driven by Viccenzo Farno of that place. The coupe, which is said to have been driven out of a private drive-way in front of the truck, was badly damaged. The accident was investigated by Motor Patrol Officer Clifford Crary. No arrests were made.

WILL CONTINUE TRIAL IN SUIT FOR $10,000

The $10,000 automobile fatality case of Albert F. Johnson of Pawtucket, administrator of the estate of John P. Burke, late of that place, against Ralph Calvert, New London coast guardsman, will be continued in trial before Judge Earnest C. Simpson and a jury in the superior court in New London next Tuesday.

Trial of the case continued all day Thursday. Burke, it is alleged, was killed in the spring of 1928 near Rope Ferry bridge, Niantic, when he was struck while walking by the Calvert car.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO WATERFORD WOMAN

Louise Horton Caswell of Waterford was given a divorce on the grounds of desertion from William L. Caswell by Judge Earnest C. Simpson at Friday's short calendar session by the superior court at New London.

The case of Winfield M. Sewell against Olive Ball Sewall went off the list, in order that further order of notice may be given the defendant.

On Speeding Charge

Vincent F. Vonflatern, of Woonsocket, R. I., received a summons Friday from Motor Patrol Officer Clifford Crary to appear in city court on a charge of speeding. He drives one of the Providence passenger busses and was driving on North Main street when the officer spotted him.

One Case For City Court

The Norwich city court had but one case Friday morning, a New Bedford man charged with intoxication, who was fined $5 and costs and went to jail to work out $16.75.

LECTURES ON POST-WAR LITERATURE IN FRANCE

French literature of the post-war period was the subject of the third lecture by Prof. Carola Ernst, which was given Thursday afternoon in the Woman's City club room at the Wauregan hotel.

She drew comparisons between writers of novels, dramas and essays, and as usual read selections from several books.

Prof. Ernst named Marcel Proust the best novelist of France. Although a post-war writer, his great reputation had been formed before, but the war gave to existing tendencies a stronger expression. Proust had been a gay youth and had reached a high point of social success when he turned from it all and became an ascetic. Out of all these experiences he has written a work in nine volumes called "The Memory of Things Past," which may be termed a synthesis of modern European civilization, and is really an amazing autobiography. He has explored into the depths, into the soul of man, and has discovered, in the subconscious, unexpected treasures. Realizing that individuals are constantly changing, he has created characters which re-appear after a lapse of twenty years, yet the character has developed in the manner to be expected.

Three important characteristics are discernible in modern literature: Universal skepticism, appaling concentration on the self, and mystic exaltation through art.

Paul Valery feels that expression should be beautiful; a beautiful poem need not be understood at once but it should please eye or ear, and later the brain. He is one who writes of "pure poetry," yet a sense of desolation gets hold of you when you read Valery. Life is a flaw in the pure crystal of nothingness,—a problem is in the center of the labyrinth of the soul. There is more rebellion in Valery than in Proust. Valery understates the desperate need of a certainty.

Paul Claudel, French ambassador in Washington, is the greatest spiritual light of Europe today. Behind Claudel we enter the unknown; spiritual dimensions exceed all ordinary human experience; there is a bewildering light in the soul.

Claudel is difficult to follow,—like the dark stairways in Gothic towers, but he believes that in the hour of blackest darkness light will appear. Life demands our whole soul and a knowledge of God. In his lyrics we see the poet face to face with God in prayer. In his play "Golden Head," he pictures a humanity strong to possess heaven and earth, expresses the failure of this idea and twenty years later, vision is suffused with light. Existence upon earth is like a pilgrimage in search of truth.

A sense of mystery has been rediscovered in Europe; one has called it a religious thrill and nostalgia of the divine. The "nostalgics" are those who suffer for the void in their own souls, lacking a precise faith. Now there is a march upward toward spiritual things.

Abbe Bremond has written many volumes but he does not try to convince you. He reveals the humble faith of peasants; the mystics of France are part and parcel of his characters. One is held by his charm and persuasive grace. His may be called the greatest historical religious work of contemporary literature.

Pierre Hamp belongs to a "left-wing" group of writers; he leaves out the human soul and pictures the world of labor. He writes a novel without hero or plot but upon flax, for instance, and shows how human life is polarized by labor.

Jean Richard Block has given us the epic of race.

Allain is an essayist and spiritual disciple of Abbe Bremond. He has revived the great traditions of the French essay. For a century France has had no great essayists, but a hundred years hence readers will go to Allain,—the man of sense of all time.

ALEXANDER TRIAL TO BE IN NEW LONDON

Claiming that Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander in collecting back taxes in New London had "hewn to the line regardless of where the chips might fall," and that in so doing he had become very unpopular, Attorney Arthur M. Brown, who is associated with Attorney J. James Floyd in defending Mr. Alexander and Supernumerary Charles White in the $10,000 damage action brought against them by Sol Ockoonoff, crippled State street jeweler, made an unsuccessful move to have the case tried elsewhere than in New London, at Friday's short calendar session of the superior court in that city before Judge Earnest C. Simpson.

Attorney Brown said that Mr. Alexander in conducting his now noted tax collection drive had become mighty unpopular and he said a tremendous prejudice had sprung up in New London against him. The lawyer said, that in his mind, the case could not be fairly tried in that city by any jury for he claimed that the very air in New London seethed with hostility for Mr. Alexander.

Attorney Arthur T. Keefe, counsel for Ockoonoff, stated that Mr. Brown's allegations were entirely unfounded for the jury panel is drawn from all over the county. Mr. Keefe mentioned that the tax collector had seen fit to go to this city for counsel and he pointed out that Norwich is the birthplace of Alexander.

Judge Simpson said that he could see no necessity for hearing the case elsewhere than in New London so long as the jurors from that city were excused. The case was assigned for the third matter for next Wednesday.

On Reckless Driving Charge.

Mrs. Bessie H. Natsch of Columbia will be presented in the town court of Waterford next Monday on the charge of reckless driving. She was arrested on that charge Thursday afternoon by Officer Elmer McKenzie of the Groton barracks after her machine was in collision with another car at a curve on a hill in Waterford.

NORWICH TOWN

HARVEST SUPPER DRAWS BIG PATRONAGE FRIDAY

A delicious harvest supper was served Friday from 5:30 to 7:30 in the Congregational chapel. Long tables had been set for 120 or more, under direction of Mrs. John L. Browning, chairman of the supper committee of the woman's department of the League of Service, under whose auspices the supper was held. The tempting menu consisted of roast fresh shoulder, mashed potato, mashed turnip, rolls, pickles, cranberry sauce, pumpkin-pie, cheese and coffee. The napkins bore Thanksgiving emblems. The table decorations were pink pompom chrysanthemums generously donated by Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Johnson, of Lafayette street, who also presented a dozen white carnations. These were later sent to a member of the parish, Mrs. Charles E. Reeves, of Scotland road, who is ill. Preceding the supper the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey said grace. The coffee used was provided by a demonstrator representing a popular brand. Assisting Mrs. Browning were Mrs. Walter G. Hitchon, Jr., Mrs. Charles Barber, Mrs. Ernest Washington and Miss Bernice Underwood, members of the committee, also Mrs. Walter Clark, Mrs. Charles Nylen and Miss Charlotte Barbour.

Party For Class

Mrs. Burton W. Jopson entertained recently at her home in Norwich Town with a halloween party for the girls in her Sunday school class at the Congregational church. Those present included Rachael and Ruth Avery, Elizabeth Browning, Eertha Backus, Doris Seagrave, Edith Seamon and Beatrice Riccetti. The living room was attractively decorated with orange and black crepe paper, black cats and witches. Among the several games was a peanut hunt in which the prize winner was Rachael Avery. In other games trophies were awarded Edith Seamon and Ruth Avery. The hostess served refreshments.

When Mrs. Harriet Hyde Zumbro entertained with a lecture on Travel Through India, Thursday evening in the Congregational chapel, during the social period following Mrs. Ronald Nelson was assisted in serving by Mrs. Walter Clark and Miss Louise Bailey.

Among those from Norwich Town Friday at the conference of six churches at Plainfield Congregational church were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. George Geer and the latter's mother, Mrs. Josephine Parker and their guest, Mrs. Ella Gager also Otto Miller, and Dr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lamb.

Sorrow For Mrs. Olin's Death

Norwich Town friends, especially Social Corner members, learned with sadness of the death Wednesday night of one of the much esteemed members of the corner, Mrs. Louise R. Olin, (Lavender.) At the time of Mrs. Olin's elaborate birthday party September 12th, at Willimantic camp ground, she appeared in the best of spirits for one of her years. She also attended the gathering of Club No. 1, S. C., in chamber of commerce hall, Wednesday, October 9th, sat at the same table at dinner with friends from Norwich Town, who have since recalled how happy and jovial she seemed to be.

THREE DEAD, MANY HURT IN MEXICO CITY RIOT

Police Unable to Cope With Violent Clash Between Rival Political Parties in Heart of Mexican Capital—Guns, Bricks and Clubs Used in Half Hour Battle By 10,000 Persons Who Participated in the Disturbance—Revolutionary Party Headquarters Building Set on Fire.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10—(AP)—Three persons were reported killed and 12 seriously wounded in a violent clash between rival political parties in the heart of the city today. Numerous others were less seriously hurt by the free use of stones, bricks and clubs.

At least 500 rifle and pistol shots were fired during the half-hour of battle between groups totalling 10,000. More than 100 police, despite the extreme methods used, were unable to cope with the disturbance.

As in other cities of Mexico, today followers of Jose Vasconcelos, presidential candidate of the anti-reelectionist party, paraded as a demonstration of the strength they expected to muster at the polls on election day, next Sunday. Here as elsewhere they were under strict orders to march quietly but in passing headquarters of the rival party near the National Theatre Plaza at the end of Alameda park the trouble began.

Partisans of Pascual Ortiz Rubio, national revolutionary party candidate, displayed his campaign pictures from the roof of the headquarters. From hissing and shouting the disturbance passed quickly to shooting and brick-throwing. Nearly every window in the building was broken and it was set on fire. The firemen were impeded in their work when the varrived.

The police stated they were unable to give an accurate account of the casualties because most of those who fell were quickly carried away and cared for by their comrades. Octavio Medellin Ostos, anti-reelectionist vice-president candidate, telegraphed Vasconcelos that three were killed, 12 seriously wounded, and many others less gravely hurt. He told his chief that despite the riot the demonstration had continued enthusiastically. In a statement he gave out here he denied reports which he said were circulated by the rival party to the effect that the United States government and Ambassador Morrow favored election of Ortiz Rubio.

Ortiz Rubio, in an interview given today at Chapala, near Guadalajara, said he did not expect any serious disturbance in connection with the voting next Sunday because the army was loyal and well disciplined and able to preserve peace. If elected president, he promised to follow with regard to the United States "the most cordial policy possible, within the attitude of mutual respect."

SENATE TO CONTINUE TARIFF STRUGGLE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—With the white flag of surrender flying over the camp of the republican regulars and a coalition opposition refusing the profered terms of capitulation, the senate tomorrow will carry on its tariff struggle as if Armistice day meant the halfway point instead of the termination of factional differences.

All other government business will be at a standstill, but the senate, with only three weeks of the special session left to complete a task which republican leaders originally predicted would be finished by mid-July, must go on with its seemingly endless tariff-tinkering.

The house also will be in session, but not for long. Tomorrow marks the end of the party agreement not to transact any business, but since the tariff bill has not yet emerged from the senate republican house leaders expect merely to go through the formality of meeting and adjourning.

Proceeding with consideration of committee amendments to the metal rate schedule the third of fifteen sections of the measure embracing dutiable commodities, the senate, with the democrats and western republicans in control of the revision, is expected to complete action on this schedule tomorrow and return to the beginning of the bill for consideration of individual amendments to the chemical section.

Republican leaders contemplate no more offers to the opposition such as that proposed Saturday by Chairman Smoot of the finance committee. The Utah senator took coalition members by surprise when he suggested that they attempt to agree upon a complete revision of their own and bring it back to the senate November 20 under a promise of immediate passage. One by one, the opposition leaders assailed the idea, contending they would see the contest through in the open and fight to the end to retain every inch of ground won thus far.

These leaders predicted action would be hastened on the bill from now on since their forces, virtually had determined how they would vote on rates.

Speaking for the republican regulars, Senator Jones of Washington, acting republican leader, expressed the view today that little delay would be had henceforth, although he and other leaders were extremely doubtful if the measure could be passed before the regular session opens.

Once out of the senate, there is little likelihood that the legislation finally will be agreed upon by both houses for many weeks. Many predict a hopeless deadlock because of the insertion in the bill by the coalition of the export debenture plan and elimination of the provision granting presidential power to change duties.

MISSING AIR MAIL PILOT FOUND ON MOUNTAIN

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., Nov. 10—(AP)—Jack Webster, 36 year old veteran of the air mail service, was resting well in the state hospital here today after having beaten the "jinx" that lurks in the path of pilots traversing the "grave yard of aviators"—the Allegheny mountains.

The same mountains and their treacherous elements that sent Mailman Ames and others to their deaths, brought Webster's ship down from the air early Saturday morning as he flew from New York to Cleveland in a sleet storm, but Webster survived, although injured.

The flier was missing when the wreckage of his plane was discovered on the top of Rattlesnake mountain, 2,000 feet above sea level, and an intensive search was started by volunteers and officials of the National Air Transport, operators of the route. Twenty-one hours after the crash, Webster was found reclining along a highway leading to Phillipsburg by a party of local residents who had driven to the mountain to view the damaged mail plane.

NEXT FRIDAY LAST DAY FOR RESERVED NUMBERS

HARTFORD, Nov. 10—(AP)—Friday will be the last day on which automobile registration numbers will be reserved by the state motor vehicle department on request of motorists. After that, the commissioner announces, numbers will be assigned in the order most convenient to the efficient operation of the department.

The advance request for special numbers reached a total of 15,120 last Tuesday. This figure was an increase of 783 over the number of early applications in 1928.

Between November 15 and December 31, at least 156,000 persons are expected to apply for registrations.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE WASHINGTON LIQUOR DRINKING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—The question of liquor drinking in the national capital in and out of official life and the amount required to appease the appetites of Washington residents or sojourners will face the District of Columbia grand jury tomorrow when it resumes consideration of charges first made on the floor of the senate by Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa.

Edward E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, named by Senator Brookhart as having partaken of some "alcoholic stuff" at the celebrated "Wall street bootleg party dinner" given for a group of republican senators, has agreed to testify. Frank S. Hight, manager of the Willard hotel, where the party was given nearly three years ago, and W. W. Liggett, a contributor to the magazine Plain Talk, are among those invited to appear. Liggett has estimated that 32,000 gallons of hard liquor per week is consumed in Washington and District Attorney Leo A. Rover wants the grand jury informed of the situation in detail.

Senator Brookhart gave his story to the grand jury last week. He was one of those invited to the party at the Wilard hotel and he told the senate of "beautiful silver flasks" which were passed around the table, but Mr. Loomis was the only one he named specifically as having taken a drink. Loomis agreed to appear without being subpoenaed.

While the grand jury is going about its task of sifting the charges of law violations in the city, the enforcement authorities are busy in a series of raids which have brought arrests of many persons charged with bootlegging or gambling. Undercover agents are reported to be operating in the night clubs and a temporary padlock order already has been issued against one.

HIGHWAY BANDITS ESCAPE WITH JEWELRY AND CASH

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 10—(AP)—Jewelry valued at $58,800 and $1,000 in cash was obtained by four robbers who held up Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Byers, Pittsburgh, Pa., early today as the two couples were returning in an automobile from the fashionable Bridlespur Country club in St. Louis county.

Johnson is vice president of the International Shoe company and a director of the Johnson-Stephens and Shinkle Shoe company of St. Louis. Byers is president of the A. M. Byers Pipe company of Pittsburgh.

The robbers crowded the Johnson car to the side of the road and three of the men entered the car, driving it to an unfrequented spot where the robbery was executed. A fourth robber trailed the Johnson car in another automobile in which the four later escaped.

Mrs. Johnson saved a $60,000 diamond necklace by hastily snatching it from her neck and dropping it down the front of her dress.

The Byers had been guests of the Johnsons at a steeple chase and race meeting of the Bridal Spur Hunt club Sunday afternoon and at a social affair that followed at the country club, attended by some of the city's most prominent citizens.

Their car, driven by a chauffeur, was proceeding toward the Johnson home when the robber car came up from behind and quickly crowded the Johnson car to the side of the highway. It was about 5:20 a. m., and a heavy rain was falling.

Two of the robbers were masked, all carried revolvers. They drove the Johnson car a short distance and then forced Johnson and Byers to alight in the rain while they took rings, bracelets and necklaces from the women, who were permitted to remain in the closed car. The men were then searched and robbed.

Jewelry valued at $44,000, most of which was understood not to have been insured, was taken from the Byers. The other jewelry was taken from Mrs. Johnson. It was insured.

FIRE DESTROYED ICE ARENA AT VICTORIA

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 10.—(AP) — Fire attributed to incendiary origin by Stanley Patrick, owner of the Victoria Hockey club, today destroyed the ice arena here and definitely removed the city from the Pacific coast hockey campaign the coming season. The loss was estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

The arena was built in 1911 at a cost of $100,000. The Victoria Hockey club owner said it would cost more than $150,000 to replace it. Insurance covered part of the loss.

Texas Judge Held For Murder Of Woman

Charged With Fatally Stabbing Stenographer in Front of Her Rooming House

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 10—(AP)—Judge John W. Brady, 59, Austin attorney and formerly a member of the third court of civil appeals, was held in the county jail on a murder charge today after Miss Lehlia Highsmith, 28, stenographer for the supreme court commission of appeals, died of stab wounds, one of which penetrated her heart.

A preliminary hearing for Judge Brady has been set for tomorrow in the court of Justice of the Peace F. R. Tannehill.

Miss Highsmith was cut with a knife soon after she alighted from an automobile in front of her apartment late last night. The knife was described by Sheriff Coley White as "at least 12 inches long."

Sheriff White said that Frank Graham Jr., employed in a local music store was the only witness to the cutting. The knife was wrested from Judge Brady by E. R. McNaughton who came from the apartment house. The sheriff said Brady sustained a cut on one of his fingers.

Miss Highsmith never spoke after she was wounded and had not regained consciousness when she died an hour later in a hospital. She had three knife wounds on her body.

Sam Dickens, Brady's attorney appealed to the judge's friends to withhold judgment in the case until all the facts were available.

Dickens said Judge Brady had no knowledge of the tragedy nor of events immediately preceding it and was shocked when apprised of the homicide and that he had been charged with murder. The attorney said Brady had attended the Texas-Baylor football game and later had been drinking with friends.

Bandits Wreck West Coast Limited Train

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The West Coast Limited, Southern Pacific passenger train, was wrecked two miles west of Saugus, Cal. tonight by robbers who entered four coaches and held up the passengers.

Reports here said 20 persons were held up. There were but two robbers, one of them searching the victims while the other held them at bay with a revolver.

NEGRO LYNCHED FOR ATTACKING WHITE GIRL

QUINCY, Fla., Nov. 10—(AP)—County and state officials began an investigation today into the lynching here last night of Will Larkins, Negro, charged with an attack on a 12 year old white girl, by a mob of between 25 and 40 masked men.

Less than 12 hours after he had been indicted by a special grand jury and special term of court had been called for his trial, Larkins body, bullet riddled, was dragged through the streets of Quincy, tied to the rear of an automobile. Later it was burned.

The shooting of the Negro and the burning of the body took place at the scene of the attack, about a mile from here just off the Midway highway.

WILL SEEK INJUNCTION AGAINST CASTOREX INSTITUTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP) — The bureau of securities of the attorney general's office today announced that an injunction will be sought tomorrow against the International Castorex institute, a proposed establishment at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., for the breeding of rabbits and the marketing of their hides.

Application for the injunction, filed with the Kings county supreme court last week, declared that Mrs. Marion L. Fulton, who is said to be a prime mover in the institute, advertised that the returns to investors would amount in a few months to $2,500 on a $200 investment.

ESTABLISH NEW RECORD FOR MASS PARACHUTE JUMPING

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Nov. 10—(AP)—Sixteen persons stepped out of a big bi-plane as it soared over this field today, thereby establishing a new record for mass parachute jumping. The previous record was twelve simultaneous jumps.

The feat was a part of the annual field day of the aviation post of the American Legion. Half the jumpers landed on the field and the others came to earth on the old Westbury golf course adjoining.

150,000 IN PILGRIMAGE TO YOUNG PRIEST'S TOMB

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 10.—(AP)—After 150,000 pilgrims had crowded all day into Holy Cross cemetery to reach the tomb of a young priest where miraculous cures have been reported by visitors for the past ten days, police and cemetery officials tonight removed the stone temporarily as the only method of clearing the grave yard.

AUSTRALIAN EXPLORER AT POSSESSION ISLAND

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 10—(AP)—Premier James Henry Scullin today received a message from Sir Douglas Mawson, Australia explorer, saying his ship, the Discovery, had arrived at Possession Island last Thursday.

Sir Douglas sailed from Capetown, Union of South Africa, October 19, last, intending to explore a part of the unknown southern polar continent.

LURED FROM POKER PARTY AND SLAIN

CLAUMET CITY, Ill., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Joseph Piccallo of East Chicago, Ind., an alleged bootlegger and racketeer, was shot and killed shortly after he had been lured from a poker party here early today.

ELEVEN PERSONS RESCUED BY COAST GUARDSMEN

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 10—(AP)—Eleven persons were rescued by coast guardsmen after the 40-foot auxiliary sloop "Evelyn," of Providence, struck on a reef and sank off Dye's Point outside Newport late today.

Youth Charged With Theft Of $55,000

Runner Employed By Wall Street Firm Held in Tombs Under $2,000 Bail.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Milton Osborne, 19, of Jersey City, N. J., held in $2,000 bail in Tombs court today, charged with the theft of $55,000 worth of checks, bonds, money orders and cash from the Wall street firm of Brown, Wheelock, Harris and Vought, by whom he was employed as a runner.

Osborne was arrested in Middletown, Conn., last night. Police said he had spent $109.86 of the stolen cash to entertain a girl in Middletown, for new clothes and for auto hire.

Police said most of the stolen securities and cash was turned over to Jersey City police by Stanley Gazdowski of Jersey City, with whose son Osborne had left the package until he might have an opportunity to call for it.

FLAMES DESTROYED THREE PLANES AT BRAINARD FIELD

HARTFORD, Nov. 10—(AP)—Three airplanes valued at approximately $39,000, were destroyed by a spectacular fire that swept through the hangar of the Interstate Airways, Inc., at Brainard field, here Sunday afternoon. A fourth plane was hauled undamaged from the shed.

Police asserted that a lighted match or cigarette carelessly thrown into the cockpit of one of the burned planes probably caused the blaze. No arrests were made.

The planes destroyed were a Travel-air OX, owned by the Interstate Airways, Inc., a new Challenger OX, owned by the Colonial Flying Service and an OX American Eagle, the property of Edward Saczawa, of this city. No damage was caused to the sheet iron hangar. The latter is the property of the city and is leased to the airways corporation.

Steamer Goes Aground Off Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 10.—(AP)— The steamship Escambia reported tonight to the Tropical Radio and Telegraph company that it was aground five miles south of Cary's port light and needed assistance. The Tropical company radioed the report to the Key West Naval base.

CUTTER ORDERED TO ASSISTANCE OF STEAMER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.— (AP) — Coast Guard headquarters tonight announced that the cutter Saukee at Key West had been ordered to the assistance of the Italian steamship Escambia, aground on Caryesford reef, off the coast of Florida.

BORGER'S CITIZENS PETITION FOR CITY ELECTION

BORGER, Texas, Nov. 10—(AP)—Borger's new city government, installed by Governor Moody's agents after the old administration had been forced to resign at the time the city was "cleaned up" under a martial law regime, is threatened with an early retirement. A petition has been filed for an election to select a mayor and city commissioners.

The petition bears the names of more than the required ten per cent of the city's voters. Attorneys for the petitioners assert that Mayor Glenn A. Pace and the other city officials resigned on such short notice that a new election was justified.

The city administration resigned when Governor Moody announced through District Attorney Clem Calhoun that martial law would not be lifted until the old administration had been replaced by one which met the approval of Calhoun. One of the promises required of those selected for the new administration was that they would not be candidates to succeed themselves.

SCHALL TO PRESS ACTION IN TOM MOONEY CASE

BELLAIRE, O., Nov. 10—(AP)—Francis Moran, Bellaire police chief, tonight sent to Police Chief William J Quinn, of San Francisco, the information he obtained from Mrs. Dora Munroe, of this city implicating her dead brother, Lewis Smith as the perpetrator of the San Francisco preparedness parade bomb outrage in 1916, in which ten persons were killed.

In Mrs. Monroe's story was the possibility of an alibi which may succeed in freeing from San Quentin prison Thomas J. Mooney, widely known radical leader, who was convicted in connection with the bombing.

Since Mrs. Monroe's story was told, Attorney General William D. Mitchell has stated that the government can not interfere but Senator Schall said he would press the attorney general to take action.

YOUTH INSTANTLY KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE CRASHED

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 10.— (AP)—A youth believed to be Harold Pope, 21, of Newark Valley, N. Y., was killed instantly when his airplane crashed at the Mid-Valley airport, six miles north of here, this afternoon. He was reported to have been stunting.

Pope was flying about 150 feet from the ground when the mishap occurred. He was doing a triple spin and was about to right the plane for the third time, but was unable to do so. The plane crashed to the ground, upside down.

The victim had flown to the Mid-Valley airport yesterday from Binghampton, N. Y., to participate in an air meet sponsored by the William Henry post, American Legion, of Olyphant, a nearby town. He had held a pilot's license for about a month, obtaining it after completing a course at the Binghamton airport.

R. Bellerose, Worcester, Mass.; Frank M. Taylor, 76, of Buffalo; Gus Snyder, 76, of Olean, killed while on his way to church by a hit-and-run driver, and two unidentified city laborers.

NATION'S MILLIONS TO OBSERVE ARMISTICE DAY

Address Tonight By President Hoover Before Government Officials, Diplomats and World War Veterans to Be Broadcast Over Nation-Wide Radio Hookup—American Legion to Hold Exercises at Tomb of the Unknown Soldier—Memorial Service in Tribute to Woodrow Wilson, War-Time President, Will Be Held at the National Cathedral.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—Led by President Hoover, millions of Americans will participate in the World-wide observance tomorrow of the eleventh anniversary of the signing of the World war armistice—a commemoration in which sorrow for the war dead and joy over the peace existing among nations, intermingle.

In the nation's capital, exercises at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, a memorial service in tribute to Woodrow Wilson, the war-time president, at the National Cathedral, and an address by President Hoover before a distinguished audience of high government officials, diplomats and World war veterans will form the chief observance of the ending of the great war.

Throughout the nation similar observations will be made in city, town and village with parades, exercises and addresses. Two of the highest government officials will speak at other cities exercises, Vice President Curtis at Soldiers' field, Chicago and Assistant Secretary Castle of the state department before the Rhode Island American Legion, at Providence.

The address of the chief executive tomorrow night will climax the observance of the day. It will be delivered at the Washington auditorium under the auspices of the American Legion before an audience which is expected to number 18,000 persons. Mr. Hoover's words will be broadcast over a nation-wide radio hookup and all of the 12,000 posts of the Legion have arranged to listen to the address. The words also will go to 26,000 injured veterans in the hospitals of the country.

During the morning, a delegation of the American Legion, headed by Major O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander together with representatives of the welfare organizations which served with the military forces in the war, will pay a tribute with exercises and the laying of wreaths upon the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. At 11 o'clock the two minute silence, observed throughout the world on previous Armistice day anniversaries, will prevail and at Washington a bugler standing beside the Unknown Soldier's tomb, will sound "taps" to end the period of stillness.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the memorial service to Wilson will be held at the National Cathedral in the Bethlehem chapel at his tomb. Bishop James E. Freeman, of Washington, will deliver a tribute to the war-time chief executive which will be broadcast by radio over the nation. For the first time Mrs. Wilson, the president's widow, will not be present at this annual service as she is traveling in the Orient. Preceding this memorial service at 11 o'clock in the morning, a service of prayer and thanksgiving over the peace among nations, will be held at the cathedral.

In the afternoon, an award for his services in behalf of world peace will be given by France to Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state and author of the general treaty for the renunciation of war. Ambassador Claudel, of France, will bestow upon the former secretary the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, the highest French decoration.

WALES WILL OFFICATE AT LONDON OBSERVANCE

LONDON, Nov. 10—(AP)—For the first time tomorrow King George will be absent from the ceremonies at the Cenotaph in observance of Armistice day. The Prince of Wales will officiate in his place and thousands are expected to assemble there to observe the eleventh anniversary.

More than 400 holders of the Victoria Cross, Britain's highest decoration for valor, will march at the head of detachments of the army, navy and air force. The prince will place a wreath on the resting place of the Unknown Soldier.

GENERAL GOURAUD TO RE-KINDLE ETERNAL FLAME

PARIS, Nov. 10—(AP)—The anniversary of the armistice of the World war, no longer a merry and frolicking celebration, but one of meditation and prayer, this year is occupying the entire days of observance in France. It began today with solemn moving ceremonies in churches and cemeteries.

A special service was held in the American Pro-Cathedral with Dean Beekman officiating. Among those present was General John J. Pershing.

Tomorrow the greatest ceremony is scheduled to be at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at 11 a. m., when President Doumergue receives the presidents of the senate and chamber, members of the diplomatic corps and high military officials. After a minute of silence, General Henri Gouraud will re-kindle the eternal flame and then an elaborate military procession made up of units from all military, naval and air veterans associations including the American Legion, will be reviewed by the president of the republic.

THREE KILLED WHEN TRAIN RAN THROUGH CLOSED SWITCH

DESSAU, Germany, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and three seriously injured today, when the Magdeburg-Leipzig passenger train ran through a closed switch at Dessau station, and collided with a standing freight train.

A fourth death resulted from the accident, when the train's engineer blamed for the wreck, hanged himself an hou afterward. The dead included two passengers and the locomotive fireman.

Railroad officials said the engineer ignored his signals, running full speed into a closed switch at a point where the track was under repair. The electric locomotive was derailed in front of a switch tower, and crashed into a standing freight train. Nine passenger cars were derailed, entangling passengers in the wreckage.

Railway officials and bystanders who hurried to the scene found the dead fireman's body hanging out of the locomotive cab. One girl passenger, with both legs amputated, still was conscious. Physicians amputated another girl's foot by the railroad track, while a man with a foot torn off was calling for help as he lay under a pile of wreckage.

TO ALLOW PANTAGES TO VISIT SICK WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10—(AP)—Alexander Pantages, theatrical magnate, sentenced yesterday to one to fifty years in state prison at San Quentin for a criminal attack on Eunice Prinzie, 17-year old dancer, will be taken to his home under guard tomorrow to visit his sick wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages.

Pantages immediately after his sentence, asked to be allowed to go home. Judge Charles Fricke said he would grant permission if District Attorney Fitts had no objection.

Jail attaches said Pantages did not comment on his sentence. His case will be taken on appeal as soon as Attorney Jerry Geisler can prepare the brief. Geisler said the appellate court will not hand down a ruling for several months. In the meantime the theatrical man will remain in the county jail. A writ of probable cause was granted by Judge Fricke automatically staying execution of judgment.

TILSON HELD CONFERENCE WITH PRESIDENT HOOVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10—House Leader Tilson had a morning conference with the president at the white house Saturday on tariff legislation and was invited to an hour's conference tonight at the white house and to dinner at 8 o'clock.

WALLINGFORD MAN FOUND SHOT THROUGH HEAD

WALLINGFORD, Nov. 10—(AP)—William Carl Wheeland, about 60, was found shot through the head in a room of his residence here today. He had suffered a nervous breakdown four months ago and since had been an invalid. Dr. John H. Buffum, medical examiner, said it was a case of suicide.

THREE COAST GUARDSMEN HURT IN PLANE WRECK

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Three coast guardsmen were injured and their amphibian plane was wrecked today, when the craft lost altitude in a takeoff, struck the forestay of the outward bound fishing schooner Jackie B., and plunged into the harbor. Caught in the wreckage, the men were rescued by the schooner's crew and a seaman who was passing in a dory.

The injured men were Lieut. Leonard M. Melka, pilot; William Kenley, machinist, and Arthur J. Descoteaux, radio electrician, all attached to coast guard base 7, here. They were starting out on patrol duty. Coast guard officials said the plane flew into a downward air current which caused the loss of altitude.

Lieut. Melka's nose was crushed and his right arm fractured. Kenley suffered an arm fracture and Descoteaux sustained a fracture of the right hand and head cuts. They were taken to Addison Gilbert hospital where it was reported they also were suffering from shock and immersion.

After striking the forestay, the plane passed through the schooner's rigging. The right wing was torn off and left hanging from the rigging. The amphibian then continued on for about 100 feet before it struck the water and turned over.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH SLAYING TWO CHILDREN

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 10. —(AP) — Gladys May Parks, arrested in Newark, N. J., early today, when she admitted burying the bodies of two children, one in the woods at National Park, N. J., and the other at Absecon, near Atlantic City, was held without bail here this afternoon, charged with killing the children.

The woman, who is 35 years old, said the older child, Dorothy Rogers, 4, died after she had beaten her for a childish indiscretion, and that the boy, Timothy Rogers, two, died after falling down stairs two days later. She buried the body of the girl in quick lime near National Park, and the body of the boy near Absecon, three weeks later.

The skeleton of the girl was found November 2, but the fact that the boy was dead was not definitely known until today. The were children of Allen Rogers, an insurance agent of Woodbury, N. J., whose wife had died about a year ago leaving him with six children. He had turned the two younger children over to Gladys Parks, as she wanted to raise them because she was a cousin of Rogers' wife.

FLAMES SWEEP "TEN CURVES" DANCE HALL

GLASTONBURY, Nov. 10—(AP)—"Ten Curves," dance hall and restaurant on the Hartford-New London highway, was destroyed early today in a fire of suspected incendiary origin. The loss was $5,000.

The building was closed at midnight after a dance. About 1:30 a. m., four youths drove by and found it in flames. It was situated in a thinly populated section.

STATE POLICE GET BEER IN WINDHAM RAID

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 10. — State Policemen Henry Heinold and Terrell Cousens of the Stafford Springs barracks, swooped down on the home of Wasyl Dzwonczyk, near King's bridge on the Mansfield Hollow-North Windham back road Saturday night. Upon the discovery of 9 cases, or 216 bottles of beer, the officers placed under arrest Mrs. Annie Dzwonczyk, her husband being at work on a night shift in this city at the time. The woman was charged with manufacturing, keeping with intent to sell and actual sale. During the course of the raid the officers were considerably hampered in their work by Rose, young daughter of the Dzwonczyk's with the result that the girl was placed under arrest on a charge of interfering with an officer. The woman and the girl were brought before Justice of the Peace Byron Houston of the Mansfield town court who assigned the cases for trial November 18 at 9 a. m. A blanket bond of $1,000 was furnished. The beer was removed to the Stafford barracks with the assistance of Constable Wilbur G. Stevens, of North Windham. It was hinted today that further arrests may be expected as a result of the raid which was made following numerous complaints that the house was a beer "joint."

Louis Benvenuto, 43, of New London, who with two other employes of the Southern New England Telephone company was killed in an automobile accident in Plainfield Saturday afternoon, resided in this city up to some months ago. He is survived by his wife, Liberata Benvenuto and one son, Vincent, both of New London. The deceased, who was a member of Garibaldi lodge, Sons of Italy, of this city, will be buried here.

EXTENSIVE OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 10. — City-wide observance of Armistice day will be made here, carrying out an all-day program outlined by James J. Sipes post, No. 19, American Legion. All lines of business will be halted, this applying to manufacturing plants, retail stores, offices, banks and schools. At the post office operations will be suspended at noon, with the exception of the receiving and dispatching of mail. The usual morning deliveries will be made by city, star route and rural free delivery carriers.

The Armistice day program will open at 10 o'clock in the forenoon with a run of motion pictures at the Gem theatre, free to school children from the fifth to the eighth grades, inclusive. The pictures will be of patriotic nature.

The parade in the afternoon will form at the junction of Jackson and Valley streets at 1:30 o'clock. Captain Ellison S. Smith, commander of Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, will be marshal and will have as aides, Harry Cohen, Charles A. Reynolds and T. Frank Cunningham.

Pursuant to orders of Marshal Smith the first division will organize in Valley street and will consist of the R. O. T. C. band, Company C, R. O. T. C. of Storrs, Garde Sacred Heart, and Boy Scouts.

The second division will form on Broad street and will consist of various legion posts, led by the B. P. O. Elks band, Charles N. C. Wheeler, bandmaster.

The third and final division, to assemble on Valley street, will include the G. A. R., the Spanish War Veterans, Gold Star Mothers and various patriotic societies led by the Knights of Columbus Boys' band. There will be several decorated automobiles in this division, bearing aged veterans and Gold Star Mothers.

The parade will get underway at 2 o'clock, moving down Jackson, up Union and Main, over Bridge and Mountain streets, down Pleasant to the state armory. The oration of the exercises at the armory will be delivered by Captain Richard H. McLaughlin, of Hartford, chaplain of the 169th Infantry. With the completion of this program the paraders will be served lunch in the armory basement.

Public celebration in the evening will center at the Al-Pierre Tabarin where a dance will be held under the auspices of the legion post.

FUNERALS

Stephen M. Kollar

Leaving the family home in Village hill, the funeral of Stephen M. Kollar was held Saturday morning with a high mass of requiem in St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock. Rev. Michael Thompson was the celebrant of the mass and Mrs. E. R. Portelance presided at the organ. Mrs. Henry Mathieu was soloist. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery where a committal prayer was read by Rev. Father Thompson. The bearers were: Francis Connor, Edward Sullivan, Joseph Martin and John Killourey. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Mrs. Louisa R. Olin

The funeral of Mrs. Louisa R. Olin was held Saturday forenoon with services at the Methodist Episcopal church at 10 o'clock. Rev. John Pearce officiated. Burial was in the Spring Grove cemetery, Hartford. The bearers were: Lester D. Olin, Philip S. Olin, Walter Woodill, Benjamin Carpenter, George Palmer and Leonard Geer. Avery and VanZandt had charge of the arrangements. During the services Miss Inez Paton was heard in two beautiful solos.

William H. P. Sweet

Funeral services for William H. P. Sweet were held in St. Paul's Episcopal church at 1 o'clock this afternoon with Rev. Frederick C. Williams, the pastor, officiating. Burial was in the family plot of the Willimantic cemetery. Arrangements were by Avery and VanZandt.

A complete renovation of the lighting system in the town building will be made, according to First Selectman William A. Buck. The system has been a source of trouble in the past owing to the fact that the wiring and switchboards are not strong enough to carry the current when the entire building is lighted. This defect was brought quite forcibly to mind Friday night during the democratic and republican caucuses. The two caucuses, a gathering in the Grand Army hall and other parts of the building, including the library, police headquarters, etc., were thrown into darkness several times when fuses blew out owing to the strain. David Loree, superintendent of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company and an assistant spent some time in overcoming the difficulty.

Judge Edward M. Yeomans has found judgment in favor of the plaintiff to recover the full amount of a bill, $425 with costs, in the civil action of Dr. Frederick E. Wilcox against George C. Wilcox, tried before him October 23. The action was to recover on a bill for professional services, the bill having been contracted from a date in 1906 to November 16, 1927.

A case that is of interest because the father is charged with a violation committed by his 11-year-old son, is to be heard by Justice of the Peace Mrs. Fannie Dixor Welch, of the Columbia town court next Tuesday evening. John Sorokolit, of Hop River, is charged with having in his possession pelts of animals during the closed season for hunting. October 31, last, County Game Warden Edward Wraight came upon Sorokolit's 11- year-old son. The boy was on land leased by his father and he had in his possession the pelts of three skunks and two rabbits, the season being closed against these animals at the time. Perplexed at what course to follow owing to the boy's age, Game Warden Wraight finally brought the charge against the father. The latter has secured former Attorney-General William A. King of this city as counsel.

Mrs. Mary Stewart, of Wallingford, department inspector, conducted her annual inspection of A. C. Tyler auxiliary, No. 14, U. S. W. V., at a meeting in the G. A. R hall of the town building Friday evening. President A. Emma Snow was in charge.

Dr. (Major) W. P. S. Keating, commander of James J. Shea post, No. 119 American Legion, delivered an address on the World war and Armistice day at a program carried out by the upper grades of the Natchaug grammar school Friday. Children taking part were: Florence Spencer, Thelma Andrews, Sabit Patros, Joseph Zagara, Margaret Fraser, Eileen Entz, Valentine Murphy Stuart Keating, Albert Harrington, Helen Woodward, David Rogers, Dorothy Shippee, Leo Fittabile and Sophie Tomasko. Remarks were made by Principal Frederick K. Viner. Miss Magdalene R. Moriarty was at the piano and Mrs. R. C. Rose, violinist.

Patrolman John A. Lutton investigated an accident at the corner of Jackson and Valley streets about 8 o'clock Saturday night. The cars involved were a coach driven by Blanche E. Paquette, owned by Wilfred Paquette, both of 22 Carey street, and a coupe operated by Elton L. Bartholomew, of Eagleville. The local car was being turned left into Jackson after coming east on Valley and the Eagleville man was driving north on Jackson, his machine hooking the bumper of the Paquette machine. The damage was slight and the drivers agreed to settle.

Bandmaster A. E. Lyman, of Columbia, has made the following arrangement of players and instruments of the newly organized Hebron band: Cornets, Howard Porter, Harold Cummings, Clarence P. Rathbun and Frederick Ives; saxophones, Kenneth Ellis, Otto German, Sherwood Keefe and Miss Asyneth Jones; clarinets, David Porter, Arthur Keefe and Richard Ives; trombones, Leonard Porter and Edward Pomprowicz; French horns, Earl Porter, John Hooker, LeRoy Kinney and Leslie Kinney; baritone, Jesse Hill; basses, Andrew Ives, Herbert Porter and Eugene Thorpe; bass drum, Frank Rathbun; snare drum, Stanley Keefe.

Chester Gill, of 163 Mansfield avenue, was fined ten dollars and costs in police court Saturday morning when found guilty by Judge Frank H. Foss of driving a car without a license. State Policeman Emil Castagna, of the Stafford Springs barracks, made the arrest. Gill pleaded guilty. After the imposition of the fine he was placed on probation for two months in charge of Probation Officer William V. Palmer, Sr.

Mrs. Peter Turansky was tendered a surprise party on the occasion of her 34th birthday Friday evening. Guests came from Norwich and this city and enjoyed a program of dancing and games. A mid-night lunch was served by her aunt, Mrs. R. Padewsky. Music was by Josephine Turansky, piano, and Theodore Turanski, violin. Mrs. Turansky received handsome gifts.

William Knapp, 20, of North Windham, was injured Friday evening when struck by a sedan operated by Andrew Nascin, of 80 Chapman street, on the highway near North Windham village. Knapp sustained a scalp wound.

Past matron and patron's night was observed at a meeting of Radiant chapter, No. 11 O. E. S. held at Masonic temple Friday night with Mrs. Hattie Palmer, acting matron and Charles A. Talntor, acting patron. Mrs. Lottie Cady, of Wolcott chapter, No. 91, of Stafford, acted as organist and Mrs. Lulu Wagner also of Wolcott chapter, soloist. Several candidates were initiated. Eugene Hanna was presented with a past patron's jewel and Mrs. Palmer with a bouquet of chrysanthemums.

The re-valuation work in the city and town will not be completed for at least a month, it was stated this week by officials of the service company making the survey.

COULD NOT DO HER WORK

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Berlin, N. H.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was in a family way because I was run-down and falling away every day. My food wouldn't digest and I could not do my work. I had to have a hired girl all the time. I took several medicines before I tried yours but none would help me. A friend told me about the Vegetable Compound and told me to try it as it would help me a lot. Your medicines have done me a lot of good and I cannot praise them enough. I will answer any letters that ask me what Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines have done for me."—Mrs. Willie Ameko, 627 Burgess St., Berlin, N. H.

BUREAU URGES SCHOOLS HELP BOYS FIND WORK

WASHINGTON. — (AP) — American school boys ambitious to earn money in spare hours would have the help of a school counselor under a plan suggested by the United States children's bureau.

Apartment and tenement house life that is steadily increasing is held responsible by the bureau after a survey, for the varied occupations engaged in by school children. Their efforts might be turned to more constructive and educational activities the bureau has suggested, through the employment by the secondary schools, of a counselor to advise them.

The conclusions were based on a study of more than 8,000 school children under 16, in Newark and Paterson, N. J., selected as typical of modern cities.

DANIELSON

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION BEGINS WITH MIDNIGHT DANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 10.—Tonight, a few minutes after clocks recorded midnight and the end of Sunday, Danielson's midnight observance of Armistice day got underway with a dance at the state armory. The dance was scheduled to continue until 4 a. m., Armistice day. An hour before dance time many of those who were to attend had assembled in the vicinity of the armory and in the business section.

The first event scheduled for Armistice morning is the band concert by Killingly high school band on Davis park at 10:30. This concert will continue until noon. Units of the 192nd Ield Artillery, including the regimental band, are expected to arrive here shortly before the noon hour.

Marshal Alfred L. Reed plans to have the parade move promptly on time, at 1:30 p. m. This will necessitate organizations that are to take part being in the places allotted to them well prior to that time. The divisions are to form on Stearns, Hutchins streets, Westcott road, Winter street, Broad street, between Main and Reynolds, and Reynolds street between Broad and Main.

Special policing arrangements have been perfected by Chief John MacFarland, who will have several special officers on duty. A detail of state officers will be at the head of the parade.

The promise tonight was that the parade will be the most colorful and impressive arranged for Danielson since the town arranged an official welcome home for the World war veterans in the spring of 1919. Every division of the parade will challenge attention, and it is expected that the float section will be especially interesting.

A great deal of co-operation has been obtained in preparing for the parade and much energy expended to make it an outstanding event in recent local annals.

CORONER SAYS WOOD'S CAR WAS PROBABLY FORCED OFF ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Nov. 10.—Coroner Arthur G. Bill said this afternoon that the accident in which George Wood of Waterford, Louis Denzennto of New London and Louis Ely of West Mystic were instantly killed on the state highway near St. John's cemetery, south of Plainfield, about the noon hour Saturday was probably due to the fact that Wood, who was driving the death car, was forced off the concrete-surfaced highway and onto the shoulder of the road by a car that was coming toward him as he was trying to pass four cars that were ahead of him.

This accident was the worst of the motor vehicle mishaps recorded in eastern Windham county for a long time. All of the men were killed instantly as the practically new Ford coupe crashed head-on into a great boulder at the side of the highway, tearing out the left side of the car and hurling all of the men out of the machine. All of the men, who were employes of the S. N. E. Telephone Co., had fractured skulls, fractured legs and bad internal injuries. The shift lever of the car pierced Denzennto's head, going completely through.

The trio had been working in Putnam throughout the past week as members of Foreman August Rinck's pole replacement gang, and were on their way to New London when the accident happened. State Officers Elton Nolan and James Carmody of the Danielson barracks checked the accident, which also was investigated by Coroner Arthur G. Bill. The bodies were taken in charge by Dougherty Brothers and later sent to the homes of the deceased. The accident was the means of creating a traffic problem prior to the time that the bodies were removed. The car that Wood was operating is owned by his sister, Agnes Wood, of Waterford.

Alvah Clemons, 90, died Saturday afternoon at Dayville. He had been in failing health for a long time. Mr. Clemons was a native of this town, born at Dayville, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clemons, and had lived here and hereabouts practically all of his life. For years he was employed on farms and in livery stables. His nearest living relatives are nephews, Frank and William Clemons being residents of Brooklyn, and Samuel Clemons in the town of Plainfield.

Ernest Shauffleur, who has a farm north of the Chase reservoir, was arrested yesterday on charges of assault and breach of the peace, it being alleged against him that he is the person who fired the shots that came close to hitting Hiram Warren and John Butts when they stopped to change a tire on the car in which they were riding near the Shauffleur place about midnight last Thursday night. The accused was released under bonds of $1,000, for appearance in the town court on Tuesday.

Eudoxia Remillard, a resident of Dyer street, was struck and knocked down last night by an automobile driven by Odilon Landry of Quebec square, West Side. The bruised but not seriously injured woman was taken to the office of Dr. W. A. Tanner and given attention and afterwards taken to her home. The accident is believed to have been the result of her becoming confused while crossing the street near St. James' church. No charge was preferred against Landry.

Paul Pisz of Moosup will appear in the town court Tuesday to answer to failure to grant the right of way, his difficulty arising from the fact that the car he was operating was in collision Saturday afternoon about 2:20, at the corner of North Main and North streets, with a machine owned by Della Rivais of Foster Center and operated by her husband, Benjamin Rivais. No one was injured in the accident.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was in Willimantic today on business connected with his office as coroner.

Patriotic organizations will be appreciative of a general display of flags on homes in the borough on Armistice day, and especially along the route of the parade.

State officers were engaged all last night, and the investigation was being continued by them today, in trying to locate the person or persons who fired at two trains north of Tadpole pond bridge at Jewett City early Saturday evening, one bullet wounding the fireman of one of the trains in the leg.

There will be no session of the town court on Armistice day, such business as has accumulated over the week end awaiting disposition on Tuesday.

Many attended the union service under the auspices of the Danielson Federation of Churches at the Methodist Episcopal church tonight. This service was commemorative of Armistice day. Rev. R. W. E. DeWolfe of Moosup, a veteran of the World war, was the preacher.

Evan Richardson, coach of the Killingly high school football team, announced that on account of the Tourtelotte Memorial high school team being unable to come here for the Armistice day game the second team of Norwich Free Academy will replace the North Grosvenordale boys. The game is to be played on Quinebaug field immediately after the parade.

Russell Chapin, injured when he was knocked unconscious by an automobile Halloween night, is reported as slowly improving at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Chapin, on Reynolds street.

Mrs. Marjorie Woodbury and daughter, Katherine, of Norfolk, spent the week end with Attorney and Mrs. Arthur G. Bill of Maple street.

Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of Boston are guests for the holiday of Miss Margaret Sullivan of Academy street.

State Officers Henry Mayo and Royal Scranton of the Danielson barracks made arrests at Jewett City Saturday night for violations of motor vehicle laws, as told in the news from that place this morning.

Thomas Jessup of New York is spending the holiday season with friends here. Mr. Jessup recently returned from a business trip of four months in Germany and other European nations. He was formerly here with the Connecticut Mills Co.

A week's mission for French-speaking women of St. James' parish was concluded at St. James' church today, and this evening a week's mission for the French-speaking men of the parish was opened.

Approximately 20 tickets were given out last night by state officers who were checking cars for defective equipment as the machines passed the barracks on North Main street. More of this checking is to be done, as it is being established that many cars are being operated with defective brakes and improper headlights.

Harvey A. Wilmotte of Central Falls, R. I., is spending the holiday period with friends here.

JEWETT CITY

FIREMAN SHOT THROUGH LEG—TWO TRAINS ARE FIRED AT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY Nov. 10.—Saturday night, State Troopers Scranton, Nolan and Mayo, from Danielson barracks and Officer Henry Vegiard of Jewett City, were summoned by New London railroad authorities to investigate shooting at two trains, about three-quarters of a mile north of Tadpole bridge. The first train was fired upon at 8.50 o'clock, as it was traveling south. The conductor distinctly saw the flash, but no one was hit. A second train at 9.15 also south bound, received a second fusillade, and Tetreault, the fireman, saw the flash, felt the sting, and found he had been shot, the bullet having passed through his leg. The bullet could not be located, so the calibre could not be determined. He was taken to a Norwich physician, who dressed the wound. Both shots were fired from the same position on the west side of the track from a cross road. Later, a woman living near the bridge, reported hearing shots from the railroad, below the bridge.

The troopers with Officer Veglard searched the tracks and vicinity in all directions, but it being a very dark night, the offender was not located. It was stated at the barracks Sunday, that certain information was at hand which may lead to an arrest.

Automobile Found Ditched.

During the search, a Jewett City machine was found ditched on a country road, where the driver had attempted to turn around, and stuck in the mud. The driver had been drinking, and was arrested by Officer Mayo, and brought to the Jewett City police station, to answer to the charge of driving while under the influence. He is not suspected of having any connection with the shooting affair.

JOSEPH LARAMIE, PLAINFIELD, ARRESTED BY STATE TROOPER

State Trooper Scranton of the Danielson barracks at 6 o'clock Saturday night arrested Joseph Laramie of Plainfield near Gill's filling station, north of Tadpole bridge, after he came in collision with a machine driven by Charles Link of Brown avenue. Both machines were damaged, but Link drove to his home.

When Dorcas circle of The King's Daughters meets at the home of Miss S. K. Adams Tuesday evening, reports will be given of the state convention. Picture scrapbooks for Christmas gifts will be started.

Pasters Endorse Red Cross Campaign.

The annual roll call of the American Red Cross, to commence in the local chapter's jurisdiction November 18th, was announced Sunday in all the churches in Jewett City, Voluntown, Pachaug, Glasgo, and Lisbon. Short talks were given by the pastors on this greatest of all organizations which aids in disaster.

Memorial Flowers.

The beautiful flowers at the Methodist church Sunday were in memory of William G. Tinker, from his mother, Mrs. Marriett Tinker. Her son died on Armistice day, three years ago.

THREE DAYS' ADVANTAGE FOR VIADUCT CONTRACTOR

With all the mills up the line holding back the Quinebaug, Saturday, Sunday and (today) Monday, the viaduct contractors are given a string of three days, with the pier work in the river bed, free from any natural interferences.

With practically no water, and the added advantage of fine weather, the work is on the boom. Contractor M. A. Gammino said Saturday that they were trying to beat the weather and with an even break, would be out of the river by the middle of December. The two west piers will require piling for anchorage, as the ledge is 20 feet below the river bed at these points in the dull surroundings. The two east piers have their cement footings, on the ledge itself.

The post office will be closed today (Monday) between 9 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Late Saturday night, Edmund Dudkowski found that, following the masquerade ball, his Ford touring car was missing from the place where he had parked the machine. He notified Officer Veglard, who toured the town in another machine and finally located the car not 500 feet from the owner's home, parked in a neighbor's back yard.

Much interest is manifested in the Armistice day decorations in Arremony's window. The large collection of war relics is the property of the American Legion, and include guns, bombs and helmets, taken from the German trenches. Some of the new Red Cross posters are also shown to advantage.

PUTNAM

ARMISTICE DAY EXERCISES START AT 10 O'CLOCK TODAY

Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 10.—Exercises in commemoration of the 11th anniversary of the singing of the Armistice will begin Monday morning promptly at ten o'clock. The event will be fittingly observed, but no elaborate celebration such as was held November 11, 1925, will be seen here tomorrow. The parade will form at the Soldiers' monument on Grove street and will be led by Major A. D. McIntyre, as marshal, accompanied by aides. All civic, fraternal and military organizations in the city are expected to take part.

Every effort will be made to reach Union square by 11 o'clock. At this immortal hour, all whistles and bells on churches and industrial plants will be sounded as part of the observance.

The balcony of the Putnam inn, overlooking Union square, will be used as a speakers' stand. His Honor, Charles A. Richard, mayor, will be master of ceremonies. The speaker of the day will be Rev. S. A. Iclek of Norwich, pastor of St. Joseph's church.

The day's program will be closed with a military dance to be held in the evening at the state armory on Harris street.

DEMOCRATS HAVE NO CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR YET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 10.—This afternoon the democratic city committee were without a candidate for mayor to nominate Tuesday evening when the democrats gather in general caucus. A meeting of the committee was held Friday evening but no one aspiring for the nomination could be found.

Leon A. Talbot of South Main street, who is reported as seeking the nomination denied that he had entered the race today. Mr. Talbot refused to comment on the political situation.

Alderman Charles A. Ryan, defeated a week ago for his seat in the council next year, denied this morning that he is seeking the nomination for alderman at large.

However with two days left before the party caucus, it was believed today that a dark horse candidate will appear.

FUNERAL.

Mrs. Randolph M. Clark.

The funeral of Mrs. Randolph M. Clark, wealthy Pomfret woman, was held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock at Christ church in Pomfret. Preceding the church service a ritual service was held at the Clark mansion at 10.30 o'clock which was attended by members of the family.

Rev. Leonard Richards, rector of Churst church, assisted by Rev. F. H. Bigelow, head master of the rectory school and former pastor of the church, officiated. Miss Annie Ash was at the organ. As the casket was being borne into the chancel of the church, Miss Ash rendered Schubert's Funeral march. During the ceremony the members of the choir rendered the hymns, "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "The Strife Is O'er, The Battle Done." As a recessional Miss Ash played the "Dead Marching Song." Floral tributes were numerous. Interment was at the Swan Point cemetery in Providence.

The beautiful church where the funeral services were held is a gift from Mrs. Clark. It is one of the most beautiful of the smaller churches in New England and a lasting memorial to its donor.

The landscape along the air mail route from Boston to New York and especially that part of the route over Dudley and the Woodstocks is soon to appear in a motion picture epic of the air, now being filmed by the Paramount Film corporation. On Friday a plane chartered by the movie concern flew over the route and pictures were made by a cameraman aboard the plane. The spots along the mail route in Woodstock and Dudley where people have placed the "No. 13" in honor of former Pilot Frank Crowley proved to be specially interesting to the movie men. Mr. Crowley, who carried mail over the route so many times piloted the picture plane and pointed out the "friendship" spots at the homes of residents of the Woodstocks. The "13 Hello" which guided Pilot Crowley, was caught by the camera and at Woodstock academy, the human beacon who greeted Pilot Crowley daily posed for pictures. The group landed at Dudley airport where the former air mail pilot and his associates were feted by officials of the port.

Antonie Goulet of Killingly avenue has converted a large tract of meadows into a beautiful artificial lake, which he intends to utilize as a swimming pool next summer. The manmade body of water borders the state road at the northerly end of Killingly avenue, near the Grove street cemetery. A dike of concrete built around the acre of land holds back the water. A small brook, an outlet from Perry's pond some distance away, is dammed at this point and forms the artificial water body.

Work on the state aid road over Putnam Heights is well under way. The country road has been widened for the laying of trap rock bed, later to be macadamized. It is understood that to carry out improvements in the layout of the road the state was forced to take over portions of land privately owned. In one instance contractors were forced to exercise right of eminent domain in order to procure the land, when owners refused to sign away rights and accept terms offered by the state.

Farmers from all sections of the county will gather at the grange hall in Hampton, Wednesday, Nov. 13, to attend the annual meeting of the Windham County Farmers' association. The meeting will open at 10.30 a. m., and the first business to be transacted will be the election of officers. Reports of the president and other officers of the organization will be given. At noon a light luncheon will be served by the ladies of the Hampton grange.

A unique presentation, a play, "One Year On a Farm," written by three county agents will take place at 1.15 p. m. The characters who will take part are all Windham county people and the scene of the enactment is that of any Windham county farm. The closing number on the annual meeting program will be a talk by S. McLean Buckingham, state commissioner of agriculture.

The apparatus at the central fire station in Union square responded to a still alarm this morning for a motor vehicle blaze on Grove street. A motorcycle which became overheated discharged sparks which came into contact with the gasoline flow and ignited. All non-metal parts on the vehicle were burned. The driver escaped without injury. Chemicals were used by the firemen in extinguishing the blaze.

Ralph E. Thurston of Grove street spent the week end at his home in Fall River.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Murphy, Miss Grace R. Murphy and Miss Mollie Noonan of Northampton, Mass., are spending the week end and holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bulger of Farrows street.

Miss Anna G. Murphy of Farrows street has returned to her home following a short visit with relatives in Providence.

Attorney E. C. Morse and Mrs. Morse of Seward street and Franklin Perry of Grove street were in Amherst, Mass., Saturday, attending the Amherst-Tufts football game. Both Mr. Morse and Mr. Perry are Amherst graduates.

Holiday travel over the trunk roads through this city required hourly patrolling of the highways by state officers in order to keep the heavy traffic moving at a rapid pace. Extra busses on the motor coach lines and additional coaches were placed in service on trains to accomodate the holiday tide of passenger traffic.

A meeting of the members of the town school committe was held Friday evening in the law chambers of Torrey and Geissler. Only routine business was transacted.

The three members of a telephone construction gang who met a tragic death in an automobile accident at Plainfield, Saturday, were guests at a local hotel. The trio left this city at noon to pass the week end and holiday at their homes in New London.

This year as in the past, about 300 students of the schools in this city, through the courtesy of the Winham County Y. M. C. A., will be guests of the Brown University athletic board at the Brown-New Hampshire state football game to be held in Providence next Saturday. L. Edwin Hill, county "Y" secretary of Danielson was in Putnam this week issuing special tickets for the game. The Putnam group will be given transportation by members of the Rotary club.

A movement is now under way in this city for the formation of a Lion's club. M. King Gillette, an official of the 23rd district of Hartford, Lion's International, is directing the work organizing the club.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

SUSPENSION OF BUSINESS THROUGHOUT ARMISTICE DAY

A general suspension of business Armistice day is the only celebration which this village can boast. Many are planning to attend the celebration at Danielson.

Mrs. Ida Pegrum has returned to Willimantic, having spent a week with her sister, Mary Tracy, local postmistress.

Mrs. Catharine Birracree spent the week end in Worcester at the home of her son, James Carlan.

Mrs. George Baker, of Putnam, has been the guest of her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Stetson.

Rev. George Reese was in Ansonia, attending the two-day church conference.

There is interest here in the arrival of a daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Carlan, in Worcester, as Mr. Carlan was formerly of this village.

The Ladies' Aid society is to hold the November meeting at the church parlors Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Willis Hill has been a visitor in Pawtuxet Valley.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mathewson, Mrs. George Lorfing and children, Billy and Betty, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thayer, in Providence. Mrs. Thayer was a former resident.

Club to Meet

The Art and Travel club will be entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Michael Connealiy.

John Birracree, of Norwich, has been a visitor here, where he formerly lived.

L. Thompson, of Providence, has been a business visitor.

Mrs. Jeremie Lafrance has been entertaining her sister from Danielson.

Alfred Hopkins, of New Haven, has been spending a few days at his home.

The Philadelphia-Camden bridge was crossed by 64,667 vehicles one day this year, a record 15,000 greater than the best day's record of the Holland tunnel in New York.

PLAINFIELD

NORWICH PASTOR WILL SPEAK FOR LINCOLN CLUB

Tonight, (Monday) the Lincoln club is to hold its annual Ladies' night at grange hall, Pachaug. An address will be given by Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, pastor of Park church, Norwich. A very fine program has been prepared by the president, Ralph Hopkins, and his assistants. Leach's orchestra will play for dancing.

Mr. Cornell of Black Hill spent last week end in Maine, where Mrs. Cornell and children are to stay for three weeks' vacation.

Mrs George Hutchinson was injured quite badly when she fell downstairs at her home.

David Dubreauil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dubreauil, is ill.

Was Former Resident.

Plainfield friends were sorry to hear of the death of Lee Heap, of Taftville. Mr. Heap was employed in the Lawton mill until ill health compelled his retirement.

When the general conference of Congregational churches of Connecticut was held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, at Ansonia, the pastors attending included Rev. W. C. Prentiss, Rev. G. H. Reese, of Central Village, Rev. William Williams, Wauregan, and Rev. W. J. Reynolds, Lisbon.

RADIOPHONE TO LINK U. S. AND SOUTH AMERICA

WASHINGTON — —(AP) — Radio will enable Chicago, New York, and other cities in the United States to telephone to Buenos Aires and other South American cities.

The telephone system of this country is to be linked by trans-oceanic radio with those in some of the South American republics, according to application for a license filed by the American Telephone and Telegraph company with the federal radio commission. Arrangements for the service have been made and the equipment installed, the commission has been informed.

The A. T. and T. seeks a license for Station WLO, at Lawrenceville, N. J., which is to make the trans-oceanic link with Station LSM, of the International Telephone and Telegraph company at Buenos Aires. The 19,000,000 telephones in the United States can be directly connected with any of the telephones in South America, which are equipped for the radio telephone service.

The A. T. and T. maintains radio telephone circuits to several countries in Europe and to Australia.

ARMISTICE DAY

It isn't to be expected that there will be the same enthusiasm and rejoicing on Armistice day this year as there was back in 1918. Then there was the great accomplishment of ending the war, the knowledge that the conflict was over, the realization that loved ones would soon come home and in the meantime would be surrounded by less danger. There was also the knowledge of victory. It was enough to set the country wild with joy and it was widely and generously expressed.

Today there is an opportunity for sober reflection upon the meaning of the day and the results that have since been obtained in behalf of international peace. Armistice day cannot be overlooked and there is no thought of such a thing. Armistice day, like many other anniversaries, will ever remain the date when the great war ended and when thoughts were definitely turned to other methods of settling disputes between nations. That change of view was accomplished only after great sacrifice, but it was such a sacrifice to all involved as to set the world thinking of the folly of such a method and the needless waste of life and property.

Since the armistice was signed rapid strides have been made for a new order of things. Nations have abandoned the old practice of secret understandings and have banded themselves together for the declared purpose of preventing war. They have come to agreement for the limitation of naval armament with the progress that additional steps will be taken in this direction in the new year, while treaty relations have been developed for the arbitration of such disputes as might have been the cause for war in the years that are gone.

The nations have come to this new understanding through a process of reasoning. Limitation of navies and even disarmament are now seriously discussed and urged where it would have been impossible to have had the subjects considered before the war, and it means much because there is a seriousness on the part of the governments and the people back of them. The order of things is seriously swinging toward peace and probably nothing brought it about more than that great struggle which ended with Armistice day. It brought the end of fighting and the dawn of peace.

NO DISPOSITION TO HURRY

At the present rate of progress in the senate congress will have to speed up if it gets out of the tariff trenches by Christmas.

The coalition has got control of the situation and is determined to produce such a measure in the upper house as suits its fancy, discussing the various items separately on the floor and dragging out the time in the meanwhile by such digressions as may be suggested by the various items in the day's news.

One morning the opening half hour or more was devoted entirely to a discussion of some remarks made at a banquet the night before by the senator from New Hampshire. It was brought up by a democratic senator for political purposes and it made an entertaining change from the tariff discussion but it didn't accomplish much toward the goal for which the senate is now sitting in special session.

The suggestion has been advanced by Chairman Smoot that the senate speed up its work by devoting seven hours a day to the tariff bill. Senator Hill raised objection because it would establish a bad precedent. Anyone knows the senate ought not to establish any such precedent as knuckling down to business and doing its work.

Senator Smoot further urged, in the interest of speedier action, that the coalition take over the whole task of producing a tariff bill, take the next 11 days to think it over and come to some agreement in regard to changes, submit them to the senate after the short recess and have the measure completed without the long debate which is now indicated. This was also opposed, so it appears that the stringing out of the discussion can be expected to be indefinite as far as the senate is concerned.

There are only three weeks left in November and there is no prospect at the present time that the senate will have opportunity to complete its work in the special session, after which must come the even longer discussion by the conference committee in an endeavor to reconcile differences which now seem irreconcilable. And yet it is only what can be expected and what has been produced before when a combination of democrats and insurgent republicans is formed.

MAILING CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

It may seem a bit early for the postoffice department to be issuing instructions relative to the mailing of Christmas parcels, but it is to be remembered that when it comes to reaching all corners of the globe it is necessary to make an early start.

It isn't wise to wait until the week before Christmas before thinking of sending presents to those on the other side of the world or to those who live at points where the mail service is less frequent than in a big city. This is all perfectly obvious to those who stop to think, but it has long since been recognized by the postoffice department that not very much time and effort are put forth in thinking about such things. Hence the necessity for the reminders.

For those who have relatives and friends to whom Christmas presents are to be sent, it is well to get busy, decide on the gifts, tie them up and have them ready to mail before the date arrives when the last mail that will insure Christmas delivery is scheduled. It is just as easy to do this now as it is to wait until the night before the mail closes. It is easier, in fact, to do the shopping early, when the buying crowd is smaller, than it is to wait and crowd the buying into a hectic few days when it means a race with the mails.

And what is true of the mailing of Christmas presents to those in foreign countries also holds good relative to presents that are to be sent to distant points in this country. There's a limit to the date they can be mailed and assurance being received that they will be delivered before the holiday.

Thus, the reminder by the postoffice department is one that should be thoughtfully considered by all that are concerned and the suggested action be taken. There is always a wild rush that increases in intensity the nearer we get to Christmas. The desirability of avoiding as much of it as possible cannot fail to make its appeal to a large number of people. That being so, there's nothing to do but to follow the advice, consider that the suggestion was meant for you and see that you do your part in speeding up the service and likewise in getting your presents delivered when you desire.

GUIDING THE AIRPLANE

Something new in the way of flying devices and additional protective devices is being brought out periodically. It shows how much thought is being given to this method of transportation and it becomes evident that valuable contributions are thus being made to the safety of aviation.

Special attention is commanded by the device which it has been shown can take over the guidance of the flying machine. That is a pretty important piece of work, yet it has been demonstrated that it can be done. It is a development from the gyroscope. Two of them are employed for this operation. One works horizontally and the other vertically, and the machine is kept under perfect control, so much so that the services of the flier might be dispensed with if the device made it possible for the machine to take off and alight. It, nevertheless, makes it possible for the aviator to give his attention to more things in regard to his machine, since it is possible for him to place the same dependence upon the gyroscopic control as captains do on ocean-going vessels. That the same principle should be applied to the airplane is probably only what was to be expected and it is within the bounds of reason that this will be worked out in time so that there will be equally as effective control in regard to starting and landing.

Thus, step by step, progress is being made for increasing the safety of the flying machine. The need of it is evident, for in spite of the increase in flying there continue to be many deplorable fatalities. In the elimination of such losses science cannot work any too quickly or thoroughly. The insurance of safety in flying is one of aviation's greatest needs.

STEALING AUTOS

Opinions may vary as to what a boy might be justified in calling a good time, but it is not believed that endorsement will be given to some of the practices that are resorted to such as the stealing of motor vehicles and the indulgence in wild joy rides.

Not all cases have the sad result of one in Boston when a group of boys, aged about 17, stole a machine and proceeded to drive it through the streets at a break-neck speed. They were having a delightful time at the expense of the owner of the car, but also at the expense of the other users of the highway. In this particular instance it proved to be a young woman who could not get out of the way of the vehicle, which was said to have been going a mile a minute. Whether the speed was exaggerated or not, the result was the young woman's death and the arrest of the quartette after considerable difficulty.

In such instances the question invariably arises as to whether the stealing of motor vehicles by those who want to go joy riding, those trying to get from one city to another or those who intend to sell is given encouragement by the leniency which is too often extended to those involved. Regardless of the purpose for which a machine is taken, under circumstances where the consent of the owner is not obtained, it creates a wrong impression in the minds of many others if they are led to believe that all that is to be expected is a talking to and the shaking of a finger.

There may be a difference between taking a car for pleasure and actually stealing it to convert into cash, but there is good and sufficient reason for furnishing real discouragement to anyone engaged in such a practice. And when it comes to burning up the road under such circumstances it is evident that it involves too much danger to be overlooked.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Armistice day, and it wouldn't be a bad idea to display the flag; one of the big factors in producing peace.

The man on the corner says: No one has experienced any market slump in taxes.

Have you thought enough of your low-number plate to get in your order for the same number next year?

If all the revelations which Senator Brookhart had for the grand jury were three years old it will not help the present situation very much.

Inasmuch as this country has not been guided by British action in the past relative to recognition of soviet Russia, there can be no surprise when Secretary Stimson declares it will not change our policy now.

THE TEN-CENT LOOK.

"Hello," said the good looking young man. "You're Doris Davis, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am," smiled the pretty young girl at the typewriter.

"Glad to meet you," said the young man. "I'm Don Mathis from the advertising department and I—I hunted you up on a matter of business. I just heard that you have won the trip to Texas with Mr. Pattee in his new plane."

"Right you are," said Doris. "We leave next Saturday. As there are five seats in the plane, Mr. Pattee decided to take one of his staff and we drew lots. The five will be Mr. and Mrs. Pattee, the mechanic, the pilot and me."

"You don't know," said Don, "how much I envy you. In fact, I'm so anxious to make the flight that I'll pay you $1,000 for your seat."

"A thousand dollars!" gasped Doris.

"Payable in installments, if you're willing."

"O. K.," said Doris.

"Ten cents down," said Don with sudden inspiration looking at the beautiful Doris, "and ten cents every time I see you, from now on until paid."

"At 10 cents a look," said Doris, "you'll have to see me 10,000 times."

"Ten thousand times it is," said Don. "By the way, I think I'll raise my offer to $2,000." But Doris told him $1,000 was plenty.

"Here," said Don Mathis, coming up again half an hour later, "is the second installment on the $1,000 I owe you. Doris smilingly took the proffered 10 cents and Don, after taking an unreasonably long look, went on his way.

"Here," said Don a few minutes later, surprising Doris by his hasty reappearance, "is the third installment. But," he said slyly, "you have to come with me to lunch to get it—I want a good long look for my money!"

The luncheon date was such a pronounced success that fifteen minutes after they returned Don surprised Doris again by putting in his appearance with another installment.

For the next few days Don hunted up Doris at the most astonishingly frequent intervals all through the day. They lunched together again. Then they dined. Then, on Friday, right after work, they took the bus out to the air field to inspect Mr. Pattee's pride and joy, the giant tri-motored amphibian in which Don was scheduled to leave the next day for a week's flight.

"Isn't it great!" said Don, his eyes sparkling with excitement.

"Just think," said Doris, watching a big mail plane take off down the field, "I won't see you again for a week."

"That's right," said Don, "so we'll have to make up for it tomorrow. Get ready for a big bunch of installments. I'll be running in to see you every other minute until we take off."

The day of departure arrived. In high spirits Don hurried up to see Doris the minute he reached the office.

"First," he said, "I want to make another payment." He handed her a dime. "Next," he said, trying to subdue the exuberance of his overflowing enthusiasm, "I want to give you a big thrill. Look at this!" Opening a box, he exhibited proudly his new acquisitions—a pair of aluminum binoculars, a map of the Mississippi valley and a motion-picture camera. And then, for the first time as Doris just stared and didn't say a thing, Don sensed that something was wrong.

"Oh, Don, I'm so sorry," said Doris, "but the—the flight's off."

"The flight's off!" echoed Don in dismay.

"Yes," said Doris. "Mr. Pattee called me this morning and said he couldn't arrange to take the trip after all. And Don—forgive me, but I'm awfully glad. You see, I was a little bit scared to have you take such a long airplane ride—"

"You were!" exclaimed Don, and he added softly: "You darling, if you're glad, I am too—because I'd really much rather have a 10-cent look than a $1,000 ride any day." Doris opened her purse.

"Oh," she said, "you won't need any more 10-cent looks. Here, you can take back the $6.80 you've already paid."

"If you'd agree to keep it as the first installment," said Don, "and take regular payments in the form of my pay check every week forever, we could—fly through life together."

"O. K.," said Doris shyly.

"If eleven people weren't looking," said Don, "we might seal this bargain with a kiss."—Exchange.

CHILD TRAINING

Sowing the Seeds of Criminality.

Pauline Herr Thomas.

My window overlooks a municipal park, beautifully landscaped, and set with a large skating pond.

A few weeks ago a little boy attempted to try the ice in the absence of guards, and the result was tragedy. Those who called to offer sympathy to the overwhelmed parents heard the father assert, most emphatically, that there never had been sufficient attention given by the authorities to the possible prevention of such calamities. The mother, I am told, appeared to be perfectly passive when this point was raised.

The whole community, however, seemed to agree with the father. Everyone was bitterly critical of a municipal management under which such occurrences were possible — there should have been a guard there, with plenty of warning signs, and so forth.

As a matter of fact, there were both, but the little fellow, having hidden himself successfully, had made his sally just as the guard, thinking it safe to do so, had turned his back and stepped away to direct a passing motorist. The child never reappeared. By the time the officer could reach him he was past aid.

Whether or not the management of this public recreation spot was as it should have been is beside the point of this article, however. I should not be relating the incident at all were it not for the fact that a relative incident of which I am cognizant makes the entire story well worth telling.

Several weeks before the tragedy, my little Jeanne and I were walking in the park, by the pond. We met there a lady and a little boy, the latter with his skates.

"Do you suppose the ice is strong enough, Mother?" he asked eagerly.

"It looks to me as though it were, dear", was the reply.

Just then the guard approached.

"The ice has not been tested yet, madam; we are allowing no one on it," he said.

"With this freezing weather we are having it must be strong enough, I should think," said the mother.

"We shall know directly," he answered.

He walked away, and disappeared into a building nearby where park equipment was housed.

"Oh, mother, I wish I could try it. May I?" begged the boy.

"Well, I'd like to know why not. It's stupid to keep the children off. It is growing stronger by the minute, with this cold."—It was extremely cold.—"Go ahead, dear, the guard won't be back for a minute, I guess."

Of course the child did as she suggested, while his mother stood guard, and warned him as the officer approached.

Is it necessary to add that this was the little boy who later came to grief? And this was the mother whose silent misery was so noticeable to her sympathizers.

A dearly bought lesson! But unhappy results of some sort must be expected when we deliberately encourage our little charges to disregard legitimate authority—unhappy for ourselves and for the children.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Right of Way to Post-Gager Cemetery Unchanged

Mr. Editor: Before any misunderstanding has had time to crystalize, let me say that the right of way to the "Mason monument" conceded by Mrs. Alfredina Houghton and accepted by the Mason monument committee at their meeting Thursday in exchange for the old right of way has, of course, nothing to do with the right of way to the First Burying Ground of Norwich Town, the so-called "Post-Gager" cemetery.

That right of way existed prior to the erection of the monument and has been in use for more than a century and cannot be discontinued without a town meeting, as it is a town right.

It passes through the Sterry property, through the back yard of Mrs. Mary Mara and across several of Mrs. Houghton's lots and no other right of way has been offered to those desirous of visiting the cemetery as they are entitled to do.

YOUR HEALTH

A Wonderful Medicine.

By Harry S. Fist, M. D.
Los Angeles.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

It is a strange fact that one of the best of medicines, valuable for almost everyone, essential for the prospective mother, is the least expensive. It may be obtained by any patient. It is by no means a new discovery. It is just—water.

And equally strange is the fact that it is hard to get people to use this remarkable chemical compound. Its beneficent effects have been reputed for centuries, yet in spite of the knowledge of its efficacy, efforts to promote its proper use by these patients have been, in great measure, unsuccessful. Fortunately, this wonderful medication is inexpensive. It may be obtained by any patient, be she rich or poor. It consists of two parts of hydrogen and one part of oxygen, chemically combined to form a clear, colorless, tasteless, palatable liquid—WATER. Just why it is so difficult to induce anyone to take a sufficient amount of water for this most important drug is often overlooked, although every other treatment is usually given just as ordered. Perhaps it is too plentiful and too easily obtained to be sufficiently prized.

Water is indispensible in practically every process of the body. It renders possible opening and closing of the eyes, digestion and assimilation of food, circulation of blood, and muscular movements. Without it elimination of toxic waste material would be impossible. And that is where it is most necessary for the pregnant mother, for her best medicine must have the property of increasing elimination, for one of the greatest dangers during pregnancy is toxemia. This is the result of an accumulation of poisons in the body. Ordinarily the waste matters of the body are carried away by means of the bowels, the kidneys, and the skin. The liver also plays a great part in removing poisons and preparing them for elimination. If this work is not efficiently done, the increased amount of waste matter which is formed by mother and baby will accumulate in the body and serious consequences develop. Therefore the time for treatment of toxemia is before its arrival. Elimination by bowels, kidneys, and skin must never cease, so constant care is necessary.

A medicine for the pregnant mother must, first of all, have the property of increasing elimination. This medicine not only increases elimination but also promotes the activities of the other processes of the body. It is by no means a new discovery.

A prospective mother should drink at least twelve glasses of water daily. She need not drink several glasses at once but should keep patiently at it, taking one glass every hour or one-half glass every half-hour even though it seems at first to cause discomfort.

Yet even water is a medicine which must be used in proper dosage; for in certain cases it is dangerous if taken in excess. For this reason as well as many others, people are learning to look upon the family doctor as a friend whom they consult once a year, so as to keep healthy, and the prospective mother should place herself as early as possible in the hands of a competent physician who will carefully watch her condition and guard her most valuable possession—health.

IN DAY'S NEWS

Peshawar.

Peshawar, where over a hundred thousand of India's bold bad Pathans live, has been in the limelight for months as the source of most of the news coming from turbulent Afghanistan. "This city," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society, "is both the capital and largest city of the northwest frontier province. It is the nucleus of most of the trade from India to Afghanistan by way of Khyber Pass and is not quite 200 miles from Kabul, the Afghan capital.

"The city is surrounded by a brick and mud wall which has 16 gates. The chief of these, the Kabuli or Edwardes Gate opens on Peshawar's leading business thoroughfare and widest street, the Kissa Kahani, or Street of the Story Tellers.

"The traffic in the Kissa Kahani offers an endless pageant to the onlooker. Mohammedan ladies riding donkeys astride look like white ghosts in their all-enveloping veils. Caravans of camels march down the the street, and figures that might have stepped from the Arabian Nights nonchalantly pedal bicycles. Tall, mustachioed Pathans drive in horse carts in which the women of the family are ensconced, and occasional motor cars drive beside turbaned, immaculately uniformed soldiers on horseback.

"The foot traffic is even more varied. Hawk-nosed Pathans with their lungis or head scarfs tied to leave one end flying in pigtail effect stride along beside tall Rajputanis in brilliant turbans. Almond-eyed, mongol-faced Uzbegs from Uzbekistan mingle with indolent Persians from Shiraz. The keen-eyed Afridi from the hills with their bushy beards contrast with the thin dark Hindus from the south of India. Jews from Turkmenistan are distinguished by their distinctive coiffures of corkscrew curls.

"Rows of shops line the Kissa Kahani. Above the shops lodgings are for rent and each topmost floor has an overhanging balcony. The street is paved but the rest of the city consists mostly of unpaved squares and markets and narrow streets and byways.

"Peshawar's bazaars, which are famed through Central Asia, are found mainly along the Kissa Kahani. Waxwork cloth, ornamental needlework, knives and carved wood curios are special manufactures. In the shoe bazaar may be bought gorgeous affairs of ebony kid inlaid with gold in the popular upturned toe effect. The sherbet sellers sit in little booths and ladle out their delicacies while the venders of tea squat beside huge, steaming samovars. A perpetual din features the copperware bazaar where the workers sit all day hammering trays, dishes, ewers and bowls into artistic and useful articles. Among the customers one may see sophisticated city dandies with roses tucked under their turbans over each ear and their eyes darkened to accent their brilliancy. Povindahs, or traveling merchants, with their wares from Bokhara and Samarkand, mingle with the throng. Fakirs, filth and diseased, mutter weird chants and beg for alms. A dark-skinned Madrasi will sell sewing machines in a booth next to that of a swart Turkoman with a wholly Oriental stock of gold thread, precious stones and postins, or sheepskin coats.

"There are few structures of architectural worth in the city. The mosque of Mohabbat Khan throws its tall minarets in relief against the sky and contrasts with the flat, monotonous roofs of the mud and brick houses. Many of the women, who are in purdah or secluded, escape to the roofs for their diversion. Only women of questionable social status need not veil their faces.

"Education is not neglected in Peshawar, which has an arts college and four high schools. There is a civil hospital with four dispensaries and a free library for the foreign residents and the few Peshawaris who can read. The suburbs of the city, located to the southwest, are famous for their gardens in which are raised quinces, pomegranates, plums, peaches, limes and apples.

"The Wazir Bagh or public gardens are located in the cantonments two miles of the city. These cantonments form the principal military station of the North West Frontier Province. They contain a government house, barracks and other buildings."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Peter Travels on Three Legs.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

What we can do we never know
Until our best we're forced to show.
—Peter Rabbit.

Of one thing Peter Rabbit was certain, and that was that the sooner he got away from that bramble tangle the better. He knew now that Reddy Fox knew where he was and he suspected that Reddy Fox also knew that he had been hurt. So he felt sure that Reddy would return, in the hope of catching him outside that bramble tangle. Hardly were Reddy and Mrs. Reddy out of sight on their way home when Peter left his hiding place and made his way to another bramble tangle. There he rested a while, then once more moved on. So he continued to make his way from one bramble tangle to another, hopping along on three legs and all the time keeping the sharpest watch for danger.

Now, as he hopped along he hopped slowly. He held that left foot off the ground. "My goodness," thought Peter, "if ever I should have to run for my life, I wouldn't have any chance at all on three legs! No, sir, I wouldn't have any chance at all on three legs. Why, anybody could catch me. However shall I get over to the dear Old Briar Patch! If any of my enemies should discover me crossing the Green Meadows to the dear Old Briar Patch I wouldn't have a chance."

At last Peter reached the edge of the Old Pasture. He had stopped to eat a little, although he didn't have much appetite. That bramble tangle was a very good bramble tangle. It was a big one and it was a thick one. In it Peter felt quite safe. He could stay there some time if he had to, for there was enough to eat in there, such as it was. "I'll stay here until this leg is well," thought Peter. So he made himself as comfortable as he could and prepared to stay as long as necessary.

There was one thing, however, that Peter hadn't considered. From the edge of the bramble tangle he could look across the Green Meadows to the dear Old Briar Patch. Just looking made him homesick. Yes, sir, it did so. The more he looked the more homesick he grew. There is no place like home when one is feeling bad, and Peter Rabbit was feeling bad. He stood it just as long as he could. Then just at daybreak the next morning, Peter decided that he couldn't wait any longer. He looked in every direction to see that the way was clear. He couldn't see far, for it was still dusk. He knew that if he waited until full daylight it would be more dangerous than it was now. So Peter decided to venture.

He hopped out from the bramble tangle and started across the Green Meadows. He went on three legs. Once he tried putting that hurt foot down, but he didn't try it again. That leg was too sore and lame to be used. So he limped along and hoped with all his might that he would not be seen by any of his enemies.

Peter was halfway to the dear Old Briar Patch when he heard a sound that made him forget all about how bad he felt. It was a scream. It was the scream of a Hawk. Peter didn't even look to see where that Hawk might be. He knows all about the wonderful eyesight of all members of the Hawk family and he knew that if that Hawk had not already seen him, it would be only a short time before those wonderful eyes did find him. So Peter started for the dear Old Briar Patch, and to see him go you would never have guessed that only a moment before he had been limping along.

It was lucky that Peter started when he did. The sharp eyes of that Hawk did see Peter, and the big bird shot down after him. Peter, rolling his eyes back, saw the Hawk coming, and he ran faster than ever. As he darted in the dear Old Briar Patch there was a hiss of air through stout wing feathers close behind him and with a scream of disappointment the Hawk went on its way. Then, and not until then, did Peter realize that he had been running almost as fast on three legs as he could have using all four.

LOANS UP to $300

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—A lot has been said, particularly by Senator Blease of South Carolina, about diplomatic immunities in Washington.

Up to the time prohibition went into effect the Bystander does not recall that anybody seemed greatly interested in the subject. There have been, however, quite a lot of motor traffic cases involving diplomatic personnel in which the said immunities added to the troubles of the Washington police.

So it's a bit refreshing to get the boot on the other leg for once. And, kindness of Prince Mozaffar Mirza Firouz, second secretary of the Persian legation, it is now possible to record the diplomatic corps as aiding the police in a law enforcement job instead of cloaking itself from police regulations in its immunity garb.

Senator a Witness.

What was toward was a chase after an alleged motor bandit, and if Senator Blease or any other senator is skeptical as to the degree of aid rendered by Prince Firouz, the bulky form of Senator David Walsh of Massachusetts no doubt will rise in the senate to deliver a firsthand report. Senator Dave was riding with the prince and shared in the chase.

The diplomat and senator were driving down Pennsylvania avenue in the former's car when they noted the frantic appeal for aid from a car owner who had perched on the running board of another machine and set out in pursuit of his own vanishing vehicle.

The prince promptly joined the motor posse, picking up half a squad of police, on and off duty, en route.

The fleeing driver abandoned his captured car and galloped away. Police hemmed him in, with Prince Firouz and Senator Walsh, still in the diplomat's machine, holding one flank.

At the crucial moment, the diplomat jumped out and blocked a possible avenue of escape with his own aristocratic person and the suspect was duly captured and booked.

Pleasant Break.

A full report of the incident, of course, went to the Persian minister and an exchange of pleasant words by everybody but the pursued man was in order.

It was quite a refreshing break in the unpleasant task of the police department in telling the state department about the bad traffic habits of diplomats.

But what most impressed Prince Firouz himself was that the "coppers" he picked up to forward the chase had plunged in pursuit unhesitantly, regardless of the fact that the fleeing man might have had a gun. By the same token, so did he and Senator Walsh.

That old seadog, Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired, argued in a Navy day radio address that "a second best navy is like a second best poker hand," his deduction being that it was no good at all.

Which, to the Bystander's way of thinking, does not follow necessarily either as to a poker hand or a navy. A good deal with either depends on the way you play it.

Japan today is a world power largely because of a navy at no time better than second or third or fourth best.

THREE INSTANTLY KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, Nov. 10.—Three linemen of the Southern New England Telephone Co., Louis Ely of Mystic, George Wood of Waterford and Louis Denzennto of New London, were instantly killed Saturday shortly after noon, when the automobile driven by Wood, with the others as passengers, left the highway and struck a rock on the state highway about two miles north of the borough.

Ely was a former resident of Jewett City and was well known here. When employed as a local trouble hunter and lineman here, he lived first on Anthony street and later on Mathewson street. Last year when the poles were being moved on North Main street, Ely was assigned to the job. The accident occurred on the state highway, two miles above the borough, near the so-called "Lovers' Lane" road. The three, part of a gang that had been working all the week in Putnam, were bound home in a 1929 Ford roadster, owned by Wood's sister. State road traffic was heavy Saturday, and as the driver approached the Bishop's section, he evidently decided to get by three of the slower moving cars ahead. Two of these he had passed. When nearly abreast of the third, that driver also pulled out in his endeavor to advance. This act crowded Wood far over to the left, with the result that, moving at a good clip, as he must have been, he was forced off the road entirely, across the shoulder, head-on into a big rock near the wayside wall.

State officers saw an unusual occurrence in the fact that all three men were killed, and instantly. The men were not thrown clear of the car. When picked up by the first to get to them, they found all three to be badly mangled, with fractured skulls, one partly disemboweled, and Denzennto with his head crushed in by the shifting lever which had been driven through his skull.

The three bodies were laid out on the grass beside the road until Coroner Arthur G. Bill, of Danielson, gave permission to Dougherty Bros. to remove them. State Troopers Nolan and Carmody of the Danielson barracks took charge of the check-up and investigation. A Jewett City eye-witness, passed the linemen's car a moment before the crash and said they were driving at a moderate rate and there was no one in the rumble seat. The three men were riding on the front seat.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

FUNERAL
Gen. William A. Aiken.

Final tribute was paid to the late Gen. William A. Aiken, the oldest member of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., and one of the oldest Civil war veterans of the country, at a simple but impressive funeral service held at 2.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the United Congregational church, which was filled with sorrowing relatives and friends. The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, who was assisted by Dr. Benjamin W. Bacon of Yale university, a son-in-law of the deceased.

The ushers at the church were Grosvenor, Ely, Charles Colt, Herbert B. Cary, Arthur L. Peale, Walter M. Buckingham, James L. Case, Herbert W. Gallup and Phillip A. Johnson. There was a wealth of beautiful floral remembrances although it was requested that no flowers be sent to the funeral. The casket was draped with the mortuary flag of New York Commandery, Military Order of Loyal Legion, of which Gen. Aiken was a member.

Burial was in the family lot in Yantic cemetery, where private burial services were held at the grave. The honorary bearers were Alfred L. Ripley of Boston, R. S. Gernon, Henry A. Tirrell, Wallace S. Allis, E. P. Bishop, Robert W. Perkins and John B. Aiken and Frederick M. Johnson of New York city.

The large gathering included delegations from Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, and Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil war. Major General Morris M. Payne of New London represented the military department of the state, having been designated to attend the funeral by Adjutant General George M. Cole. George MacAneny, president of the National Civil Service Reform league of New York and former chairman of the board of directors of the transit commission of New York city, was present. The staff and trustees of the Otis library, of whose board Gen. Aiken was president for many years, and the deacons of the church attended the services in a body.

Out of respect to the memory of Gen. Aiken the national flag was ordered flown at half staff on all the state armories until after the hour of the funeral.

The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Henry Allen and Son Co.

PACKING BOX BLAZE CALL FIRE DEPARTMENT

A bell alarm from Box 161, which is on Water street at the corner of Commerce called the fire department at 2:08 Sunday afternoon for two blazing packing cases at the rear of 5 Water street, the Norwich Bargain house. The flames had spread up between the buildings and 25 gallons of chemical were used. Two small boys rang in the alarm.

Squad A, Engines 5 and 1, Truck 1, Chief H. R. Taft, and Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan answered the call. It is believed the fire may have been set by boys with matches.

OBITUARY
Charles H. Culver

Charles H. Culver of 468 Main street, for 35 years a member of the Norwich fire department, died at 12:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the W. W. Backus hospital following a very brief illness, his death being caused from intestinal and bladder trouble. He complained of pains in the stomach about 2 o'clock Saturday morning at the Central station, where he was stationed on duty, and a few hours later was taken to his home when his condition grew worse. Following examination by doctors he was rushed to the hospital and an operation performed in an attempt to relieve him of intense pains. He failed to rally from the operation and his death followed.

Mr. Culver was born in Norwich, Dec. 20, 1873, the son of the late Stephen and Helen Young Culver, and was educated in the public schools of the city. He was at first employed as a clerk in Hallion's grocery store, Broadway, and a year before his marriage to Ida May Fowler on Oct. 10, 1895, in this city, he began his career as a firemen. He became a member of the volunteer department, joining the Blackstone Hose Co., No. 1, in 1894, and remained with this company until July 1, 1903. Mr. Culver was then appointed as a call man after the department was reorganized from the volunteer to part paid department.

A little over a year later, on Sept. 15, 1904, he was made a permanent member as chief's driver and hoseman. On May 6, 1929, he was appointed a lieutenant and assistant superintendent of the fire alarm telegraph system. He has fulfilled his duties as a fireman for more than a quarter of a century in an efficient and capable manner, and was regarded as a most loyal and faithful employe. The news of his death cast a gloom among his associates in the department.

Surviving Mr. Culver are three sons, Kenneth, Robert and Russell, and a daughter, Mrs. Leon Dix, all of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Jennie Young, of Worcester. There are also six grandchildren. He attended the Universalist church.

Mr. Culver was of a quiet and unassuming disposition, a loving and kind husband and father and a good neighbor. He did not belong to any organizations as his interest centered in his home, whenever he was not on duty. He was universally liked and was held in high esteem by his many friends, who were deeply touched upon learning of his sudden passing from earthly life.

Louis J. Chamansky

Word has been received in this city of the death in New York Saturday, of Louis J. Chamansky, formerly of Norwich, president of the Shepard Stores, Inc., Boston and Providence, and prominent in clothing circles for many years. No particulars concerning his death were received. He was 62 years old.

Mr. Chamansky began his career in the retail dry goods business as a bok of 15 with the Porteous and Mitchell company of this city. From the local store he went into the metropolitan field by becoming associated with R. H. Macy Co., in the capacity of buyer of ready to wear. In 1923, the merchandising staff of Macy's was reorganized and Mr. Chamansky, who at that time had been responsible for the outer and under apparel departments, became a merchandise assistant to the officers of the corporation to aid in the direction of these departments.

In December, 1925, he was made a director of the company and he continued actively with them until February, 1926, when he retired as merchandise councilor and executive vice president, after 30 years connection with the company. He still continued to serve as a director of the Macy company.

Mr. Chamansky was elected president and general manager in May, 1923, of the corporation that was formed in that year to acquire the Shepard Norwell company, Boston, and the Shepard Co., Providence. He was placed in active charge of the new Shepard Stores, Inc., on June 1, 1928. About a month ago he announced his resignation as head of the corporation.

Mr. Chamansky had many friends in Norwich who followed his rapid rise in his chosen field of work with keen interest. He rose from the position of cash boy in the Porteous and Mitchell Co., to head of one of the largest clothing stores in New England. He was one of the true pioneers in the field of stock merchandising as it is now administered. He became affiliated with the Macy organization in the days when stock houses were unknown.

Upon learning of the death of Mr. Chamansky Rutherford C. Plaut left for New York and will accompany the body to this city, where burial is to take place today (Monday).

Mr. Chamansky is survived by his wife and a daughter and a brother, Edward Chamansky. He also leaves a legion of friends and acquaintances here who will learn of his passing with profound sorrow.

Mrs. Ansette Sylvia

Following ill health for about a year Mrs. Maria Bond Sylvia, 79, widow of Ansette Sylvia, of No. 28 Lake street, died shortly after 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the W. W. Backus hospital. She was born in Washington, D. C., the daughter of the late Nelson and Harriet Bond and was married in this city to Ansette Sylvia about 45 years ago. Mrs. Sylvia has lived in Norwich the greater part of her life. For 20 years she was employed by Mrs. William Caruthers as housekeeper. Surviving Mrs. Sylvia are nieces and nephews living in Norwich and Washington, D. C. Mrs. Jane Gonsalves of 8 Quarry street, this city, is a niece.

HERD OF 20 COWS BURNED AT STONINGTON

STONINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A barn and 20 head of registered cattle were burned tonight in a fire on the farm owned by Carmelo Rustici known as "Elm Ridge." Hay and farm implements were lost, bringing the estimated damage to $8,000.

State police from the Groton barracks began an investigation at the request of Rustici, who said he had reason to suspect incendiarism.

"PROGRESS TOWARDS PEACE" THEME FOR ARMISTICE DAY CHURCH SERVICE

Two addresses, one by Imbert Fellows, past president of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, on his experiences in the World war from the time of enlistment to his return to this country, and the other by Henry A. Tirrell, principal of Norwich Free Academy, on the topic, Patriotism and Peace, were features of the impressive mass meeting held on the eve of Armistice day, Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the Central Baptist church under the auspices of the Norwich Ministers' association. There was a very large attendance at the service, the theme of which was "Progress Towards Peace."

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, president of the association, presided at the meeting and words of welcome were extended by Rev. David A. Pitt, D.D., pastor, who also led in the responsive reading. Prayer was offered by Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, pastor of Park Congregational church. The congregation stood in silent prayer for a moment in memory of the men who went to France in the World war and did not return.

The musical part of the service consisted of the hymns, O God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand, America the Beautiful, and Watchman, Tell Us of the Night, which were sung by the congregation, and a tenor solo by Frederick J. Maples, who rendered Kipling's Recessional.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Joseph Cooper of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church.

The Scouts acting as ushers were Charles Colt, Weston Pullen, Woodrow Sebastian, Leroy Sebastian, Bradford Spicer, Russell Rydholm, Nelson Packer, Edward Lichenstein and Lee Quinley. The Scouts wore uniforms with yellow neckerchiefs. Scout Edward Jordan gave Taps on a Scout bugle at the close of the moment of silent prayer.

Address by Principal Tirrell

We should encourage our children to be patriotic, lovers of their nation, said Mr. Tirrell, as the first of four points brought out by him in his interesting address. I look upon loyalty as a spirit and alive, that grows like a tree. We must teach our children love of country. Any young person who grows up needs to think of certain persons who sacrificed their lives for them.

There are three things in addition that we can give our children, said the speaker. We must keep alive the fighting spirit, the kind of spirit of giving oneself absolutely to a good cause.

We must keep alive the spirit of conciliation. This is what will make peace possible. The best thing that America can give the world is the greatest experiment in showing how people of diversified races can live in peace and harmony. We must learn how to live with the Roman Catholics, the Polish people and others. If we cannot do it we cannot think of world peace.

I hope every young person will get a true picture of war, said Mr. Tirrell as the final point. God has provided us with knowledge. God has provided a cure for great plagues. God has not yet provided a cure for cancer or a cure for war. It is not our business to hope that there will be no war in the future, but it is our business to put the best minds in the race to find an escape for war.

In conclusion, Mr. Tirrell said that all the discoveries would be as nothing were some way found to dispense with war.

Mr. Fellows in his entertaining address, which he read, gave the audience an idea of the hardships that the soldiers went through in the war, telling of his experiences and in conclusion made a plea for preparedness. He spoke as follows:

In 1917 I went to Fort Slocum and enlisted in the infantry. I was sent to Camp Greene, N. C. Here I was assigned to the 38th Infantry under Colonel Castner, now commanding general of the American forces in China. This regiment was a regular army regiment, part of the Third division. The officers, above the rank of lieutenant with two exceptions, were all West Pointers so we were assured of good leadership. When we went overseas I was the only non-com in the company that didn't have four or more years in the regular army. And those old army men were a fine lot, not a bunch to invite to a tea party, but all white men. No matter how hard the going, those men very seldom kicked or growled. They lived for the flag. Just to illustrate their attitude—one evening we came in from retreat and were taking off our side arms and hanging up our rifles. Tripp, who was platoon sergeant, said: "Say, when the band plays the Star Spangled Banner and the flag starts down, it just makes thrills run up and down your backbone and makes you willing to go right out and die for the flag. It's the most beautiful flag I have ever seen and I've seen most of them." Instead of laughing at this poetic outburst, as you might have expected from a crowd of rough necks, every one of them chimed right in with "That's right, Tripp, old kid." Six of the eight men in the tent were old-timers, four of the eight are sleeping in France today with "Killed in action" on their tombstones. Two are in hospitals yet and Tripp and I are the only two of the crowd to come through the war O. K. A year ago I visited Belleau cemetery and there I suddenly saw, "James T. Walsh, Sgt. 38th Inf., Third Div. Killed in Action July 5, 1918, California," on a marble cross. I picked some poppies, placed them on his grave, took off my hat and thought of Toughy as I had last seen him. Tears came to my eyes and a lump to my throat and I said, "Toughy, old kid, you sure were a white man."

We pulled out for Camp Merritt the end of February, where we finished up our inoculations. All together they succeeded in inoculating me 15 times before I was discharged. We landed at Brest after an uneventful voyage on the Mount Vernon, formerly the Kron Prinzen Cecelie. From there we went to Aze, where we trained for two months. On Memorial day we received orders to entrain for the front. The Germans were breaking through from the Vesle, 60 kilometers in three days. The Seventh Machine Gun, our motorized machine gun battalion, arrived first and held the bridge head at Chateau Thierry; incidentally they are the only American outfit that ever fought in the streets of Chateau Thierry. Then came a month and a half of sniping and raids across the Marne. The night of the 14th-15th of July, I went on duty with "Red" Shurtleff, on an observation post, at 12 o'clock. We knew from information obtained from prisoners that another German drive was expected. The Third division, American, Major General Joseph Dickman commanding, holding nine kilos from Chateau Thierry east to Dormands, was part of the 38th French army corps, Sixth French army. The French were doubtful about the Americans holding.

Broke the German Drive

General Dickman reassured them when they asked him if he thought the Americans would hold. "Nous resterons la," he said confidently. At 12:20 Red said, "Good Lord! Look! Here they come!" and how they came. The whole horizon was ablaze from 136 German batteries opposite the Third division, the ground rocked and shook and shrapnel began to rattle through the roof into the attic in which we were stationed. Was I scared? I'll tell the cockeyed world I was. We just crouched beside the window, trying to get all of our bodies under our helmets. Red said, "Corporal, I'm shaking like a leaf." I said, "That's nothing; so am I." We shook for just about half an hour when both of us stopped almost together and after that we didn't give a darn what happened, but rather hoped we'd get a flesh wound or something so we'd get sent back to a hospital for a rest. For three hours we kept on our gas masks. The building we were in was the only one around that didn't get several shells through it that night. About 3:30 the machine guns on the river bank started. And I'll never forget that machine gun fire, sounding loud and clear over all the bursting shells. It was different than any I ever heard before or since. There wasn't a let-up in it; it didn't come in bursts but one steady chatter. The machine gunners fired until their guns got hot and jammed or until their ammunition was exhausted. They they stood up and threw grenades into the German boats. Practically every man in these river platoons was wiped out. The main line of resistance was along the Paris-Metz railway embankment, 200 yards from the river, and no German crossed the railroad in the 38th Infantry sector except as a prisoner. However, we began to notice Germans on the hilltop to our right where the French were supposed to be, and soon after on our left where the 30th Infantry was. The 30th Infantry had been driven back to the heights above the river, leaving our left flank open for half a mile, and it developed later that the French had fallen back at the beginning of the barrage and taken up positions in the rear of the 10th Field Artillery, American. Two batteries of the 10th changed hands three times that day. All this taking place in the rear of the 38th, therefore we had to turn our flanks and fire in three directions. To illustrate the casualties, G. Co., under Captain Woolridge, had full strength of 250 men at midnight. At 8 a. m., there were 52 men still fighting, many of them slightly wounded, and part of the 52 were battalion runners, men of the Fifth F. S. B., etc. Prisoners were taken from every combat unit of two complete German divisions. These two divisions were the best left in the German army and were both Guard divisions. For their work here the 38th Infantry was given the name "The Rock of the Marne" and Colonel McAlexander was immediately promoted to brigadier general. The 38th Infantry is the only outfit in the U. S. Army to have a name as well as a number by act of congress and it was the only unit as small as a regiment mentioned by General Pershing in his report to congress after the Armistice. This was the definite turning point of the war. The Third division had received the brunt of the German peace drive and broken it.

Three days later the First, Second and 26th divisions attacked to the north of Chateau Thierry. From then on the Allies were constantly attacking and the Germans were thrown on the defensive.

Premonition

We were still busy mopping up, burying details, etc. The 19th of July we got our first sleep since the 14th, our emergency rations had been gone for three days and we were at that stage where we just barely kept going. A couple of men had to stay on watch so as I had gotten past being hungry or sleepy I said I'd go on first with any man who would volunteer. The men all wanted eight hours on and 16 hours off. At the end of eight hours when we were relieved we were given some emergency rations a couple of those we had found and I went down into a cellar. The men in the cellar were all Ninth Machine Gun, but they made room for me to lie down. In a few minutes a man shook me and called my name. I opened my eyes and said I wanted to sleep. He said that I had been sleeping for 16 hours and it was time to go on duty again. The night of the 21st we moved up to the river bank. We were supposed to cross at midnight but the Sixth Engineers were held up by shell fire and it was daybreak before we started across. The bridge was made of empty gasoline cans with a plank fastened on top. It was a pretty shaky bridge and with the shells landing about 50 yards upstream was no path of roses. We had to hold onto the shoulder of the man in front to help balance ourselves. That day I saw an instance of premonition. We had just taken Jaulgonne and Captain Leadford had just led three of us into a house and taken an enemy machine gun. No sooner had we cleaned out the town than the Germans began to shell it. Captain Leadford and a lieutenant whose name I forget, were standing in the entrance to a cellar beside me and Leadford was trembling. We were all in and at the point of breakdown. However, the lieutenant said, "What's the matter, captain? I never saw you tremble before." Leadford said, "Well, I've a feeling something's going to happen to me before this day is over." We went on out of the town. At Jaulgonne hill we came over the crest beside a road and were ordered to halt. Two hundred feet ahead were some clumps of woods. Major Keeley came up and said to halt the advance until he got in touch with the third battalion on our left and the French on our right. Runners were sent over to our right and found nothing but Germans. Barzy on the river bank, where the French were supposed to cross and have their headquarters, was still full of Germans. While we were waiting for the runners to return and were lying in the ditch, we unstrapped our combat packs and started to eat. Suddenly a one pounder began to land shells in the ditch and we leaped over the road and down an embankment. Just then two Germans came in as prisoners. I'd been in such a hurry, I'd left my food and two bandoliers of ammunition lying in the ditch. I thought I'd better get the bandoliers, although I had a belt full of cartridges.

I started across the road but just as I got to it something said to wait a minute, get into that shell hole and see what happens to these prisoners. A number of officers and men gathered around and one asked a question. One German started to answer it, then suddenly both threw themselves on their faces and several machine guns opened up on the group. Captain Leadford was instantly killed, just about an hour after he had made his remark. Most of the others were killed, too. I would have been if I hadn't stopped to see what was going to happen, as bullets were kicking the road all to pieces just in front of me. Suddenly firing stopped and the two Germans leaped to their feet and started to run, but they didn't get far. I got one and a signal corps sergeant got the other. Then for a few minutes we had a lively time. We got into the ditch on the other side of the road and then sent out some flanking parties. While waiting for these to get into position I was mighty nervous. The bullets were grazing the top of the bank. A man beside me raised his head to fire and got a bullet through his forehead. The man beyond him suddenly clutched his throat, stood up, spun around twice, and fell dead. Hundreds of German planes darted down at us, dropping small bombs and firing machine guns at us from above. Less than half of us reached the woods but we cleaned out the machine guns. We were all in and were relieved. It took two complete regiments of the 83rd division to fill up the gaps in the ranks of our four regiments of infantry. In four or five more days we went back to the front up near the Vesle. How it rained that night. Ten more days and we were on our way out, back to Cresanzy, then to a rest area for two weeks where we got our replacements. The old-timers were beginning to get thinned out.

In the Argonne

Then up to St. Mihiel. Rain every night and a full pack that is soaked is nothing to make light of. St. Mihiel over we went to the Argonne. The Argonne was stubbornly contested but it did not have the terror and ferocity and fierceness of the 15th of July. For two weeks I was sent back to a non-com school at Langres. Coming back, I was with Sergeant Osborne of the 30th Infantry. We reached the railhead one evening and pitched shelter tents on the hill above the town. There were eight non-coms in the party from the Third division. Next morning we discovered additions to our household during the night. Several officers returning from the hospital had come in together with half a dozen men. Besides these there were over 400 replacements from the 41st division. A sergeant walked over to me, and listening to the guns in the distance, started asking questions about the fighting. He said wistfully, "I've been here a year and all I've done is bring these casuals that come in up to the railhead, turn them over to some officer and go back for another bunch. This is the closest I've ever been to the front." I said, "Why so sad, soldier, you don't know your luck."

One of the officers came up to Osborne and told him to take charge of the replacements and give them a little drill and setting-up exercises to keep them from getting restless. Each of us took 50 men. I gave my men a command and most of them seemed dazed. So I asked the nearest man how long he had been in the army. He said, "Two weeks." He had come directly to the front. All the others said the same except one. He had been a corporal in the 41st division but had gotten broke so as to get to the front. Their rifles were full of cosmoline. They didn't know how to load or fire a rifle or fix bayonets to say nothing of defending themselves. They didn't know how to put on a gas mask. I gave them no setting-up exercises but took the former non-com, placed him in front to demonstrate the different things and then tried to teach them a bit about the art of war. When I came in at noon Osborne asked what kind of a bunch I had. I told him and he said they were all alike. Now, it was plain murder putting men like that in the front lines. Was it the fault of the officers that sent them in? Well, they were man power. A few would come through and would be of some use in a short time. If we had given the Germans a breathing spell and time to reorganize, the war would probably have dragged through the winter with the subsequent loss of more men than were lost under the circumstances. However, I am inclined to place the death of boys like these on the shoulders of the pacifists, who would not listen to Roosevelt and men like him, pleading for preparedness, those who claimed the United States could never be drawn into the war. It is a fact borne out by statistics that untrained troops have three times the casualties of trained troops, and to less effect.

Just then a mounted orderly rode up after the mail. He recognized me and came over. "Hello," he said, "where have you been?" I told him and he said, "Your buddy was killed day before yesterday." I wasn't sure he knew my buddy so I asked his name. "Sergeant Brotherton," he answered. So out of the tentful I mentioned at the start of my talk I was the only one left with the outfit. Tripp had his commission and was with another division. Sooner or later we would get it. It was just a matter of time. The orderly told us where the division was so we started forward and reported. We came out for a few days to train and rumors began the rounds that there would be another drive in a different sector provided the Germans didn't sign. We had been fooled once about this armistice, so we were from Missouri.

One morning I was sent with a detail from my company to load rolling kitchens onto trucks. Just as we finished an orderly came up to the officer in charge with a message. He read it and said, "The armistice is signed, the drive is off. Corporal, see to it that all these kitchens are unloaded and pushed back to their own companies." Away he went to celebrate. We unloaded our own kitchen, took it back and beat it for our billets. I don't know whether the other companies ate that noon or not. Why should we worry? The war was over, we were going home. I felt as if I'd been snatched back from the grave.

Hike to the Rhine

A couple of days later we went in trucks up to the front and the next day we started hiking to the Rhine. Fifteen to 40 kilos a day with two meals. Up at 4 o'clock, coffee, hard tack and a slice of bacon, march till we arrived at our destination when we would get a good meal. In Alsace-Lorraine queer American flags made their appearance. We reached Luxembourg and had to wait till Dec. 1 before crossing into Germany. The morning of Dec. 1 we lined up and the officers passed the word along not to notice any insults from the populace. We crossed the Moselle into the Saar district. Very few men were in evidence that day and the women and children just stared in silence as we marched through. That night we spent in Sarrburg. A number of young men came into the room where I was billeted that evening and asked what outfit we were in. We told them and they got quite excited. A couple of them had been against us on the Marne. There was no apparent bitterness and they wanted to inspect our equipment and brought out their own for us to look over. All in all we had a pleasant evening. This attitude was apparent all during the eight months we spent in the Army of Occupation. We were forbidden to fraternize publicly but in the billets the German families were very friendly. Possibly there was something ingratiating in their attitude. I sometimes thought so, but there was no apparent hostility.

Desire for Peace

Now, we of the Legion are the men who saw war. We know what it is from actual experience, not from reading, or movies, or imagination. If there is any organization in the country that more earnestly desires peace than we do I do not know what it is. We are sometimes accused of militarism because we believe in a reasonable preparedness, so as to prevent the murder of unprepared boys as happened in this past war. An army does not cause war. The statesmen and the big business men of the country are the ones that cause it. They appeal to the imagination and sentiment of the people, usually for their own profit. The Legion has a bill before congress at present. It is the universal draft bill, the purpose of which is to take the profit out of war by drafting all the resources of the country. If a soldier can live on a dollar a day, so can the shipbuilder, the munitions worker or the owner of a factory. This will mean that the selfish incentive for war that there has been in the past will be absent in the future.

BEAUREGARD TO HAVE CHANCE AT VACCA IF HE BEATS DODO JACKSON

Al Beauregard, Taftville bantamweight, has a chance to earn himself some real money if he takes over Dodo Jackson in the main bout at the Shyma club show at Taftville next Thursday night. If the local boy wins, either by a decision or a kayo, he can sign his name on the dotted line of a contract to meet Johnny Vacca of Boston at the Boston Garden on Nov. 29th. The bout will be one of the all star bouts on the card, another being the Kid Kaplan-Andy Callahan bout.

With this in view Beauregard is getting right down to serious business in his training. Beauregard for some time has found that he has not been scoring heavily with his style of fighting and is now changing it. Those who know Beauregard's style know that he fought from a crouch, throwing right and left hooks with more or less of a prayer that they would land. Beauregard also had a great habit of telegraphing his blows, this, drawing his fist back before he started his punch.

Realizing that he is up against a smart boy on Thursday night the Taftville lad has completely changed his style. Instead of fighting from a crouch he is standing up straight and instead of using sweeping hooks he is punching straight from the shoulder with just as much, if not more, power than when he used the hooks. It will be remembered that in all his fights Beauregard has kayoed his man with a straight punch rather than with a swing. With his new style Beauregard is confident that he can take over Jackson and get his chance at Vacca. The Taftville bantam has fought Vacca twice, losing a verdict in Pittsfield and then being the victim of a mistaken identity at Hartford. It will be remembered that in the Hartford fight the referee's score sheet read Beauregard 27 points, and Vacca 26, but in some way the referee became confused and raised Vacca's hand. Beauregard has been anxious for another chance at the boy that has whipped some of the best bantams in the game.

René Peloquin of Danielson has been placed in the favorite's position in his bout with Long Sing Que, the New York Chinaman. Peloquin and the China boy are slated for six rounds on the card. The Danielson lad last week took a six round decision from Johnny Reise of the Philippines at Worcester.

The tickets for the bout are going fast and a capacity house is expected. Apparently the local fans are anxious for boxing after a layoff of nearly a year.

"Y" Athletic Activities

The business men's volleyball league is coming along fine. Brown is leading the league, with six wins and no defeats. Harvard is running Jack Evans and his iron men a close second with only one game in the losing column and five wins.

The standing:

	Won	Lost
Brown	6	0
Harvard	5	1
Aggies	1	5
Yale	0	6

Games Tonight 5.15.

On Court No. 1.
Brown vs. Harvard.
On Court No. 2
Yale vs. Aggies.

Thirty-six active members of the business men's class are divided up into the four teams, and some hotly contested games are played. They play Monday and Thursday nights at 5.15 p. m. Join them for health's state.

There were no soccer games last Saturday, all the boys went to New Haven and saw a real game of football.

The Hartford Y. M. C. A. Leader Corps will be the guests of the local Corps on Tuesday, Nov. 19. Both Corps will unite and put on a combined drill and exhibition. This will be open to the public and there will be no charge for admission.

The Church league will hold a meeting tonight to draw up a schedule and elect officers. The meeting will be called at 7.30 p. m.

Red Cross Life Saving class starts tomorrow night at 8.45. All interested in this class get in touch with some member of the corps or the P. D.

Basketball practice called tonight at 8 p. m. sharp. All out.

Fifty-one Juniors answered roll call Thursday and Friday. This is the largest number in any one class this year, and beats last year's high mark by eight. Juniors remember that party promised to the largest class by New Year's?

ACADEMY ENTER TEN MEN IN CROSS-COUNERY TEAM

With a squad of ten men entered the Academy cross-country squad is conceded better than an even chance of winning the annual Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic conference run this afternoon at Westerly which is to be run between the halves of the Westerly-Stonington football game. Five schools are entered, including Bulkeley, Chapman Tech, Westerly and Stonington, together with the Wildcats.

The Academy will place its main hopes for first place on Navick, Lambert or Lyons. Westerly, with Capt. Ed Cotter, is banking heavily on him to lead the field home.

The following will run from the Academy: Navick, Lyons, Lambert, Beebe, Szarca, Richardson, Levitsky, Vallin, Seder and Lenkiewicz. Lambert, last Friday in taking first place in the Wildcat-Conn. Aggie Frosh run, turned in 13 minutes, 8 2-5 seconds, only 4 2-5 seconds short of the course record and the best time that has been made in this section this season. The Academy squad so far has won four meets, in addition to making a good showing in the Rensselaer Poly run at Troy.

The entire squad will make the trip and will leave the field house at the Academy campus at 1 o'clock.

SPENCER AND DEBAETS IN LEAD IN BIKE RACES

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Jamming the field into temporary submission, Freddie Spencer and Gerhard Debaets, the Belgian-American pair, today took the lead in the six-day bicycle race at the Chicago stadium.

Spencer and Debaets had covered 1,019 miles and nine laps at the end of 66 hours of riding, with Richill and Rieger, and Letourner and Brocardo, tied for second a lap behind. The leaders shook off the latter pair in one of the most sensational jamming sessions witnessed in the 22 years of the sport in Chicago.

DULL WEEK AHEAD FOR BOXING ENTHUSIASTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(AP)—There's a dull boxing week in prospect for followers of the cauliflowers with only the weekly shows at Madison Square Garden and the Chicago Coliseum to save it from being a total loss.

At the Garden on Friday night, Maxie Rosenbloom, a pugilistic clown who is hard to beat, meets James J. Braddock of Jersey City, in the feature ten rounder. In view of Braddock's poor showing against the retired light heavyweight champion, Tommy Loughran, it is hard to see how he can hope to win over as experienced a performer as Rosenbloom. Although lacking a punch, Rosenbloom hits fast and from every angle. His unorthodox style always bewildered his opponents, especially those who are comparatively inexperienced. He probably will enter the ring a 2 or 3 to 1 choice over the Jersey man.

Young Zazzerino, the loquacious junior lightweight from Jersey City comes back to metropolitan rings in the ten round semi-final against Dominick Petrone of Harlem. Still another Jerseyman, Harry Carlton, 135-pounder battles Don Valenti, English fighter in the first ten.

At the Chicago stadium Friday night, Jack Dempsey will present his third show with Bud Taylor, Terre Haute featherweight, meeting Santiago Zorilla of Panama in the windup of ten rounds. In another ten, My Sullivan, St. Paul welterweight contender, takes on Vince Dundee of Baltimore.

PITTSBURGH REMAINS AT TOP IN EASTERN FOOTBALL

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(AP)—Pittsburgh remained at the top of the eastern football heap today as a result of its decisive, 21 to 0 victory over Washington and Jefferson, seventh successive Panther victim this season. Cornell, also undefeated and untied, held its place a stride behind Pittsburgh, but chose Western Reserve for its sixth triumph in a 35 to 0 game. The third undefeated and untied eleven, Western Maryland, had an open date to be followed tomorrow by a game against St. John's of Annapolis.

Although the small circle of teams with perfect records remained unbroken, certain members of the undefeated but tied list fell from their pinnacle. Already checked by ties against Davis and Elkins and West Virginia in earlier games, Fordham regained its winning stride by shading Boston college by 7 to 6. Boston college previously had only a tie with Villanova against an otherwise perfect record. Villanova took its first defeat when Bucknell won unexpectedly by 9 to 0.

Pittsburgh's victory over W. and J. was the first defeat for the Presidents, who had been tied twice, Davis and Elkins, Duquesne, Rider, Haverford, Fordham and Springfield remained in the undefeated but tied class, making a total of nine eastern elevens which have yet to experience a reverse.

Dartmouth retained the lead in eastern team scoring, running its total to 281. Others in the 200-class are: Colgate, 262; Syracuse, 253; and Pittsburgh, 223. No eastern team has an uncrossed goal-line. Fordham, Western Maryland and Rider sharing the best mark with only 12 enemy points apiece. Only 13 points have been registered against Carnegie Tech, Vermont with 261 opposition markers and Hobart with 283, are the trailers.

YALE HAS HARD WEEK OF PRACTICE AHEAD

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Head Coach Mal Stevens served notice tonight on his Yale football team that there will be a heavy week ahead of it in preparation for the Princeton game Saturday.

Somewhat disappointed at the showing made against Maryland, Stevens has called a full time practice for tomorrow for the first time in three weeks. Tomorrow, he said, there will be signal drill and plenty of work on fundamentals, and Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday there will be scrimmaging.

Albie Booth, Yale's brilliant backfield performer, and Vincent, right tackle, who suffered slight injuries Saturday in the Maryland game, are expected to be in shape for practice tomorrow as well as "Hoot" Ellis, substitute backfield man, whose "trick" knee put him out of the contest with the southerners. Ellis hurt his knee several years ago, and it has been a source of trouble for him.

Yale will not be able to perfect a defense against Princeton plays because of a non-scouting agreement with the Orange and Black. Stevens will drill his men in general defensive work, and continue work on new plays begun last week. Princeton is the only team with which Yale has such an agreement.

Although Stevens would not make any comment on prospective changes in the line-up, it is expected that Bob Hall, lightweight quarterback, who was out of the Maryland game on account of injuries, will replace Bob Wilson as field general tomorrow.

THREE LOCAL BOYS FIGHT AT PROVIDENCE TONIGHT

Jimmy Quinn, Young Wakeley and Young Paradis are slated to box in the weekly amateur show at the Auditorium in Providence this evening. Quinn is slated to box the same boy to whom he lost on a foul a few weeks ago. The opponents for the other two boys are not known.

Pro Football Standing

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Following is the standing of clubs in the National Football league, including games played today:

Team	W.	L.	Tied	Pct.
Green Bay	8	0	0	1.000
New York	7	0	1	1.000
Frankford (Phila.)	7	2	2	.778
Chicago Bears	4	2	2	.571
Boston	3	3	0	.500
Stapleton	2	2	3	.500
Chicago Cards	3	4	1	.429
Orange	2	3	3	.400
Providence	2	5	2	.286
Minneapolis	1	6	0	.143
Buffalo	0	6	1	.000
Dayton	0	5	0	.000

Results, Sunday's games:

Green Bay 14, Chicago Bears 0; New York 22, Orange 0; Stapleton 14, Boston 6; Chicago Cardinals 8, Minneapolis 0; Frankford (Phila.) 7, Providence 6; Frankford (Phila.) 7, Providence 0 (played Saturday).

Steam Rollers Lose Again

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 10.—(AP)—A last-minute rally which produced a touchdown on the wings of a long forward pass gave the Philadelphia Yellow Jackets a 7 to 6 victory over the Providence Steam Roller, today. The Roller scored on five plays at the start of the game, Conselman making a touchdown. Late in the fourth period, Hollick scored for the Jackets after a Wilson to Kelly pass and kicked the placement for the extra point which gave him the game.

Well, how did your football predictions come out? Mine were terrible, thank you.

I gave some teams too much credit and others not enough. Still, I got pretty near an even break which ought to satisfy me.

Saw a mighty nice game of football at Brown Saturday where Dartmouth staged a comeback after Tommy Longnecker had almost thrown the game away.

And speaking of Longnecker, it was the first time that I ever heard a football crowd yelling for a player to be taken out because he was going bad.

Yet, that was what happened down at Providence. And then Cannell put in Morton who proved to be a real star. Why Cannell has kept Morton undercover for so long, is a mystery. If he had taken Marsters' place in the Yale game there is no doubt but it would have been a different story.

Those that saw the Yale-Maryland game also saw a nice battle but one that proved the contention of the football experts that Booth is the main cog in the Yale team. When Booth goes out of the game Yale falters.

The Boy Scouts and the Y. M. C. A. youngsters sure had a perfect day at the Bowl Saturday. And to hear them talk about it you'd think every one of them was aiming to be an Albie Booth when they grow up.

I saw a coupla youngsters up in the little park on their way home from Sunday school yesterday. Apparently one had seen the Yale game and the other hadn't.

The one that had seen it was demonstrating how Booth avoids a tackler. Says he, "Now pretend I got the ball and you try and tackle me."

The youngster that was to be shown makes a flying leap at the other kid who wriggles his hip and side-steps. He did a Booth all right, but the other youngster does a Brody into the ground.

Flat in the dirt and mud he goes, all in his Sunday clothes. When he gets up he looks like he'd have to be sent to the steam cleaners before he would be fit for the public gaze.

And mad. Say, that kid was just frothing at the mouth. What he had learned in Sunday school that day was entirely forgotten. "That's a H--l of a way to do. Look what you done to my clothes," he says to the other kid.

"Aw Gee, I didn't mean you should fall in the mud. I was just showing you how Booth does it." "Yea, that's all right, but ma don't care about that, she's going to give me a lickin'."

And the kids started to brush the mud off which no doubt helped a whole lot.

BRISTOL BEATS OUT WINDHAM IN LAST QUARTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 10—A brace of touchdowns in the final quarter gave Bristol high a victory over the Windham high eleven by a score of 13 to 0 in the final home game for the locals played at Recreation park Saturday afternoon. The game was hard fought with Allaire of Bristol as the feature player. The visiting quarterback crashed the line for a 30 yard run to score the second touchdown. The lineups and summary:

ELKS SPORT LEAGUE GETS INTO ACTION ON NOV. 24TH

The inter-club sports league of the Order of Elks swings into action on Sunday, Nov. 24th, with three clubs participating, Norwich, Willimantic and New London. The sports are cards, bowling and pool with a trophy going to the club making the best showing in the three branches. There is a special cup for the bowling division, a cup that has to be won three times by a club to become a permanent possession. The point system is used in determining winners of both the bowling cup and the sports trophy. The schedule for the first round is as follows:

Nov. 24—New London at Willimantic.
Dec. 1—Norwich at Willimantic.
Dec. 11—Norwich at New London.
Dec. 19—Willimantic at New London.
Jan. 8—Willimantic at Norwich.
Jan. 15—New London at Norwich.

The officers of the league are H. F. Bamber, chairman, and E. S. Bean, secretary.

RENAISSANCE FIVE TO PLAY AT PLAINFIELD

This week's attraction at the Plainfield Community house on Wednesday evening will be the fast Renaissance Five of Brooklyn, N. Y., world's colored basketball champions. The Renaissance team is reputed to be even faster than a year ago when they played at Plainfield. In addition to Saitch, Jenkins, Mayers and Ricks they have signed Bill Yancy, who has played with the Philadelphia Colored Giants, both in basketball and baseball. The Pros will have at least one new face in the lineup to take the place of Bill McElwain who played his first game with the Celtics last night.

MANY SURPRISES IN EASTERN COLLEGE FOOTBALL ON SATURDAY

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(AP)—While the flame of intersectional conflict soared to thrilling but disastrous heights in the mid-west, a day of resurrection struck the home guards on the football fields of the east Saturday.

Elevens that had all but given up hope, teams shunted about in the early season clamor, and embattled arrays that seemed marked for defeat rose with power and precision to rout the foes of the second Saturday in November. It was a day of satisfaction for the disappointing favorites of earlier week ends as well as the, underdogs.

Both of the east's good will ambassadors to the Big Ten turned out to be sacrificial offerings as Illinois fought off the plucky bid of Army, 17 to 7, and Michigan out lucked Harvard to win 14 to 12. There was satisfaction for the east in Cornell's thorough trouncing of Western Reserve, 35 to 0, and in New York university's brilliant defeat of Georgia's game Bulldogs, 27 to 19, but none at all in Detroit's decisive conquest of West Virginia's Mountaineers by the same score as Cornell's triumph.

The steadily rising might of the Pittsburgh Panthers, head of the east's all conquering forces, drew Pitt farther still to the front of the race for the sectional championship as Yale, chief of the challengers, fell by the wayside.

The Elis, conquerors of Army and Dartmouth, and beaten only by Georgia in the south, could do no better than hold Maryland to a 13-13 tie after little Albie Booth apparently had piled up a winning margin for the Blue. Pittsburgh, with the flashing Toby Uansa again in the driver's seat, walloped the hitherto unbeaten but twice tied eleven of Washington and Jefferson by the decisive count of 21 to 0.

Commanding attention in its first major eastern combat after a series of tilts with the mid-west, a big Maroon eleven from Colgate swamped Columbia 33 to 0 and left behind the impression of amazing power and speed still held in reserve. Colgate, tutored for the first time by crafty little Andy Kerr, lost a close early season tussle with Wisconsin, but beat Indiana and Michigan State. The Maroon, one of the strongest elevens in the section, has only Syracuse and Brown to face to complete the campaign in the east. Maintaining the pace with Pittsburgh and Cornell as the only undefeated and untied teams in the east is Western Maryland, unoccupied Saturday but busy Monday with Loyola, of Maryland. A half dozen squads, including Fordham, Davis and Elkins, Duquesne, Haverford, and Springfield have only ties against their records.

Dartmouth, without the services of the injured Al Marsters, still displayed enough power to beat Brown, 13 to 6, and Fordham, making its second start within six days, nosed out Boston college, 7 to 6. Davis and Elkins beat West Virginia Wesleyan, 13 to 0, and Duquesne outlasted Catholic U., 19 to 13. Haverford whipped Hamilton, 28 to 0, and Springfield bested Mass. Aggies 13 to 0.

Although Navy and Georgetown, with President and Mrs. Hoover looking on, were able only to fight each other to a 0-0 standstill, Princeton came out of the doldrums to defeat Lehigh, 20 to 0, for the first victory since the opening game of the season. Penn State gleefully battered Pennsylvania 13 to 7, and Bucknell bruised out a satisfying victory over Villanova, 9 to 0. Lafayette held off Rutgers, 20 to 6 and Syracuse played with Niagara, 20 to 0.

Holy Cross turned in a 44 to 13 victory over Boston university, Middlebury defeated Norwich, New Hampshire licked Connecticut Aggies, and Union bested Rochester, all by 7 to 0. Maine beat Bowdoin, 25 to 6, Rhode Island trounced Westchester Tev, 39 to 0, and Temple hammered Gallaudet, 31 to 0. Tufts and Amherst tied 13 to 13.

OCKFORDS AND WILLIAMS PLAY TO SCORELESS TIE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 10—The Ockfords of this place and the New Haven Williams battled to a hard-fought scoreless tie here this afternoon at Mercer field. The visitors threatened to score in the closing minutes, but were held on the 5-yard line. This was an Eastern Professional league game and was witnessed by a large crowd.

MARSTERS' HIGH MARK REMAINS UNCHALLENGED

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(AP)—Al Marsters' total of 108 points scored in six football games for Dartmouth held good against the week-end assault by eastern rivals as the crippled Green back lay in a hospital, his gridiron career ended. Morris of Haverford, runner-up to Marsters in the eastern individual scoring table, added ten points to his total to climb to 75, but still faced a difficult job in an attempt to overhaul Marsters.

Dowler of Colgate scored two touchdowns against Columbia and climbed into a tie with Hinkle of Bucknell, who carried the ball across the line one time in his game against Villanova. Each has 66 points.

Albie Booth of Yale added a touchdown and an extra point to his record, climbing to 63 points and fifth place. Ringle of Gallaudet and Davidowitz of Lehigh remained tied at 59 points.

The field goal remained in disrepute, Booth's three-pointer against Dartmouth a week ago being the only one credited to any one of the scoring leaders.

WESTERLY HIGH CAN CLINCH CONFERENCE TITLE TODAY

Westerly's high football team, unbeaten in conference play, stands a chance of clinching the title this afternoon in the first of its annual two-game series with Stonington at Westerly. Westerly has won its three games for a total of six points and with either a victory, which will make eight points, or a tie, for seven, will put the championship out of the reach of the other five teams in the race and particularly Windham and Stonington, the only teams with any chance remaining.

TROJANS AND BOYS' CLUB PLAY TO TIE SCORE

Scoring in the closing minutes with an aerial attack, the Boys' club of New London gained a 6-6 tie with the local Trojans Sunday afternoon at Lucas field on the West Side before a big crowd. After Krohn, Norwich fullback, had smashed the line for six points in the first quarter, the Whalers worked from midfield with four tosses and Funk accounted for the score.

These teams will meet again next Sunday at Morgan park, New London, when, with a little rejuvenation in the line, the Trojans expect to win. Krohn, Nick Economous and Royce were the chief ground-gainers for the locals, and Funk was the star performer for the visitors. Patsy Ferra's tackling was a feature of the line play.

SCHMELING WILL ACCEPT OFFER FOR ATLANTIC CITY

BERLIN, Nov 10. — (AP) — Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, announced today that he would accept an offer of $250,000 with a privilege of 30 per cent of the gate receipts for a 15-round bout with the best available opponent in the new Convention hall in Atlantic City, N. J., probably in March. The offer was brought to him here by Joe Jacobs, American manager, from Bob Guinnis and Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoters.

Schmeling said he would sign articles upon his return to the United States in January if the guarantee was posted to his satisfaction in advance. Schmeling is nursing an injured ankle and plans a three weeks' rest in Italy before sailing.

BANQUET FOR WILLIMANTIC MAJORS IS HELD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 10—With the closing of a successful baseball season, the Majors were feted Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clement H. Kegler of Windham road. There were about 40 players and guests present with Major Joseph R. Morrison, manager of the club, as toastmaster of the dinner-program. Remarks were made by Captain Louis Rabinowitz and Coach William H. Nichols. Recognition was made of the pitching performances of Charles Varrick of Manchester against the Rossie Velvet A. A., toward the close of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Kegler prepared and served the dinner.

STAMFORD NOW LOOMS AS STATE CHAMPIONS

Torrington beat Naugatuck Saturday in the big Naugy Valley game, 13 to 7, before 7,000 extremely partisan fans while Stamford, the state's only other unbeaten eleven kept going with a stirring 33 to 0 win over Bridgeport Central in the major developments in state football over the week end. New Britain high recovered a bit to shade Bulkeley of Hartford, 6 to 0.

In games affecting Eastern Connecticut elevens the Academy and Windham met disaster, the Wildcats losing to West Hartford, 25 to 0, and Windham to Bristol, to the tune of 14 to 0. Chapman Tech romped all over the Putnam high eleven that has won only one game this year in marked contrast to an unbeaten record in 1928. Pomfret prep made one touchdown its margin over Milton.

ACADEMY PLAY RAGGED FOOTBALL AND DROPS GAME TO WEST HARTFORD

Displaying disappointing form from the start, the Academy was forced to take a 25 to 0 beating from West Hartford high Saturday afternoon at the campus for its fifth setback of the season. The Wildcats showed a lack of anything like good football all afternoon and fell an easy prey to a wide-awake team that, according to reports, is nothing to brag about in its home territory. It was the worst defeat that the Academy has suffered in the last few years.

It was only West Hartford's second victory of the season but in accomplishing it, they looked like the best team that has met the Academy this year. Their fast-running backs with perfect interference and a fighting line, had the Academy baffled and probably could have rolled up a couple of more touchdowns had they been pressed. Plays galore were in their repertoire and showed rare sense in running them off.

Breaks Go To Wildcats

The Academy got all the breaks but the nearest they could come to scoring was the 30-yard line in the last quarter on an interference on a forward pass. In this same last period, the biggest break of the day came to the Academy when Hellyar intercepted a pass and ran 80 yards through the whole Academy team only to be called back for holding by his team.

West Hartford never had much trouble in getting a first down when they needed it. Their first score came through in the first, early in the session, when they received and marched with but one interruption for the score, Popowicz slashing through tackle from the 4-yard line for the score. The visitors added two more touchdowns in the second quarter, one by a march down the field and the other on a partially blocked kick off Les Crowell's foot that only traveled about ten yards. He was kicking from his 20-yard line when it happened. Hellyar scored the first touchdown and Drago the second. In the last quarter Drago pushed over once more.

The Academy, in the throes of one of their worst football campaigns since the war, have now won but one games, while losing five and tying one. There are two more to play, both away with Stonington Saturday and Bulkeley a week later.

Barber Only Bright Light

Saturday's exhibition was the worst of the season. West Hartford had not been rated as high as other teams on the schedule, particularly New Britain and Harding, against which the Wildcats made a better showing, but once they swung into action it was evident that the Academy couldn't compete with them at all. Frank Barber was about the only bright spot on the Academy team although Les Crowell, Bud Fontaine and Fat Stevens showed flashes.

The end play of the Academy Saturday was very poor, which accounted for long gains by the West Hartford backs. The center of the N. F. A. line played fairly well at times. On the other hand, the Hartford line, from end to end, which had been touted as very weak, stopped the Academy's running plays to a standstill and charged the passer so when the Wildcats took to the air that most of the tosses were wobbly affairs.

WESTERLY

ARMISTICE DAY PARADE IS TO MOVE AT 10 O'CLOCK

Armistice day in Westerly will be observed with a general cessation of business activity. Retail stores and manufacturing plants will be closed all day.

The annual parade will move at 10 o'clock from Broad and Elm streets, the line of march for which will be through Dixon square over West Broad street to Liberty and up Liberty street through Morgan street to the soldiers' memorial on upper West Broad street. The exercises will consist of musical selections and an address by Attorney Samuel H. Davis, following which the parade will proceed down West Broad street and through Dixon Square, up High street and down Grove avenue where they will enter Wilcox Park. Appropriate exercises will be held at the Hiker memorial, including an address by Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, pastor of Broad Street Christian church. Wreaths will be placed upon the two memorials by members of the women's auxiliaries of the veterans' organizations. All members of the four veterans organizations, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, British and Colonial Great War Veterans and Spanish-American War Veterans are expected to be in line. Members of the Grand Army of the Republic and Gold Star Mothers, who will be guests of the veteran organizations, will be in the parade, special conveyance being provided for them from their homes and return.

A football game between the Westerly and Stonington high school teams will be played on the High street field in the afternoon.

Shortly after midnight Saturday, the Ford sedan of Americo J. Gabrielle, 88 Oak street and an Autocar, owned by Aris Vendoorn of Washington, D. C., and driven by Vance W. Osgood of Hoboken, N. J., figured in a collision at the junction of High and Oak streets. The Ford machine was badly smashed in the crash, but no one was seriously injured. The accident was investigated by Officer Robert M. Kessel.

MISS LILLIAN M. BARNES BRIDE OF EDWIN CLEVELAND

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 10—In Ashaway Saturday afternoon Miss Lillian M. Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus E. Barnes of Hartford, formerly of Westerly and Stonington, was united in marriage with Edwin Cleveland, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cleveland of Webster, Mass. The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Phillips, Rev. Byron U. Hatfield, pastor of the First Baptist church of Westerly using the double ring service.

William A. Phillips and his wife, Mrs. Doris W. Phillips, friends of the bride, were the best man and matron of honor, respectively. Gowns of dahlia crepe were worn by the bride and her attendant and they carried chrysanthemums. There were forty guests among them: Mrs. C. F. Cleveland and Miss Converse of Intervale, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Beckman, Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cleveland and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus O. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brennan and son, Russell, and Miss Edith, all of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. "Bud" Douse of Boston, Deborah Hoxie, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Keller, Misses Irene and Katherine Gildea, Gertrude and Sophie Champlin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Ecclestone and son, Raymond, all of Westerly and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Law of Pawcatuck.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland left on a wedding trip to Hartford and a short trip through the mountains to Boston. They will reside in Cambridge, Mass., where the groom will resume his studies at Bentley school.

Generalissimo George E. Leonard, Captain-General Fred W. Harvey, Past Commander David A. Lowry, assistant master of ceremonies and Junior Warden Ronald C. Dove, all members of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, were New London visitors Friday evening with Palestine Commandery, No. 6, K. T., attending an exemplification of the Malta degree in the asylum, Brainerd Temple. They were present also at the reception tendered Rt. Em. Sir C. Hadlai Hull, a past commander of the New London commandery, now the ranking officer in Connecticut Grand Commandery. A chicken pie supper was served by members of the Eastern Star, previous to the reception and conclave.

Council Meeting Tuesday

An organization session will be held by the members of the Westerly town council who were elected to office at the biennial election last week in the council chamber at the town hall building Tuesday evening. The meeting was expected to be held Monday evening, but owing to the fact that it is Armistice day, it was decided to postpone the meeting until Tuesday evening.

MAX RAITHEL DIES SUDDENLY AT CAMDEN, N. J.

Westerly friends and relatives were shocked at the announcement of the sudden death of Max Raithel, 30, of 41 Granite street, former Westerly garage proprietor, Saturday morning at the Camden hotel, Camden, N. J., in which city he was employed by the Treiber-Diesel Engine Co. His last visit to his Westerly home was on Labor day, and since that time had seemed to be in his usual health. Medical authorities of Camden attributed his death to natural causes.

Mr. Raithel had been in Camden since the 13th day of May, his wife and two sons remaining here at their home, 41 Granite street. Mr. Raithel was the son of Christopher and Helen Raithel, who survive him. Besides his parents he is survived by his wife, Florence Wilcox Raithel, two sons, Max and John and two brothers, Charles and Fred Raithel.

He was a charter member of Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, having been in service in the navy. He also held membership in Franklin lodge, No. 20, F. and A. M., Westerly lodge, No. 673, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Westerly Forest, No. 107, Tall Cedars of Lebanon and the local gun clubs.

Roughnecks Chastised

In Pawcatuck Sunday about 1 a. m., two Pawtucket, R. I., truck drivers were worsted in a fistic encounter with a Pawcatuck man of slighter build. A week ago there was a street battle and a Sunday morning disturbance in Pawcatuck, but there were no arrests this time as Patrolman A. R. Sheldon, who was on duty, had been called to quell another drunken brawl on Mechanic street. The evening's excitement started at the annual banquet of Harley P. Chase Post, No. 1265, V. F. W., held at the American Legion hall on Main street. There were a number of guests and these caused the trouble, it is said. About 11:45 Officer Robert Kessel of the Westerly police was called to the Legion hall to quell a disturbance. Sergt. George Champlin accompanied him and quiet was soon restored when several young men were escorted outside and advised to go home. Two of the trouble makers at the banquet were the Pawtucket truck men, who had been invited to be present by a member of the V. F. W. Upon leaving the hall this pair went over into Pawcatuck and into the Modern Grill. They were intoxicated and boisterous, and the proprietor, Crist J. Ferraro, refused to serve them. They felt insulted and offered to lick anybody in Westerly and started in on one of the patrons of the place. Mr. Ferraro ran out to summon the police. When there was no police appearance Antonio Antosh, who was at the restaurant, administered the drubbing.

Reckless Drivers

Late Saturday Judge Oliver H. Williams at a special session of the Third District Court imposed fines upon two drivers who were found guilty of operating automobiles in a reckless manner on the Noose Neck road. William S. Simpson, 34, of 291 Van Nostrand avenue, Jersey City, N. J., was found guilty of driving a truck at an excessive rate of speed, coasting down grade at 50 miles an hour and passing a car on a curve. He was given a fine of $25 and costs. Toivo S. Hakkanen, 22, of 22 Williams Terrace, Quincy, Mass., was found guilty of driving at a speed said to be between 65 and 70 miles an hour in a reckless manner on a wet and slippery road. He was fined $50 and costs. The arrests were made by state troopers of the Hope Valley barracks.

Personal Mention

Thomas James and Francis M. Johnson, of the South County Public Service company, were in Providence Friday night attending a meeting of the employes of the Narragansett Lighting company.

Miss Camilia Panalia, teacher in the public schools of Pawtucket, is passing Armistice day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. G. Papalia.

Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams, of New York, visited here over the week end.

Rev. A. G. Haberlin, Rev. P. W. Eack and Dr. James H. Weeks attended the football game at New Haven Saturday.

Mrs. J. W. Davis, of New York, has been spending a few days here.

Exempted Town

The Connecticut state board of education at its meeting Nov. 6 exempted the town of Stonington from the provision of Section 873 of the General Statutes for 1929 and 1930. Therefore there will be no night school for grade subjects.

Robert Cragan, of Stonington, was elected president of the freshman class at Rhode Island State college at a meeting of the class last week. Cragan is captain and fullback of the freshman football team.

W. J. Kopp, of the American Velvet Co. has been on a business trip to New York.

Mrs. George Hyde has returned from a visit in Hartford.

Forty Hours' Devotion

The forty-hours' devotion opened in St. Mary's church Sunday morning at the 10 o'clock mass. Rev. E. A. Cotter conducted the services and will be assisted by a LaSalette Father today, (Monday) and Tuesday.

Henry Totten, Jr., is visiting his parents on Block Island for a few days.

Mrs. Ralph Seiss, of the borough, was elected vice president of the Westerly Hospital Aid association at the annual meeting of the organization held at Westerly public library.

William Doll, of Pawtucket, was a recent caller here.

MYSTIC

LOCAL RED CROSS DRIVE IS TO BE STARTED TODAY

Today (Monday) sees the start on the local Red Cross drive, with Miss Minnie Flynn chairman.

Inspect African Curios

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Beckwith and daughter, Miss Dorothy Beckwith of Old Mystic, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Elliot of New London were in New Haven Saturday, to visit with Miss Marguerite Eldredge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Eldredge of New Haven, who returned recently from a three years' stay in N'Tonodo, Belgian Congo, Africa, where she has worked as a missionary. Miss Eldredge brought back many curios from Africa, and her mother is keeping open house for a short time to allow interested people to view these articles. Miss Eldredge is to have several months' vacation, probably until January, before going about to give addresses on the work in which she is so much interested.

Mrs. L. E. Tift, who has been ill with quinsy, is somewhat improved and is able to be about the house.

Football Players Guests

Many football fans and students from Mystic will attend the football game this (Monday) afternoon in Westerly, between S. H. S. and Westerly high. There has always been a great deal of rivalry between these two schools. This (Monday) evening, the junior class of Stonington high, is giving a dance and the members of the football teams are to be guests. Kenneth Newbury, of Mystic, is chairman of the dance committee. Music for dancing will be furnished by an orchestra from Narragansett Pier.

Epworth League Social

Members of the Epworth league and their friends held a social in the Methodist church Friday evening. Tableaux, sketches, solos, duets, monologs, recitations, etc., were greatly enjoyed by the audience. During the social time, doughnuts and coffee were served.

Going To Danielson

Officers and members of Canton Aram, No. 10, Patriarchs Militant, are to meet at Odd Fellows hall this morning at 10:30, and from there are to go to Danielson where they will participate in the Armistice day parade, by invitation of Canton Mohegan, of Danielson. The parade forms at 12:30.

Mrs. Frank Clyde, of Old Mystic, has purchased the house on Greenmanville avenue, owned and occupied until recently by the late Mrs. Myrtle Saunders.

The United Workers of Old Mystic Methodist church plan to meet Wednesday afternoon in the parish house.

When the Country club meets at the club house Thursday evening, the following committee will be in charge: Dr. and Mrs. Louis M. Allyn, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. John Noyes, Mrs. George S. Scott and Miss Clara H. Chace.

Going To Ledyard's

The Old Mystic Social circle is to hold its meeting this (Monday) evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Lamb, of Ledyard. A variety supper will be served at 7 o'clock. The circle has met with these hospitable people several times and it is expected that there will be a large number attending.

The quarterly conference was held in the Methodist church here last week by Rev. Myron E. Genter, of Norwich, district superintendent.

Patriotic exercises were held at Broadway school Friday afternoon, in commemoration of Armistice day.

Today, Nov. 11, being a holiday, all stores, schools and the bank will be closed for the day.

PRODUCTION AND TRADE HELD AT HIGH LEVELS LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(AP)—Production and trade were generally reported as holding at comparatively high levels last week, with the stock market crash apparently exerting little influence save in inducing added conservatism in laying plans for the coming months.

The fact that the stock market finally began to show signs of stability late in the week, that the failures of financial institutions which have attended severe stock crashes in past have been entirely lacking, and that manufacturers are not faced with inventory write offs, served to maintain confidence in industry.

Despite the fact that three major industries — steel, automobile, and building—are operating at substantially lower levels than at this time last year, the total volume of production and of retail buying were estimated at higher levels than at this time last year, despite the sharp upsurge in the fall of 1928. Employment and payrolls were also maintained at a higher level.

Freight car loadings as reported for the week ended October 26, showed a sharp drop from the previous week and a substantial decline from the like week of 1928, although holding well above the corresponding 1927 period.

Among several industries maintaining operations higher than a year ago, were heavy chemicals, drugs and fertilizers, coal, petroleum, hosiery, shoe textile, radios, machine tools and electrical equipment.

Grain and cotton futures rallied considerably, although grains again dropped late in the week. The statistical position of farm produce generally, however, was regarded as favorable.

Another sharp drop in federal reserve brokers' loans was announced, carrying the total to the lowest since October, 1928. Furthermore, New York banks were able to rid themselves of about half of the billion dollar burden assumed when they were forced during the previous week to take up much of the loans cast off by corporations, individuals and out of town banks.

Commercial paper rates were reduced, with some moving as low as 5 3-4 per cent. The federal reserve system liberalized its buying of acceptances to include eight drafts on staple commodities.

NOANK

RECONDITIONING OR STORING CRAFT FOR THE SEASON

The fishing boat "Breeze," owned by Mr. Sweet of Groton has been hauled out at Rogers' boatyard for the winter as has also the "Helma," owned by Mr. Sheridan of Groton. The "White Cap" has been hauled out for minor repairs and put in winter storage. The yacht "Osprey" is having a new automatic gas fire extinguisher installed, also a new engine. The lobster fishing boat "Gannet," owned by James Brown of the village has been hauled out for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butson have returned after a visit with relatives at Patchogue, L. I.

Interest In Drive.

When the Boy Scouts held a meeting in the American Legion quarters the other evening, Scoutmaster Robert Whittaker, had charge of the work in drilling and first aid was carried on. Much interest is taken by the scouts in their new membership drive.

Plans are being made for the banquet to be given by the choir of Noank Baptist church in the vestry Thursday. The committee in charge is Mrs. John Porter and Mrs. E. P. Fitch.

Bringing In Haddock.

The Betsey C., owned by Captain Chris Christensen came into port with 40 barrels of haddock. The Marion and Dorothy owned by Captain Thomas Tinglesen came in with 14 barrels. The boat Baby II, owned by Bocchocchi Bros., and several other large boats are preparing to go to Nantucket, where they will be engaged in haddock fishing.

Miss Edna Rossignol of Providence spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Harrie H. Park.

Charles DeBiasi of Willimantic spent the week end at his home on Riverview.

Miss Annie Spicer has returned, after several days' stay in New York.

Meeting Of W. C. T. U.

When the W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. Charles I. Fitch on Spicer avenue during the week, Mrs. Linda Mosher was in charge of the program. Miss Pearl Carson sang several selections, Miss Nellie J. Starr of Uncasville, newly elected president of New London county, was the speaker. At the close of the business session refreshments were served by the hostess. Others present were Mrs. Ada Fitch, Mrs. Lois Shandeor, Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. W. I. Spicer, Miss Charlotte Morgan, Miss Gertrude Brown and Mrs. C. Chester.

Parker Wildes spent the week end at Spring Hill.

Mrs. Jennie Ashcroft was a recent caller on relatives at Gales Ferry.

The Ladies' Aid society of Noank Baptist church is to hold an all-day session in the vestry Tuesday at noon. Dinner will be served. The committee in charge of the dinner is Mrs. Jennie Ashcroft and Mrs. Marion Park and helpers.

Charles Hadley is employed by the Thames Towboat Co. in New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Finkbeiner have returned to their home in New Jersey after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hendrickson.

Miss Gertrude Brown has returned after spending several days in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10—(AP)—While the main trend of general business activity will be downward during the remainder of 1929 and perhaps during the early months of 1930, a decline of major proportions is not yet indicated, the Standard Statistics Co., of New York says in its current survey of economic conditions. "In view of the basic soundness of most of the governing factors in the situation," the survey adds, "it should be possible to correct this decline, to reverse the trend, within say six months."

The Cuneo Press, Inc., of Chicago, has contracted with the publishers of "Liberty" to print the magazine for a term of years beginning Feb. 1, 1930. In dollar volume, the contract was said to be one of the largest of its kind ever made in the industry.

Cocoa futures dropped to new low levels for 1929 during the past week on the New York Cocoa Exchange and present prices are at about the same levels as before the war.

E. J. Kulas, president of the Otis Steel Co., and the Midland Steel Products Co., said the stock market, "in its correction of excessive speculation, has been painting a wholly distorted picture of the true industrial situation and outlook." He said that actually industry was never in so secure a position, with plants in good shape, cash resources large and inventories moderate. He added that iron and steel and automobiles will round out 1929 with new annual records, and that after the current breathing spell, he expected to see a healthy recovery in automobile production.

Net sales of Spiegel May Stern Co., national mail order house for the first ten months of the year were $19,602,493 as compared to $15,628,493, an increase of 22 per cent. October sales were $3,000,000, as compared to $2,447,336, in October, 1928.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions and detours in this part of the state made necessary by highway construction and repairs, announced by the Connecticut highway department as of Nov. 6, 1929, are as follows:

Route No. 12—A section of the Norwich-Putnam road is being reconstructed just south of Central Village. Shoulders of this road are being constructed. Traffic can pass.

Route No. 109—Mansfield-Phoenixville road is under construction. The shoulders of this road are being built at this time. Open to traffic.

Coventry—Bridge over Willimantic river is under construction, but open to traffic.

Route No. 168—Jonathan Trumbull road is under construction from Route No. 3 to the end of the improved road north of Columbia Green and from the end of the improved road south of Columbia Green to the end of the improved road at Lebanon. Surfacing is being laid on the section south of Columbia Green. Travelers are warned to use extreme care in passing through.

Route No. 182—Flanders Village-Chesterfield road is under construction. Grading is being done and culverts are being installed. Traffic will find it difficult to get through this work.

Route No. 188—Flanders Village-Chesterfield road is under construction. Grading is being done and culverts are being installed. Traffic will find it difficult to get through this work.

Ashford—Two bridges are being constructed on the Warrenville-Westford road. Traffic can pass.

Brooklyn-Pomfret—An improvement is being made on the Pomfret-Brooklyn road, and delay to motorists may be expected where grading operations are being carried on and where surfacing is being laid.

Franklin—A section of the Baltic-North Franklin road is now under construction. Grading is being done, and culverts are being installed. It is possible for traffic to get through.

Griswold-Preston City road is under construction. Open to traffic.

Voluntown and North Stonington, Pendleton Hill road is under construction. Grading operations and macadamizing are in progress. Vehicles can pass through although delay and rough going will be encountered.

Now 26 million! For all Colds VICKS VAPORUB OVER 26 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

47 Years' Practice Taught Dr. Caldwell

Many things about Men and Women

DR. CALDWELL loved people. He studied the habits of his patients and tried to improve their ways of living. His observations over a long period of time convinced him many people were ruining their health by a careless choice of laxatives. Then he determined to write a prescription which would get at the cause of constipation and correct it quickly and safely.

How successful his efforts were is best shown by the fact that the prescription he wrote back in 1885 has become the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness, and lack of appetite, or energy showed him that the bowels of men, women or children were sluggish. It proved successful in the most obstinate cases. So men liked it. Old folks liked it because it never gripes. Children liked its pleasant taste. And everybody is pleased with the gentle way it accomplishes its purpose.

By 1888, the demand for this laxative was so great that the doctor permitted it to be bottled and sold by drugstores. Today you can obtain Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from any drugstore in the world.

A ROOM DEFECT BECOMES A BEAUTY SPOT

The Dressing Table Now "Wears" Bouffant Ruffles

By ELSIE DREW KENNEDY

To overcome structural defects, while preserving the essential character of a room, is a problem found particularly on second and third floors of some houses.

A deep pitched roof or a staircase often creates uneven wall spaces, cut-off ceilings and small recesses. If the decorator considers such defects as the basis of decorative themes, results are likely to be both unusual and distinctive.

The accompanying sketch illustrates the decorator's understanding of this idea in transforming a rather objectionable recess into the basis of a charming note in a girl's bedroom. The idea might be applied also in converting an odd storeroom into a guest room.

A recess formed by the close proximity of stairs on the opposite side of the wall has been converted into a setting for a bouffant taffeta dressing table.

Ruffled curtains are draped on either side to frame table and mirror. A deep valance helps hide the slant of the wall as well as concealing the electric bulb.

Rich taffeta, perhaps in a changeable hue, forms luxurious setting for the actual dressing table of unpainted wood. Such tables may be purchased in any department store or furniture shop and painted to harmonize with other furniture.

The kidney-shaped type illustrated is right in height and size. It affords ample space, through the arrangement of drawers, and allows plenty of foot room. Its shape allows a closer inspection in the mirror than the straight type.

The pull-out section gives easy access to the drawers and at the same time keps draperies fresh in appearance, since they are out of the way when one is seated at the table. A glass completely covers the top of the table and is a decided boon for preserving an immaculate appearance as well as saving time and temper when perfume or other liquor is toppled over.

A mirror, with or without a frame, is used. The triple type of mirror may be incorporated into the design, if preferred.

MEALS FOR A DAY.

Breakfast
Chilled Orange Juice
Wheat Cereal and Cream
Egg Omelet — Graham Gems
Coffee

Luncheon
Creamed Beans — Sliced Roast Beef
Bread — Currant Jelly
Apple Sauce — Ginger Cookies
Tea

Dinner
Italian Spaghetti — Baked Squash
Bread — Butter
Head Lettuce and French Dressing
Creole Cookies — Coffee

Ginger Cookies, 4 Dozen

2-3 cup fat, 1½ cups sugar, ½ cup molasses, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda.

Cream the fat and sugar. Add the rest of the ingredients. Chill the dough for 24 hours. Break off bits of the dough and flatten down with broad side of knife 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Bake for 12 minutes in a moderate oven.

Italian Spaghetti, Serving Six

6 cups cooked spaghetti, 5 tablespoons chopped onions, 6 tablespoons olive oil, 1-4 cup chopped celery, 2 cups tomatoes, ½ cup Italian tomato paste, 1 cup grated cheese.

Heat the olive oil and add the onions and brown well. Heat the tomatoes, which have been strained, and add the tomato paste. Add to the hot mixture and add the celery. Cook slowly for 5 minutes. Pour over the spaghetti and when served sprinkle with the cheese.

The spaghetti should be well seasoned with salt while it is cooking.

To prevent starchy foods, as macaroni, spaghetti and noodles, from becoming "sticky" during their cooking, boil them vigorously.

Ginger cookies and hot tea or coffee are suitable to serve guests calling on a cold day.

Thoroughly drain green beans after cooking. They easily become water soaked if allowed to stand in water.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Responsibility

The importance of training for responsibility is something of which young mothers have recently become aware. There is danger that in their zeal they will overlook other values of at least equal importance.

There is danger always of so overweighting responsibility in childhood that it becomes a too heavy and solemn matter to which the child in self defense reacts with negativism.

When the child accepts this overweighting of responsibility, he cultivates an attitude of mind which lends itself readily to unwholesome compensation for guilt feelings, and the indulgence in martyr attitudes.

Thus the little girl who is taught that she must consider the happiness of others before her own, may grow up to be the sort of person who dedicates herself to an invalid relative instead of facing her own problems and living her own life.

In training for responsibility we must bear in mind the child's own values and the stage of his ethical development. We must be careful never to ask him to violate his code of honor for one which seems to us more ideal.

To ask a boy to tell on his friend in order that we discover an offender, is to attempt to knock from under him his real ethical props. It is more important for the development of his sense of social responsibility that he be loyal than than that he tell the truth and bring a culprit to justice.

Probably the safest training in responsibility is that which is given unconsciously by parents in the conduct of their own daily lives.

GLIDERS ARE WINGS OF FUTURE GIRL PILOTS

Preparatory to becoming pilots, members of the newly organized Buffalo Women's Glider club are becoming acclimated to the air in gliders. Above are members of the club with Maj. John Goetz, the instructor. Below, a glider in flight.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 10 (AP)—Gliders are making some of Buffalo's future feminine aviators feel at home in the wide open spaces above the earth.

They are the "wings" with which members of the Women's Glider club are acclimating themselves to altitudes where someday they hope to soar at the controls of motored aircraft.

The club is the first of its kind for women in the country and was organized by Maj. John Goetz, its instructor, who believes gliding is the most practical and safe way for an embryo flier to get the "feel" of the air.

"The glider gives one a chance to overcome at least one of the difficulties of learning to fly—with a minimum of risk," said Mrs. Charles Dallas, wife of a pilot who hopes to earn her "wings".

Mrs. Dallas is one of the two members of the club who thus far have been permitted to ascend in a glider.

"Gliding is a new thrill. I am crazy about it. It is as different from flying in a plane as sailing is different from motorboating. You just float through the air like a feather. There is little danger. If you do the right things, you land with no trouble."

The club numbers seven young women at present, and all except Mrs. Dallas and Miss Rose Frank of New York city still are in the "ground" school.

In eight lessons, Major Goetz hopes to qualify them for their first lessons in flying airplanes.

The gliders are simply constructed with two wings and a seat in front at a control stick for the pilot. For the first flight they are towed along by men until they reach the proper altitude. For the more experienced, they are whirled high into the air drawn by automobiles, very much like a boy draws a kite.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Soda and water are better refrigerator cleaners than soap and water.

Marshmallows will not stick if the knife with which they are cut is dipped into hot water.

If the windows stick after the house has been painted, brush the inside of the frames with black lead.

A custard filling is less likely to soak into a pie crust if the crust is baked before the custard mixture is poured into it.

Let water come to a full rolling boil when poaching eggs. Drop the eggs in, turn out the gas and the eggs will finish cooking in the boiling water.

If white clothes are to be stored in a linen closet for any length of time paint the shelves in the closet blue. Clothes will not then turn yellow.

A damp cloth dipped in baking soda and rubbed over brown stains on the inside of tea and coffee cups will remove the rings and spots.

Boiled rice served instead of potatoes may be made to look more appetizing if placed in a ring mold for several minutes before bringing to the table.

When baking custard pies have the oven hot for the first 8 or 10 minutes to bake the pastry quickly so that the liquid will not soak through.

Cook fish as soon as possible after it comes from the market. Exposed to the air it loses much of its flavor.

To keep waffles or pancakes hot after frying heat a covered baking dish and put the cakes into it as they are taken from the griddle.

A hat-box for the bride to be may be made by covering an ordinary hat-box with white moire paper, over which are scattered sprays of pink rose-buds. The cover is ornamented with a large pink satin bow.

Should pickles turn black in the process of preserving, perhaps it is because there was too much iron in the water. Soft water should always be used when making the brine for pickles.

CORK

If the cork breaks and falls inside of a bottle you want to use, put enough ammonia inside the bottle to float the cork and put it away for a few days. The ammonia will either eat or destroy the cork enough to permit its removal.

BLUE GLASS

It is interesting to note the increasing vogue of dark blue in table decoration. An exquisite set of glasses in varied shapes and salad plates is of the deepest shade of sapphire blue.

SHOES

It is remarkable how long shoes will stay new looking if properly cared for. They should be brushed well after each wearing. A vegetable brush is excellent for suede shoes, if light in color they should be cleaned with art gum or a cleansing cream. Then trees should be inserted in each pair before putting them away in a shoe box or boxes.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

When you are annoyed by a throat-tickling cough at night take a teaspoon of salad oil.

Raw cabbage is splendid for the system on account of its supply of vitamines.

Rubber gloves are clumsy, but try to wear them for heavy work if you can possibly stand them. You can also do a lot for your hands by using mild cleansing agents. Warm, olive oil or melted cocoa butter rubbed into the hands at night keeps the skin lubricated and prevents the cuticle from breaking. If your hands are thin and bony, massage them gently with melting cocoa butter.

Never put a brilliantly colored polish on a homely hand. If you use liquid polish, select one that wears well without discoloring. Do not cut your cuticles unless they break and need trimming. Polish them back gently with the towel when you dry your hands.

COLORED FLOORS

The interesting grain and mellow sheen of a fine wood floor may serve as the decorative starting point for the whole room. In a bedroom, for instance, the maple floor may be dyed a delicate orchid with one of the new transparent color stains. Around this unusual note the treatment of the sunny room revolves in a harmony of sunset hues and soft dove grays. Pastel green, silver gray, royal blue and other lovely shades blend into the "ensemble" of bedroom or studio. Beech has much the same grain and takes a deeper color tone when varnished or waxed. Birch, with its smooth white sapwood and pinkish heart, absorbs a beautiful, even stain. Paint is the finish par excellence for the softwoods—pine and spruce. The glare of a sunbathed chamber can be softened if the floor is painted one of the absorbing shades—the cool blues, greens and grays.—McCall's.

NEW FLAVOR

Since lettuce, romaine or some other green must serve very often for salad in the winter thought should be given to dressing. The cook with imagination will try out everything in the way of flavors, added to regulation French dressing. Onion, salt, Worcestershire sauce, catsup and chili sauce are only a few of the things that can be used.

SHOE TREES

Children cannot be taught too young the value of the shoe tree habit. A wise mother gives her children the bonus of a dime or so a week when they put their shoes away carefully and hang up their clothes.

CURTAIN SLIPS

With rain, snow and other disagreeable weather, the glass curtains are hard not to let stay fresh. Patent clothespins painted the color of the room's decoration, make admirable clips to hold curtains back when the windows are opened nights.

SWEETENS DRIPPINGS

Dripings from highly flavored foods can be made sweet and tasteless again by frying a few slices of raw potato in them. This method, says Baltimore Sun, will also take away any flavor of rancidness.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A bois de rose hat, with crocheted brown, turns its scalloped black felt brim up right in the front. This is a new trick and likely to gain popularity.

Woolen dresses and ensembles in such fabrics as light and heavyweight tweeds and striped jerseys are in the limelight in the new modes.

Since green is such an important color, many of the newest and smartest bags are shown in various shades of green to match the ensemble.

A pink and silver brocade slipper has a tiny vamp yoke of gold and silver kid, a gold and silver ankle strap fastened in front with a tiny brilliant and a square heel of silver.

Slip-on gloves of four button length in medium grey, dark beige and pure white are the favorites for street right now. Suede is smarter than glazed kid, except in the whites.

A smart and youthful version of the beret fashion is made of a tweed-like chenille. These fit the head closely and are in colors to match the sport ensemble.

Reports from Paris give much place to the importance of evening coats of velveteen to match the frock worn underneath. They are knee-length and bordered with fur.

Chenel's now contribute sets of jersey turbans and scarfs in gay, modernistic designs to contrast smartly with even patterned jersey and tweed travel suits.

A black chapeau of very fine felt has no brim in the front but, beginning over the ears, has a pleated side and back brim that gives the appearance of a little down-in-the-back-skirt.

WASH CLOTHES BEST

What should the winter wardrobe of the school child contain? The washable materials will be plenty warm enough if they are worn over suitable underwear. Warm underclothing next to the skin is much more effective than heavy outer clothing for keeping the body warm. The custom of wearing washable dresses and suits the year round has been adopted by a number of private schools. It is smart, it is sanitary, it is economical, for children often outgrow clothes that are held over for another summer season.

PREVENTS SLIPPING

With dinner frocks what they are, no feature of the evening is more important than the dress slips which prevent shoulder straps from slipping. One slip, and you're out. The clips are jeweled and placed at strategic points: on top of the shoulder or above the V where the straps cross in back. Cautious revelers wear two sets of clips, particularly since these useful ornaments are the final syllable in chic.

USE FUR TO TRIM

The dressmakers are doing nearly everything they can with furs. The new style feature ties and gilets of fur. They emphasize fur waistcoats and fur incrustations on both hats and coats. Among the popular furs for these uses are ermine for evening, beaver, krimmer, astrakhan, fox, lynx and breichswantz.

LAUNDRY HINTS.

A little vinegar added to the water in which black stockings are rinsed will keep them a fast black.

Never rub the cake of soap directly on flannels. Wash them in a suds of pure soap flakes and rinse in clear lukewarm water.

When ironing linens cover a piece of beeswax with flannel and rub it over the surface of the iron. Linens ironed in this manner will have a fine gloss.

A smart idea is to make a chic clothes pin bag of the same material as one of your sleeveless house frocks. It gives a zest to hanging out the clothes.

To keep new clothes lines from tangling, soak them before using, in cold water and then bring to a boil and cook a few minutes. This also lengthens the life of the line.

CLOTHES CLOSET.

After thoroughly cleaning the clothes closet, pour a little turpentine on a clean cloth and wipe out the floor of your closet with it. It will serve as a warning to moths and change the atmosphere of the closet. Let dry thoroughly before returning any clothes so they do not take up any of the odor.

CURTAINS

It it a safe rule, when in doubt, to let simplicity be the keynote in order to attain a successful curtain treatment. Even though curtains are plainly made, they may achieve great interest through their coloring, their texture or their fascinating printed patterns.

VARNISH

A piece of oilcloth of the same size as the silence cloth is a wonderful protection to the dining room table. Put the oilcloth on first, then the silence cloth and finally the table cover. The table will never be marred by hot dishes or spilled liquids.

TO STORE BULBS SAFELY.

When you must keep bulbs for a time instead of planting them immediately, as is desirable, don't just let them lie around; take good care of them.

Unpack them at once, examine carefully, discard or place by themselves any bulbs appearing injured or diseased, and replace in the original containers, taking care to provide for ventilation—that is what the small round holes in the bulb bags are for. Or better still, pack in dry peatmoss, particularly if it may be several weeks before the bulbs can be planted. This sterile material will preserve the bulbs in plump, sound condition.

TO MAKE FALL CUTTINGS.

Many of our choice evergreens will not be true to type from seed, so cuttings must be made. Arbor vitae, Junipers, Yews, Spruces and Retinisporas come under this head. Take the cuttings late in the fall or during the early part of winter, after the growth has ripened through the aid of a few frosts, but never handle when actually frozen. The best wood is from the vigorous side and top branches.

FOR BATHROOM WINDOW.

Oilcloth curtains at the bathroom window will not be spoiled if the water from the shower wets them.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Mrs. Agnes S. McCartney is a member of the Illinois state board of pardons and paroles.

American women are employed in all but 35 of the 572 possible occupations now listed.

Mrs. Blanche Cavitt of Oklahoma City, Okla., a perfume expert, has insured her nose for $50,000.

Miss Isabel Larwill of Adrian is state labor commissioner of Michigan. Her salary is $5,000 a year.

A cytologist, a biometrician, a feminine "husbandman," as well as women nutritionists, bacteriologists and entomologists, are included in the scientific staff of the United States department of commerce.

Princess San Faustino, formerly Miss Jane Campbell of New York, has been awarded the Red Cross gold medal, highest honor that can be conferred upon woman in Italy for her work at the sun-cure colony for tubercular children.

RECIPES.

Fried Chicken: Dress, clean and cut for serving at the joints or in halves through back and breast bone one and one half pounds of spring chicken. Season with salt and pepper. Dip each piece in cracker crumbs. Let stand for 10 minutes, then dip in one slightly beaten egg, again in crumbs, and fry in deep, hot fat, or in a frying pan with butter, until a golden brown.

Vegetable Salad: Three-quarters of a cup diced cooked macaroni, 1-2 cup diced celery, 1-4 cup canned peas (or fresh), 1-2 cup cooked carrot straws, 1-4 cup string beans, 1 hard cooked egg, cut in cubes, 2 tablespoons snappy cheese, cut in small pieces. Sprinkle lightly with salt and paprika. Moisten with Russian salad dressing. Blend in one raw tomato cut in pieces. Heap in mounds on a salad platter and surround with border of lettuce and dressing, sprinkle half with chopped parsley and the other half with chopped and cooked egg.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Women are not permitted to serve on juries in Montana.

Ninety women hold county offices in Montana's 56 counties.

Three hundred and eighty-two applications for patents were filed by women in England last year.

Because women have proved so efficient in police work in Poland, the government is training 60 more for the service.

The Indian girl on the Glacier National Park reservation may follow her white sister in bobbing her hair and shortening her skirts, but she may not smoke until she is married.

All wage-earning women in Spain 16 to 50 years of age, except those in domestic service, are now required to carry maternity insurance, paying a small premium annually.

FLOWERS

Set cut flowers in a pail of water up to their necks each night if you would have them last.

BATHROOM

Keep a can of cleanser, a scrubbing brush and a clean cloth in the bottom of the bathroom closet. Then there is no excuse for any member of the family not cleaning out his or her tub after bathing.

TO PRESERVE SHOES.

Drying wet boots over a register often spoils them. Heat causes the leather to crack. To prevent this and keep them soft rub grease into them.

CEREAL.

Cereal may be placed in a double boiler and cooked slowly while dinner is being prepared. The next morning it needs only to be reheated.

NEW FLAVORS.

The family will appreciate it tremendously if mother manages to get new flavors onto the table. A dash of celery salt in the mashed potatoes, powdered ginger and lime juice on honey-dew melon, or a bit of garlic rubbed on the salad dish adds interest.

Wife a Veteran Secretary

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)— The wife of John Garner, member of the house from Texas, has been his only secretary for 27 years.

GILT FRAME.

Dip a soft cloth in the white of an egg and gently rub off the soiled spots. When clean rub lightly with oil of turpentine and it will bring back the freshness of the frames.

FRUIT.

While putting up fruit, remember to fill plenty of the small, screw-top mayonnaise jars with jam, jelly or marmalade. They make welcome additions to fall picnics, winter breakfasts and school lunches.

Your Health And Brain

By Dr. Leland B. Alford

Freaks of Circulation

The function of the blood is to carry nutrition to various parts of the body.

But some parts need more blood than others, and especially is this true when they happen to be active.

There is a further complication in that some parts of the body are active at one time and others at another time. The stomach is active during and after meals, while the muscles are active during physical exercise.

Thus arrangement must be made by the circulatory system for a larger volume of blood to be delivered to the part which is most active.

There is a center in the brain whose duty it is to see that this very thing is accomplished. This center is the blood traffic manager. By means of vacomotor nerves which cause blood vessels to contract in one section of the body while dilating in another, the great mass of blood may be shunted to the parts needing it at the moment.

Some very interesting studies were made along this line by a German named Weber, about 1910.

He determined the amount of blood supply to the organ by measuring the volume of organs, which can readily be done by simple apparatus. He found during movement of a hand, say, the blood supply to the arm was increased. That is true even if the thought of movement forms in the mind without any actual movement occurring. Not only is the blood supply to the arm increased, but that to all four extremities, although the one involved receives the greatest supply.

This extra blood supply comes from the organs of the abdomen. Hence the conclusion that one should not work or take a warm bath immediately after a meal when the blood is being used by the busy digestive organs.

During active mental work blood was found to flow from the surface of the body to the brain.

The emotions also have their special kinds of blood distribution. During fright the blood flows from the surface of the body to the brain and abdominal organs. Hence we become pale, and our brains are enabled to think quickly and accurately as they usually do at such moments.

PARIS MOTOR RUGS MATCH WITH COATS

PARIS, Nov. 10—(AP)—Clothes for the woman motorist displayed in connection with the recent motor show included rugs to match motor coats.

They are equipped with fur lined foot pockets, make-up pouches and a lap pocket. The rugs are made of the same tweed mixtures as motor coats, and like the coats are fur lined.

The accepted motor ensemble of the season is a pleatless lightweight tweed dress topped with a heavier tweed coat lined with fur. Only the hard furs like leopard, gazelle, calf and caracul are used outside on the new motor wraps.

Suede golf jackets, with hookless fasteners and worn with tweed skirts, are also in favor. Chamois jackets are new and have many devotees.

Fabric gloves which stimulate tweed are shown, most of them fur lined.

VIKING GIRLS OF 929 ALSO HAD THEIR BOBS

TILSIT, East Prussia, Nov. 10—(AP)—The flapper of today who thinks bobbed hair is a relatively new thing will perhaps be surprised to learn that the Viking women 1,000 years ago knew all about short hair.

Some 80 graves were found here in a huge Viking burial place dating from the ninth, tenth and eleventh centuries. In one of them a young woman with bobbed hair was entombed.

The women's graves contain bronze bracelets, rings, necklaces, cleverly worked brooches and head-bands.

Prams Have Cab Effects

LONDON, Nov. 10—(AP)—The closed-car fad has spread to perambulators. Latest among the models shown is one with coachwork sides, enclosed top and glass windows. It has an automobile-type fender over each wheel and a traffic bumper in front.

PORTRAIT PAINTERS FLOCK TO CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—Portrait painters find the national capital an interesting field. Celebrities from every land are here and most of them are willing to sit for an artist of reputation.

Douglas Chandor, English painter, has been here for some time with his brush and easel and now three young women artists have started to work. Miss Leonebel Jacobs of New York is at work on a portrait of Secretary James W. Good and later will do portraits of President and Mrs. Hoover.

Misses Elena and Berta de Hellebranth, Hungarian sisters, noted for their portraits of celebrities, are here also. They often do twin portraits of the same subject, each girl giving it individual treatment.

OBSERVE HOME SUNDAY BEFORE THANKSGIVING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—Clergymen over the country will devote part of their sermons the Sunday before Thanksgiving to pointing out the importance of religious training in the home.

The day has been designated as American Home Sunday by the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Ministers representing every creed and every section of the country have given sympathetic response to the federation's efforts to bring back Bible reading and daily prayer into the home circle.

The idea originated with Mrs. Eugene Cutler of Des Moines last year. Iowa ministers started the movement.

League Runs Library

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 10—(AP)—The Knoxville Junior league operates a community center and nursery by means of money made by a rental library.

Evening Ensemble

One of the popular metal fabrics—gold cloth—is used in the making of this exquisite evening ensemble.

The frock is exceedingly, but elegantly simple, with tiered skirt that dips in the back to end in a short train. The front, above the tiers, is gathered to form the much mentioned close-fitting hipline. A bow of self-material is posed at this point.

The jacket is three-quarters length and is as simply made as the dress, with a scarf collar.

Women Crash Gates In Capital To 'Tell The Folks Back Home'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—There are no one-eyed Connellys in Washington.

But the problem of the gate-crasher is a harder one than in most cities. With the early opening of the social season it will again bob up for its annual solving.

Washington, with its many brilliant social affairs, is a paradise for a person with a cast iron nerve and a pair of spats.

It is not that type, however, which causes trouble.

It's the wistful woman who wants to get in where the lights are shining and the music playing "Just once so she can tell the folks back home about it." Only the diplomacy which comes of years of service can gracefully turn her away.

The average Washington gate-crasher comes from the respected well-to-do families of the land. She comes from all over the country. She raises a white-gloved little hand and knocks, oh, so confidently!

Silly old cards? She just forgot them. But right there she is bang up against the capital city's protection from intruders on its exclusive social affairs.

As a result of its card check-up and indexed name list system Washington has almost rid itself of the social gate crasher—save at the white house.

This is one place where the great American public feels it has a right to go. It's the one place, too, where the greatest care must be exercised to see that cranks and other undesirables do not get in.

The would-be gate crasher wraps her evening cloak about her, trips up the steps and is met at the door by Sergt. Clarence L. Dalrymple, head of the white house police.

"Cards? O well, she just forgot them."

A dazzling smile and she is politely asked to wait just a moment while the list is checked for her name. It cannot be found. This is where diplomacy steps in.

A nice little woman whose only error is a desire to see the president and his splendid party cannot be dealt with like a professional "crasher." The situation is carefully explained to her. She goes away feeling that those nice doormen would gladly have let her in if they could.

Afternoon Suit

Mannish cutaway lines are combined with feminine trim in this chic afternoon suit.

The material is black broadcloth, with black galyak for trimming. The fur collar ties over in Ascot fashion, and the deep flared cuffs lend interest to the up-in-front movement of the jacket.

SEES WOMEN'S TOES VANISHING IN FUTURE

SHEFFIELD, England, Nov. 10—(AP)—Thousands of years hence, says an English physician, milady's foot will be a mass of bones with a few little appendages which once were toes.

Dr. Norman C. Lake of Charling Cross hospital warned Sheffield girls that evolution shows the front parts of their feet are becoming atrophied.

High heeled shoes in time cause the foot to become splayed out, and the toes, with the exception of the big one, are disappearing.

FAIR PARIS CHAUFFEURS QUITTING THEIR TAXIS

PARIS, Nov. 10—(AP)—Women chauffeurs have all but abandoned the taxi trade.

There are 196 licensed by the prefecture of police but only 24 drive cars. They earned good livings and tips were liberal, say the veterans, but most of them found the work difficult because of the complexity of the Paris streets.

Of those still operating, half are of the daring variety and drive at night, when the fare is double and tips often quite large.

Woman Crosses Fish

OGDEN, Utah, Nov. 10—(AP)—By planting trout spawn in her gold fish pond, Mrs. R. J. Shaum has propagated 15 fingerlings which are half trout-half goldfish.

Veteran Rolling Pin

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7—(AP)—Mrs. Oliver F. Rhoades has used the same rolling pin 61 years. It was made by her father in 1842.

Possum Attracts Virginians

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 10—(AP)—The possum party is the latest in Richmond society. Guests stalk the sleepy marsupials at parties on country places.

Woman Advises Colleges

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10—(AP)—Miss Margaret Lambie is legal counsel for six women's colleges in connection with legislation affecting the immigration requirements for professors.

Red Nails Demode

PARIS, Nov. 10—(AP)—The mode of red-tipped finger nails which raged here until recently has suddenly lost adherents. Only a vestige of the fad remains in the form of the red-tipped small finger nail on either hand.

NORWICH HAS SPECIAL PROGRAMME FOR ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVANCE

Norwich will conduct its special observance of Armistice day with a program that is to be carried out at 11 o'clock this (Monday) morning in Union square.

Some of the stores, mills and factories will close for the day, but other stores are to close for the hour from 11 o'clock to noon so that their employes may attend the Union square services. There is to be a large attendance of school children, for they are to be dismissed after the morning recess so that they can attend the services in a body.

On account of the space required in Union square for the audience of school children and others at the time of the program, the request is made that Union square be kept entirely free of automobiles and that there be no parking there. Traffic throughout the city is asked to observe the three-minute silence period at 11 o'clock.

The public is requested to be prompt in attendance at the service so that there may be no interruption from late arrivals. The merchants are asked to display their sidewalk flags and citizens are expected to display flags on their homes.

In case of bad weather the exercises will be held in the town hall.

The address at the exercises will be made by William Murray, adjutant of the state department of the American Legion.

The official program for Armistice day has been announced as follows:

10.45 a. m.—Bells.

11.00 a. m.—Period of silence.

11.03— a. m.—Music: America, singing, led by band; prayer, Rev. P. M. Kilmister, chaplain, American Legion; music, band—World war songs —"Madelon," "There's a Long, Long Trail," "Tipperary," "Over There," etc.; address, Armistice Day, William Murray, adjutant, department of Connecticut, American Legion; music, Star Spangled Banner, singing, led by band; taps.

After the formal observance is concluded the band will play several selections as the gathering disperses.

Boy Scouts In Uniform.

The Boy Scout uniform committee and President Charles Colt have asked that all scouts wear their scout uniforms to school and that the uniform be worn in all public service either on the square, in churches, or in school.

In the evening there is to be a dance at the state armory under the auspices of the American Legion.

EIGHTY SCOUTS ATTEND YALE-MARYLAND GAME

Eighty boy scouts enjoyed the trip to New Haven and witnessed one of the closest games of the season Saturday. The scouts represented practically every troop in the city. Troop 5 of St. Patricks sent the largest delegation, 35 scouts and leaders attending. Troop One sent 11 scouts and leaders, Troop 9 sent five, Troop 8 sent 14, Troop 10 sent seven, Troop 7, Duwell troop sent eight and Troop 2 sent one. The scouts took their lunches and suppers with them. Transportation was furnished by the several troops themselves. The scouts who went were enthusiastic about the game and the trip. Next year it is hoped that more can be accomodated. This year the number of tickets ordered was cut to a minimum.

Stolen In Jewett City

A Ford touring car belonging to Edmund F. Dudkowski, of 1 Oak street, Jewett City, was stolen there Saturday.

GRISWOLDVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marshall, and sons, Francis and Robert, of Springfield, Mass., are spending a few days as guests of Mr. Marshall's sister, Mrs Emma Portelance, of 213 Central avenue.

On Thursday afternoon the members of the Ladies' Guild society of St. Andrew's Episcopal church were entertained at the home of Mrs. Howard Gordon on Boswell avenue. Plans were made for a roast pork supper and the annual Christmas sale. Rev. E. J. Norris, rector, briefly spoke on the month's work. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Gordon.

John Higgins of New Haven is spending a few days with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gay, of Eleventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan of Waterbury spent Sunday with relatives on Page street.

The 7.30 o'clock mass Sunday at St. Mary's Memorial church was offered by Rev. Father Loftus, a Negro missionary, who spoke at the three masses concerning the needs of missionary work in the south. Father Loftus, who is stationed in Alabama, was a few years ago pastor of a church in this state. A special collection was taken up. Sunday was holy communion Sunday for the women of the parish, many receiving at the 7.30 mass. Next Sunday, the third Sunday of the month, will be communion Sunday for the men of the parish. As a mark of respect for the boys who gave their lives during the World war at the end of the three masses for the day the entire congregation stood at attention while a prayer was read in their behalf.

George Swanton of Providence is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Swanton at 499 North Main street.

PRESTON 4-H SEWING CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

The Happy-Go-Lucky 4-H Sewing club of Preston met at the home of Ellen and Ruth Abrahamson, Saturday afternoon, with six members and the local leader present. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Leader, Mary Lewis; president, Catherine Turner; vice-president, Janis Crary; secretary, Florence Brand; treasurer, Ruth Abrahamson; club reporter, Ellen Abrahamson. Plans were made for conducting a social and sale next month.

Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed. The next meeting will be held Nov. 23 at the home of Mary Lewis.

VALADE ADVISOR TO ST. JOHN'S COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 10.—Raymond D. Valade, of Putnam, Conn., a junior at Assumption college, has been chosen as an advisor of St. John's council at the college, according to an announcement following election.

The Connecticut student is one of the most prominent students at the local Franco-American college. He is president of the Literary society, of which he served as vice-president last year. He is vice-president of the junior class and an advisor for the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin at the college. He is also one of the college's valuable basketball players.

WILL PRESENT LIPKA ON BENCH WARRANT

Frank Lipka, paroled convict, who shot and seriously wounded a New London policeman on Oct. 6 and who was later shot twice by two officers who captured him, is soon to be presented in the criminal superior court on a bench warrant and will be given sentence.

It had been reported that this was to be done on Tuesday of this week, but State Attorney Arthur M. Brown said Sunday night it would not be as soon as that. It is understood that Lipka is ready to plead and take his medicine.

New Teachers

New teachers at the Central Baptist church school include: Elsie Schelim and Mildred Cass in the Beginners' department; Bly Patridge, Marion Pendleton and Blanche Peterson, Primary department; Mr. Andrews and Helen Denison, Junior department; Louis Allen, Intermediate department; Constance Raymond, Mrs. Pitt and Mr. Block in the Young People's department.

Mrs. George W. Davis and Miss Catherine Davis, R. N., of Norwich, were in Greene, R. I., during the week.

POETRY

Let There Be No Battles

With high heroic heart
They did their valiant part,
They gave the flower-like glory of their Youth
To lie in heaps abhorrent and uncouth;
They turned from these bright skies
To lie with dust and silence on their eyes.

m m m

Yet there's not dead; life's flag is never furled,
They passed from world to world.
Their bodies sleep, but in some noble land
Their spirits march under a new command.
New joys await them there
In that new world wrapt in immortal air.

But now, O men of earth, lift happy hands
And shout your loud Hosannas in all lands;
For out of the very ground
Rises a cry, a long impassioned sound:
"Let there be no more battles"; Field and flood
Are weary of dapple blood.

Even the patient stones
Are weary of shrieking shells and dying groans.
Lay the sad swords asleep:
They have their fearful memories to keep,
And fold the flags; they wear of battle days;
Weary of wild flights up the windy ways.

And bugles that have cried on sea and land
The silver blazon of their high command—
Bugles that held long parley with the sky—
Bugles that held long parley with the sky—
Bugles that shattered the night on battle walls
Lay them to rest in dim memorial halls:
For they are weary of that curdling cry
That tells men how to die!

"Let there be no more battles, men of earth;
The new age rises, singing into birth."

—Edwin Markham

HUMOR OF THE DAY

She (disdainfully)—So you're a sculptor?

He—Yes, but I'd rather work on clay than marble.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"I can't give alms to a man in your health!"

"What do you want for your penny? Tuberculosis?"—Newark News.

First Farmer: "I've got a freak calf on my farm."

Second Ditto: "I know it—he calls on my daughter."—Los Angeles Times.

"Are you sure that this is a genuine old edition?"

"Oh, yes, my grandfather bought it when he was a boy in a second-hand bookshop!"—Buffalo Express.

Mrs. Flim: "My husband ruined a perfectly good bridge party last night!"

Mrs. Flam: "Did he refuse to play?"

Mrs. Flim: "No, he insisted on playing."—Waterville Sentinel.

"Your son looks ill, what's the matter with him?"

"He's breaking in a new car and keeping down to 20 miles an hour for the first 500 miles is making a nervous wreck of him."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Although the house in which they live was moved 2,000 feet within three days, the family of George L. Sharon, of Rutland, Vt., found it possible to enjoy a good night's sleep, regular meals and other comforts of a stationary home. The major part of the course was up hill, but careful grading by means of blocks and rollers kept the house on such an even keel that every door could be shut with a slight push.

FOUR NEW LONDON BOYS JOY RIDING IN TRUCK ESCAPE BROKEN NECKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 10.—Four boys, none of them over 13, had a narrow escape Saturday night, when they stole a Reo truck and started on a joy ride which terminated when the truck overturned. Two of the youths, John DeLisle, 13, and Samuel Christina, 10, sustained lacerations and severe contusions and are at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. The other boys, brothers of the hospital patients, suffered bruises.

The truck, which is owned by Louis Hyatt, 27 Carroll court, was parked on Belden street during the evening and when it was found there the youths decided to take a ride. DeLisle did the driving and, with his companions, the truck was driven to Truman street, to Blackhall and to Williams street. When DeLisle attempted to guide the truck from Williams street to Lincoln avenue it overturned, the four boys being thrown to the highway, but by good luck were not caught beneath the truck. The police were notified of the accident, but before they arrived the boys had disappeared, the most seriously injured having been taken to the hospital and the others to their homes.

FORT NECK SPEAK-EASIES YIELD BEER AND WHISKEY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 10.—The police raided two more liquor resorts Saturday afternoon when that section of the city known as Fort Neck and where many speak-easies exist, received attention from raiding squads. Frances Olivieri, 86 Smith street, and Enrico Fabbri, 19 Smith street, were arrested, each charged with violation of the liquor law on two counts, possession and keeping with intent to sell. The Olivieri woman, who has not been arrested before on the charge of violation of the prohibition law, was released upon furnishing a surety on her bond of $1,000 for appearance in the police court Monday. Fabbri was released on bail of a like amount. John McLaughlin, Charles Maxson, Arthur Roe and Max Drueher, found in the Olivieri resort, were arrested on charges of frequenting and all were held for trial in bail of $50 each. The police had obtained information that liquor was being sold at the two Smith street houses and shortly after 4 o'clock a raiding squad consisting of Sergeant Samuel Hick, Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey and Patrolmen Frank Linehan, Dennis Murphy and Louis Tooker, went to the Olivieri house, while Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith and Automobile Patrol Officer Thomas Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Louis Wheeler and Louis Pine went to the home of Fabbri. At both houses about 40 cases of beer and a quantity of whiskey was found and seized.

NAMEAUG PUMPER WORKS TILL NOON AT MONTVILLE FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 10.—When the big steel warehouse of the Robert Gair Co., Montville, was damaged and its mammoth stock of baled paper practically destroyed, by a serious fire Friday night, so stubborn was the blaze that assistance was sought from the New London fire department. The fire was discovered by the watchman and when the fire-fighting force of employes of the company was unable to quell it, assistance was requested of the New London department. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and the Niagara pumper responded. Arriving at the Montville plant, the pumper took up a position on the river front and pumped tons of water into the steel warehouse, but without conquering the blaze. When the fire continued threatening, Chief Edmunds summoned the Nameaug Engine company and that pumper also sent volumes of water into the burning storehouse. The combined efforts of the firemen were not rewarded with success until 9 o'clock Saturday morning, when the fire was gotten under control and then the Niagara pumper was ordered back to this city. The Nameaug pumper continued to pump water upon the burning paper until noon, when the fire was entirely extinguished.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Daniels, of Minor avenue, Waterford, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Harriet Mae Miner, to Paul Gager, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gager, of Station 16, Waterford.

Miss Agnes O'Grady, 139 Crystal avenue, is entertaining Miss Marjorie Thayer, of East Lyme.

WEDDING

Edwards—Heffernan

Gilbert Edwards, U. S. Navy, and Miss Elizabeth P. Heffernan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Heffernan, 99 Hempstead street, an employe of the Corticelli Silk Co., were married Friday evening at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, by Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, D.D. Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Heffernan, Jr., brother and sister-in-law of the bride, were the witnesses.

Palestine commandery, No. 6, Knights Templar, tendered Right Eminent Sir C. Hadial Hull a banquet in the rooms of Brainard lodge Friday night, the event being attended by a large gathering of New London and visiting sir knights. Following the banquet the Order of Malta was worked on several candidates.

Leave Electric Boat Plant

The ferryboat Tenkenas and the steel barge Steel Weld, recently built at the plant of the Electric Boat Co. for the city of New York, departed Saturday for New York. The ferryboat left the harbor under steam and the barge was taken in tow by the tug Prudence.

Mrs. Arthur Higgins and infant daughter, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

The house, 35 Belden street, owned by Mrs. Michael Shea and Mrs. Mabel Vincent, was sold at auction Friday to John Leykidicky. The sale of the house was ordered several weeks ago by the superior court.

MAYOR TWOMEY ASKS FOR REVERENT SILENCE AT 11 A. M.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 10—This city will not observe Armistice day for no arrangements have been made to commemorate the eleventh anniversary of the conclusion of the World war. Last year, the tenth anniversary, was observed by a mammoth street parade, but tomorrow, other than the suspension of business by the banks and federal and municipal buildings, business will continue as usual. The post office will be open for a half day, as will the public library. John Coleman Prince post, No. 9, American Legion, will conduct a dance in Plant hall. Mayor Cornelius D. Twomey has requested the populace to observe three minutes of silence as a token of respect to the dead, starting at 11 o'clock. He advocates strict silence and bowed heads during that period.

Showing Improvement

Arthur Drumm, long employed by the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, who has been confined to his home on Alger street as a result of shock, is reported as improving gradually.

Harry J. Howard, 25 Walden avenue, reported to the police this afternoon that during last night and while his automobile was parked in front of his home a steel disk wheel, tire and tube was stolen.

GIVE COMFORT TO BLIND BY WORK IN BRAILLE

The local chapter of the American Red Cross has a Braille committee of which Mrs. Frank Valentine Chappell is chairman. Miss Edna Leighton Tyler was the first member of the chapter to take up the work when in 1922 she studied the Braille system by correspondence and obtained her certificate as transcriber.

Later Misses Theodora and Virginia Palmer took up Braille and there are now in addition to these Miss Ruth Harris, Mrs. Hubert Dart of Montville, Mrs. F. V. Chappell and Miss Elizabeth Lee Chappell. The last named has just passed her examinations.

The local volunteers have transcribed J. Poindexter Colored by Irving Cobb, Fascinating Stranger by Booth Tarkington, Beasts, Men and Gods by Ossendowski, Unrooted by Brand Whitlock, Adrienne Toner and Tante, both by Anne Douglas Sedgwick; Warbacka by Selma Lagerlof, Spinster of This Parish by Maxwell and Arabian Knights, all of which are single copies, and The Art of Reining People Out of Trouble, by Carl de Schweinitz and Journal of Columbus on the First Voyage to America, which were transcribed by a special process for duplication. The Baille letterinr, which is composed of tiny embossed dots, may be read through the medium of the fincer tips.

John Rinkis, U. S. Coast Guard; David Haihan, trawler Bloyer; Dorothy Buerr, Mystic; Clifton Rood, 42 Front street; Mrs. Harris Boutelle and infant son, Mystic; Mrs. John Devans, 73 Hempstead street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

A man named Burbank, residing at 87 Riverview avenue, reported to the police Saturday that while his automobile was parked in front of his home Friday night a thief stole two batteries.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Richard Curran

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Curran, widow of Richard Curran, of 102 Montauk avenue, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners, including a delegation of members of the Ladies' auxiliary, Ancient Order of Hibernians. The floral tributes were exceptionally beautiful. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, with Rev. George Clark deacon and Rev. Raymond J. O'Callaghan sub-deacon. The quartet from St. Mary's Star of the Sea church sang the Gregorian mass and as a waiting hymn, Edward F. Murray gave "There's a Beautiful Land on High." The bearers were Joseph N. Cranker, David N. Reagon, Edward D. Sullivan, Harry N. Stanford, Gurdon H. Williams and Nathaniel J. Shea. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Hershel Cox

Eugene Gianetti, 18 East street, was presented on a charge of violation of the liquor law and possession, and was fined $100 and costs.

The continued case of Stanislaw Winski, a laborer, charged with nonsupport, was continued until Monday. Winsky was arrested last September and the case has been continued from time to time.

STOLEN CAR DITCHED IN WEST WARWICK, R. I.

The police of West Warwick, R. I. communicated with the New London police Saturday, stating that the former were in possession of an automobile that had been wrecked after it had been abandoned and when police pursued it. Investigation by the New London police revealed that the auto was owned by Morris Peskoff, 199 Huntington street, and that it was stolen Friday night from in front of his residence, but the owner had not made known that fact. When the automobile appeared in West Warwick it attracted the attention of an officer, who gave chase, and when the pursuit became too hot the driver ditched the machine and the occupants escaped.

W. H. Clark, alias W. H. Burke, was arrested at the Garde theater Saturday night, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. Clark caused annoyance to patrons of the playhouse and was arrested by Patrolman Harry Goldberg. He was released upon furnishing a bond of $35 for his appearance in the police court Monday.

Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin reported Saturday a defective sidewalk on Williams street, near Mohegan avenue. The matter will be turned over to the highway department Monday that immediate repairs can be made.

WALBACH STREET GIRL STRUCK BY WATERFORD CAR

Helen Lake, 7, residing at 72 Walbach street, was struck by an automobile driven by Charles J. Mitchell, Fog Plain road, Waterford, on Main street Saturday evening. The child was knocked down, receiving bruises as was shown when she was taken to the office of a physician. Mitchell was arrested by Patrolman Clarence Wells charged with driving an automobile equipped with defective brakes. He will be in court Monday.

A local mason, married, was arrested early today on Shaw street by Patrolman John Foley charged with intoxication and will be in court Monday. He has been arrested numerous times for this offense and for breach of the peace.

Another old offender was arrested Saturday night charged with intoxication. He has been arrested 26 times and will be in court tomorrow.

Mrs. M. V. Burgess, of the Lighthouse inn, Lower Boulevard, is spending a few days in New York.

Mrs. James McDonough.

Mrs. Ellen McDonough, 71, widow of James McDonough, formerly of Mystic, died Saturday afternoon at her residence, 234 Colman street. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John J. Fraser of this city and by two sons, James and John McDonough, of Mystic.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Owners are wanted for half a deck of buttons of assorted sizes swept up by the porters at the Broadway, after being laughed off by the thousands of hilarious patrons who viewed Harold Lloyd's first talking picture "Welcome Danger," which opened Saturday at that popular playhouse for a week's run. Hilarious just about describes this picture that was "made for laughing purposes only," and it is rumored that a trip to the Broadway has put many a dad in such good humor that daughter's long-promised fur-coat has been ordered for Christmas. There's a tip, girls, take Dad to see—and hear—Lloyd. A bashful and somewhat dumb botany teacher, on a trip to California, steps into a succession of exciting and riotously funny adventures, that range from being bucked off a raging Ford, then off the back of a somewhat mad cow, right into the middle of a Chinese tong war of no mean proportions. Harold, being the son of an old-time hard-boiled police chief, is expected to follow his father's footsteps, and how he does it is nobody's business. Beautiful Barbara Kent adds to the pictorial beauty of the production, and William Walling, Noah Young and Charles Middleton, besides the entire Chinese population and the whole police force of San Francisco have prominent parts in the cast. As though two hours of Lloyd's particular brand of laughs were not enough entertainment, the management has included the latest Paramount Sound News, and Lillian Roth, singing and dancing star of "Illusion" with Her Piano Boys, staging a nifty musical and singing act on top of the biggest piano ever built. The program will continue until Friday, with three complete showings daily at 2:15, 6:45 and 9 p. m.

Palace Theatre.

He called her "His Princess." Poor kid—he didn't know she was—his mother! That is the heart-breaking situation in the all-talking feature, "Evidence," which, with Pauline Frederick, former Norwich girl starring, is now presented at the Palace theatre—one of the real treats of the season.

Scene from "Evidence" Starring Pauline Frederick - A Warner Bros. Production

When he was a baby she had been driven out into the streets by a legal-minded husband who was too ready to believe what all the rest of the world was believing about her. Myra Stanhope was an innocent as a babe in arms, but in the eyes of society she wore the scarlet brand of the adultress. Hence her home, her baby and her good name were ruthlessly stripped from her and she was flung lonely and weeping out into a cold-shouldering world to live or die.

For six years Myra lives the life of a castaway. Then once again, almost miraculously she meets her little boy. It is in the park the meeting occurs when the child goes out with his nurse for an airing. The child calls the sad-eyed lady his "princess" and before long the husband has learned who she is.

Breed Theatre

Once again Murnau has made an outstanding picture—4 Devils, now playing at the Breed theatre, which has considerable more box-office ring about it than "Sunrise." In the making for several months one can easily see that Fox has permitted the director to go the limit toward bringing forth a rich production. And it stands out under the closest scrutiny as a picture finely produced, directed and photographed—with the acting registering high class all the way.

It is a graphic story laid against a circus atmosphere—and presents two romances. The major romance develops conflict as a vamp endeavors to lure the chief male acrobat from his fair partner.

The introductory scenes show a clown rescuing two little sisters and brothers from a cruel circus owner. He intends to train them to be acrobats and watches over them with the tenderness of a mother and the protection of a father. Eventually they grow up to be known as the 4 Devils.

The acting in the hands of Mary Duncan as the vamp is splendid. Janet Gaynor is always worth watching in any picture. The men did well, especially Farrell MacDonald, Wesley Lake and Charles Morton.

In all here is a real picture, one that doesn't lose its rhythm—one which is highly excellent in its production—and which is assured of success.

ASSIGNMENTS FOR TRIAL IN COMMON PLEAS

The following are the assignments for trial in the common pleas court:

THE WEEPING MUSE

IS Modern Industrialism about to deal the Art of Music the saddest blow of its history?

To blame Machinery as an Instrument of Decadence may seem startling, but it is true that Machinery in the form of Canned Music is elbowing Real Music out of motion picture theatres, thus denying to the masses the cultural influence of a Fine Art.

Surely, if machine-made music displaces the artist in thousands of instances, the incentive for any individual to improve his talent—so necessary in all art—is minimized and music can no longer hold the cultural value that it has possessed. Any art is dependent for its progress upon the number of its enthusiastic executants.

Do you, Mr. Reader, find the pleasure in Mechanical Music that you do in Real Music?

If you believe that Real Music should be saved to the masses who attend Motion Picture Theatres make your opinion known to the manager of your favorite theatre. Very likely he will appreciate your frankness for he wants to please his patrons.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Pingree and little daughter Lois of Saylesville, R. I., are spending the weekend and holiday with Mrs. Pingree's father, Axel L. Aberg and her sister, Miss Helen C. Aberg of North Third avenue.

Miss Diana Gouin entertained a number of friends Thursday evening at a farewell party for Miss Alice Piche of Norwich. Dancing and games were enjoyed and novelty dances were given by Miss Mary Stevens and Miss Irene Greenwood, and Mrs. R. Bouchard sang several vocal numbers. During the evening, Miss Piche was presented a gold piece by Miss Helen Bonczek in behalf of the guests. Refreshments were served by the Misses Christine Gagne, Loretta Piche, Helen Bonczek and Mrs. J. Chancerelle.

The guests included Miss Mary Martin, Miss Mildred Pilling, Miss Alice Beauchemen, Miss Erna Seifert, Miss Alma Germaine, Mrs. J. LeClaire, Miss Mary Stevens, Miss Jennie Krupinski, Miss Lucy Gauthier, Miss Lucienne Therrien, Miss Diana Gouin, Miss Irene Greenwood, Miss Lucy Gauthier, Miss Georgianna Breault, Miss Anna Pepin, Miss Lillian Coutu, Miss Simone Phaneuf, Mrs. A. Plante, Miss Christine Gagne, Miss Alice Piche, Miss Loretta Piche, Mrs. R. Bouchard, Miss Fidelis Krodel, Miss Florence Lecarde, Miss Jeanette Lezarde, Miss Antoinette Tetreault, Miss Helen Bonczek, Miss Yvette Fontaine, Miss Cecile Girard, Mrs. A. Donovan, Miss Mary Dooley, Mrs. J. Chancerelle, Mrs. Anna Belisle, Miss Medore Gagne, Miss Jennie Bonczek and Miss Jean Durant. Miss Piche is leaving to enter upon a course of study at Wilfred academy in Boston, Mass., and her friends took the opportunity of extending to her their good wishes for happiness and success.

Friday evening, a flock of wild geese flying low in the darkness and honking loudly, was the cause of a great commotion on South A street. Some children heard the geese first, and believed it to be a screech owl in one of the large maple trees which line the street. Their excitement soon caused a crowd to collect until there were about 100 people gathered about the base of the tree in which they thought they could discern the form of the owl. Finally the crowd began to call for blood and demand that the bird be shot, as it was a disturber of the peace. Search was made for a shot gun and some of the mob went to various parts of the town searching for one. Finally a Mr. Blanchard volunteered to shoot the owl. Taking careful aim, he scored a perfect hit, and a large paper bag came floating down on the heads of the crowd below! Then the crowd quietly dispersed.

The members of the committee which is to have charge of arrangements at at the entertainment and supper for the members of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association held a meeting Friday evening at the office of Harry E. Prentice on South C street. Chairman John D. Sharples presided at the meeting, and reports of the various committees showed progress. Refreshments were served by Harold C. Faatz and Elliot B. Grover.

FUNERAL
Lee Heap

Funeral services for Lee Heap were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30, at his late home on South Second avenue, with Rev. William Penner, pastor of the Taftville Congregational church officiating. There was a large attendance, and there were many beautiful flowers. The bearers were William Krumer, William Stone, William Baldwin, Charles T. Webster, Thomas Webster and John Hinchcliffe. Burial was in Maplewood cemetery where Rev. Mr. Penner read the committal service. Undertaker George G. Grant was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

TROLLEYMAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN HIS AUTO ON PRESTON CITY ROAD

With a bruise over his right eye, scratches on his face and a cut on his right hand, Charles Ladd, an employe of the trolley company, was found unconscious in his automobile about 8 o'clock Saturday night at a point along the Preston City road near the Bates ice house. He was taken to the Backus hospital, where he continued in an unconscious condition over night, but he recovered consciousness during the day Sunday and his injury was diagnosed as concussion of the brain.

State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh was engaged Sunday in an effort to solve the mystery of how Ladd came to receive his injuries, which seemed to indicate an attack by someone who had landed a blow on his head and left him unconscious in the automobile.

Ladd's machine was about five feet off the road, apparently having been backed into the position where it stood, heading out towards the road, when it was observed by Fred Zumbell, who happened to be passing. Ladd was sitting in the driver's seat, the motor was running, one headlight was burning and the windshield was broken.

Word of the discovery of the injured man was at once conveyed to the police and the ambulance was summoned to take the man to the Backus hospital.

Ladd has been in the employ of the trolley company for a number of years. He runs one of the one-man trolley cars on the Yantic line.

SYMPHONY REHEARSALS ARE PROCEEDING WITH ENTHUSIASM

Rehearsals by the Norwich Symphony orchestra are proceeding with enthusiastic interest for the Mitchell memorial concert which will honor the memory of one who did so much to encourage the love of music in this city and vicinity. A vivid illustration of the spirit and interest manifested by the players is the enthusiasm of Julius L. Cady, who is 81 years of age and who comes to the rehearsals from Willimantic carrying with him a big double bass. Mr. Cady is a bass player of long experience and enjoys vigorous health and the thrill of musical performance.

The orchestra personnel is as follows: Frank Drago, conductor; Walter W. Lang, concert master. First violins: C. Theodore Sterry, Leslie Fletcher, Dominick Pedace, Tyler Gilbert, Alvin Kampffe, Marjorie Miller, Reginald C. Laubin, Miriam Gordon, Lillian Hirsch, Henry Ladd, Katherine Campbell, Aranka Greene. Second violins: Arthur J. McNamara, principal; William F. Malone, Michael Carelli, Irving H. Schelsinger, Dominick Tedeschi, Ralph H. Marsh, Anna Stockdale, Marion Eberbach, Angelo Perrone, Harold Friedland, Edward Adams, George Bell, Joseph Dembo. Violas: Frank Crest, principal; Earl J. Swan, Louis Procaccini, Meyer Rubin. Violon-cellos: Thomas Rondomanski, principal; Albert Clayton, Edgar A. Tanguay, Flood Reed. Basses: Frank Monroe, principal; Albert Heck, George Helmboldt, Julius L. Cady. Flutes: Clarence Barber, Joshua Heaps. Oboes: France Royce, Vincent J. Hallas. Clarinets: John Kukla, Sherman H. Barber. Horns: Leon Callanquin, John F. Bettencourt. Trumpets: John Swahn, Frank Decker. Trombone: George Webb, Hayden O. Jenks. Tympani: Mr. Barlow. Percussin: Richard Kyle.

The orchestra is greatly encouraged by the recent formation of the Norwich Symphony society, with Charles J. Dyer as president, and with many prominent citizens serving as officers and directors.

The soloist for the concert is to be Hugo Kortschak, the eminent violinist, now in charge of the violin department of Yale university school of music, who for a number of years has been the instructor of Dr. Drago, conductor of the orchestra. Mr. Kortschak is an Austrian, who has been on concert tour in Europe and America in 1912-1913 and was the organizer of the Kortschak string quartet in Chicago, which was brought to the east under the name of Berkshire string quartet by Mrs. F. S. Coolidge and subsequently figured prominently in the Berkshire chamber music festivals.

ON RIFLERY TEAM AT CONNECTICUT COLLEGE

The riflery squad which has just been picked at Connecticut college includes several girls from Norwich and nearby towns. The members of the squad are obliged to keep strict training rules and work at many practices in preparation for a riflery match at the end of the fall season from which class championship, in the sport, will be declared. Also, from the results in the riflery match the class and varsity teams will be picked. The local girls who have made the riflery squad are: Mary D. Boardman, '31, of Norwich; Alice C. Higgins, '32, of Norwich; and Lucille E. Abell, '31, of Lebanon; Helen M. Chesebro, '31, of Stonington; Catherine E. Daboll, '30, of Noank; Virginia S. Joseph, '30, of Stonington; Dorothy C. Keefe, '31, of Putnam.

OVER 15,000 APPLY FOR RESERVED REGISTRATION

The state motor vehicle department has announced that Friday, Nov. 15, will be the final day on which automobile registration numbers will be reserved upon request of applicants. After that date the numbers will be assigned in the order most convenient to the department.

Advance requests for special numbers had reached 15,120 on Nov. 5. This figure was an increase of 783 over the number of early applications in the previous year. It is expected that about 80,000 requests will be filled by Friday night.

Approximately 155,000 persons are expected to apply for registrations between Nov. 15 and the end of the year. In the corresponding period last year the final three weeks were the busiest for department clerks. There were 125,000 applications in these three weeks. Of these more than 100,000 were in the last two weeks, and in the final week, alone, the total was more than 70,800.

A review of the weekly totals in the final weeks of last year indicates the manner in which the demand for registrations increases until the final rush just before Jan. 1. In the week of Nov. 19 there were 4,204 applications; the week of Nov. 26 there were 8,908; the week of Dec. 3, 12,337; the week of Dec. 10, 21,849; the week of Dec. 17, 34,398, and the week of Dec. 24, 70,862.

In the last four working days of the year more registrations were issued than in all of October, November and the first week of December. Prior to Dec. 27, the largest number issued on any day was 9,539, on Dec. 24. On Dec. 27 the total increased to 13,351 and on the following three days the issues numbered 12,625, 13,362 and 12,601, respectively, or 51,939 for the four days.

GIRLS' CITY CLUB IS MAKING MEMBERSHIP GAIN

The Girls' City club, under the auspices of the Woman's City club, continues to attract new girls to its membership list. The regular weekly meeting was held at 9 Washington street last week with Mrs. W. C. McKean in charge of the program activities. Preceding the program, Mrs. McKean urged the girls to look upon their club as something that was going to develop into a real girls' club such as now exist in many other cities. The evening's program included games, dancing (both folk and social) and also singing during which period the girls learned a couple of club songs. The next meeting will take place next Friday evening and the girls' work committee of the Woman's City club will be glad to welcome girls between the ages of 15 and 21 into membership with the club.

The girls' work committee feel the necessity of having a photograph in the club room. If some interested person has one at home not now being used and is willing to contribute it to the girls' city club, Mrs. Avery Shafer will see that it is called for, when notified.

The following members attended the meeting on Friday night: Anna Bundy, Catherine Mathewson, Irene Desmarais, Leona Gregory, Agnes Deschamps, Victoria Starvack, Edith Burke, Helen Purple, Natalie Kovolinco, Florence Bellows, Betty Mussel, Irene Combies, Beatrice Bates, Vitaline Mathieu, Jeanette Anton.

INSTITUTE SESSIONS FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

The New London Council of Religious Education will have evening institutes for Sunday school workers on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 20, 21 and 22. The institutes will be held in three churches: on Wednesday at the Baptist church, East Lyme, Thursday at the Congregational church in North Stonington and Friday in the Methodist church in Uncasville.

The program for the institute at the Congregational church in North Stonington has been arranged and those interested in the work from local churches will attend the meeting that is the nearest. The program in North Stonington follows:

7:30—Who's Who, Get Acquainted.

7:45—Conference. Subject, Preparing the Lesson. For primary teachers, leader, Miss Lottie I. Morgan; for all other teachers, leader, Miss Ellen Colt.

8:30—Devotion. Rev. Inor Partington, pastor.

8:40—Address. Rev. Joseph S. Pennepacker, of Niantic.

PARTY FOR CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENTS OF SCHOOL

A delightful party for the cradle roll and primary departments of the First Evangelical Lutheran church was held at the church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The programme opened with prayer and words of welcome by Rev. Carl Storek, pastor, followed by a cornet solo by Walter Lamb; piano solo, Martha Schultz; vocal solo, Lucille Golkowske; vocal solo, "Luther Cradle Song," Olga Zachae; vocal solo, Edith Botham; cornet solo "America" by Mr. Lamb, featuring Armistice day.

Following the offering the gathering sang the hymn, "Jesus Loves Me, Jesus Loves Me." Games were played by the children and ice cream, fancy cookies, saltines, peanut butter and orangeade were served. There were 25 present. The successful affair was due to the efforts of Mrs. Johnston Banfield, secretary of the cradle roll department, Rev. Mr. Storek and Mrs. Storek, also the Sunday school teachers.

CHRIST'S HUMAN SIDE WINS MEN, SAYS PRIEST

Contining in his series of sermons on the Apostles' Creed, developing the teaching of the Roman Catholic church regarding the mystery of the incarnation, Rev. John J. Reilly preached to a congregation filling St. Patrick's church Sunday at the 9 o'clock mass. A mystery cannot be explained; such is the mystery of Christ as God and Christ as man.

The Saviour's side as man appeals to man, from crib to cross. Solace, inspiration, and uplift come to man from contemplation of Christ suffering. His love for His mother, Mary, His sense of loss and lonesomeness when betrayed by Judas. Jesus Christ, whose coming redeemed the world, whom even His attackers have to acknowledge in the phrase "Anno Domini," it is the human side of the Christ of the loving sacred heart from Bethlehem to Calvary, which wins men, which appeals to us the most strongly. From His birth to His death, Christ was man, the thousandth man, the perfect man; the mystery of the Man-God rises ever to baffle us. "The Word made flesh—dwelt among us." It is the first time in creation that one person had two natures, human and divine, God and man in one. Complex and profound is this mystery of the incarnation, yet the eloquent young preacher reminded his hearers that it is the only thing in the world that really matters.

The lesson stressed was the importance of the humility of Christ in each human heart, the value of the love of Christ in the heart of the world, the inspiration to be drawn from contemplating the Man-God upon the cross.

The organist, Henry J. LaFontaine, directed the junior choir in singing the hymns, that at communion being "Oh, Lord I Am Not Worthy." Rev. Father Reilly assisted Rev. Myles P. Galvin in giving communion to an unusually large number of penitents.

HELD IN PROVIDENCE ON LIQUOR RUNNING CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 10.—Given a preliminary trial here before United States Commissioner Archibald C. Matteson in the federal building, Belmire M. Rodrigues, colored, father of eight children, of 78 High street, Norwich, Conn., was found probably guilty Thursday of transporting and possessing 30 gallons of moonshine whiskey on Oct. 22. Rodrigues will be tried in the federal court at a later date.

Motor Patrolman R. H. Jencks, of the Providence police, arrested Rodrigues and another Norwich man, Clarence Gardener, also colored, of 336 Franklin street, Norwich, on Smith street here Oct. 22. Rodrigues told Commissioner Matteson that he had come to this city in search of employment and had found none.

He stated that he then ran into Gardener, a friend, who was returning to Norwich and who offered him a ride. He accepted a ride with Gardener and knew nothing about the liquor in the machine, he told the commissioner. Gardener recently waived examination at a preliminary trial before the commissioner and is in jail here in default of bail awaiting trial.

RAILROAD FIREMAN WAS STRUCK BY BULLET

Ernest Tatro, of New London, fireman on a south bound New Haven road freight, received a shot in the left thigh Saturday night about 10 o'clock as the train was passing a point below Bishop's crossing, between Jewett City and Plainfield. A flash was seen off to one side as the train went past and a bullet entered the engine cab and wounded Tatro. When the train reached the station in this city, Dr. J. J. Donohue was called to dress the wound after which the fireman was sent to his home in New London.

It was reported that the train before the one on which Tatro was working had also been fired at.

OFFICERS NOMINATED FOR STATE WOMEN VOTERS' LEAGUE

The Connecticut League of Women Voters will elect its officers and directors for 1929-30 at the annual convention which will be held in Hartford, November 13 and 14.

The officers are henceforth to be elected biennially in odd years, according to the vote of the last annual convention held in New London. Those named as candidates by the nominating committee are: For president, Miss Mary Bulkley, of Hartford; for vice presidents, Mrs. Annie G. Porritt of West Hartford, Mrs. Emerson R. Newell of Greenwich, Miss Elizabeth Farnam of New Haven, Miss Edna L. Tyler of New London; for secretary, Mrs. E. Wilder Spaulding of Hartford; for treasurer, Mrs. William Valentine of Pomfret; for chairman of the nominating committee, Miss Frances P. Miller, Middletown.

The eight directors at large are elected annually. A slate of fourteen candidates will be presented from which the delegates to the convention will elect eight. The names proposed include: Mrs. Orville E. Clark, New London; Mrs. Brownell Gage, Suffield; Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, Norwich, and Mrs. Francis U. Johnstone, Woodstock.

The nominating committee has named as honorary directors, Miss Katharine Ludington of Lyme, a vice president of the National league, and Mrs. Herbert Knox Smith, of Farmington, director of the first region for the national league.

Delegates will be at libery to nominate other candidates for election as officers or directors from the floor of the convention.

MECHANIC STREET HOUSE DAMAGED BY FIRE

The two-story brick dwelling house at 96 Mechanic street, owned and occupied by Mrs. Rosa Siegel, was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars by fire Sunday night about 9 o'clock.

The fire broke out in the upper story while all the family was away and was discovered by John Lorensky and his brother of 36 Spring street who were passing the house and saw the heavy smoke over the roof. They ran back home and telephoned in the alarm.

Two lines of hose, one of 1 1-2 inch and the other of 2 1-2 inch, were laid and six gallons of chemical were used in extinguishing the fire, which had been caused by a defective chimney. Members of the family commended the efficient way in which the fire was handled by the department. Chief H. R. Taft, Deputy Chief Dennis Brennan, Engines 5 and 6 and Squad A responded to the call.

Because of the failure of motorists to observe the rules about pulling off to the curb and coming to a halt when they hear the fire siren, Deputy Brennan had two narrow shaves from collision on the way to the fire and Engine Company No. 6 from the Thamesville station, did have a crash, but without great damage.

Chief Taft said Sunday night that Norwich motorists must learn to come to a stop when they hear the fire siren in order to avoid dangerous traffic conditions when the apparatus is responding to an alarm.

MADE QUICK ARREST FOR CASH REGISTER THEFT

State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh did a piece of quick work in rounding up two alleged burglars Sunday, taking John Sullivan and George Shadlock of Taftville into custody Sunday night on the charge of burglarizing the place of Anthony Falcone on Norwich avenue, Taftville, and stealing from it a new $300 cash register.

The cash register was also recovered, having been sold to "Sheik" Leonard for $16 by Sullivan, who was accompanied by Shadlock at the time, it is claimed.

Falcone is now in jail, serving a sentence for liquor law violation. It is claimed that the two men got into his place about midnight Saturday by breaking out a window and also abstracted a quantity of wet goods besides taking the cash register.

When arrested, Sullivan claimed to the officer that he bought the cash register from a man whom he did not know and whom he met in Rose alley.

BOY SCOUTS LOOKING FOR WINTER CAMP SITE

According to Dr. R. R. Agnew, chairman of camping for the local Boy Scout council, the camping committee would like to learn of a site where a winter camp may be held during the Christmas holidays for about 30 older boy scouts. The site should have adequate sleeping quarters with a furnace or stove or fireplace which would give plenty of heat and a kitchen where food could be prepared.

The local camping committee is desirous of finding a lodge or messhall or some such building within a radius of 50 miles which could be used by the scouts for a period of a week. According to Scout Executive Sellman, who has conducted a half dozen winter camps, winter camping in many ways is more interesting and requires more genuine scouting than does summer camping.

NORWICH TOWN

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE HELD AT THE M. E. CHURCH

An Armistice day sermon was delivered by Rev. George Warren Potter at the Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning. The text was Matthew 5:17 "I came not to destroy but to fulfil." The pastor gave a brief review of the things accomplished in the field of diplomacy and by religious bodies, paving the way to an International Will to Peace, The League of Nations, The World Court, The Church Commission on International Justice and Goodwill and the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church held 1927 and 1928. "As Methodists we believe that when the spirit of Christ prevails, war will be no more. As Methodists we believe that war means everything that Jesus did not mean, and means nothing that He meant," he declared.

At eleven o'clock the congregation stood for a minute of silent prayer in memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice and for world peace. At the close of the prayer Bugler Edward Jordan of Troop 2 Boy Scouts connected with the church, sounded Taps. The junior choir under the direction of Doris Rose sang and Virginia Ward and Muriel Rose sang a duet, "Uprooting the Causes of War" was the topic of the C. E. meeting which was in charge of Florence M. Bennett who carried out a most interesting service. The evening praise service with a sermon by the pastor on the subject "The King Who Wrote a Song" was well attended as were all services of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Aldrich and infant son Theodore have returned from a visit to Melrose, Mass., where they were guests of Rev. James B. Aldrich, a former pastor of the local Methodist Episcopal church, father of Lewis Aldrich. Rev. George Warren Potter accompanied them.

Patrol Leader Directs Meeting

The meeting of Troop 2 Boy Scouts connected with the Methodist church held Friday evening was in charge of Patrol Leader Wallace Wagner, of the Wolf Patrol. Scoutmaster Rev. Geo. W. Potter is using this method to develop real leadership in the troop. The patrol leader appointed to have charge of the meeting acts as scoutmaster for the meeting which he has previously planned and directs in all the periods. The only time the scoutmaster was called on was when items of business were considered. There was an attendance of 17, including the officers. The acting scoutmaster called on Bugler Edward Jordan to assist in the opening ceremony. He assigned the singing period to Senior Patrol Leader Donald Olsen. During the meeting Patrol Leader Clayton Rose and Scout Earl Robinson gave a talk on archery and displayed some hand-made bows and arrows.

The 100 per cent duty pins were awarded the following: Senior Patrol Leader Donald Olsen, Patrol Leaders Arthur Bennett, Wallace Wagner and Clayton Rose, Bugler Edward Jordan, Scribe Edward Eccleston and Scouts Leon Ladd, Edward Gallagher, Frederick Ross, Robert Beeman, Donald Waterman, John Laskowski, Albert Everse, and Earl Robinson.

That We May Gratefully Pause With Others

In Remembrance

As a mark of the devotion of a grateful people we pause today — Armistice Day — to give thanks and pay tribute to those valiant men and women who, by their sacrifices, brought to an end, eleven years ago, the direst conflict in humanity's history and, with victory, brought peace and good will. Their traditions should be preserved unbroken that their sacrifices shall not have been in vain.

GOOD WILL GREATEST GUARANTEE FOR PEACE SAYS PRESIDENT HOOVER

Preparedness For Defense and Preparedness For Peace to Remove Underlying Causes of International Conflict Are Urged By Chief Executive in Armistice Night Address——U. S. Willing to Reduce Naval Strength in Proportion to Any Other—Freedom of The Seas For Foodships as Preventative of War Advanced For the Consideration of the World.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11 — (AP) — Preparedness for defense to insure freedom and justice to the American people and preparedness for peace to remove the underlying causes of international conflict were proclaimed by President Hoover tonight as the foundation on which this country desires to approach post war problems in harmony with the nations of the world.

He declared for "adequate preparedness as a guarantee that no foreign soldier should ever set foot upon the soil of our country but at the same time gave notice that the United States is willing to reduce its naval strength in proportion to any other, no matter how low.

"Proper defense requires military strength relative to that of other nations," the president said . . . "We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other. Having said that it only remains for the others to say how low they will go, it cannot be too low for us."

The president spoke in the Washington auditorium at Armistice day ceremonies arranged by the American Legion. His address was broadcast over a nation-wide radio hookup. Several times as Mr. Hoover made his announcement of the position and the aim of the American government in world affairs, the audience applauded heartily.

As a "preventative as well as a limitation" of war, the president advanced "for the consideration of the world" the proposition that ships laden solely with food should be placed on the same footing with hospital ships during the war.

One of the powerful influences for armament races between countries, Mr. Hoover said, is the fear that sea-borne food supplies will be interrupted. He contended that once this fear is removed, countries will have less need for armament.

"The world must sooner or later recognize this as one of the underlying causes of its armed situation" the president said, "but, far beyond this, starvation should be rejected among the weapons of warfare."

Mr. Hoover announced, however, that he has not proposed this plan to any government and did not now do so. He said he offered it merely for discussion and stated that it will not be injected into the forthcoming London naval conference. As for this meeting Mr. Hoover exressed confidence that the naval parley would succeed and he said he believed an actual reduction of naval strength would be brought about.

Applause met the president's announcement of his views for freedom of sea to food ships and he also was applauded when he said that more than treaties and negotiations on efforts to reduce armies and navies, the building up of a spirit of good will and friendliness was the greatest guarantee for peace.

"The colossal power of the United States overshadows scores of freedom loving nations" the president said.

"Their defense against us is a moral defense. To give to them confidence that with the high moral sense of the American people this defense is more powerful than all armies or navies, is a sacred duty which lies upon us.

(The complete text of President Hoover's address will be found on page nine.)

WREATHES AND MEMORIAL SERVICES THROUGHOUT STATE

(By The Associated Press)

With American Legion posts throughout the state prominently participating, Connecticut today observed the eleventh anniversary of the signing of the armistice with parades, memorial services and other appropriate functions.

All activities in the state came to a standstill at 11 o'clock in the morning as Connecticut joined in a silent tribute to those who had died in the World war.

Schools in most of the communities of the state were closed as were banks and public buildings. A holiday was also observed by many of the principal industrial plants.

In many parts of the state, Armistice balls and banquets tonight closed the day's activities.

New Haven made Armistice day the occasion for the breaking of ground for its municipal airport at Morris Cove. Many prominent officials, including Gov. John H. Trumbull, and Clarence M. Knox, state aviation commissioner, were present at the ceremonies.

PERSHING PAYS TRIBUTE TO MARSHAL FOCH

PARIS, Nov. 11—(AP)—Before visiting former Premier Clemenceau, General John J. Pershing today paid tribute to Marshal Foch on the eleventh anniversary of the armistice that all three helped to bring about.

SENATE VOTES HIGHER TARIFF ON TUNGSTEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The senate voted today to give higher tariff protection to another mineral entering into the manufacture of steel, approving retention of the house duty of 50 cents a pound on tungsten as against 45 cents in the present law.

Finance committee republicans had proposed elimination of the five cent increase, but by a vote of 21 to 31, the first tie since the tariff bill was taken up, this was rejected and the house rate restored.

To the surprise of the democrats, all five of the committee republicans who answered the roll call, voted against their original recommendation. These five and 17 other republicans and nine democrats went against the committee amendment. Fourteen republicans and 17 democrats voted for it.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, acting president pro tempore, was among the republicans voting in the negative. Had Vice President Curtis been presiding, it would have been necessary for him to cast the deciding vote.

The decision came soon after last week's vote to raise the tariff on managanese, another mineral used in steel manufacture— which the committee majority had proposed to transfer to the free list.

No explanation was given today for the reversal of the position of the committee group on tungsten.

The first sliding scale tariff was incorporated into the bill today, when the committee amendment proposing graduated duties on antimony depending upon the New York market price was adopted in place of the existing and house rate of two cents a pound.

At its three hour session, the senate slashed other increases recommended by the committee and adopted other reductions proposed by that group.

RECOMMENDS ARBITRATION OF TWO DAMAGE SUITS

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 11—(AP)—Judge William Clark, of the United States district court, announced tonight he would recommend settlement by arbitration of two suits totaling $900,000 against the United States Radium corporation.

The suits were brought by two women who alleged they were poisoned while working in the plant of the radium company. Two more suits were brought by their husbands.

Judge Clark who served as mediator last year when five victims of radium poisoning received cash settlements from the company again will offer his services in this capacity, he said. They sought $200,000 each while their husbands asked $50,000 each.

In the previous cases, the company gave each of the five women $10,000 cash and an additional $2,000 for past medical expenses and agreed to pay for all medical expenses in the future and provide a pension of $600 annually during the life time of the victims.

LOBBY COMMITTEE CONDEMNS WM. BURGESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—Submitting its second report to the senate, the senate lobby committee today condemned William Burgess, former member of the tariff commission, for his activities during consideration of the pending tariff legislation.

After the report was read, Chairman Caraway of the committee told the senate that Burgess, now employed by the United States Pottery association, was "a paid lobbyist" who "had no regard whatever for his own reputation, no hesitancy in committing perjury," and "was perfectly willing to slander members of the senate."

The report, which consisted principally of a review of Burgess' testimony before the lobby committee, asserted his actions in attempting to have Frederick L. Koch, of the tariff commission disciplined amounted "approximately to contempt of the senate, if they do not constitute such."

Caraway announced later that no further action against Burgess was contemplated by the committee and no recommendations were made in the report.

COMPLETE STATISTICS FOR LONDON NAVAL PARLEY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.— (AP) — Complete details of the present status of the American navy have been placed by Secretary Stimson before the representatives in Washington of the four powers which will participate with the United States in the forthcoming naval parley in London.

The information was contained in an unusually detailed and extensive document covering every phase of American naval strength, including tonnage, age, speed and gunpower. It marks the first formal exchange of data, copies being handed the British, Japanese, French and Italian representatives for transmission to their governments.

Since the material is largely of a confidential nature, it is not expected to be made public, but to be used mainly as a basis for formal preparations of the powers for the parley. Similar material is expected by the state department shortly from the four other powers.

McMANUS MURDER CASE GOES ON TRIAL TODAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The Rothstein case, which cost a police commissioner his job, flamed intermittently in the headlines for months and then leaped again into prominence during the recent mayoralty campaign, will develop into a trial tomorrow.

Just a year and eight days since Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambler and racketeer, was shot and fatally wounded, presumably in the Park Central hotel, George A. McManus, race track bookmaker and gambler associate of Rothstein's, will enter a court room to be tried on a charge of slaying his one-time friend.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ROME, Nov. 11—(AP)—The sixtieth birthday of King Victor Emmanuel III was celebrated with great enthusiasm throughout Italy.

LONDON, Nov. 11—(AP)—Union officials tonight ordered more than 2,000 striking bus operatives to resume work on 15 metropolitan routes tomorrow pending further action by the union executives. It was expected that after some dislocation in the early hours service would be fully restored during the day.

LONDON, Nov. 11—(AP)—Great Britain has agreed to return to China the British concession of Chinkiang, Kiangsu province, on November 15. The British government leased the concession perpetually in 1868.

The British foreign office, which officially announced that "his majesty's government in the United Kingdom" had drawn up the agreement with the Nationalist government of the Republic of China, said the British municipal administration would be dissolved and the municipal regulations repealed on the same date.

HINTS DEATH PENALTY FOR JUDGE BRADY

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Shaking convulsively at intervals in the Travis county jail, John W. Brady, one time judge of the third court of civic appeals and a leader in the civic, religious and officials affairs of Texas, awaited tonight the processes of the law he so often expounded. Against him is a charge that he fatally stabbed Miss Lehlia Highsmith, stenographer for the supreme court commission of appeals late Saturday night.

While attorneys from many parts of the state sent offers of assistance to the gray haired man of 57 who sits behinds the bars that once confined the late famous O. Henry, it seemed likely that the accused man would not get a preliminary hearing on the murder charge until the latter part of the week.

Brady's counsel stoutly maintains that his client has not recollection of having killed any one but says that the attorney drank heavily of liquor after he attended a football game Saturday. Jail attaches said Brady appeared to be in a daze at the time he was taken to jail.

County Attorney Roy Archer declared today that he did not believe the case "a bailable ong."

"From the facts that have been presented to me so far, it looks like a case in which the jury probably would inflict the death penalty," he added.

OFFER $5,000 REWARD FOR TRAIN WRECKING BANDITS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11—(AP)—With a price of $5,000 on their heads, two men who wrecked a Southern Pacific train near Saugus, Cal., last night and robbed its passengers of about $500 in cash were sought in the isolated mountains in that vicinity today by a small army of deputy sheriffs.

When captured, the desperadoes will face charges of train wrecking, an offense punishable by death under the California law, regardless of whether any one is killed.

Confident that clues found today had placed them on the right trail, heavily armed officers tramped over the rough terrain in the belief that the robbers had taken refuge in the mountains near the scene of the wreck.

R. C. Dall, the engineer, was the only one injured when the speeding train reached a curve six miles west of Saugus where the rails had been pried loose. The engine and four cars turned over, Dall receiving severe burns when the locomotive boiler exploded.

A few feet farther on and the engine and its eleven cars probably would have plunged down a 150-foot cliff.

As the train jolted to a stop, the holdup men quickly boarded it and herded the passengers of the last four cars to the rear of the train where they were lined up and forced to hand over their money. No jewelry was taken.

The reward of $5,000 for the capture and conviction of each of the robbers was posted today by the Southern Pacific company.

LOOMIS BEFORE GRAND JURY THREE MINUTES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)— In three minutes the grand jury reviewing the "Wall street booze party" of 1926 heard today all that E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley railroad, had to say about that occasion since made famous by Senator Brookhart of Iowa.

Mentioned in the senate as having taken "some alcoholic stuff" at the dinner, Loomis described his appearance before the grand jury as "short but sweet." He declined to discuss his testimony, saying:

"It was a private dinner and I have some idea of the proprieties. You will have to rely on the laboratory experience and smelling propensities of Senator Brookhart. You don't expect me to discuss for the public anything that happens at a private dinner where I was a guest, do you?"

FALL'S WIFE SAYS THREE JURORS "FORCED" VERDICT

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Asserting that an "appalling injustice" had been done Albert B. Fall, the wife of the former secretary of the interior declared in an interview here today that his recent conviction in Washington on a charge of bribery was "forced" by three jurors who influenced other members of the jury to return a guilty verdict.

Fall and Mrs. Fall returned to their home here yesterday, accompanied by their two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Chase and Mrs. Jewell Fall Elliott.

BOMBED GOV'T. MOTORBOATS USED IN LIQUOR RAIDS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Federal officers were checking clues tonight in a search for bombers who slunk alongside two government motorboats used in liquor raids, wrecked them with dynamite, and dashed up the harbor under cover of fog.

Finiss Wilson, deputy prohibition administrator here, said he accepted the bombing as a challenge from moonshiners and rum runners and "since they have asked for war, they will get plenty of it."

The motorboats, No. 647, treasury department, and No. 3305, customs registry, were demolished by the dynamite about 3 a. m., today.

Girl Leaps To Death From An Airplane

Committed Suicide By Jumping From Cabin at an Elevation of 2,000 Feet.

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Nov. 11—(AP)—A young girl who left a note saying her life was "discord" committed suicide today by leaping from a high-soaring airplane.

"Everything has always been discord when I long so for harmony," said one of three notes found in the plane. "Maybe yet I will find it, maybe in music?"

Her body was found in a stream in Valley Stream, a village near the flying field. From one of the notes she was identified as Ruth [illegible], of 31 Avondale avenue, [illegible] farm Crestwood, N. Y.

E. F. Booth, of Curtiss Field, pilot of the ship from which she leaped, said the girl, who appeared to be about 17, chartered his plane for a 15-minute flight.

When they were 1,500 feet up, he said, she inquired as to their altitude and motioned him to go higher. Booth mounted to 2,000 feet, then something happened.

"I felt the plane rise as if we had struck some rough air," he said. "Then it occurred to me that when a door is opened the plane will rise and veer sidewise.

"I turned and saw that the door was open.

"Through the door I caught a glimpse of my passenger's body hurtling through the air."

A hand bag which Miss Rockwell left in the plane contained the three notes.

"Most people end their lives because something sad has happened to them," one of the notes said. "I end mine because it seems not only futile, but wrong to go on existing. I blame no one and feel that I have no enemies."

In other portions of the notes the girl expressed her "regrets" to "Miss Sheers in Drew Seminary at Cornell, N. Y., and directed that "Mrs. Rockwell, West Home Bureau, Tuckahoe, N. Y.," be communicated with.

LYNCH THREATS AGAINST SLAYER OF CHILDREN

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 11.—(AP) — Gladys May Parks, also known as Mrs. Baker, charged with killing one child and suspected of slaying another, today re-enacted how she buried the children in different parts of New Jersey, and incidentally witnessed the wrath of a group of women who cried out "lynch her."

Miss Parks was startled when the women, among a crowd of 1,000 at National Park, six miles south of her, surrounded the police automobile and shouted threats against her.

"Give her what she gave those poor children," one cried. Another with a bunch of flowers in her hand, shouted, "Kill her and I'll put these on her."

The accused woman was well protected by policemen and detectives and was never in serious danger of harm.

Tonight Miss Parks again is in the Camden county jail, tired from her automobile journey across the state and back again and the events of the day, but still holding to her story that Dorothy Rogers, 4, and her brother, Timothy, 2, came to their deaths by accident.

The police frankly declare they do not believe her but have found no motive with which to confront her.

Miss Parks, who had been sought by the police for a week for questioning in connection with the finding of the skeleton of a child in the woods at National park on November 2, entered the Newark police headquarters early Sunday morning and after making her identity known was arrested and confessed she had buried the body of the girl at National park and that of the boy at Absecon.

BANDIT WEAKENS UNDER GRILLING BY POLICE

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Chief of Police A. U. Keller today announced that Harold Smith, one of the robbers who held up 60 guests at the home of Henry M. Harris Saturday night, had weakened under questioning and said there were five men in the gang which obtained $8,657 in money and jewels.

C. W. Katchman, Matoon, Ill., arrested with Smith, died today from wounds inflicted by Patrolman Brown who arrested him. Patrolman Davis, who answered the call for police with Brown, suffered a flesh wound in an exchange of shots with the robbers. Three members of the gang escaped.

TO CONTINUE TARIFF ASSOCIATION INQUIRY TODAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—The senate lobby committee plans to spend another day delving into the activity of the Southern Tariff association and the National Council of State Legislators and then will turn to a study of the organizations that were interested in the sugar tariff.

Tomorrow, it plans to question J. C. Holton, Mississippi commissioner of agriculture; Thomas A. Hill of Pine Bluff, Ark., treasurer of the National Council of State Legislators, and J. A. Arnold, vice president and general manager of the Southern Tariff association.

REFUSE TO ENDORSE RUSSIANS PROPOSED FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Semyon A. Shestakov, chief pilot of the Russian plane "Land of the Soviets," which flew from Moscow to New York, today announced that the Osoaviakhim, soviet aviation society, had refused to endorse his proposal to fly across the Atlantic ocean on the homeward trip.

DARTMOUTH REGULARS ARE GIVEN DAY OF REST

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 11—(AP)—The 15 football players who participated in the Brown game were excused here today when the Dartmouth coaching staff sent the three reserve elevens through a light workout devoted almost entirely to group assignments.

All of the Green regulars will be on hand tomorrow when Coach Jackson Cannell starts work for Saturday's clash with Cornell, regarded as the strongest opponent on this year's Dartmouth schedule.

Stock Prices Again Crash To Low Levels

Net Declines Ranged From $2 To $22 a Share—Seventy Stocks at New Lows.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—A sudden outburst of selling, descending with terrific impact in the last hour of trading, sent prices crashing downward on the New York Stock exchange today. Net declines in the active issues ranged from $2 to $22 a share, with a scattering of ordinarily inactive issues down $25 to $50 a share.

Seventy stocks, including American Can, General Electric, and New York Central, fell to new low levels for the year, while dozens of others, including U. S. Steel common, sank to the lowest prices since the current "bear" market started on October 24.

Prices started to drift downward from the opening gong but for the first two hours the decline was orderly and business was relatively light in volume. Many brokers attributed the late break to a concerted "bear drive," but there had been steady liquidation throughout the day of weakened marginal accounts. Some investment selling also was apparent as a result of the uneasiness created by the many alarmist rumors in circulation and the suicide of James J. Riordan, prominent New York banker, who is unofficially reported to have sustained large losses in the market.

Total sales on the New York Stock exchange for the three hour session were 3,367,160 shares, more than half of which changed hands in the last hour, which compares with 3,214,600 shares on Friday.

The New York banking group, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. organized a few weeks ago to assure an orderly market, held no meetings today. Spokesmen for the group also made no comment on the day's proceedings.

The third New York brokerage failure took place today when the produce exchange securities firm of Montford & Malone was posted for inability to meet its obligations. Like the two New York curb exchanges houses, which failed previously, the Montford firm was relatively small, and not engaged in any extensive commission business.

FOUR KILLED, OVER 50 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

OAKDALE, Tenn., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Derailment of the northbound passenger train, Ponce De Leon, of the Southern railway near here early today, caused the death of four persons and injuries to more than 50 passengers.

Three of the dead were trainmen. Numbered among them was the engineer, W. A. Elsman, of Chattanooga, who had taken over the throttle today temporarily, in the place of W. A. Williams, of Chattanooga, the regular engineer. Elsman was buried beneath the wrecked engine.

Ed Grant, fireman, of Rising Fawn, Ga.; V. L. Winstead, mail clerk, of Nebo, Ky., and Marion Bradshaw, St. Augustine, Fla., were the others killed.

Nearly all of the injured passengers were from Ohio and Michigan. They were among the number of persons from those sections who had been in Chattanooga and Lookout Mountain on a week-end excursion and were returning home in day coaches which had been attached to the regular northbound passenger train for Cincinnati.

The wreck occurred at 1:20 o'clock this morning on a curve, 28 miles north of here and 25 miles south of the Kentucky state line. The engine, combination baggage and express car, four day coaches and three Pullmans left the rails.

CANADA'S MINISTER OF FINANCE DIED SUDDENLY

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 11.—(AP)—James Alexander Robb, Canadian minister of finance, died of a stroke he suffered today a short time after his physicians had announced he was making satisfactory progress in a fight against pneumonia. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Robb became ill three weeks ago while on a train en route from Ottawa to Toronto. Lobar pneumonia developed, but he appeared to make good progress toward recovery. Yesterday his physician announced that he had spent a "very comfortable night" and that "barring complications I think he may be said to be out of danger."

During this afternoon, however, the finance minister suffered a stroke, from which he died a short time later.

GREENWICH MAN HELD ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 11—(AP)—Sought throughout the state for a week on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the death of Gertrude Peaters, after an automobile accident at Shodack Center, Harold M. Hyde, of Greenwich, Conn., was arrested by state troopers near Ordensburg today, officials of Rensalear county were informed.

Miss Peaters, student in the State College for Teachers, here, was struck by a car as she stepped off a bus near her home in Shodack Center. The car, which police said the driver immediately abandoned and fled, bore licenses issued to Hyde in Connecticut.

CONFIDENT BROTHER, NOT MOONEY THREW BOMB

BELLAIRE, Ohio, Nov. 11—(AP)—A. L. Smith, 59, millwright of Wheeling, W. Va., today corroborated the statements of three other persons that his brother, Louis Smith, made a confession before he died in 1922 that he was responsible for the bombing of the preparedness day parade at San Francisco in 1916.

Smith said he is confident that his brother and not Tom Mooney, labor organizer, threw the bomb which caused the deaths of ten persons. Mooney was convicted of the crime and now is serving a prison term in California.

ALLEGED SLAYER OF LENCINAS IS DEAD

MENDOZA, Argentina, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Jose Caceres, believed by the police to have been the man who shot down Dr. Carlos Washington Lencinas at a political rally last night, died at a hospital today.

Although he was not positively identified as the assassin, a police guard was kept around his bed at the hospital.

FLINT BANK SHORTAGE OVER THREE MILLION

Huge Sum Stolen By Employes and Junior Executives For Stock Market Speculations—Said to Be the Largest Embezzlement From a Single Institution in American Banking History—Gross Theft Set at $3,592,000—President Mott Turns Over Million and a Half of His Personal Funds to Forestall Loss To Bank.

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 11.—(AP)—More than $3,000,000, said to be the largest embezzlement from a single bank in American banking history, was the sum taken by ten or more employes and junior executives of the Union Industrial bank of Flint for their speculations in the stock market, it was revealed here today in an official statement on the progress of the audit of the shortage which has been under way for some time.

The gross theft is set at $3,592,000 but the net loss is estimated at in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, which in turn is expected to be cut down by payments on certain insurance policies held by the bank.

To forestall any possibility of loss to the bank as a result of the thefts, Charles S. Mott, president of the bank and vice-president of General Motors Corp., has turned over more than $1,500,000 of his personal funds. He previously had put up approximately $1,000,000 in cash.

Prosecution sometime shortly of the employes involved who are said to have used the bank's funds to speculate in the stock market, was indicated in the statement issued today. Officials of the Flint bank and of Detroit banking houses with which it is affiliated conferred with Rudolph E. Reichert, state banking commissioner; Prosecuting Attorney Charles D. Beagle, of Genesee county, and a representative of the attorney general's office. It was announced that "all were satisfied that everything possible was being done to expedite matters so that prosecution may be instituted at the earliest moment."

State banking officials and local authorities as well as officers of the bank have expressed themselves as satisfied that the interests of the public have been thoroughly safeguarded.

MOSES JIBE IMMATERIAL, SAY WESTERN REPUBLICANS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.— (AP) — Taking stock of the menacing rift in the senate republican ranks, administration representatives found the block of westerners still indifferent today and still very independent of the republican regulars on the tariff program.

Claudius Huston, intimate of President Hoover and the new chairman of the republican national committee, visited the senate wing of the capitol and had an opportunity to determine what damage, if any, had resulted from the last explosion in the party—the characterization of the western independents by Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, as the "sons of wild jackasses."

He was told by the western independents that the Moses jibe was immaterial to them. He learned from the republican regulars, however, of some discontent among those who are up for re-election in doubtful states and in some of the mid-west states against Moses as chairman of the republican senatorial campaign committee.

Nevertheless, no action is expected against Moses either as chairman of the campaign committee or as president pro tem of the senate. Moves in both directions were threatened. Republican regulars up for re-election are understood to be demanding that Moses do more consulting and less speech-making during the next few months when the political campaigns are in the delicate stages.

SAYS C. V. REORGANIZATION SHOULD BE ALLOWED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—In a brief hearing held here today before the interstate commerce commission, E. Deshenes, comptroller of the Central Vermont railway, testified that the road's joint application for reorganization under the control of the Canadian National railway should be allowed.

Mr. Deshenes, the only witness heard, testified to the financial condition of the Central Vermont and urged that the close alignment with the Canadian National which has existed for 30 years be allowed to continue.

The hearings were held before Examiner William U. Watson of the interstate commerce commission.

Commission approval was asked in regard to a three-party agreement between the two roads and the receivers which will in effect give complete control of the Vermont to the Canadian National. The Central Vermont wished to issue $12,000,000 of series A mortgage bond, $5,000,000 of debentures and 100,000 shares of $100 par value capital stock, all of which would be sold to the Canadian National and the proceeds used to enable the Vermont road to purchase properties held by the receiver.

The Vermont was placed in the hands of receivers after the flood of 1927 because of damage suffered. Recently a new company has been organized and has bought the road, and it is this interest which the Canadian National wishes to take over.

FRANCE CONFERS HIGHEST DISTINCTION UPON KELLOGG

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(AP)—His efforts for world peace which resulted in the signing of the general pact for the renunciation of war brought to Frank B. Kellogg tonight the highest distinction which can be conferred by the French republic.

Acting in the name of President Doumergue of France, Ambassador Claudel placed the scarlet cordon of the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor around the neck of the former secretary of state. Members of the cabinet, headed by Secretary Stimson of the state department, diplomatic representatives of the 13 countries which with the United States and France signed the pact and a large part of the Minnesota delegation—representing the home state of the former secretary—joined in the honor to Kellogg.

Tributes to Kellogg and Foreign Minister Briand of France, collaborator with him in the accomplishment of the treaty, were paid by the ambassador in his address of presentation.

FLAMES THREATEN $600,000 LOSS AT ELMIRA, N. Y.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Fire which swept the upper part of two three-story business structures near the heart of the commercial district here tonight spread to two adjoining structures and still was out of control at 11:45 after burning more than five hours.

Property estimated to be worth $600,000 was endangered. Estimate of the loss was not made while 70 firemen continued to pour streams of water on the flaming structures.

MEXICAN FEDERAL TROOPS ORDERED TO BARRACKS

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 11.—(AP)—All troops of the federal district were ordered to barracks this afternoon to remain mobilized until after the national elections on Sunday.

General Eugigio Ortiz, commander of the garrison, announced that this measure was taken in order to have his entire force on immediate call to check any disorder such as occurred yesterday when 13 persons were wounded in a riot in the center of the city. Several of the wounded were in a grave condition today.

On election day detachments of troops will patrol the streets but will not guard voting booths, since such guards are contrary to the electoral regulations. However, it was announced that if "firing" should occur at the booths the troops will intervene immediately.

The attorney-general today ordered prosecutors to be on duty at the courts throughout election day ready to handle at once any complaints arising.

After a conference with President Emilio Portes Gil, Acting Secretary of the Interior Canales issued orders for civilians throughout Mexico to be disarmed until after the voting. There have been one or two minor clashes between political factions outside of the capital but yesterday was generally quiet.

Governor Manuel Puig Casauranc of the federal district, in a statement today charged that the evidence pointed to followers of Jose Vasconcelos, anti-reelectionist party candidate for the presidency, as the aggressors in the clash yesterday in front of campaign headquarters of Pascual Ortiz Rubio of the revolutionary party.

WASHINGTON POLICE CAPTAIN RESTORED TO DUTY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—(AP)—Captain Robert E. Doyle, who defended the recent actions of Policeman Robert J. Allen for which the latter was dismissed from the Washington police force today was acquitted on charges of conduct prejudicial to the reputation of the department.

In his appearance before the trial board, Doyle said he had no intent to be disrespectful to Major Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police. Major Pratt, who brought the charges against Doyle after the latter had written a letter defending Allen, also testified that he did not believe Doyle had meant any disrespect. Major Pratt had him restored to duty with full pay from the date of his suspension.

Meanwhile plans were being made by Chairman Sackett of the senate police investigating committee for a night meeting of the committee Wednesday. A number of questions have been placed before the committee for investigation, including several of the most perplexing problems that have confronted the police department in recent years.

The McPherson case, which led to the demand for an investigation of police affairs, will be presented to a new grand jury tomorrow in an effort to obtain a re-indictment of Robert A. McPherson, Jr., the husband of the young woman who was found dead with a pajama cord around her neck. This procedure was made necessary when it was found that all of the bills of indictment returned by the other jury were illegal because of a technicality.

DIFFICULTIES FACE BANKERS OVER TRUST AGREEMENT

BADEN BADEN, Germany, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The organizing committee of the bank for international settlements has drawn up the statutes and selected the site of the bank but has unexpectedly found great difficulties over the trust agreement.

The bankers composing the committee had hoped to complete their work in time to get away Wednesday, but the French delegation today delayed approval of the trust agreement for reasons that under the conference's secrecy rule have been withheld from the press.

According to some reports, the French desired to couple reparations and allied debts. It also is said that the conference could not satisfy the French government in fitting Chancellor Snowden's revised reparations figures, established at The Hague conference, into the trust agreement.

COUNTY TRUST COMPANY DEPOSITS INCREASE $700,000

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP) —The County Trust company reported an increase in net deposits of $700,000 late this afternoon, at the close of the first business day since the suicide of its president, James J. Riordan, was made public.

Mr. Riordan shot himself Friday afternoon but the news of his death was withheld from the public by Dr. Charles A. Norris, city medical examiner, until after the bank had closed Saturday afternoon.

PARADE FEATURES ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVANCE HERE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 11—Observance of Armistice day, following a program carried out under the sponsoring of James J. Shea Post No. 19, American Legion, was carried out here today under an overcast sky, but with a martial spirit prevailing that served well to revive the debt of honor due the veterans of the World war and previous conflicts. Hundreds of spectators lined the streets to witness the passing of the first Armistice day parade seen here in some years. It was an impressive procession, made so by its very simplicity. The parade led the way for some 1,000 people to the state armory on Pleasant street where exercises were carried out, including a ritual by the local legion officers in charge of Dr. W. P. S. Keating commander. The oration was delivered by Rev. Richard H. McLaughlin of Hartford, chaplain of the 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard. This was followed by a buffet luncheon to the paraders in the basement of the armory, the serving being by legionnaires and members of the auxiliary.

The line of march for the parade was west on Union and Main streets and over Bridge and Mountain streets, down Pleasant to the armory. The business streets were gaily bedecked in the colors, the largest of these flags being suspended from the Labor Union quarters in the Hall block on Main street. The first division was led by a platoon from the police department in charge of Captain Frank McLean and comprising Officers John A. Lutton, Joseph Lariviere, George White, William Anderson, Ralph Burchnall, F. R. Laramie, John Killourey, Albert Monette, Gilbert T. Blackburn, James Kearns and Edgar B. Redman. Following were Marshal (Captain) Ellison S. Smith and his aides: T. Frank Cunningham and Charles A. Reynolds. Then came the R. O. T. C. band from the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, comprising 30 pieces and the bandmaster, Roy Bonsnes of New Haven. Company C, 169th Infantry followed in charge of First Lieutenant Edward A. Morrison and Second Lieutenant Arthur J. Caisse. The R. O. T. C. Battalion, the largest unit in the parade, brought up the rear under the command of Major Earle Williams of Hartford, a student officer. There were 215 students in uniform and their splendid appearance and marching order was received with applause along the line.

The second division: B. P. O. Elks band; delegation of about 150 members of James J. Shea Post No. 19, American Legion, Commander W. P. S. Keating; color bearers, Walter McNickle and Arthur Smith; delegation from Earl W. Green Post No. 52, South Coventry and Mansfield American legion; delegation of about 60 members of the Gold Star Post No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Third division: Six color bearers of the local legion auxiliary and members of the organization; members of Earl W. Green post auxiliary; Knights of Columbus' Boys' band; delegations from A. C. Tyler auxiliary No. 14, and A. C. Tyler Camp No. 8, United Spanish War veterans. Bringing up the rear in automobiles were members of Francis S. Long Post No. 20, Grand Army of the Republic, including State Commander James Haggerty, Comrades Joseph Slater and Charles Henry; Gold Star mothers and other small delegations from other service organizations.

During the parade, in which over 800 participated, traffic was ably handled by Officers Arthur and William Hurley. In the forenoon over 800 children packed into the Gem theater as guests of James J. Shea post to witness the showing of two motion pictures, Shoulder Arms, with Charlie Chaplin and the World war, the official American legion production of the great war.

The legion wound up the day of celebration this evening with a dance at the Al-Pierre Tabarin, this event proved another strong attraction.

SILK CO. PURCHASES TWO MILLS OF QUIDNICK CO.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Nov. 11—With a payroll of $140,000 for the first year of operations, working day and night, the Willimantic Silk, Inc., one of the city's newest and most progressive industries, has announced the purchase, outright, of No. 1 and No. 2 mills of the former Quidnick-Windham manufacturing plant. The purchase, being made on the anniversary of the beginning of operations here is generally hailed as glad news here, being a definite assurance of the intention of the operators to remain here. A few months after the opening of the Willimantic silk plant, in mills then owned by interests of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company, the Kobe Silk company, an associated firm, began operations in No. 2 mill. The latter company has had a payroll of $33,000, making a total payroll for one year of $175,000 for both concerns, or a weekly amount of about $3,400. In addition large sums have been expended locally for supplies, installation of equipment, renovations, etc. The production of the Willimantic Silk, Inc. for the first year was 1,500,000 yards of crepe silk and that of the Kobe Silk, 375,000 yards, a total production of 1,875,000.

The mills purchased were built in 1820 and used as a cotton plant up to some years ago when they were abandoned. When offered for sale on the auction block they were withheld for local interests and development by timely purchase by Messrs. Aime J. Martineau, William Clarke and Samuel Chesbro. They were subsequently sold to the lighting company for industrial expansion.

Max Stein, principal founder of the business, has associated with him, his brother, Nathan Stein, in charge of production; Abraham Corn, local plant superintendent; Abraham Goldstein, manager of the Kobe Silk company, all residents of Willimantic with their families, and Charles Morantz, in charge of sales in New York city.

A close friend of Mr. Stein has revealed the manufacturer as a man of integrity and high character. As told by this friend, Stein came to America in 1914, locating in a small town in South Carolina and entering a mercantile business which was successful. In 1916 he enlisted in the U. S. Army. He was not a citizen but he waived his right for refusal to serve and became a soldier for Uncle Sam, doing service in camps in this country. He was honorably discharged and he again entered business in South Carolina, building up a thriving manufacturing plant which he later sold. He then moved to New York and established the Domestic Silk company, which he still controls and which enjoys a splendid reputation. His promises of business growth when he met industrial committees here one year ago appeared exaggerated to many, but it is definitely on record that he has not only fulfilled, but surpassed all his plans.

A buck deer leaped from the bushes on the South Coventry road between The Ridges and Perkins' corner town of Mansfield, Sunday, onto the hood of a car driven by William Cleasar and occupied by a party of friends from West Willington. The surprised driver brought the machine to a quick stop, but the deer was found to be mortally wounded, having two fractured legs, a broken neck and internal injuries. One headlight and the radiator of the car were damaged. Deputy Game Warden George H. Andrews, who was notified, put the animal out of suffering, and held the carcass for disposal by Game Warden Edward G. Wraight of Tolland county.

Ex-Mayor and Mrs. John C. Tracy left today by automobile on a 5,000 mile trip with California as their goal. Upon arrival there they will make their residence planning to remain several years. Enroute they will visit his sister in Albany, N. Y., and then stop with friends until New Year's in Florida. Mr. Tracy came here from his native city of Manchester in 1886. He was associated in a combined jewelry and optical store for over 40 years, disposing of the jewelry business to his partner, Ralph U. Wolmer, Sr., two years ago. He sold the optical business a few weeks ago. He served Willimantic as mayor during the term of 1925-1926. The pretentious Tracy residence on Summit street has been purchased and is now occupied by Attorney Harry S. Gaucher and family.

A special train of seven cars of the Central Vermont Railway has been chartered by the Connecticut Agricultural college Athletic association for the transportation of undergraduates at Storrs to Kingston, R. I., next Saturday for the Rhode Island-Connecticut Aggie football game. The train will leave Eagleville about 9 o'clock. At least 400 students are expected to make the trip.

A bell alarm from Box 71, on Chapman street called out several trucks of Engine Company No. 1, about 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The fire was confined to a dump on the street, the blaze being quickly extinguished with a line of hose. The company was called out Sunday night for a stubborn chimney fire in the residence at 86 Chestnut street, owned by William Hirchayea and occupied by Arthur Smith and family. Chemicals were used.

The November meeting of the common council, scheduled for this evening, was convened by Mayor Charles A. Gates and adjourned until Wednesday evening, the adjournment being out of respect to the World war veterans.

The November meeting of the Willimantic Ministers' union was held at the Federated church in South Willington today with Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield in charge. There was a short business session at 11 a. m. Rev. Charles G. Johnson, pastor of the South Coventry Congregational church read a paper on The Holy Land, which he visited last February. Dinner was served at the close of the meeting with Rev. Charles Houston, pastor of the Willington church and Miss Rosa O. Hall as host and hostess. There was an attendance of 30 of the 32 members of the union.

Miss Annie E. Backus of 29 North street, employed at the office of Dr. R. Bullock Jones, was painfully injured at her home late Saturday evening when she slipped on a rug and fractured her right arm near the shoulder. Miss Backus is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital.

In marked contrast to today's safe and sane celebration of Armistice day were remembrances of the riotous event of 11 years ago when every drug store in the city "sold out" on face and sachet powders, prices regardless. Young and old were subjected to powder sprinkling and the streets, as well as the inhabitants, turned white within a short time. The sky was the limit and an old hunter, the late Mitchell Laramie was out on Main street with a heavy rifle giving demonstrations of shooting the can. "It was one occasion," reminisced an old-timer today, "when the girls got all the powder they could carry, and how."

Cars driven by Irving H. Tyler of Central Village and William M. Krug of 56 Union street collided with slight damage at the junction of Mill and Union streets this morning about 8 o'clock, Officer Arthur Hurley investigated.

Stafford Springs

WHISKEY, GINGER ALE, GIRLS, IN DANCERS' DARK CAR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Nov. 11.—Blotte W. Belawich and Reginald Pope of Warehouse Point, started for a dance in Willington Saturda night, bringing with them a pint bottle of whiskey, some ginger ale and two young ladies. The party parked their car in South Willington, when the men proceeded to test the liquor. Officers Heindel and Couzens of the Stafford Springs state police barracks happened along and, noticing the car parked without lights, decided to make an investigation. They found the two men and two women in the car and one of the men was taking a drink from the whiskey bottle. Belawich and Pope were placed under arrest, the former for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and parking a car without lights, and the latter for being intoxicated. In the borough court, before Judge Heald Monday morning, Belawich paid a fine of $100 for operating while under the influence of liquor and $5 for parking without lights, together with costs of $18.35. Pope was fined $10 and costs of $11.85 after pleading guilty to the charge of intoxication. The two young women in the party were sent to their homes in Warehouse Point in a taxi, late Saturday night.

Had Shotgun, No License

County Game Warden Edward Wraight found Carmello Prazila with a rabbit and shotgun in his hands while strolling about the woods near the Kemp property in West Stafford Monday morning. Prazila was arrested for hunting without a license, also for having in his possession a shotgun, as he was an alien. Judge Heald imposed a fine of $10 and costs, which the accused paid.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cady and family have returned to Springfield, after spending a few days with relatives in town.

Herbert E. West, of Somerville, Mass., visited local relatives Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hajosy have returned, after spending the week end with Mrs. Hajosy's parents at Salem Depot, N. H.

George Greendonner, of Lowell Textile school, is with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Greendonner, in West Stafford.

Misses Beatrice Vezie and Mary Burlick were week-end visitors with Thompsonville friends.

Strazza post, American Legion, accompanied by the Spanish War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, Woman's Relief corps and the auxiliary to the American Legion, together with the Boy Scouts, attended a patriotic service and rally at the Methodist church Sunday morning and listened to a very inspiring address by the pastor, Rev. T. Arthur Moseley.

The annual membership roll call in the American National Red Cross began Monday and will continue until Thanksgiving. Workers have been selected by the local Red Cross to make a thorough canvass of the town and an effort will be made to reach every adult in the community.

STONINGTON

BOROUGH MEETING TO DECIDE BULKHEAD MATTER

A petition has been presented to the warden and burgesses of Stonington borough asking for the calling of a special meeting of the freemen of the borough, by the Atwood Machine Co. to take into consideration the request of the company to build a bulkhead from the Gates wharf south to the old breakwater. The company would gain considerable ground and close up more than 100 feet of the breakwater, which is now open. The proposition was sent to the warden and burgesses and at a meeting held Nov. 1, the board took no action as they considered it a matter for the citizens to act on. The U. S. Engineers' office will give no consent until action has been taken by the borough. A meeting for this purpose has been called for Monday evening, Nov. 18, in Borough hall.

The forty-hours' devotion will close this (Tuesday) evening at 7:30 in St. Mary's church.

Miss Helen Fitzpatrick, of New York, visited relatives here last week.

Mrs. John Powers and Miss Alice Powers were week end visitors in Fair Haven, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gardiner and children spent the holiday here as guests of Mrs. Byron Gardiner.

Miss Anna Mae Krizsnack, of Willimantic, visited her parents over the week end.

Mrs. Mary L. Sliney was a visitor at Narragansett Pier Sunday.

Miss Nicholetta Squadrito, of Bristol, Conn., visited here Sunday with her parents.

Mrs. Albert Miller, who has been a patient at Westerly hospital, returned to her home with her young daughter Friday.

J. F. Trumbull, W. R. C., is to meet this (Tuesday) evening.

JEWETT CITY

GENERAL OBSERVANCE OF 1929 ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice day was observed in Jewett City by a more general closing of stores and places of other business, than for some time, due to the patriotic efforts of William McGovern and Francis McLaughlin. The Aspinook Co., Textile Novelty and A. B. Burleson Co. Inc., mills were shut down for the day, and all schools closed. There was a more than customary display of flags about the borough. At three minutes of eleven the town bells were rung and the factory whistles blown, in memory of the great day eleven years ago. In sharp contrast with Sunday, when the state highway presented a traffic problem all the afternoon, surprisingly few automobiles were passing Monday.

Of especial interest, among the war relics displayed in Arremony's window were a pair of German machine guns. People all day stopped to look at the fine display.

OBITUARY

Mrs. George Seymour

Mrs. Mary J. Russell, 69, wife of George Seymour, died Sunday afternoon, at her home, 8 Ash street, after a long illness. Mrs. Seymour was born in Canada, November 27, 1860, the daughter of Fred and Caroline Russell. The Russell family came to Jewett City fifty years ago, and the parents and a daughter Georgianna died here several years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Seymour were married in Jewett City September 17, 1882, and thirty-five years ago built their home on Ash street, being among the first families to settle in what is now a largely populated section of the town. Mrs. Seymour's health has been failing for many years. She was always a cheerful friendly neighbor and a loving home-mother. She is survived by her husband and three daughters, Mrs. Thomas Upton, Mrs. James Smith and Mrs. Eva Lambert, all of Jewett City. A son George, died several years ago. She leaves four grandchildren and two sisters Mrs. Embert E. Nash of Chicopee, Mass., and Mrs. Noel Larock of Moosup, also two brothers, Joseph Russell of Chicopee and David Russell, whose home has been with Mrs. Seymour.

WEDDING

Golas-Dobrawolska

Stanislas Golas and Miss Stella Dobrawolska were married at St. Mary's church on Armistice day morning, the ceremony being performed and the nuptial mass being sung by Rev. J. J. McCabe. The maid of honor was Miss Bertha Dobrawolska, and the best man was Joseph Golas. The bride wore a white satin period gown with lace flounce, and wore a tulle veil, the can held with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. She wore the groom's gift which was a wrist watch. The maid of honor was gowned in pink satin and maline, wore a maline hat and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids were dressed in dainty period gowns of different colors, wearing maline bandeaux. Miss Stella Golas in peach satin, Helen Clerezewski in green, Lucy Bensuk in yellow, Stella Grobofski in old rose and Minnie Grobofski in green. The ushers were Florimond Mondor, Stanley Juba, John Usga, Joseph Styczinsky and Bennie Solenski. Two little flower maids Evelyn Campbell and Helen Bensuk in pink crepe frocks carried baskets of flowers. The ringbearer wore a black velvet suit. Mr. and Mrs. Golas left Tuesday for a trip to Narragansett, R. I., the bride traveling in a brown crepe dress with hat to match and wearing a black coat. They will live at the bride's home on their return. The groom is employed in the Aspinook Co. mills and the bride with the Ninigret Co. The bride received many gifts. She presented her attendants necklaces. Guests were present from Worcester, Warren and Westerly.

Myrtle Warblers Arrive

The myrtle warbler, another strange bird visitor is calling in this section, and was reported from North Main street three different mornings. Mr. Myrtle may be recognized by four yellow patches, one on each side of the breast, one on the crown and one on the rump. Among the several warblers that visit, and are native in this section, none are like the myrtle, and these yellow patches are characteristic of this species.

A woman in the north section of the borough, keeps a green plant growing on the window sill inside. One day last week during their all too transient local tarry, two myrtle warblers, not accustomed to glass, came and persistently pecked at the pane, to reach the leaves they saw inside. The visitors are bound from lower Canada to their winter homes in Panama. If one has bayberry bushes about the house, Mr. Myrtle and his family may call this week to partake of a bay berry banquet.

Miss Elsie Jacobs, of Lawrance, spent the week end at Mrs. John Oakes. Her father, John Jacobs was a visitor in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Zegeer entertained over Sunday Mr. and Mrs. George Kortexe and daughter Alice and John Marchi, of Portland, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. James Duggan of Dedham, Mass., spent the week end at T. B. Duggan's.

CANTERBURY PLAINS

John Romanoff has left for New York where he expects to work during the winter.

John Wojchoski, who underwent another operation a few weeks ago at Day Kimball hospital is able to sit up.

Anna Grab Burdick, who has been in the hospital at Willimantic visited her parents recently.

The following officers were elected by Canterbury grange, No. 70, Wednesday evening: Master, Grace L. Dawley; overseer, Richard Parkhurst; lecturer, Elise Hawes; steward, Frederick A. Hicks; chaplain, Happy Tracy; secretary, Levi N. Clark; treasurer, Cora Hawes; assistant steward, James Flemming; lady assistant steward, Lucille Bushnell; Pomona, Myrtice Williams; Ceres, Marion Safford; Flora, Florence Lovell; gate keeper, Webster Wainwright.

The juvenile grange met last Saturday at Grange hall. After the business meeting the following program was put on: Piano solo, Helen Romanoff; song, grange; recitations by Muriel Hanson, Olive Linton, Ida Mustitale; song, Grange. At the close of the meeting games were played. Cake and cocoa were served.

The community was shocked to hear of the death of Charles Robbins Tuesday morning.

A Halloween party was held at the town hall for the benefit of the juvenile grange. The hall was decorated by Fred Oat and Harry Kinne. Members of the juvenile grange put on a program of recitations, dialogues and songs.

Doughnuts and coffee were served by Mrs. Mabel Kinne, assisted by Mrs. Patsche. Games were played and a jolly good time was provided for the juniors. The net proceeds were $11.56.

LISBON

The pastor preached Sunday morning on the theme, Immortality as Depicted by the Prophets. His text was, My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord.

Rev. W. J. Reynolds was in Ansonia Tuesday and Wednesday to attend the state conference of Congregational churches.

Those attending the six church conference in Plainfield were: Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Reynolds, Miss Lucy Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kendall, Mrs. F. E. Hyde, Miss Clara Hyde, Mrs. C. A. Mell, Mrs. Mattie Robinson.

The program for the meeting of the Community club Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, will be in charge of Misses Gladys and Helen Thoma. There will be a play and other attractions.

Miss Alberta Mather, of Taftville, was the week end guest of Miss Ella Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mather spent Sunday in Providence. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. Mather's mother, Mrs. Fred Church, who has been spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Orsemus Vaughan.

Mrs. J. A. Randall, of Gosben, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. F. E. Hyde, a few days last week.

Because of the last Wednesday of the month, which is the usual time for the Ladies' Aid society to meet, falling on the day before Thanksgiving the meeting is to be held a week earlier, on the 20th.

MOTHERS now learn value of MAGNESIA

Because it is so helpful in keeping babies and children healthy and happy, every mother should know Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

This harmless, almost tasteless preparation is most effective in relieving those symptoms of babies and children generally caused by souring food in the little digestive tract, such as sour-belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, colic. As a mild laxative, it acts gently, but certainly, to open the little bowels in constipation, colds, children's diseases.

A teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia does the work of half a pint of lime water in neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding and preventing hard curds. Its many uses for mother and child are fully explained in the interesting book "Useful Information." It will be sent you, FREE. Write The Philips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since, 1875.

WHEN YOU WANT to put your business before the public, there is no medium better than through the advertising columns of The Bulletin.

When BABIES are upset

Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

DANIELSON

BIG CROWD PARTICIPATES IN ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVANCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Nov. 11—Danielson's greatest observance of Armistice day since the original one 11 years ago drew thousands of people into this community today. Bands blared and drums rolled along the line of march of the impressive parade that got underway promptly at the scheduled hour and wended its way from streets where the divisions formed down through the gaily decorated business section and over to the West Side, thence through Franklin, Furnace, Carter and Broad street, to Davis park, where it was disbanded.

The line of march was jammed with people and automobiles, but Chief John McFarland and his force of borough officers and Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart and a squad of state officers handled traffic without a hitch and the parade moved without interference.

Major E. L. Darbie, commanding the provisional battalion of troops of the 43d division was at the head of the line. The military division was made up of the 192nd Field Artillery band of New London, Headquarters company, 25th Infantry brigade, New London Service battery, Headquarters detachment and medical detachment, Danielson organizations. This division formed in Stearns street and at marching time moved down North Main street to pick up other divisions of the parade that had formed in Westcott road, Hutchins street, Winter street, Broad street and Reynolds street. Alfred L. Reed was marshall of the parade, with Arthur Barnard and Arthur Deforest, all members of Leo J. L'Homme post, American Legion, as aids. Other legionnaires were at the head of the various divisions.

The Goodyear band headed the second division. This was the legion and former service men's division, Leo J. L'Homme post, Danielson, sponsors of the fine observance of Armistice day, its auxiliary; Ernest Godreau post, Moosup, its auxiliary; and Albert Breault post, Putnam, were marching organizations in this section and were applauded along the entire line of march. In this section was a group of 24 children, sons of World war veterans.

St. Mary's Boy Scout band of Putnam, troops of Boy Scouts from that city and Danielson Boy Scouts made a splendid showing in this division of the parade and elicited many expressions of admiration from those who looked on.

The third division was headed by the Killingly high school band and included the Odd Fellows' section, with splendidly uniformed members of Canton, Oneco, Mohegan, Quinebaug lodge and Dorcas Rebekah lodge.

The fourth division was an outstanding one of the parade. It was headed by the Polish band of Webster, a first class organization, and included the Polish-American club of Danielson—men, women and young girls, many of them in the colorful costumes of their native land. The Polish section also included a handsomely decorated float. This section, which also included St. James' band of Danielson and a fine-appearing delegation of the Union St. John Baptist and that prize marching organization, the Guard St. Therese, attractively uniformed, won round after round of applause all along the line of march. Wappaquasset tribe of Red Men, Putnam, formed a picturesque and very interesting section of the parade.

A single sedan was sufficient to transport the few honored veterans of the Civil war who were able to take part in the parade, and many a hat was raised to them, mindful of their service to the nation, as they passed in review. In another sedan rode a group of veteran Odd Fellows, whose combined ages totaled 300 years.

The fifth division was made up of floats representing the American Legion auxiliary, Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross, Sarah Williams Danielson chapter, D. A. R.; Flanders field, a thought-provoking reminder that many American soldier boys still sleep beneath the poppy-fields of France, Killingly high school, Danielson grammar school, Danielson Girls' club, Wakitatina Camp Fire Girls, Connecticut Light and Power company, Killingly grange, Daughters of Veterans, W. R. C., Dayville Men's club, Danielson Laundry and Supply Co., Leonell Gauthier. The East Killingly Drum corps headed the sixth division made up of the men and apparatus of the Danielson fire department, the men wearing their new uniforms for the first time and making a fine appearance. Also in this division was the chemical truck and men of the Mortlake Fire company of Brooklyn.

Legionnaires commanding divisions were Lieut. Ira A. Warren, Thomas A. Beckett, Joseph Burton, Chester Burdick, James Harney.

Following the dismissal of the parade at the park the provisional battalion marched to P. and A. field off Cottage street, where the military ceremony of evening parade and retreat was carried out in most impressive manner, Major E. L. Darbie taking the review.

This evening there was a display of fireworks at P. and A. field and music by the Buddies' band. A dance followed at the state armory.

This morning the Killingly high school band played a concert on Davis park from 10:30 until noon, pausing at 11 o'clock while tribute was paid to those who gave their lives in or since the World war, as those who served their country well. Rev. Harding W. Gaylord, pastor of the Westfield Congregational church, spoke briefly from the band stand to the several hundred persons who were assembled at the park. The ceremonies at 11 o'clock included two minutes of silent prayer and the sounding of taps. A color guard of the American Legion was in attendance for this ceremony, with Marshal A. L. Reed commanding.

Danielson as a whole, felt very proud tonight of the splendid observance of Armistice day that was made possible through the efforts of the American Legion and all that assisted them in making the affair such a success.

WEDDING

Andrews-Berthiaume

An Armistice day wedding at St. James' church this morning at 9:30 was that of Miss Lillian R. Berthiaume, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Berthiaume, of Riverview, and Francis Andrews, also resident here. Rev. J. J. Demers, M. S. performed the marriage ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial mass. The bridesmaid was Miss Anita Berthiaume, an aunt of the bride; and Joseph McGee of Boston was best man. Following the church ceremony there was a reception in honor of the newly married couple at K. of C. hall. Guard St. Therese an organization composed of young women of St. James' parish, which has won prizes in drill contests in various New England cities and of which the bride was a member, attended the reception and during the course of the morning presented a drill for the entertainment of the guests. The bride's gown was of white satin and she wore a veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and bride's roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of peach-colored brocade silk and she wore a hat to match. Her bouquet was of butterfly roses. The newly married couple are spending a honeymoon in Boston and will visit other sections of New England before returning here to make their home.

Early this evening police departments here reported that no accidents of any consequence had occurred here today, although Danielson entertained more visitors than it has on any single day in the past decade. Neither were there any arrests. The crowds were tractable and good-natured and intent, it appeared, not only on having a good time, but doing it in a sensible manner.

It has been established that so many automobiles are being operated through this territory with defective equipment that it may be necessary to begin ordering drivers of these cars into court. For upwards of a year state officers have been content to give a driver a ticket when a checkup of his car showed poor brakes, faulty headlights or taillights or other such defects. These tickets impose the obligation on drivers to have the defects remedied. It appears they do not always do so. So, if conditions do not improve, some court appearances will be in order, it is said.

An hour before parade time today an alarm called out the fire department to subdue a chimney fire in a home on Dyer stdeet. The firemen did what work they had to do promptly and were back at quarters and ready to take their place in the line of march on schedule time. Likewise, on Sunday evening the department was out to take care of a very minor fire at a Broad street home.

In football circles it is noted that Arthur "Pon" Williams, former Connecticut Aggie fullback and whose home is here, made an unusual play in the Providence Steam Roller-Yellow Jackets game at Philadelphia the past week end. Williams is playing with the Rollers. On a fourth down, Steam Rollers' ball, Williams started out, carrying the ball, on an end run. His interference cleaned out and with tacklers closing in behind the line of scrimmage, he did an unusual thing—punted on the run—and saved his team valuable yardage.

Danielson will witness on Tuesday morning the beginning of real activity on the part of representatives of the local chapter of the American Red Cross in the annual roll call. It will continue throughout the current week.

Mr and Mrs. Nathan D. Prince were visitors today with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Prince, at Franklin Mass.

Henri A. Ledoux of Lowell is visiting with friends in Danielson for a few days.

Miss Ruth Litch, senior at Connecticut college, New London, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Litch, of Stearns street.

There being no session of the town court on Armistice day, cases accumulating over the week end will be heard before Judge W. Fenner Woodward on Tuesday.

PUTNAM

ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVED WITH FITTING EXERCISES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 11.—Led by Mayor Charles A. Richard, the people of this city today assisted in a fitting celebration of the signing of the World war armistice. The observance of the 11th anniversary of the cessation of world hostilities, while not as elaborate as the celebrations of former years, was one in which two supreme motives for the event were expressed—sorrow, for the war dead and joy for the peace which exists between the nations of the universe.

The parade this morning revived memories of the stirring war-time days of 11 years ago as the soldiery, clad in khaki-colored uniforms, symbolic of America in 1918, once again tramped through the leading streets of the city to the strains of martial music. Mayor Richard and other city officials and clergymen reviewed the marching columns as they passed from Woodstock avenue to Church street.

Impressive ceremonies commemorating America's war dead were held in Union square after the last unit of the parade had filed into the expansive section of the business district. Mayor Richard, surrounded by clergymen, three veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, and World war veterans, spoke to the group which had gathered in the square. Before introducing the speaker of the day, the chief executive of the city in a short address paid glowing tribute to the soldiers of all the wars of the country's history. In concluding, Mayor Richard introduced Rev. S. A. Iciek, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Norwich.

Father Iciek, who served in the war, in his speech declared that the day furnished an excellent opportunity for those who passed through the great struggle to glance back over the years and pause for a moment and re-conceive the meaning of 11 o'clock on Nov. 11, 1918, and it was likewise a time for the boys and girls of today in whose minds the first Armistice day is just a memory to concentrate upon its meaning. He paid tribute to the valor and heroism of the thousands of soldiers from all armies of the world, who made the supreme sacrifice for the cause of liberty.

In concluding, Father Iciek said: "At this time I take pleasure in expressing my thankfulness to the citizens of the city of Putnam for the honor bestowed upon me today, for the wonderful Armistice day manifestation and hope that you, the people of Putnam, go on each year renewing your pledges for the preservation of world peace."

As timepieces recorded the hour of 11, bells, whistles, sirens on fire apparatus, in every section of the city extolled the joy that is among the people these post-war days.

Three of the eight remaining veterans of the Civil war braved the bleak November cold in order to participate in the celebration. Proudly they took their seats among the official delegation in the balcony of the Putnam Inn. The five comrades who were unable to be present owing to ill health were there in spirit. Both Mayor Richard and Father Iciek spoke of the "Boys of '61" who were forced to watch the exercises from their comfort chairs in their homes.

The Boy Scout troops of St. Mary's, accompanied by their band of 32 pieces, played an important role in the parade. The band, under the direction of Rev. Joseph D. Casey, rendered several selections during the memorial program in the square.

Major A. D. McIntyre, marshal, and Joseph Flagg and Ernest J. Durand, aides, led the parade, assisted by a platoon of local police and two mounted officers of the state police barracks at Danielson, dispatched by Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart to assist the committee in charge of the observance.

A display in a show window of a leading business house in the business district, which is being sponsored by the Putnam chapter of American Red Cross in connection with the annual drive for funds, is challenging much attention. The window is decorated with American flags. A clay model is attired in the uniform of a Red Cross nurse, about which are miniature models of Red Cross workers performing their duties, in relief work. The handicraft exhibited in the display is a credit to the decorator who arranged the settings.

Miss Dorothy Keefe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Keefe of Ring street, is one of the members of the first rifle team at Connecticut college in New London. Miss Keefe, together with several other college girls, was promoted from a second squad to a berth on the first outfit, in recognition of their proficiency in marksmanship.

The season's first real touch of winter was experienced today when light flurries of snow fell at noon. The flakes quickly turned to rain when the mercury began to rise. The arrival of snow at this early date caused several of the local weather prophets to forecast a winter this year that will be marked with many snowfalls of great intensity.

The eve of the democratic city caucus is at hand and at a late hour this afternoon the city committee had been unable to secure candidates to accept the mayoral nomination or the alderman-at-large nomination.

A meeting of the committee was held last evening for the purpose of selecting prospective candidates but no names were forthcoming, according to a statement made this afternoon by Frederick Dumas, chairman of the committee. According to Mr. Dumas former Mayor John J. McGarry was asked to accept the party nomination, but emphatically refused to enter the race.

According to rumors Saturday forenoon former Mayor McGarry had been approached by a group of republicans opposed to the candidacy of Mayor Charles A. Richard and was urged to accept his party's nomination. The former chief executive was interviewed and denied that he had been asked to run by any group of representative citizens and supplemented his reply with a statement that under no condition whatsoever would he consider entering the mayoral race. Mr. McGarry was mayor of Putnam in 1907 and in 1916. At present he is a city and town auditor and is captain of the headquarters company of the 43rd division, Connecticut nations' guard.

Leon A. Talbot and Charles A. Ryan, two local men whose names are familiar in political circles, have been mentioned as seeking the nomination for alderman-at-large, but when interviewed this afternoon and asked if they would allow their names to be presented at the democratic caucus Tuesday evening, both returned non-confirming statements.

Unless some unforeseen development occurs before the democrats enter into general caucus tomorrow night, Mayor Charles A. Richard, Alderman-at-Large Warren S. Ames and Harvey Grinsell, nominee for tax collector, all republicans, will finish the 1929 city political campaign without opposition.

James T. Nicholson, assistant manager of the Eastern area of the American Red Cross, addressed a large congregation at the Congregational church last evening, on the eve of the opening of the annual drive for funds by the organization which he represented. Mr. Nicholson is a national figure and is widely known in New York state in connection with his social work among boys. Following Mr. Nicholson's part of the program, the regular Friendly evening service of the church was presented and was featured by the screening of the colored motion picture, "The Flag."

Flags of the Shenandoah system rendered a beautifying effect upon the appearance of the business section this morning. One or more flags were flying on a towering staff affixed to the curbing in front of every business house in the city.

Several industrial plants in the city were in operation today, since Armistice day was not declared a state holiday.

Miss Rhoda Hines, Miss Louise Sherman, Roswell Wheaton and Phillip Arnold attended a Young People's conference held recently at Willimantic. The group of young people represented the Congregational church of this city.

Walter Cody and Frank Donovan of this city, students at St. John's preparatory school in Danvers, Mass., spent the week end and holiday at their homes in this city.

Hayden Franklin of Northeastern university in Boston, spent the week end and holiday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Franklin, of Chapman street.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Murphy and Misses Grace R. Murphy and Mollie E. Noonan of Northampton, Mass., returned to their homes in that city today after a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bulger of this city.

Philip Bibeault of South Main street, a student at a Boston school, returned to his studies today after a visit with his parents here over the holiday.

Thomas and Henry Arnold spent the week end at their home in Pomfret.

William McCoy of Woonsocket spent Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. McCoy, of Ring street.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kent and children of Meriden spent Monday with Mrs. Mary B. Bishop of Grove street.

ST. MARY'S RECTORY WAS BURGLARIZED SUNDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Nov. 11.—One of the most mysterious thefts in criminal records of the local police department was made some time between midnight and morning today at the rectory of St. Mary's church on Providence street. The haul netted thieves about $400, according to police.

The studies of Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of the church, located on the first floor, Rev. Joseph D. Casey and Rev. Ernest J. Boileau, curates, on the second floor, were entered, ransacked and money and valuables belonging to the priests taken. Each clergyman was asleep in his respective quarters at the hour the break occurred. The thieves, whom police and Father Bellerose believe specialize in robbing church property, gained admittance to the rectory in a manner which has not yet come to light. According to statements from the police, the prowlers did not create the slightest disturbance.

The guest room of the rectory at the south side was utilized as a central working spot and from here the bandits made their way to other rooms in the house. In Father Casey's sleeping quarters, his valuable watch and personal funds, amounting to about $60, were taken from his trousers at his bedside. In Father Boileau's study, the thieves removed the priest's clothing, on a chair at his bedside, and carried it to the guest room. Only a small amount was procured.

In the study and office of the pastor, a place of safe-keeping was thoroughly ransacked and funds belonging to Father Bellerose, amounting to more than $200, were taken, together with an envelope containing $61 of parish money and another envelope containing $100, the property of St. Mary's Boy Scout troop. Valuable church property in the study of Father Bellerose, was untouched.

Capt. of Police William J. Jarvis, who is leading the investigation, said this evening that he had obtained a few clues which possibly might lead to the apprehension of the burglars. Officer Benoni Durand, night patrolman in the north end, reported to Captain Jarvis this morning after the break had been discovered at the rectory, that he had observed nothing unusual in the vicinity of the church at any hour this morning. Apparently from the manner in which the break and theft was committed and so cleverly executed, plans for the job had been formulated weeks in advance, since few, if any, clues which will lead to a quick apprehension have been obtained, although Captain Jarvis was hopeful tonight that he may be prepared to make arrests within a few days.

Lionel Auger of Walnut street will be hailed before city court Tuesday morning to answer for several charges in connection with the burning of a motorcycle on Grove street Sunday

THE RED CROSS APPEAL

On general principles the work of the American Red Cross is such as to enlist the support of the people of this country. It has been put to the acid test time and again and there is always that same highly satisfactory record of accomplishments.

It is an organization that is ever ready to respond when distress conditions prevail. Much of its effectiveness comes from its readiness. Being prepared for emergencies, it helps doubly by helping quickly. Its work is efficiently done because it is in experienced hands. Being ready to do and knowing what to do go a long way toward the solution of any problem.

The Red Cross isn't restricted in its activities to periods of war. Wherever disaster occurs, whether it be from volcanoes, fire, flood, hurricane, or anything else, it is subject to call and any community or region that has been in distress knows full well what a relief is immediately experienced in knowing that the Red Cross is on the job.

During the year of the Red Cross it has rendered assistance in 117 domestic and three insular disasters. Some of these you may have known little about, but the Red Cross was faithful to its trust and furnished whatever aid was necessary. Sometimes it was food, again it was seed and there were times when it meant the provision of feed for animals.

It is easy to recall the many instances when the Red Cross has been called upon to direct relief measures in connection with major disasters, and at such a time there is deep appreciation of the fact that there is such an organization subject to call. It is in anticipation of uncertainties that annual calls are made for the support of the organization. Through the provision of funds it is possible for the Red Cross to maintain itself and to be ready to respond when summoned. It isn't necessary to wait for the organization of a relief organization.

The opportunity to participate in the maintenance of the Red Cross is provided in the annual roll call and it is an opportunity which everyone should appreciate. The work is of the finest type and all should be desirous of having a hand in it, of feeling that his contribution was helping to maintain such a relief organization throughout the year and of knowing that something had been done to deal with disasters before they occur. Whatever the contribution may be, there is satisfaction in knowing that it could not be put to better use than through the channels of the American Red Cross. It is an organization that never gets more than it can put to good use.

WORKING THROUGH COLLEGE

Even though there are those who do not consider it a desirable thing for a student to work his way through college, claiming that it takes too much of the time that ought to be devoted to study, it is a fact that many of them do and in doing it make an excellent record, not only while in college, but in the years afterward. Time and again they demonstrate the fact that through the training they get in that method of getting sufficient funds to secure the much desired education they establish a basis for future activities from which they never depart.

Furthermore, it is not improbable that those against whom so much criticism is heard, because they spend so much time motoring to other places and who are having plenty of time for study, are devoting that study time to far less valuable use than the students who are earning their way.

It is an interesting report which has been made by the bureau of appointments at Yale which shows that during the last year a total of $686,647 was earned by students who had been provided with positions. How generally the working student is found at Yale is shown by the statement that they make up more than a third of the total enrollment.

The earnings for the last year represent a gain of about $100,000 over the year before, indicating that there is no disposition to give up the chance of working one's way through the institution and it wouldn't appear that there was any real effort being made to discourage the worker. Employment covered the whole year in some instances, when colleges was not in session as well as when it was and the employed covered a wide range, but in all instances indicating a willingness on the part of the student and on the other hand a desire by those seeking help to give assistance to those who it was known were striving to better themselves educationally.

Working one's way through college doesn't mean a bed of roses. It means the full utilization of the 24 hours. It means that there must be a careful adjustment of the work time, the study time, the recitations and the play time, and it is not surprising if the last named is sacrificed in the interest of sleep. Still there is probably no student who more fully appreciates what he has obtained on leaving college than the one who has worked his way through, and he most certainly is justified for any pride which he may have in his accomplishment.

THE PRESIDENT ON PEACE

Fittingly did President Hoover choose Armistice day for setting forth certain views in regard to armament limitation and the better relationship of nations. No better occasion could have been picked for dwelling upon international peace and ideas for insuring it.

It was not with a view to influencing the coming London conference that he spoke, for he took occasion to say that while he believed that "the time had come when we should remove starvation of women and children from the weapons of warfare" by seeing that they are made free from any interference in times of war, he offered it only for the consideration of the world and not as a government proposition to any nation. It is, nevertheless, a thought which deserves much consideration on the part of other nations as well as this. In fact, it is of more concern to other nations, and especially to those which are dependent upon others for their food supplies.

In connection with the question of naval limitation, the president was clear and outspoken when he told the country and the world that this country was ready to go as far as the others in the reduction of naval strength. This is only what has been indicated at naval conferences, those which have succeeded and those which have failed. We have displayed our attitude most convincingly and yet it is expressive of present-day sentiment when the president declares "it only remains for the others to say how low they will go. It cannot be too low for us."

President Hoover will get a most favorable reaction to his statement that the greatest guarantee of peace is "to build the spirit of good will and friendliness, to create respect and confidence, to stimulate esteem between peoples," and well may he declare it to be a "new vision of diplomacy that is dawning in the world."

Ever since the signing of the armistice there has been a broadening of the effort to replace war with permanent peace. It means a right about face, the abandonment of old practices and the adoption of new; it calls for a new order of things, a new relationship between nations, and it is gratifying that this country has such an opportunity to participate in the commendable work. President Hoover began it when he made his trip to the South American republics, it has been evidenced in the peace negotiations in which this country has been and now is involved. There remains plenty to be done but the goal is established and satisfaction will not be secured until it is reached.

STATE PARK VISITORS

Those who have watched the steady stream of automobiles passing any given point may well have wondered where they all go. No doubt many have given expression to such a thought and if they happen to see the report of the Connecticut Forest and Park association they may find a partial answer to their query.

By that report for the first nine months of this year it is shown that there were over 1,151,000 persons who visited the state parks, representing a gain of 55 per cent over the number for the same period a year ago. This means, if it means anything, that there is an appreciation on the part of the people of this state of the system of parks that has been developed and in seeking a place to go they recognize the attractions that have been made available and go as often as they can to enjoy the charm of these natural beauty spots.

Where to go, if you are doing much motoring, is a problem that confronts those seeking something new, something worthwhile, something with a scenic appeal and something that harbors natural beauty. Connecticut has a park system with a great diversity of attractions, varying from the shore to the mountains, from lakes to forests and from historical places to picnic grounds. It is a system that is well distributed so that, with the exception of the shore, it is possible for residents of all sections to find interesting places within comparatively short distances of their own localities.

Perhaps there could be no better evidence of the appreciation on the part of the people of the state in regard to these parks than the substantial gain in visitors that has been disclosed during the present year. Motor vehicles and good roads have done much to make this possible. They are, in fact, the explanation as to why so many people have been to the parks this year, for the attractions have long existed but the means and ease of getting there and the interest in them have only been comparatively recently developed.

Furthermore, it is believed that with the betterment of approaches there will continue to be yearly increases in the number of park visitors.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Have you acquired one of the Red Cross buttons?

Everything seems to have a tendency downward this fall—wells, skirts, leaves, stocks.

It looks as if there would be a lot of parties to which Senator Brookhart will not be invited.

That report of 30 inches of snow in Kansas is another case where distance lends enchantment.

In view of Senator Brookhart's smelling ability he ought to make a great rum hound for the enforcement squad.

Senator Johnson accepted the president's explanation of his failure to get an invitation to the white house dinner without even inquiring about the seating arrangement.

Think of Mayor Walker of New York, invariably late everywhere, complaining because the officials were late in getting some of the voting machines ready for use election day.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—Senator Bingham has been especially active in debate this week endeavoring to protect the industries of Connecticut through sufficient duty on foreign importations that are in direct conflict with Connecticut made goods.

He fought to the finish for adequate protection of the wire netting industry which he declared as the sole industry of a Connecticut town, referring to Georgetown. Whereupon Senator Norris sneering suggested that "if what the senator says is true they ought to go into some other business."

Norris again showed his venom towards Senator Bingham when he alluded to Mr. Bingham's constituents as "those fellows up 'there'" and again when Mr. Bingham commented on certain conditions, Norris, apparently still in an aggressive mood, accused Senator Bingham of "misconstruing" certain statements, adding "the senator from Connecticut with his usual ingenuity, misconstrued it." I refer to this to show the animosity that prompts Senator Norris when addressing or referring to the Connecticut senator, and it is not to be forgotten that Mr. Norris was the man who named the special committee conducting lobby investigations.

Floor Leader John Q. Tilson came back to Washington last week to be present when the house reconvened. But as the senate has no prospect of putting the tariff bill before the house at present, no adjournment of that body can be taken and the three days' recess program may be indefinitely prolonged.

Connecticut as an agricultural state may be interested to know, a farm woman may still be called "The Woman With the Hoe," even though she spends one-half her working time in "feeding the family," and spends not less than 63 hours each week on indoor house work. In addition she often puts 11 hours a week caring for poultry, working in the garden and caring for the milk, making butter and cheese.

This became known through a series of questions sent to farm women "home-makers" by the department of agriculture, asking how many hours a day they put in before they quit and call it a day's work.

Of this group of farm women some were of the far or middle west, and others from eastern states. These women stated they worked 63 hours a week on specified tasks; 26 hours are taken up with "feeding the family" as they described it; 9 hours went for putting the house in order, or cleaning; with 2 additional hours for extras sure to come daily and need attention; the remainder of the 63 hours are given to the care of the children, sewing, mending, laundering and other duties of the daily grind.

The test questions put to these women, and from whom 700 replies were received, were farmer's wives where no bake shop is handy, and the farmer doesn't have to eat canned stuff, when he craves real corn beef and cabbage.

This recalls a similar, but more extended series of questions sent out by the department way back in 1915 when a bill to provide government aid to women on the farm was pending in congress.

Fifty thousand letters were sent to farm women all over the country, but only 2000 replies were received. The women had been asked to name their utmost pressing needs and what they most desired in the way of government aid. It was my good fortune to be asked by a leading magazine to write an article, after personally seeing the letters from the women. And this is the substance of what I learned.

A great cry went up against the loneliness of the farm, and the government was asked to provide free telephone, free phonograph and free books. "We want free telephone service not free seeds," wrote one woman. It was before th days of radio. "We want free vocational training for the boys, and somebody to teach the girls housework. But don't send us any city folks who will teach them frills," wrote another. They asked for fireless cookers; that was in many letters. They also demanded free electric lights, movies and a traveling physician to treat them at government expense. One woman capped the climax by writing the secretary of agriculture:

"Please have a law passed that will prevent men from staying down at the store instead of going straight home with what their wives sent them to get." Several asked for ready money. One southern man evidently had taken the matter into his own hands, and wrote: "What we need most down here is a cook book. The women folks use too much grease when they cook."

In those 2000 replies, there was not one call for food or shelter, though many asked for running water and other conveniences of a town. It was always a call for more comfort, luxury, and, most of all, something to break the monotony of farm life. They told of hard work but not of suffering such as comes to the jobless of cities.

They told of privation in the way of lack of home modernization, and of hard work, but never of hunger or lack of fuel.

Now the telephone, the radio, the phonograph have brought the isolated loneliness of the farm to an end. Science combined with Uncle Sam is making farm life much easier for the home maker. Maybe the "woman with the hoe" will some day sight her ship of fortune, laden with free fireless cookers and kindred comforts. But that law to make husbands go "straight home" from the country store, is still lacking from the file of measures passed by congress.

The temporary passing of Watson of Indiana from senate republican leadership, takes from the floor of that body the most typical, old fashioned spell-binder of them all.

Vigorous and effective, dramatic in gesture and voice, big of stature and big of voice, Watson never failed to hold the attention of his audience, and to bring them up standing, when he rounded out his forceful sentences.

Watson is a man of action, hands, arms and feet playing a part. Watson believes in the republican party and all it stands for; his enthusiasm is contagious. When he tells of its ideals, its accomplishments and its purposes, you wonder why the members of other political parties do not all feel ashamed they have failed "to see the light"; when Watson tells how it is abused and maligned you feel impelled to gird up your loins for battle, and go forth to demolish the enemy; when Watson deals in dry facts and statistics, they become dramatic episodes in the life of the nation.

Watson always plays fair, he has the warm personal affection of every man in the senate, regardless of partisanship. No matter how stiff the blows they deal him in debate; no matter how keen his counter thrusts at them.

Perhaps Watson may return as leader, after he recovers from the effects of an automobile accident a year or so ago, and which kept him months in a hospital. He has gone south for a complete rest. But, if Watson permanently relinquishes the senate floor leadership, no living man can quite fill his shoes. They may be admirable leaders, but the Watson leadership shoes are built on a "special last."

The Girl Reserves of Washington have opened a hospital for "outgrown" toys. They are to be used for Christmas gifts to children in hospitals, institutions and to little folk who might otherwise get no Christmas gifts.

They call the hospital The Toy Shop, and to it are brought all sorts of toys, dolls, and books for children. The girls find a double interest in their work of doctoring and repairing. They are anxious to make the children happy, they also find it a chance to work on their pet hobbies. In fact one branch is named "The Hobby Groupe." Here the girls pick out some special work. With some it is dressing dolls; with other it is repainting the rubbed off noses and lips of half worn dolls; some make new clothes, others having a mechanical trend, turn to the mechanical toys and fix things that are out of gear.

Six tons of old style currency are being burned and destroyed daily by the treasury department.

Washington has already had three "Indian summers" with still more in prospect. Although the president's Virginia camp has twice been closed for the season, every now and then he makes up a party and runs down for the week end.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—Take the case of Hiram Bingham, a senator from Connecticut; indicted, tried, convicted and sentenced by that very senate grand jury process against which he has railed; but of what?

Of having committed a polit'cal faux pas, it seems.

You can hardly read more than that into the resolution of censure passed upon him. Had there been at any time in the whole incident a suggestion of moral turpitude on his part, of sinister purpose, it would be quite a different story, fraught with political consequences that could be calculated after some fashion.

But there was not, and it would take a political star gazer of far greater skill than the Bystander to cast a horoscope of the political maybes, personal or party, on the signs and portents of the Bingham affair.

It proved one thing—which needed no additional proof. That was the power of the democratic-farm-republican coalition in the senate.

The republican old guard, which, like Napoleon's famous guard corps, could die, but never surrender, could do nothing but vote "no."

The Old Guard.

Moses of New Hampshire typified that die-hard element, although he and probably every other old guardsman without doubt agreed that Bingham had blundered. Moses stood at the back in the center aisle as the last vote on the censure resolution rolled along.

His eyes were snapping balefully behind his glasses as he waited for his name. When it came, a stentorian "No" jarred the echoes, and floor and galleries chuckled delightedly.

That was one of the queer things about the Bingham censure debate; of fortune, laden with free fireless cookers and kindred comforts. But that law to make husbands go "straight home" from the country store, is still lacking from the file of measures passed by congress.

The temporary passing of Watson of Indiana from senate republican leadership, takes from the floor of that body the most typical, old fashioned spell-binder of them all.

SELF DEFENSE.

Mrs. Bradley faced her 10-year-old son across the table in the breakfast nook.

"Yes, mother, I know father's going to give you a perfectly lovely present." Margaret Bradley felt a premonition of doom. She strongly suspected what George was going to give her. It was always thus. Whatever he had been eager to buy for himself she would surely receive as a birthday or Christmas gift. This year radios had captured his fancy, and she saw a picture of how she would have to exclaim with simulated delight over an object that she didn't want. Their birthdays were, strangely, only a day apart, and the joint celebration was one of high festival for the family of three.

George must be cured of this habit. She got Jack off to school and restlessly moved from one room to another. There in George's room were the golf clubs he had given her last Christmas. In the living room gleamed the grand piano that only he could play. In the book shelves stood twelve magnificent volumes bound in rich red leather—for his stamp collection. And all these had been gifts from loving George to his Margaret! Letting her housework go, she sat on the davenport and pondered. For half an hour Margaret considered ways and means, casting this one aside as impracticable, that one as mean, another as too expensive. Finally, her eyes shining, she ran upstairs for hat and coat and hurled to the station.

George strutted around the house, chest out, heart gay, and full of the importance of his great secret. His wife watched him covertly. She'd teach him to give her what he wanted!

At 1.30 the door bell rang. Jack led his mother into the kitchen while the truckmen unpacked her present.

Blindfolded, she was led back by her husband and son and unmasked to face a bright, shiny, expensive cabinet radio.

"Oh, George! This is too funny!" she murmured weakly, and tears began to roll down her cheeks—tears of hysterical amusement.

"Why, what's the matter? Don't you like it?" Before she could answer there was a second ring. This time Jack withdrew with his father. He, in turn, was led in blindfolded.

"From me to you," Margaret said with a deep bow, watching his expression closely. In the room now stood two bright, shiny, expensive cabinet radios exactly alike.

"Well, isn't that strange!" said George slowly. "We have given the same present to each other. What'll we do?"

"I don't know, dear," Margaret was apparently at a loss. "I—I—guess we'll have to return one of them. But, of course, I couldn't give up your present to me. You'll have to send mine back."

"Oh, no, honey! Then I wouldn't have your present! What'll we do?" asked George for the third time.

"If you say that again, George Bradley, I'll scream," said Margaret. "By the way, I saw the most dar'ing spring coat, black and a black hat and bag, and black shoes to go with them—in a window on the boulevard," she added irrelevantly.

"Yes? I think I begin to see daylight."

"I hoped that you would darling," replied Margaret sweetly. She smiled as she watched him reach for his check book. And when she held the check in her hand she gave way to quiet laughter.

"Wasn't it funny that you and father should give each other the same present, mother?" asked Jack.

"Yes, wasn't it, dear?" answered Margaret softly.—Chicago News.

YOUR HEALTH

Pneumonia.

By Arthur O. Hart, M. D.
St. Johns, Mich.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Pneumonia is second only to heart disease as a cause of death. It is the cause of the loss of many valuable lives between the ages of twenty-five and forty-five, the period of greatest activity.

This disease is caused by bacteria of which there are several groups. The mortality varies from fifteen to forty per cent, and while much can be done by well trained physicians to carry the patient through this disease, there has as yet been found no specific cure for it. The germs of pneumonia are almost constantly present in the mouths and throats of over fifty per cent. of people in good health. It is therefore evident that human beings, when in normal health, possess a natural immunity to it and can only acquire this disease when this natural immunity is lessened or destroyed.

The prevention of pneumonia seems to consist largely in the maintenance of this natural immunity. There is, at present, no method nownk for rendering people permanently immune to it, such as there is for diphtheria and several other diseases. It seems impossible to prevent the presence of pneumonia germs in the respiratory passages.

It seems to me from observation during many years of practice that there are at least five causes of lowered immunity that are of importance in relation to this disease.

Common colds are due to different germs than those causing pneumonia. But such colds may so lower the normal resistance as to render the body susceptible to attack by pneumonia germs, especially if some of the other causes are, at the same time, operative.

Sudden changes of temperature, under certain conditions, are a frequent cause of lowered resistance to pneumonia and should be guarded against.

Overwork means working too long hours rather than too hard. If, during a time of great activity and stress, a person acquires a cold and then has occasion to worry and lose sleep, an excellent background for this disease may result.

If people, in active life, when afflicted with colds which are tight, cause fever or loss of appetite, would promptly lay off work and stay in bed or rest until the severe symptoms abate, pneumonia might many times be avoided. I have repeatedly known persons who, through neglect of these precautions, have lost their lives from this disease. During the period of a common cold, even without the above symptoms, due care should be taken to eat regularly, avoid over-work and get sufficient sleep. Periodical health examinations by a competent physician will often reveal conditions which must be corrected in order to maintain normal resistance to acute diseases.

While pneumonia is somewhat contagious and precautions should be taken to prevent its spread, the necessity of maintaining natural immunity should be ever borne in mind.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Little Mrs. Peter Holds Her Tongue.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

For gossip, wisdom has no use;
You'll find her tongue is never loose.
—Old Mother Nature.

Little Mrs. Peter Rabbit had been very much upset. She was sure that something dreadful had happened to Peter. She is always that way when Peter is gone longer than he should be gone. But this time Peter had been away from the dear Old Briar Patch an unusual length of time. To make matters worse, it was in the middle of the dreadful hunting season. Every once in a while she would hear in the distance the bang of a dreadful gun. She had heard one of these dreadful guns up in the Old Pasture. She was sure that Peter had been shot and killed.

"I know it was Peter," she kept saying over and over to herself. "I just know it. I know I'll never see him again. Peter was so reckless! Oh dear, I don't know what I shall do without Peter!"

Perhaps you can imagine how little Mrs. Peter felt when very early two mornings later she peered out of the dear Old Briar Patch and caught sight of Peter coming across the Green Meadows from the direction of the Old Pasture and running as if Reddy Fox were right at his heels. Her heart then leaped with joy. Then it almost stopped from fright as she saw the Hawk coming after Peter. "Run, run, oh, run, Peter!" she kept crying under her breath, just as if Peter was not running as fast as ever he could.

But the moment Peter was safe inside the dear Old Briar Patch, little Mrs. Peter became indignant. Yes, sir, she became indignant. You never would have guessed it. She didn't even go to meet him. She stayed right where she was, at the end of the Old Briar Patch, opposite to the one where Peter had entered. Presently she heard Peter thump softly. She knew just what that thump meant. It meant "Where are you, Fuzzy?" Peter always calls little Mrs. Peter Fuzzy, for her name used to be Miss Fuzzytail. She didn't answer. Peter thumped again a little louder. She didn't answer. Then she heard him thump a little nearer. She knew by the sound of that thump that Peter was getting anxious.

"It serves him right!" thought little Mrs. Peter. "It will do him good to worry a little."

"Oh, Fuzzy," cried Peter, "I'm so glad to be home!"

Little Mrs. Peter didn't say a word. She sat there stiffly with her back toward him.

"You—you don't seem glad to see me," Peter ventured.

Then little Mrs. Peter spoke. She had turned to face Peter and she

He left the crooked little path and headed for that grapevine opened her mouth to say a great deal. She intended to tell him just what she thought of him, and it was aplenty. "You ought to be ashamed," she began, and right then she saw that hurt leg of Peter's, the one that had been shot. All little Mrs. Peter's anger melted away. "Oh, Peter," she cried, "you've been hurt! Is it dreadful? How did it happen? Let me see it. Who did it? When was it done?"

Peter had to grin in spite of himself. "Just a minute, Fuzzy, just a minute. One question at a time."

By this time little Mrs. Peter had reached Peter and was rubbing noses with him. You would never have supposed that only a few minutes before she had been angry. Then Peter told her all about his adventures and how glad he was to be back safe in the dear Old Briar Patch. And little Mrs. Peter didn't even once say "I told you so."

"My coughing and sneezing stopped just like THAT"

"Going home from a dance in my thin evening dress and slippers, I caught a frightful cough. I knew I had to go to work the next morning and I dreaded a sleepless night. When I got home my mother gave me some Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. In no time at all my coughing and my sneezing stopped. I slept like a log. In the morning I was quite well enough to go to business." DOROTHY ADLER

Manager Hamilton of the Palace theaters has invited all trained nurses of Norwich to the Wednesday evening performance at the theater to see Monte Blue in "Skin Deep," with Davey Lee and Betty Compson. The picture contains some interesting developments in plastic surgery, which Manager Hamilton feels should have particular appeal to those in the nursing profession.

how to clear a dangerous COLD!

WHAT starts as a mild or head cold often develops into sinus or "middle ear" infection, mastoid abscess, grippe, pneumonia, pleurisy, chronic catarrh....

Even if you are too busy to "stay home and take care" of the cold—take no chances. A little OZO MIST dropped on your handkerchief and breathed deep into the lungs will destroy the germs in nose and throat that are fighting your health.

OZO MIST is a marvelous, new vaporizing liquid. It produces a pleasing pine-woodsy, germicidal vapor that you inhale. Five healing medicaments are deposited in nose, throat and lungs. Quickly the cold germs are destroyed. Instantly you feel relief. The air passages are cleared. You breathe easier. Irritated membranes of nose and throat are soothed. Sneezing and coughing is relieved. Soon you find your cold has dried up. You're breathed it away!

Ask for OZO MIST at your local druggists. Fifty cents the bottle. Get the original OZO MIST—use it tonight.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Ansette Sylvia

At 3 o'clock Monday afternoon, funeral services for Mrs. Maria Sylvia, widow of Ansette Sylvia, were held at the funeral parlors of Undertakers Church and Allen. The services were conducted by Rev. Edward W. Gantt, pastor of the McKinley avenue A. M. E. Zion church, assisted by Rev. F. F. Dickson, pastor of Grace Memorial Baptist church. A mixed choir sang Abide With Me and Nearer My God To Thee. Services were also conducted by The True Reformers and St. Luke societies of which Mrs. Sylvia was a member.

There was a large gathering of relatives and friends at the funeral and the floral remembrances were numerous and beautiful.

The body was taken to New London and sent to Washington, D. C., on the 11:47 o'clock train. Burial is to be in that city.

Mrs. Maria Sylvia

(Contributed)

In the death of Mrs. Maria Sylvia, Norwich loses one of its oldest and best known colored citizens. Born in the south, and naturally endowed with the inherent dignity and unselfish loyalty of her race, her long life spent among gentlefolk, developed a distinct and outstanding personality.

When but a young girl, she was brought north by Dr. and Mrs. Burchard, of Montville, as nursemaid. Later on, she worked for several years at the home of the Reverend Dr. Gelsy, then rector of Christ Episcopal church, from whose house she was married. After her husband's death, she busied herself with days' work, and finally came to live at 77 McKinley avenue, where for nearly thirty years, she shared the griefs and joys of the Caruthers family, taking a loving and essential share in whatever affected them, and manifesting a beautiful loyalty and devotion, all too rarely seen.

Devoted as she was to her employers, it is worthy of note, that the date of her death coincided with that of the late head of the family, thirteen years ago, and that she survived by only a few short months, the beloved mistress, with whom she had walked side by side so many happy, fruitful years.

She saw all the young people of the pleasant McKinley avenue neighborhood grow up, and always maintained a quick interest in them, as they married and had families of their own. It was no rare thing to find a returning son or daughter of the old neighborhood, back home on a visit or college vacation, running into the Caruthers kitchen, to shake hands, and have a few words, with this old friend of their babyhood and youth.

For years she was a most devoted member of the A. M. E. Zion church, giving to it of her strength and means, and serving on several of its committees to the day of her death. A true Christian in every sense, never were the words, "Well done, good and faithful one!" more appropriately spoken, than in memory of this good woman, who did what she could to help others, and is now resting from her earthly labors.

Louis J. Chamansky

Burial services for Louis J. Chamansky, former president of the Shepard Stores, Inc., of Providence and Boston, and connected with R. H. Macy Co. of New York for 30 years, who died in New York Saturday, were held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the First Hebrew cemetery, Brewsters Neck, Preston. The body accompanied by relatives and friends arrived in New London on the 12:53 o'clock train in the afternoon and was taken in charge by Undertakers Church and Allen.

There was a large gathering including many old Norwich friends at the cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rabbi Abraham J. Feldman of Hartford. The bearers were Ralph Sevmour and Edward Plaut of Jamaica, L. I., and Jerry, Louis and Daniel Kutner of New York, formerly of Norwich.

Funeral services for Mr. Chamansky took place at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening at the Riverside Memorial chapel, 76th street and Amsterdam avenue, New York. Rabbi Kriass of New York officiating. There was also a Masonic service conducted by officers of Centennial lodge, No. 763, F. and A. M., of New York, of which the deceased was a member. A delegation of Masons was present at the service, in addition to many mourners including friends, relatives and business associates.

Mr. Chamansky was born in Norwich, 62 years ago, the son of Joseph and Henrietta Chamansky, his father being a pioneer in the clothing business here. Following his graduation from the local public schools he attend Norwich Free Academy and later was employed as a messenger boy at the Western Union company, before going to New York and becoming one of the leaders in the department store business as mentioned in Monday's Bulletin. He was married to Pauline Kutner in that city 34 years ago.

Besides his wife Mr. Chamansky is survived by a daughter, Henrietta Werner of Boston and a brother, Adolph B. Chamansky of Bridgeport. He was a member of the Woodmere Country club, the Norwich Society of New York, Centennial lodge, No. 763, F. and A. M., and was for many years a director of the Young Men's Hebrew association, all of New York. He was noted for his philanthropic inclinations, having been a prominent worker on the Federation of Jewish charities.

Rev. Henry A. Blake

Burial services for Rev. Henry A. Blake, graduate of Brown university in the class of 1873 and a Congregational minister for half a century, were held in Providence Saturday. Mr. Blake died Thursday in Winsted, Conn., where he had been living in retirement for several years.

Since 1888 until his retirement, he had held pastorates in Webster and Spencer, Mass., Rochester, N. H., Stafford Springs, Colchester, Winsted and Kent, Conn. He also preached for a short time in Hartford.

Mr. Blake was twice married, first to Clara Louise Penniman, of North Woodstock, Conn., on June 20, 1876, and second to Mrs. Effie Louise Baldwin, on June 17, 1926. His widow and a son, Walter P. Blake, survive him.

Housewarming In Manse

A housewarming in "The Manse," the parsonage of Park Congregational church on Williams avenue, which Rev. Dr. T. M. Shipherd and family are now occupying, is to be given by the church this (Tuesday) evening.

POST OFFICE GIVES EARLY ADVICE ABOUT PREPARING CHRISTMAS MAIL

This early the post office department is starting to warn those who will use the postal service to mail early for delivery before Christmas day. There will be no mail delivery that day.

Postmaster Casper K. Bailey has just received from the department at Washington the suggestion to issue early warning about Christmas mail.

Post offices will make every effort to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can be done only with the cooperation of the public. Compliance with the following suggestions will greatly aid the post office and insure the prompt handling of mail:

All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed. Use strong paper and heavy twine.

Special Packing

Umbrellas, canes, golf sticks, should be reinforced their full length by strong strips of wood tightly wrapped and tied or otherwise sufficient wwrapped to withstand transportation.

Hats: Pack in strong corrugated or fiber boxes. Ordinary pasteboard hat-boxes must be crated. Ladies' hats and stiff hats easily damaged should be marked "fragile."

Shoes: Pack in strong boxes, preferably corrugated cardboard. Wrap with strong paper securely tied with heavy twine.

Cut flowers: Place in strong suitable boxes of wood, tin, or heavy corrugated cardboard. Wrap with tissue to retain moisture.

Candies: Inclose in strong outside boxes or containers.

Drawings, paintings, unmounted maps, etc.: Pack or wrap in strong material to avoid damage. When not flat, roll around a wooden core and then wrap and tie carefully or place in strong pasteboard tube.

Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks in handling or damage to other mail. Crate suitably or thoroughly wrap so that they can not cut through the wrapping.

Fragile Objects

Articles easily broken or crushed must be crated or securely wrapped. Use liberal quantities of excelsior, or like material, in, around, and between the articles and the outside container.

Glassware, fragile toys, crockery must be packed so as to prevent the escape of particles or pieces if broken in transit.

Cigars: Ordinary boxes of cigars wrapped in paper only will not be accepted. Pack in a manner to prevent damage by shock or jar. Wrap in corrugated pasteboard or similar material.

All articles easily broken or damaged must be plainly marked "fragile."

Perishable Matter

Articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery will not be accepted for mailing. Wrap or pack carefully, mark all such parcels "perishable." Use according to contents, and plainly special delivery stamps to expedite delivery.

Addresses

Addresses should be complete, with house number and name of street, post office box or rural-route number, and typed or plainly written in ink. A return card should be placed in the upper left corner of every piece of mail. If a tag is used, the address and return card should also be written on the wrapper for use if tag is lost and a copy of the address should be inclosed inside the parcel.

Postage

Postage must be fully prepaid on all mail. Affix the required amount of postage in the upper right corner. Full information concerning postage rates can be obtained at the parcel-post or stamp window.

Limit of Weight and Size

No parcel may be more than 34 inches in length and girth combined. For delivery locally and in the first, second, and third zones, 70 pounds is the maximum weight; in all other zones, 50 pounds.

Early Mailing

During the holiday time the volume of mail increases approximately 200 per cent. It is a physical impossibility to handle this great mass of mail matter efficiently and promptly within a few days. Therefore to assure delivery of their Christmas presents, cards, and letters by Christmas day the public should shop and mail early. Do your Christmas shopping so that you can mail your gifts, greetings, and letters to relatives, friends, and loved ones at least a week or 10 days before Christmas, according to the distance. This will not only make it certain that they are received on or before Christmas day, but will be a great aid to your postal service and to postal employes and enable them to spend Christmas day with their families.

Christmas Cards

Patrons sending a quantity of Christmas cards, say 10 or more, should prepare and mail them two or three weeks in advance, as millions are mailed and they can not possibly be handled and delivered if mailed only two or three or four days before Christmas. To avoid this, patrons may mail their cards two or three weeks before Christmas, if delivered to the post office or postal station in person, or tied together in a bundle, labeled to show that they are Christmas cards, and deposited in a street letter or package box. They will then be segregated, stamped with the date on which to be delivered, and delivery effected one or two days before Christmas.

Christmas cards and gifts addressed to points within one day's travel should be mailed in no event later than December 20; within two days' travel, not later than December 18; within three days' travel, not later than December 16; for more distant points, not later than December 14. Parcels and cards for local delivery should be mailed not later than Dec. 21. Parcels and envelopes may be indorsed, "Please do not open until Christmas."

Special Delivery Service

The use of a special delivery stamp will assure delivery on Christmas day, if mailed at the proper time. Special delivery service means the handling and transportation of parcels with the same expedition as first-class letters mail, as well as the immediate delivery at office of address. It is obtained by affixing a special delivery stamp of the proper denomination, or its equivalent in ordinary stamps, in addition to the regular postage. When ordinary stamps are used, the words, "Special Delivery" must be written or printed directly below, but not on the stamps. It is urged that all mailers desiring immediate delivery of any matter mailed by them affix special delivery stamps thereto. Special delivery is for speed and not for safety. Valuable mail should be registered or insured.

Where to Mail Parcels

Uninsured parcels 3 ounces or less in weight may be mailed in street letter or package boxes at all classified stations and branches and at such numbered stations as are designated to receive parcels. Parcels weighing over 3 ounces can not be mailed in street boxes, but must be taken to the main post office or classified station or branch. Parcels containing meat, food products, cut flowers, or other perishable matter should be mailed only at the main post office or one of the large classified stations.

Not Mailable at Parcel Post Rates

Written matter in the nature of personal correspondence can not be inclosed in parcels.

Communications attached to parcels: A letter placed in an envelope, addressed to correspond with the address on the parcel and fully prepaid at the first-class rate, may be tied or otherwise securely attached to the outside of the parcel in such manner as to prevent separation therefrom and not obscure the address on the parcel.

Insure or Register Valuable Mail

All valuable domestic third and fourth class mail should be insured.

Insurance fees: Value not exceeding $5, 5 cents; not exceeding $25, 8 cents; not exceeding $50, 10 cents; not exceeding $100, 25 cents.

Coin, currency, jewelry and articles of similar value should be sent as sealed first-class registered mail.

Domestic Collect-on-Delivery Service

Domestic third and fourth class matter may be sent C. O. D. from one money-order post office to another. Sealed domestic mail of any class prepaid at first-class rate of postage may also be sent C. O. D. either as registered or unregistered mail.

Fees for all unregistered C. O. D. mail (in addition to regular postage): 12 cents, when amount to be collected does not exceed $10; 15 cents, when it does not exceed $50, and 25 cents, when the amount does not exceed $100. The C. O. D. fee also covers insurance for actual value against loss or damage up to $10 for a 12-cent fee; up to $50 for a 15-cent fee; and $100 for a 25-cent fee. Consult postmaster as to fees for registered C. O. D. mail.

Parcels for Foreign Countries

Parcels of mailable merchandise may be sent (subject to certain limitations and conditions) by international parcel post to all foreign countries except Tristan Da Cunha. Foreign parcel-post packages should be mailed at the main office or large classified stations.

Owing to the long sea travel involved as a rule and to customs inspection abroad, foreign parcels should be very carefully packed and should be mailed in November.

Information

For further information on any of the above subjects or concerning any other postal matter, inquire at the proper window—stamp, parcel post, money order, registry, etc.—or see the postmaster or one of his assistants.

NIGHT SCHOOL GROUP MADE WASHINGTON TRIP

Several teachers and night school students accompanied by the local night school director joined the fourth annual pilgrimage to Washington the past week-end and spent Saturday and Sunday sightseeing in the capital city. The party of several hundred people from Rhode Island and Connecticut left Friday evening by special train arriving in Washington early Saturday morning. After hotel registrations and room assignments had been made, sight-seeing buses conducted the party to the capitol building, white house, Smithsonian Institute, Pan-American building and other important places. Some of the party attended the session of the senate where they had the opportunity to see their own state senators at work and observe the tariff exhibition which Mr. Grundy of Pennsylvania has placed on tables at the rear of the senate chamber.

After lunch a trip to Mt. Vernon, through Alexandria and back to Arlington cemetery was made. In Arlington a huge wreath of chrysanthemums and foliage was placed on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier by representatives of the Rhode Island and Connecticut parties Saturday evening was spent at the Congressional library.

On Sunday morning buses took the party through the residential sections of the city, giving opportunity to see the homes of the foreign legations and embassies as well as those of noted citizens of Washington. The Lincoln memorial and the Franciscan monastery were also visited.

The party left Washington Sunday afternoon feeling that both money and time had been profitably and enjoyably spent.

The pilgrimage is made each November in the interests of Americanism and is operated by the Pennsylvania railroad through the departments of adult education in cities throughout Connecticut. Teachers in the day schools, evening school teachers and students and immediate friends, are eligible for places in the pilgrimage. In character the trip resembles closely trips which are often conducted in other cities for bodies of high school students.

SALESMANSHIP TALK IS GIVEN TO CONTACT CLUB

Louis M. Crandall, principal of Norwich Commercial school, was the speaker at the weekly noon luncheon meeting of the Contact club of the Norwich chamber of commerce at the Wauregan hotel Monday. He gave an interesting talk on the subject, "Salesmanship." The president, Ernest O Rodier, presided at the meeting.

Several new members have been added to the club's membership as a result of the drive recently started with two teams in the field. The Blues under the captainship of Francis T. Diggins are leading with 240 points against the 185 points made by the Reds' team under the leadership of John Lyston. These members were secured by the Reds: Frank R. Murdy, J. B. Caron and John Fitzgerald, and by the Blues, Fred Maples, Ed. Connelly, C. Putnam and Ralph E. Johnson.

A pleasant feature of the meeting were solos by Edward T. Connelly, Fred Maples and a selection by the trio, Frank R. Murdy, Mr. Connelly and Mr. Maples.

HIT TREE ON PRESTON ROAD; SAILOR FINED

After the automobile he was driving in Preston had gone off the road and crashed into a tree, S. M. Huskey, Submarine Base sailor, was arrested by State Policeman William McKenzie of the Groton state police barracks who charged him with speeding. He was presented in the justice court immediately and was fined $10 and costs.

In Montville, State Policeman McKenzie arrested Frank E. Corwin, Hudson, Mass., Sunday, on a charge of driving without a license. He will be arraigned in the justice court there today (Tuesday).

State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh in Preston arrested James McShane, Baltic, on a charge of reckless driving, Sunday, and he was held for trial Nov. 13 in the justice court.

Samuel Lanphere of Mystic was arrested Sunday in Etonington by State Policeman Whitmarsh on a charge of driving without a license. He will be presented in the town court.

JUDGMENTS GIVEN IN COMMON PLEAS COURT

Six judgments were entered in the court of common pleas by Judge Charles B. Waller at the motion list here onday morning.

Two judgments, each one for $102.53, were entered in favor of Fred L. Hathaway against Leroy Bowman, foreclosing on two mechanics' liens on property at Sound View. Both are of Hartford.

Judge Waller entered judgment for $257 in favor of the Norwich Loan Co. against Olive B. and Wallace Bennett, both of Norwich. The judgment was on notes.

Judgment for $950 was given in favor of Samuel Cherkasky of this city against George Wolf of Brooklyn, N. Y. The judgment was for personal injuries to himself and his truck following an auto accident in Montville, July 24.

A default was set aside in the case of Nellie M. Kinmouth against Winslow Pierce, counsel for the defendant having put in an appearance.

The Audubon Trunk and Bag Shop of New York was given judgment for $571 against Minnie Schwartz of Colchester, and others in accordance with a sworn bill of particulars.

Disclosure of defense within one week or judgment was ordered in the case of the Edward Chappell Co. against Matthew T. Thomas.

Disclosure of defense within one week or judgment was ordered in the case of Israel Goldknopf against Harold E. Swanson and others.

OBITUARY

Miss Ellen Greene

Miss Ellen Greene, 72, formerly of this city, died at 4:10 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of her cousin, W. H. H. Colmond, of 14 Centre street, Hartford, following a five weeks' illness. She was born in Henrico county, Virginia, in 1857, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Greene, and came to Norwich about 68 years ago. Miss Greene lived here for many years at No. 267 Broad street, and was for more than 40 years in the employ of the Blackstone families. She went to Hartford about a year ago and has resided there since.

Miss Greene was a charter member of Mt. Calvary Baptist church and was actively interested in its activities. A sister, Mrs. Maria Smith, of Newport News, Va., survives her, with two nephews, Henry and James Greene, of this city, and a niece, Edith Greene, of New Jersey. She also leaves several cousins. Miss Greene made many friends during her long residence here through her kindly and pleasant nature.

PAWCATUCK BAKER LEAVES AUTO IN GROTON STREET

State troopers attached to the Groton state police barracks were engaged Monday in investigating the mysterious disappearance of George Vardolis, baker, of 44 Palmer street, Pawcatuck. The case came to the attention of the authorities when they began to check up on a Chrysler roadster bearing Connecticut registration No. 1N-9725, which was found abandoned in Thames street, Groton, Monday morning. It was said the car had been parked there for 24 hours and when the number was reported to the motor vehicle department the information was obtained that the car was owned by Vardolis.

A trooper was sent to Vardolis' home and there learned that he had been paid off Sunday at his place of employment and had left for New York. Nothing has been heard from him since then and friends expressed the belief that he might have met with foul play.

TAFTVILLE BURGLARY CASE CONTINUED TO THURSDAY

Two Taftville men, John Sullivan, 20, and George Shadlock, 29, who were arrested Sunday night by State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh, were before the city court Monday morning on the charge of burglary, in taking a 5-10 cent register from the place of Anthony Falcone on Norwich avenue at Taftville. At the request of their counsel their cases were continued to Thursday and in default of $2,000 bonds they were taken to jail where Falcone is now serving a sentence for violation of the liquor law.

The register was recovered by the state policeman who found that it had been sold by Sullivan to "Shelk" Leonard for $16.

AMERICAN LEGION GAVE MARDI GRAS AT ARMORY

The social side of he Armisice day observance was carried out with a dance given Monday evening at the state armory under the auspices of the American Legion with the music by Dr. Holmes and his Rhode Islanders of Providence. Mardi Gras features were introduced with confetti, serpentine and paper hats for the throng of dancers, who had a merry evening. The committee in charge included Warren Wilcox, chairman; Dr. T. F. O'Neil, Patrick McMahon, Joseph Bellefleur, Capt. W. R. Denison, Carl G. Johnson, Harry L. Lathrop and Clarence Lucier.

Will Have Rabbi Speaker

Following the Friday evening services of the United synagogue, which were held in the B'nai Brith rooms, with a crowded congregation it was decided in an open forum to have Rabbi Sam Cohen executive secretary of the United Synagogue of America, address an organization meeting next Wednesday at the B'nai Brith rooms.

Rabbi Theodore Gordon officiated at the services Friday, speaking in an informing and interesting way of Louis Marshall, the great Jewish leader, of whom he said it was important that the present generation measure up to the standard of service that he has set.

Drum Corps Led St. Patrick's.

The Boy Scouts of Troop 5, St. Patrick's drum corps, led St. Patrick's parochial school to Union square Monday to attend the exercises given by the American Legion. On the march the corps played troop and national songs, making a creditable appearance under John Dennis, drum major. The fifth, sixth and seventh grades followed the Scouts to Union square, where they were placed in position by Scoutmaster John W. Hill and Rev. John J. Reilly.

A Message to Underweight Men and Women

The one supremely good health building tonic that is also the one great weight producer known to modern science the country over is McCoy's Tablets.

They build flesh where flesh is needed—sunken cheeks, neck and chest—and many a man and woman, skinny and scrawny have thanked McCoy's after a few weeks treatment for the decided improvement in looks and figure.

Many times the increase in weight is astonishing—one exceedingly thin woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your druggist is authorized to return the purchase price.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe, and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Lee & Osgood Co. and druggists anywhere sell Hem-Roid with this guarantee.

KOZIOL UP AGAINST TOUGHEST BOY OF HIS CAREER ON THURSDAY NIGHT

Al Koziol, local lightweight who made such a brilliant start in the professional ranks and then ran into a series of setbacks, faces the toughest boy of his career when he steps into the same ring with Johnny Mack on Thursday evening in the semi-final of the Shyma club show at Taftville. A victory, whether by decision or by knockout, is a long step along the comeback trail for the local boy.

Mack, never a flashy fighter, is one of those boys who plods steadily after his opponent never letting down for a minute. He has a good defense which he can use and also packs a sweet punch that spells curtains for anybody who stops it. The New Haven boy has a record that is somewhat impressive having met some of the topnotchers of the New England boys. He beat Meyer Cohen who in turn beat Lew Tendler, if that means anything.

The New Haven boy has much experience behind him which is something that Koziol cannot boast. Koziol is lacking in ringcraft but is one of the hardest shifting boys of his weight that ever stepped into a ring. Many experts claim that a boy that has the kayo sock does not need any ringcraft or science as he can batter his way to a victory. That is a debatable question as we have all seen the clever boy outpoint the slugger and we have seen the slugger batter the clever boy into submission. There is little to prove either contention.

However, there is one thing certain, Koziol looks upon Mack as just another fighter who will fall if he hits him and Koziol intends to wade in and flatten Mack in short order. Which is what Mack thrives on. Mack likes to have his opponent come to him and then shoot over his haymaker. Another thing is the length of the fight. Can Koziol go eight rounds if the going is tough? The local boy has had few fights over the eight round route and unless he is in great shape he is going to have difficulty fighting at the pace he does.

One substitution has been made on the card. Johnny Dosh who was supposed to meet Young Lizzio in the opener cannot make the 122 pound limit. Matchmaker Leo Flynn has substituted Young Laviane of the Sub Base to take on the Westerly boy. This does not take away from the card in the least as Lavigne is a real scrapper who has been fighting continually for the past year or so while Dosh has been idle.

The management of the Shyma club said last night that there was going to be plenty of room for everybody as the seating capacity has been increased to about 900 seats.

PRINCETON SUPPORTERS SORE WHEN ODDS SHORTEN ON YALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—Growls of discontent heard coming from the forest fastnesses of the Princeton campus, are not being registered at the shortcomings, if any, of the Princeton Tiger. The grogsy but still vertical students of Old Nassau are registering disgust in great gobs at Yale's failure to do better than tie Maryland Saturday.

With three defeats and one tie charged against Roper's team, Princeton partisans have suffered all season but there was always a silver lining behind the dark clouds. If the Tiger was ever to come charging with a wild roar from his jungle home it would be against Yale, the climax game of the season. The Elis in the meantime, after stumbling over Georgia near the start of the football year, had found themselves in convincing fashion.

The Princeton supporters had it all figured out. Princeton could not be much worse at the close than against some of its early season opponents. Probably it would be much better. Yale, riding high, wide and handsome through the opposition leading to the Princeton game, would be an odds-on favorite.

Princeton had to wager on the Tigers regardless of the past performances, and the odds would be attractive. Princeton might win—the day of football miracles was not past—and if the Tiger should provide an upset, the returns would be most satisfactory to Princeton.

And then the Old Liners of Maryland invaded the bowl and came from behind to tie Yale, while Princeton was playing alert football to beat a good Lehigh team. The complexion of the Yale game changed over night and although the Elis remained a decided favorite, the long odds could not be revived, eloquence of Princeton notwithstanding.

And now the disgust is well nigh oppressive. What's the profit, reason the Princetonians, if they do beat Yale at short odds when once they were very long?

FIELD OF 94 PROS ENTERED FOR MID-SOUTH

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 11—(AP)—Ninety four professional golfers, including five former national open champions were entered tonight in the tenth annual mid-south open best ball golf tournament, which will be held tomorrow preliminary to the mid-south open tourney.

The five former national open champions are Johnny Farrell, of New York, 1928; Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., 1925; Cyril Walker, of Paramus, N. J., 1924; Jim Barnes of Pelham, N. Y., 1921, and Freddy McLeod, Washington, 1908.

The tournament is a 36-hole event. Joe Turnesa of Elmsfore, N. Y., and Henry Ciuci of Stratford, Conn., won the event last year and have teamed together again this year.

Harvard Varsity Rests

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 11—(AP)—The Harvard varsity football team, as well as the rest of the university, was given a holiday today. Work for next Saturday's Holy Cross game will be started tomorrow. This week will probably be the easiest one of the season for the Crimson players.

AUSTIN RANKED FIRST IN BRITISH TENNIS

LONDON, Nov. 11—(AP)—In the first official ranking ever issued in this country, the English Lawn Tennis association today named young Henry Wilfred "Bunny" Austin first among the country's court stars while Mrs. Phoebe Watson was given the coveted No. 1 position on the women's list.

Both Mrs. Watson and Austin were prominent in international as well as domestic play during the past season. Austin, the former Cambridge captain, was the mainstay of the British Davis cup team and made a good showing in the American single championships. Mrs. Watson was a valuable member of the English Wightman cup team which invaded the United States and was finalist against Miss Helen Wills for the United States title.

Miss Betty Nuthall, who forced Miss Wills to two deuce sets in the Wightman cup series, was placed third in the ranking list. Miss Eileen Bennett, who did not make the trip to America because her mother was unable to accompany her as chaperone, received the No. 2 position.

The rankings:

Men—1. H. W. Austin; 2. J. C. Gregory; 3. G. P. Hughes; 4. C. H. Kingsley; 5. Lee; 6. Powell; 7. J. S. Olliff; 8. Nigel Sharpe; 9. I. G. Collins; 10. H. K. Lester; 11. Peters; 12. O. G. N. Turnbull.

Women—1. Mrs. Phoebe Watson; 2. Miss Eileen Bennett; 3. Miss Betty Nuthall; 4. Joan Fry; 5. Joan Ridley; 6. Mrs. Peggy Saunders Michell; 7. Mrs. Phyllis Covell; 8. Miss Elsie Goldsack; 9. Miss M. V. Chamberlain; 10. Miss Round; 11. Miss Haylock; 12. Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron.

YALE COACH MAKES SEVERAL SHIFTS IN TEAM

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 11—(AP)—Supervised scrimmage against 1928 Princeton plays featured Yale's practice today as the Blue began a week of earnest preparation for its last game of the season in the bowl.

The scrubs employed Roper's tactical maneuvers of last year because of a non-scouting agreement with the Orange and Black.

ed practice, and a snappy signal drill ed practice, an da snappy signal drill for three teams brought it to a close. This was the first Monday practice in three weeks.

Several changes were made in the first team lineup by Head Coach Mal Stevens. Chief among these was the replacement of Bob Wilson by Bob Hall at quarterback. Wilson, who started the season as a regular, suffered an injured knee in the Maryland game and it is not known if he will be available for Princeton. He was not in uniform today. Hall won high praise for his work in the Army and Dartmouth contests.

Other changes found McEwen, regular right end last year, replacing Barres at that post; Snead at left half in place of Chick McLennan, who started his first game for Yale last Saturday, and Fred Loeser at left guard in place of Jim Stewart. Whether these changes will all be in effect for the remainder of the season, Stevens would not say.

Hoot Ellis, whose "trick" knee gave out Saturday, and Albie Booth, who suffered a leg injury, were both in action today.

A regular scrimmage will be held tomorrow.

ST. MESEROB WINS HIS 703RD BLUE RIBBON

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—Bearing the air of royalty, with the coolness of a ring veteran, a 15 year old stallion proudly pranced into the Tan Bark arena at the national horse show today and amid thunderous applause made his exit, the possessor of his 703rd blue championship ribbon.

The thoroughbred king, which threatened to disrupt the dignity of metropolitan society beneath the roof of Madison Square Garden, was St. Meserob, rated as the world's most noted trotting bred roadster champion. No horse of any type or breed has ever equalled the winning record of this famous New York bred brown stallion—a handsome son of the equally as well known stallion, Peter the Great.

For ten years, St. Meserob has been appearing in every prominent equine show from coast to coast and from Canada to Texas, winning championships with precise regularity. During the decade he has heard the plaudits of thousands of horse loving fans, he has carried off 703 blue and championship ribbons, three stakes of $2,000, three of $1,500, 45 of $1,000 and 32 of $500.

It has not been in the show ring alone that this great horse has gained fame. As a three year old, he hung up a trotting record of 2:28 3-4 and in addition to his ring championships has sired a number of speedy trotters.

Bates Wins Maine Title

WATERVILLE, Me., Nov. 11—(AP)—Bates won its first Maine state college championship in 23 years, today, when the Bobcats came from behind and defeated the White Mules of Colby, at football, 7 to 6.

The Bobcats last took the championship in 1906, but tied with Bowdoin in 1921 for first honors.

JIMMY QUINN WINS AT PROVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 11.—Jimmy Quinn of Norwich featured the Armistice day boxing card at the Auditorium here tonight when he won both his fights in the featherweight class. Quinn, always a clever fighter, was unbeatable tonight and he won by large margins over his opponents, two of them the best boys in the featherweight division in New England amateur ranks.

Drawing a bye in the first bout Quinn met Johnny Gogan of Worcester in the second bout and proceeded to give the Worcester boy a sweet boxing lesson. Quinn jabbed, sidestepped, and clipped Gogan at will. The Worcester lad was hardly able to lay a glove on the elusive Norwich youngster.

In the final bout Quinn drew Tony Catalino of Providence, considered one of the best boys in New England. Catalino looked like a novice as compared to Quinn. Catalino could do nothing with Quinn who boxed to perfection and stood off Catalino's rushes with perfect ease. It was easy to see that Quinn was boxing as smartly as any professional.

The other Norwich boys did not fare so well, both being defeated by their first opponents. Young Wakeley lost on a technical knockout to Johnny Bergeron of Taunton in the second round, Wakeley being unable to continue after absorbing plenty of punishment.

Young Paradis lost the decision to Tony Wisky of Worcester in three rounds of fast milling.

What is so laughable as to see a fat woman struggling along in a parade carrying a big flag?

We admire her spirit, which is to be commended, but we can't say as much for her form. And we don't believe she was having such a good time herself, although she was pretty busy.

We attended an Armistice day celebration in a nearby town and witnessed the parade which was very good. But when we saw the fat lady with her flag our appreciation of the ridiculous overruled the solemnity of the occasion.

After part of the parade had passed we noticed a woman's unit parading down the street. At the head was this fat woman carrying the flag, and she loomed up like an elephant in a flock of sheep.

And say, she was as busy with that flag as a one-armed juggler with the hives. She was trudging along trying to keep step with the band and at the same time trying to hold the colors aloft.

The perspiration was streaming down her forehead and into her eyes which didn't help matters in the least. Apparently she had a handkerchief secreted about her clothes somewhere which she wanted very badly.

She'd let go with one hand and make a grab for the handkerchief but every time she grabbed for it the flag would topple toward the ground and she'd have to turn her attention to that.

After she had rescued the flag she'd make another attempt for the handkerchief with the same result as before. Finally she became real desperate and she made a frantic grab for the handkerchief taking a chance that the flag would not fall.

She got the handkerchief just as the flag was coming down on the head of some one marching in front of her. She made a hurried grab for the flag and in so doing dropped the handkerchief. Well, of all the woebezone expressions you ever saw it was hers as she saw the little piece of white flutter to the ground.

If she had fainted then and there it would have been nothing to wonder at. But she trudged valiantly on and out of sight, and I could not help thinking that if was this do-or-die spirit of our women that make them what they are.

Say don't these college football teams have funny names. I see where Emory and Henry won as did William and Mary. Sounds like a coupla vaudeville teams playing.

WESTERLY HIGH WINS BOTH RUN AND GRID GAME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, Nov. 12—Westerly high clinched the championship of the Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island Interscholastic conference here this afternoon before 3,000 wildly excited fans, defeating Stonington, 7 to 0, in the first of their annual two game series. Mudge scored the lone touchdown with only three minutes to play in the final quarter. Westerly has now won four games in the conference with one more to go.

A 35 yard run by Green had brought the ball to the 10 yard line just previously to the scoring scrimmage and although Stonington held and kicked out, Westerly came right back and scored.

Westerly was also successful in the annual cross-country run of the conference, winning from five schools, only three of whom finished enough men to turn in scores, Westerly's total was 31, Bulkeley of New London had 43 and Norwich Free Academy, 67. Chapman Tech had Miner finish in second place but five men did not finish while Stonington also did not finish five. Capt. Ed Cotter of Westerly, with a time of 15 min. 6.5 seconds was the individual winner over the difficult course.

The first Academy man was Georgie Lambert, in ninth place with Beebe tenth. Richardson was 16th, Szarca, 20th and Levitsky, 21st.

Magni and Funcolo of Westerly were third and fourth, and Davidson of Bulkeley fifth.

SINGER STOPS SHEPPARD IN THE SEVENTH ROUND

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.— (AP) — Al Singer, clever New York junior lightweight, won over Johnny Sheppard, of Boston, on a technical knockout in the seventh round of their ten round bout at the St. Nicholas arena tonight. Al weighed 132; Sheppard 135 1-2.

Singer outclassed the Boston lad from the start and nearly knocked him out in the fifth round with a barrage of hard rights. Sheppard was game, however, and Singer could not floor him.

In the seventh round, a short right to the chin floored Sheppard for a count of two. He then ran into a fusillade of rights and lefts to the body. Defenselessly he stood aborbing terrific punishment until the referee halted the slaughter. The end came after 46 seconds of the round.

In the semi-final of ten rounds, Nel Tarleton, English featherweight, easily won the decision from Pinky Silverberg of Harlem. Tarelton won every round but the tenth. Tarleton weighed 125 1-2; Silverberg 122.

CANTWELL WINS BRISTOL MODIFIED MARATHON

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 11—(AP)—Matthew Cantwell, of Fall River, Mass., defeated a stellar field which included the veteran Clarence DeMar, in the third annual ten mile modified marathon, held in Bristol, R. I., this afternoon as a part of the Armistice day celebration. Donald Davey, of the Providence Y. M. C. A. took second place.

Twenty-six of the 33 contestants finished the race. Other prize winning places were won as follows:

Third, Ernest Mercier, Fall River; fourth, Joe Quirk, Dorchester; fifth, Julius Ober, Newton Centre, Mass.; sixth, Clarence DeMar; seventh, Jimmy Hennigan, of Boston (winner of the time prize); eighth, Leslie Pawsons, Pawtucket.

TORRINGTON NOT INTERESTED IN A POST-SEASON GAME

WATERBURY, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The Waterbury Republican will say tomorrow that Torrington high school authorities refuse to allow their football team to play a post-season game with Stamford high school in a proposed state championship contest.

Stamford challenged Torrington to the post-season game to determine the winner of the mythical title but Principal Frank Jeffrey, of the Torrington faculty said tonight that "Torrington is not interested in such a game."

EASTERN COLLEGE TEAMS HARD HIT BY INJURIES IN SATURDAY'S GAMES

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Sad tales of injuries vied with stories of hard labor for the attention of eastern football fans today. With a group of the season's biggest games in prospect for Saturday, the teams got down to work early, and the Monday stock taking revealed many more or less serious hurts resulting from last week's games.

Yale and Princeton, who meet in the week's most important traditional battle, found that they had been let off easy so far as injuries were concerned, but that was the only easy thing about their drills for the week. The Tigers stazed their first Monday practice of the year. It was confined to a brief signal drill, in which they rehearsed all their offensive plays. Yale recovering from the disappointment of a tie with Maryland, also broke a rule by practicing on Monday and did it more strenuously. The Elis followed a blackboard talk with a supervised scrimmage against the plays Princeton used last year. Coaches Roper and Stevens have continued their non-scouting agreement and are working without knowledge of each other's plays.

Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech also reported in good condition for their battle and started off with light workouts. Pitt is due to get down to work tomorrow but scrimmage is off the schedule for the rest of the year, the Tartans had an open date Saturday and have been working a week already for the fray.

Cornell did not fare so well in its start for the annual game with Dartmouth. Kanich, halfback, and Lueder, end, were kept out of the drill by injuries received in the Western Reserve game but they are expected to be in shape by Saturday. Coach Jack Cannell of Dartmouth continued his system of devoting Monday to the men who did not play Saturday. The Green squad is in good shape and Cannell expects to have Len Clark ready for the game.

New York university began its preparations for the Missouri game with Jinx O'Herin added to his hospital lists, which also includes Dave Myers and Charlie Marshall. O'Herin suffered a broken leg in the Georgia game. Bucknell reported Ross and Stone Breaker as the casualties of the Villanova game who will not be able to play against Penn State. Both the Bisons and their opponents had a day of rest.

Colgate put on a 90 minute signal drill as the opener of its prepgrations for meeting Syracuse. Two more star backs, kept out of the Columbia game by injuries, reported ready for the 31st game of the traditional series. Last week's game cost Columbia Ed Edlino, star end, who will miss the Pennsylvania game and perhaps all the rest because of an arm injury. Lafayette also had a long hospital list, including four players hurt playing against Rutgers and two previously injured.

Georgetown and West Virginia started working on offensive plays for their clash. The Hilltoppers have to recover from a scoreless tie and West Virginia from a defeat.

Harvard's team will not assemble until tomorrow to start work for Holy Cross. Several players live in the mid-west and went home after the Michigan game.

GARDEN INTERESTS BUY OUT PROMOTER FUGAZY

NEW YORK, Nov. 11—(AP)—Madison Square Garden has purchased from Humbert Fugazy, promoter, the contract rights to the services of Max Schmeling of Germany; Phil Scott of England, and Victorio Campolo of the Argentina, it was announced tonight.

The consideration was in the neighborhood of $75,000 it was understood in fistic circles.

This deal, fruit of weeks of negotiations, gives the garden a virtual monopoly on the heavyweights who are serious contenders for the crown vacated by Gene Tunney. The garden already has Jack Sharkey, considered the leading contender, under contract for a fight at Miami this winter. Scott and Schmeling have been mentioned as the next best in a somewhat mediocre field. Campolo, although beaten by Scott, won praise from many boxing experts who believe that in time the huge South American will be a champion.

More important, in one way, was the fact that the deal apparently removes the last obstacle in the way of a Sharkey-Schmeling match. The garden was threatened with suspension by the New York State Athletic commission if it insisted upon continuing its efforts to match these two heavyweights before Schmeling fulfilled a contract to meet Scott for Fugazy. With Fugazy no longer holding any claims on Schmeling's services, the boxing commission's objection should no longer exist.

Indications tonight were that the garden would endeavor to match Schmeling and Sharkey for the Miami fight probably in February.

Included in the deal was Gustavo Leneve's managerial contract on Campolo. Campolo, now in South America, insisted that Leneve's contract must be relinquished before he would return to the United States. Fugazy holds Campolo's signature to contracts for four matches. The Italian promoter also holds a contract on Schmeling to fight Scott and a similar one on Scott.

IGNORANCE OF RULES COSTS W. MARYLAND 2 POINTS

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Western Maryland scored 35 points against Loyola of Baltimore in their game here today but the official score stands 33 to 7, and the officials of the game, coaches and players of both teams and the so-called "experts" are all railing at changes in rules.

In the third period, Bellaire of Loyola, attempted to kick from his 20-yard line. Pincura broke through and blocked the ball and it bounded back into the end zone. Bellaire was on it like a flash and ran it back out of the end zone to the one-yard line before being downed. None of the officials caught the play there and Loyola again kicked, this time from the one yard line.

Neither coaches, their players, nor any of the officials of the game knew that a blocked kick "may be recovered and advanced by the receiving side: If a member of the kicking side recovers it, the ball is dead at the point of recovery x x x".

Western Maryland had scored a safety when Bellaire recovered behind the goal, the ball being dead, but through ignorance of the rule by all connected with the game, it was overlooked.

Bass Beats Reed

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.— (AP) — Benny Bass, Philadelphia featherweight who aspires to the junior lightweight crown, won the decision over Eddie Reed, New York Negro, in the 10-round feature bout at the arena tonight. Bass scaled 127; Reed 125 1-2

BELDING BULLDOGS BEAT ST. MARY'S OF WORCESTER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Nov. 11—A crowd of 500 saw the Belding Bulldogs take a 14 to 6 victory from the St. Mary's club of Worcester at Adams field this afternoon. Farquahar, Bulldog guard, made the first touchdown in the first period when he intercepted a long pass and ran 40 yards for the score. This spectacular demonstration was followed by another touchdown by Nelson, Bulldog back, who skirted the left side of the line from the 20 yard line. Murphy converted the extra point. Both teams failed to score in the two following quarters. A last-minute rally by Worcester which started with a pass from Loski to Junki for 20 yards followed by three plays which carried the ball over. The extra point attempt failed.

ROCKNE READY TO START COACHING AGAIN

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 11.—(AP)—Coach Knute Rockne, who has been confined to his home with an infected knee, will direct the practice of the Notre Dame football team tomorrow for the first time in three weeks, it was announced today.

According to present plans, Rockne will continue his direction of the Notre Dame squad through the Southern California game at Chicago Saturday.

Slattery Kayoes Haystack

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 11. —(AP) — Jimmy Slattery continued his comeback campaign tonight by knocking out Johnny Haystack of Binghamton in two minutes and 12 seconds with a left hook and a right to the chin. Haystack was down once before for a count of nine. Slattery weighed 169 1-2; Haystack 166 1-2.

PALACE HANGS ANOTHER ONTO BROADWAY BOWLERS

Once more the Palace proved its superiority over Broadway, not in the form of entertainment, but in a contest of sport, said sport being bowling. At the conclusion of three heated and hectic strings the Palace was out in front by a comfortable margin of 74 pins thus making it two straight victories for the Palace men. M. Taylor, of the Broadway force, was high man, sharing the limelight with Mgr. Fitz who kept the audience in continual suspense with his slow ball. The scores:

WESTERLY

ARMISTICE EXERCISES CARRIED OUT AS PLANNED

But few sprinkles of rain marred the street parade of Westerly veteran organizations in the observance of the eleventh anniversary of Armistice day. Public and private buildings and the curb lines of the principal business streets of the town had a generous showing of the Stars and Stripes and there was a larger than average crowd to watch the paraders. The plants of the Lorraine Manufacturing company, the George C. Moore company and the Bradford Dyeing association were in operation, while other plants and retail stores generally were closed, and others observed holiday hours.

At 10:15 the line started, headed by Motorcycle Officers Robert M. Kessell and Charles E. Button and to music by the Highland Pipe band, Frederick G. Kennedy, drum major.

Harry Long, who served overseas for a year with the Canadian forces as a member of the First Central Ontario regiment, was marshal, his aides being Shelby C. Nicholas of the Spanish War veterans, George Harris of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and John B. Tallion of the American Legion. The day's program was in charge of the British and Colonial Great War veterans.

Following a detachment of naval men came the British-Colonial Great War veterans, with nearly full ranks; Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, Lieut. H. Russell Burdick, commanding; United Spanish War veterans, Capt Abram P. Datson, commanding; Harley P. Chase post, Veterans of Foreign wars, Cornelius Riley, commanding; Boy Scouts of America, and Gold Star Mothers and G. A. R. Veterans in autos. The line of march was from Broad and Elm streets through Dixon square over West Broad street to Liberty and up Liberty street through Morgan street to the soldiers' memorial on upper West Broad street where the line came to rest. The exercises at the Memorial consisted of musical selections and an address by Attorney Samuel H. Davis, following which the parade moved down West Broad street and through Dixon square, up High street and down Grove avenue, entering Wilcox park. Patriotic exercises held at the Hiker Memorial included an address by Rev. Arnt L. Schoning. Wreaths were placed on the two memorials by members of the auxiliaries of the veterans' organizations.

The final event on the day's program was the annual Armistice day dance held Monday evening at the American Legion rooms.

An impressive feature of the day was the sounding of two blasts at 11:00 a. m. on the fire siren of the Westerly Fire station on Union street, when all street traffic stopped and a two-minute period of silence was observed. The termination of the period was announced by two blasts on the fire whistle of the Pawcatuck fire department.

A symbolic float, prepared by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was at the end of the parade, emblematic of the annual Red Cross drive which has started in Westerly. The large motor truck of the Westerly Lumber Co. bore a reproduction of the familiar red cross under which sat a young miss in white, while seated opposite was a Red Cross nurse and close by a Boy Scout bugler.

TO RE-LAY WEST-BOUND TRACK NEAR THE LOCAL STATION

Under favorable weather conditions the roadbed of the New Haven railroad adjacent to Westerly waiting station is expected to be a hive of industry today. Hundreds of workmen in the railroad employ are to begin the re-laying of mainline No. 1, westbound track. The new rails, fish plates, angle irons, bolts, etc., have been distributed along the right of way now for several weeks and everything has been put into shape to expedite the taking out of the old rails and the substitution of the new and heavier ones.

Work will be started near the Westerly block signal tower and the laying of track continued in a westerly direction until Midway is reached. During the time the west-bound track is out of commission all trains, both east and west-bound will be operated on the set of rails nearest the Westerly waiting station and the trains crossed over again to their proper iron at each end of the large force of workmen. It is expected that two good working days will be required before the new track is laid and the Westerly section cleared up.

Arthur McClellan Weeden, assistant custodian of Wilcox Memorial and Public library building, left Monday morning to visit Wickford relatives and friends.

Thomas F. Keller, of Providence, visited over Armistice day with Westerly relatives.

RUSTICI FAMILY SLEPT WHILE BARN WAS BURNING

A familiar landmark, the large red barn on Elm Ridge farm, one mile to the west of the Westerly-Norwich state highway on Randall road, now known as Shady lane, was burned to the ground shortly after 8 p. m. Sunday, with twenty head of cattle, fodder and farming implements. The amount of the loss is variously estimated as from $6,000 to $8,000, the cattle being only in a small part covered by insurance. On this farm formerly resided Harold W. Merrill, from whom Westerly post of the American Legion takes its name.

The farm was formerly owned by the estate of John R. Miner and was sold by Elias S. Miner to Carmello and Bendetta Rustici. Mr. Rustici has worked the 200 acres for the past three years, also has conducted a prosperous milk business supplying many of the restaurants of Westerly.

While the fire which destroyed his cattle was burning Mr. Rustici and his family were asleep in the house 200 feet away and knew nothing of their loss until they were awakened by Dominic Lombardo, Rustici's brother-in-law, who was attracted by the blaze as he was about to retire at his home on Liberty street, two miles away in Pawcatuck.

When Mr. Lombardo arrived at his brother-in-law's there was a crowd of 50 or 75 who had been attracted by the flames. As the house was in darkness they had supposed the family was away and no effort had been made to awaken them. Mr. Rustici said that he was in the barn for the last time shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. There was nothing in the barn that could have started a fire, he said, as the building was not wired for electric lights and he took the lantern with him when he left the barn. He had no enemies, he said, who could have wanted to ruin him.

The explanation given Monday is that some one must have been smoking in the barn, possibly at milking time, and that a lighted cigarette or cigar stub had started a smouldering fire that did not blaze out until several hours later.

In case the fire may have been of incendiary origin, Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon of Pawcatuck police and an officer of the Groton barracks of the Connecticut state police visited the premises and passed two hours in making careful examinations about the premises.

The barn accommodated 22 cows and four horses. The horses were out in the pasture. There were 20 head of cattle in the barn including the young stock. He was milking 11 of the 15 cows. There was also 20 tons of hay and he had that day begun putting in his corn, a quantity of which was destroyed in the flames. Someone of the spectators broke in the pen underneath the barn and let out the five pigs, some of which came out with their backs on fire.

Returning from a two years' tour of duty in the Philippine Islands, Lieut. Reginald L. Dean, U. S. A., and Mrs. Dean (Miss M. Edna Niblock), both of Westerly, have arrived in San Francisco, and are en route to the Atlantic coast after short stays in China and the Hawaiian Islands.

Frank E. Collins attended at the fall ceremonial of Allepo temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., the past week end in Boston.

Watch Hill Cottagers Robbed

In the Associated Press dispatches Monday morning appeared an account of a highway hold-up and jewel robbery of members of the Bridalspur Country club, near St. Louis, Mo. The losers are summer visitors to Westerly, all owners or occupants of summer homes at Watch Hill. Mr. Johnson occupied Wildacre cottage, J. Fritz Byers, Cedarhurst cottage and Mr. Shukle, Meadowcroft.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. O'Brien, of Hartford, were Armistice day visitors with Mr. O'Brien's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. O'Brien.

John Dawson of Norwich Falls, was in Westerly Armistice day, the guest of George W. Steadman, of Pawcatuck.

Mrs. Bessie M. Fancher, wife of Charles C. Fancher is recovering slowly following an operation performed recently at Westerly hospital.

Charles S. Larkin spent Monday at Wood River Junction, hunting and fishing.

Mrs. Ernestine Tuch and her brother Theodore Samuels motored to Norwich Sunday to visit friends.

George C. Harris, expressman for the C. B. Cottrell and Sons Co., has returned, after a week's vacation.

Hereafter Saturday night there will be two patrolmen of the Stonington force on duty in the West Broad, Mechanic and Liberty streets section of Pawcatuck.

CAPT. ROLLIN RATHBUN HAS BIG DAY FISHING

Capt. Rollin Rathbun, Saturday morning at 8 o'clock, with his high boots on and carrying an orange fish pole and water bucket started for Palmer Cove where his row boat Shoot Again was tied. Bending on the oars he headed for the hole near the bridge where many smelt catchers fall. At 8:30 he threw the line overboard and soon took in the silver fish, catching them as fast as he could bait the hooks. Another boat came and anchored beside his boat. He said "Well it is all off now!" but in his hip pocket Capt. Rathbun had a rabbit foot that seemed to drive the fish away from the line of Stretch Moran; so he kept hauling them in like rain drops on a tin roof, but Moran was cold from watching his line without results. Rathbun gave him the fishermen's salt water laugh, as for two hours Moran did not get a fish. He was so mad that he picked up and went home, with a tale of fisherman's luck for the day, while Capt. Rathbun was having his fun like a red-headed kid with a pair of roller skates on Christmas morning. In one second he baited his hooks for pair after pair came into the bottom of the boat. Up to noon he had 500 smelts and still going strong. The fish were good sized and he got a bite that almost hauled him over the side of the boat. Capt. Rathbun at first thought it was a young cod fish making waves like a power boat in a race. It was 6 minutes before the fish was a prisoner, the largest smelt ever taken out of the water in Palmer Cove in 20 years. Champion Rathbun kept right on fishing, for he wanted to set a record to all the smelt catchers along the shores of Connecticut for years to come. After 7 hours and 2 seconds he called it a day. A 12-quart water pail was filled with fish and had some left over, putting them in the scoop net. Gee what a catch of smelts. 980 was his day's work. The monster fish was put on the scales at the Front street market and weighed 17 ounces. It was 11 inches long and was big enough for a family of two. Blue sea captains are stretching their heads and wondering how he does it; but the champion smelt catcher has a trick of his own, knows when to go and what time. The fish books covered with cobwebs from the fish shanty of Capt. E. Francke at the Worth dock were taken out then. Capt. Arthur McDonald with his gold rim glasses looked through the 900-page book to see when the largest smelt was caught and it was 20 years ago, by Capt. Paul Moore off the North dock. That smelt was 11 ounces and 3 inches long. He also is a champion seler, and a great man with a rifle. He shot an apple off the head of Howard Brown, a stunt only done once by William Tell. The prize fish was taken back to Boston by his brother Raymond to show fellow workmen. A fish that the three towns, Mystic, Noank and Stonington are talking about. Over 200 came to see the big fish on exhibition at the Front street market.

MYSTIC

S. OF V. DIST. MEETING HELD WITH LATHAM CAMP

At the Fifth district meeting of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil war, Charles Davis, district chairman, held in G. A. R. hall Saturday evening, the 20th anniversary of A. C. Latham camp, Sons of Veterans, was also observed. About 60 Sons and comrades sat down to a roast pork supper served by Phoebe Packer Rathbun tent, Daughters of Union Veterans. Following this, a short business session was held. The entertainment of the evening, consisted of music by the Davis orchestra and tricks of legerdemain by Prof. Ingram, of Westerly. He is very proficient in this art and his feats of slight-of-hand always win applause. Rev. William M. Newton, pastor of the Methodist church, gave a very interesting talk on "Patriotism."

Miss Elsie McGaughey, of Willimantic Normal school, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McGaughey. Saturday Miss McGaughey with her mother was in New London.

Russell Nichols, of Plymouth, Mass., a former resident of Mystic, was in town over the week end.

Miss Marguerite Eldredge, of New Haven, spent Sunday with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Fink, of Old Mystic.

Bridge Postponed

The bridge match which was to have been held here between the Cycle club and the Mystic Hook and Ladder company last evening, was postponed by request to this (Tuesday) evening.

Miss Amy Haas spent the week end with Holyoke, Mass. friends.

The Ladies' Aid society of Old Mystic Baptist church is to meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. William D. Beckwith.

Mrs. Horace Boutelle and infant son have been dismissed from Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London, and have returned to their home on Ocean View Heights, Mystic. Mr. Boutelle is on the teaching staff at the Robert Fitch high school, Poquonoc Bridge.

Miss Dorothy Duerr, of Mystic, was also dismissed from Lawrence Memorial hospital, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nolan, of Ramsey, N. J., have been visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Galvin.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hershey and daughter Betty, of Arlington Heights, Mass., spent the week end with Mrs. Hershey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Cooper.

Ernest Bliven spent Sunday with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bliven, of Westerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Johnson and two children, of Quincy, Mass., visited Sunday with Mr. Johnson's mother, Mrs. Altana Johnson, and sister, Miss Fay Johnson, of Old Mystic.

At Ossining Funeral

Elmer Caulkins and children, Kenneth and Edna, have been to Ossining, N. Y. to attend the funeral of a relative.

Cyril Goyette was home from Holy Cross college, Worcester, over the week end.

Miss Marian Stevens, of Needham, Mass., spent the week end with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McLean, of Westerly, spent Saturday with Old Mystic relatives.

Amos Chapman, Mrs. Alice Chapman, of Center Groton, Mrs. Ella Buddington, Miss Lina and Miss Jessie Fish, Mrs. Kate Burrows, of Mystic, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Chesebro, of Mystic, and Mr. and Mrs. Gottlieb Guering, of Groton, attended services at the Baptist church in Old Mystic, Sunday evening.

Joseph Brown, of Springfield, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. J. Sherman Hammond.

Elwood Lathrop is in Yantic, working on Clyde Lathrop's house.

Mrs. Gurdon Allyn, of West Mystic, is visiting Mrs. Frelove Miller in Norwich.

Mr. and Mrs. Leeds Main were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Tinker, of Old Mystic, Sunday evening, and attended services at the Baptist church.

Miss Mary Marianna has returned from a visit in Greenwich, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sullivan spent the week end in Providence, where they were called to attend the funeral of a relative.

Joseph Maynard and Stephen Hershak are repairing and shingling the latter's house on Greenmanville avenue.

Completing New Home

The house being erected for William Stott, on Washington street, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy soon.

Mrs. William Braker is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Morgan, of East Main street.

There was an attendance of over 70 at the Sunday evening services at Old Mystic Baptist church. Miss Loretta Tinker, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tinker, of Old Mystic, sang "He Cares for Me." A quartette, Miss Agnes Austin, Mrs. Edith Stanton, George Robinson and Frank E. Williams sang "Softly and Tenderly." They were accompanied by Clarence W Beckwith, organist. Loretta Tinker was accompanied at the piano by her mother. Rev. Mr. Holloway delivered a very interesting address.

Traffic was heavy through the village Sunday, due to the beautiful day. Old timers called the day a weather breeder.

Mrs. Alonzo Main, of the Lanters Hill district, is ill at her home with bronchial pneumonia.

November Rose

Mrs. Charles Crouch has a very beautiful rose in blossom in her garden. There are also two other buds on the bush and the people passing by are much interested in watching them.

At Mystic Bridge Congregational church Sunday morning, Mrs. Eugene Jones sang a hymn. The Ladies' Aid society of that church are to meet Thursday afternoon in the parish house, to sew.

Women Have Something to Say!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has ridiculed into oblivion that ancient prejudice which excluded women from a voice in council. Today, in millions of homes, the delicious flavor of LUCKY STRIKE fills the room as the family group respects the opinion of its women folk.*

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation-No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES

Little Lost Pup.

He was lost—not a shade of doubt of that;
For he never barked at a stinking cat
But stood in the square when the wind blew raw
With a drooping ear and a trembling paw
And a mournful look in his pleading eye
And a plaintiff sniff at the passerby
That begged as plain as a tongue could sue
"O, mister, please may I follow you?"

A lone wee waif of a tawny brown,
Adrift in the roar of a heedless town,
Oh, the saddest of sights in a world of sin
Is a little lost pup with his tail tucked in!
Well, he won my heart (for I set great store
On my own red Bute—who is here no more.)
So I whistled clear, and he trotted up,
And who so glad as that small lost pup?

Now he shares my board and he owns my bed,
And he fairly shouts when he hears my tread.
Then, if things go wrong, as they sometimes do,
And the world is cold, and I'm feeling blue,
He asserts his right to assuage my woes
With a warm, red tongue and a nice cold nose,
And a silky head on my arm or knee,
And a paw as soft as a paw can be.

When we rove the woods for a league about
He's as full of pranks as a school let out;
For he romps and frisks like a three months colt,
And he runs me down like a thunderbolt.
Oh, the blithest of sights in the world so fair
Is a gay little pup with his tail in the air!

—By Arthur Guiterman

November Rain in the Redwoods.

The woods are silent, hushed expectantly,
Great clumps of fern, their beauty masked in dust,
Await with trembling eagerness each gust
Of wind which hints of changes soon to be.

Small winds which whimper in the feathered tips
Of redwoods when the sky hangs low and gray,
Announce that rain-filled clouds are on their way,
And soon will brush these hills with their moist lips.
And breaks in blessings on the heads of trees,
And fall in such an even gentleness.

That half unconscious of the rain's caress,
The broad fern clusters and moss tapestries
Will glow more greenly bright within an hour,
Refreshed by rain scarce heavier than dew,
Which silvers all the trees and filters through
To nourish mighty root and fragile flower.

A plea is in the trees this very day
That skies will not forget their promised yield
Of rain, but with a treasure-house unsealed
Drop down their silver as they pass this way.

—Marion Steward.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE-AWAKES.

The squirrel is an active little animal of the woods, so much so that it seems to be mad at times, but it has a method in its presumed madness, it is the opinion of Uncle Jed. You will see it sometimes leap with lightning-like speed from cover to cover, spring to the top of a ledge and onto a tree, disappearing in a cavity there. Wonderingly you will ponder over the cause of the animal's fright.

Presently from behind a tree will appear a cat or a weasel that was bent upon catching the squirrel for its supper. You may have not heard the enemy of the squirrel, but the little red or gray coated fellow evidently received a warning of some kind and made for it shome and shelter.

Again you may watch for many minutes the little animal sunning itself on a boulder or limb of a tree in its peculiar way, sitting hunched up with its tail swaying back and forth in the breeze. Suddenly it will take to its heels for no reason at all in your opinion and find refuge in its home. These things can only be seen by the person who keeps perfectly still and does not frighten the squirrel.

Many times you will see the little animal engaged in gathering nuts, acorns and the like to be safely stored away in its hiding place, to be used sparingly throughout the winter for food. These caches are usually in hollow trees or under ledges and are neatly covered with grass, leaves and little sticks to guard against the depredations of other squirrels or even against small boys and girls who wander in the woods on nutting bees.

Boys and girls who do such things have little regard for these small animals which are sometimes compelled to live on only a few nuts a day on account of the severe winters and scarcity of their kind of food. In taking the small supply of nuts may mean the death of the little squirrel, which has probably been busy for many days in scouring the woods for its winter's sustenance.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE WIDE-AWAKES.

Sang for Poor People.

Dear Uncle Jed and Wide Awakes: This is my second letter to you. This time I am writing about our choir singing to the people in Norwich. There are nine members in the choir beside myself. We sing a special song every Sunday.

One Sunday our minister and the choir went down to the poor people in Norwich to sing to them and Mr. Bushnell, our minister, preached a sermon from the 16th chapter of Acts. We sang several sacred songs. Stephen Gorski, one of the choir sang a solo and we joined in singing the chorus. We enjoyed the trip to Norwich. Your wide awake friend

A Halloween Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write and tell you how we farm children celebrate Halloween. A few days before the celebration we wrote invitations to our parents and friends whom we wanted to come. Our teacher, Miss Broudy of the Waterman school, cordially invited Miss Quinto, the Bozrahville school teacher and her pupils, to celebrate Halloween with us. The Halloween party took place at the Waterman school, October 31, 1929 at 7.00 p. m. When Halloween night arrived six girls prepared the refreshments and games we were to play. When we were sure everybody was present we were surprised to find that there was quite a large crowd. At first we had a program. We sang songs, made speeches, told ghost stories and read poems. After the program we played games. Some of them were bobbing for the apples, put the nose in the pumpkin and the flying doughnuts.

After the games the teacher announced that a prize would be awarded to the boy and girl who could entertain the best. A boy of the Bozrahville school carried off the honors for the boys. And I carried off the honors for the girls. After the entertainment we had our refreshments. The refreshments were cakes, cookies, cupcakes, pies, sandwiches and lemonade. At last our party was over and it was 9.30 p. m. Don't you think Uncle Jed we farm children enjoy ourselves at Halloween nights pretty well?

Helps Mother With Work.

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell you what a large family we have. I have five brothers and three of them smaller than I am. Alfred and I go to school. Warren and Charles stay at home with mother. I have four grown up sisters. I am glad I am not the only boy. We have lots of fun playing. It wouldn't be fun if I had to play alone. I don't like to sleep in a room alone, it is too lonesome. Alfred feeds the hens and chickens and gets the kindling while I bring in the wood. Sometimes Alfred and Warren help me when there is a lot of it. We all help mother do the dishes. Sometimes mother lets Alfred and I do them alone. While she is doing other work we like to do them alone best.

Attends Halloween Party.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am now going to tell you about our Halloween party. Last night we had a Halloween party at our church. Many children came to it.

As Virginia and I were passing the church steps some children ran after us and caught us. They led us into the church. Then they told us to knock on the door of a class room. When we did a ghost came out on the stage. The ghost said "Hello, girls." Then it walked slowly toward Virginia and me. We tried to run away but the ghost caught us, it shook us up. Then we found out who it was.

Afterwards we bobbed for apples. Some of the apples had five cents in them and some had a penny. The one who got an apple with money in it kept the money. A girl found five cents and two boys found a penny in the apples.

Then we played going to Jerusalem. Later we had refreshments and by the time we were through it was half-past five, so we went home. I am sure we had a very happy time.

Girl Friend Visits Her.

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write to you and the Wide Awakes to tell you how I spent my vacation. I went to the beach about every day. I went to many different beaches.

One of my girl friends came from New York and I went to the beach with her. I wouldn't have gone to the beach as many times, only for her. I went to many shows and had very nice times. I enjoyed my vacation very much and hope you and the Wide Awakes did.

Catching Muskrats.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write and tell you how my three brothers catch muskrats. I'm sure you will have to laugh.

One day my three brothers went down to the swamp to find some muskrats. My oldest brother was standing on a log looking into a hole that had been dug out for the cows to drink out of when all of a sudden he slipped and fell into the water up to his waist. When he got home we all laughed at the funny sight. We saw my oldest brother come running into the yard all covered with mud and my two youngest brothers tagging along behind him. My mother had a pretty dirty wash that week I'll tell you.

Christopher Columbus.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing to you about Christopher Columbus. When Columbus was a little boy he liked to watch the ships and talked to the sailors. He was so interested that when he grew up he was a sailor. Queen Isabella gave him three ships named Nina, Pinta and Santa Maria. He reached land in 1492. He never knew he discovered America.

A Funny Experience.

Dear Uncle Jed: I have never written a story to you before. I am eight years old and hope you like my story. One day last summer my aunt and uncle invited us to come down to their house in New London. So my mother, my two sisters and I went down Sunday afternoon and stayed until Thursday. We did this for three weeks. While we were there we went down to the beach every day by trolley. One day when we were to get the car we saw it turn the corner so we ran to get it but we were too late. Just then a horse and wagon got in the way of the car and it had to stop, so I ran and got on the running board of the car as it started to go. Just then the conductor saw me so he stopped the car and let my mother and sisters get on too. I was very much frightened and after that waited until my mother go on the car with me.

My Pet Kitten.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my kitten Susie.

Why I call her Susie is because she's got black under her eyes. She is four months old and has very good manners.

She doesn't eat any birds or get on the table. When I go to bed at night she comes over and lays with me in my little bed. She keeps me company and puts me to sleep by her sweet song. I love my kitten and I wish you all have a pet kitten at home, too.

Cathering Nuts.

Dear Uncle Jed: One autumn Sunday my sister, father and I went gathering nuts. We went to Wauwecus hill. We found one quart of nuts. On the way we got lost, we couldn't find our way. So we went up to a farm house and asked the way to Yantic. The woman said go straight, then turn to your right. We went the way she told us. When we turned to the right it took us to a farm house, so we had to go back again. We went to Norwich Town. My cousin brought us home.

MONTVILLE

The newly-organized Thimble club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin Butler of Main street. After the business session the hostess served a delicious lunch consisting of sandwiches, cake and tea. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Victor Rosenlund of Maple avenue. Those present were Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Robert Paton, Mrs. V. A. Rosenlund, Miss Justice Chapel, Mrs. Martin Butler, Mrs. Charles Kolb and little Miss Carol Johnson and Master Robert Butler.

There are many dry wells in Montville and many persons are procuring water from the Rockland spring. Persons from Uncasville and other sections of the town obtain water from that spring.

Leon Allen has moved his family from Maple avenue to Uncasville, to the home of Mrs. Allen's uncle, Mason Daniels.

Mrs. E. L. Nield who has been a patient at the Backus hospital in Norwich, has returned to her home on Bridge street much improved in health.

Mrs. Grace Meicer of Uncasville attended a meeting of the Junior Red Cross in New London, Thursday. It was the regular monthly meeting and was held at the Mariners' Savings bank.

Mrs. Capitola Burgess of Maple avenue is confined to her home by illness.

Sherwood Joynt and Clinton Sharp spent the week-end with Mr. Joynt parents in Carthage, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Joynt returned with them to spend the winter.

John Fellows of Oakdale and Mrs. William Vallett of Uncasville, were the delegates from Montville Center Congregational church to the county conference of the Congregational churches, which was held in the United Congregational church in Norwich recently.

Louis Morin of Maple avenue has sold his house to Fred Lusik.

William Beard who spent the week-end with his aunt, Miss Carrie Parker of Sunrise Hill, returned Sunday evening to his home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Landry and family have moved from the Peter Titisky tenement on Main street to New London.

Miss Rose Haley of Maple avenue was a guest of friends in New London, recently.

A soft answer may start good luck your way.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

OUTLOOK FOR PEACEABLE FUTURE BRIGHT, SAYS PRESIDENT HOOVER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11—(AP)—The following is the text of the address given by President Hoover at the ceremonies on the eleventh anniversary of Armistice day under the auspices of the American Legion at the Washington auditorium tonight.

My Fellow Countrymen:

Eleven years have gone by since the day of the armistice, when the guns ceased firing. It was a day of thanksgiving that marked the ending of the shambles of the trenches. For us it will be remembered always as a day of pride; pride in the memory of those who suffered and of those who made the last sacrifice of life in that great cause, pride in the proven valour of our Army and Navy; pride in the greatness of our national strength; pride in the high purpose for which we entered the war, and pride that we neither wanted nor got from it anything of profit for ourselves. Those stirring memories will always remain and on each Armistice day will grow again.

From the war we have two paramount obligations. We owe to those who suffered and yet lived an obligation of national assistance, each according to his need. We owe it to the dead that we redeem our promise that their sacrifice would help bring peace to the world. The nation will discharge its obligations.

The men who fought know the real meaning and dreadfulness of war. No man came from that furnace a swashbuckling militarist. Those who saw its realities and its backwash in the sacrifice of women and children are not the men who glorify war. They are the men who pray for peace for their children. But they rightly demand that peace be had without the sacrifice of our independence or of those principles of justice without which civilization must fall.

Such a sacrifice of freedom and justice is the one calamity greater than war. The task of statesmen is to build a road to peace which avoids both of these calamities. This road requires preparedness for defense; it equally requires preparedness for peace.

Outlook for Peace.

The world today is comparatively at peace. The outlook for a peaceable future is more bright than for half a century past. Yet after all it is an armed peace. The men under arms including active reserves in the world are almost 30,000,000 in number, or nearly 10,000,000 more than before the Great War. Due to the Washington Arms conference and the destruction of the German navy, the combatant ships in the world show some decrease since the war. But aircraft and other instruments of destruction are far more potent than they were even in the Great War. There are fears, distrusts, and smouldering injuries among nations which are the tinder of war. Nor does a single quarter of a century during all the ages of human experience warrant the assumption that war will not occur again.

Gloomy as this picture may be, yet we can say with truth that the world is becoming more genuinely inclined to peace; that the forces of imperial domination and aggression, of fear and suspicion are dying down; that they are being replaced with the desire for security and peaceful development. The old objectives of tortuous diplomacy are being replaced with frank and open relations directed to peace. There is no more significant step in this progress than the solemn covenant that civilized nations have now entered, to renounce war and to settle disputes by pacific means. It is this realignment of the mind of the world that gives the hope of peace.

But peace is not a static thing. To maintain peace is as dynamic in its requirements as is the conduct of war. We cannot say "let there be peace" and go about other business. Nor are the methods by which peace is to be maintained and war prevented to be established by slogans or by abstract phrases or by academic theory. Progress toward peace can be attained only as a result of realistic practical daily conduct amongst nations. It can be the result only of a frank recognition of forces which may disturb peace. For instance, we must realize that our industrial life, our employment, our comfort and our culture depend greatly upon our interchange of goods and ideas with other nations. We must realize that this interchange can not be carried on unless our citizens are flung into every quarter of the globe and the citizens of every other nation are represented in our country.

We must realize that some of them will get into trouble somewhere. Certainly their troubles will multiply if other nations are at war. We have an obligation and every other nation has an obligation to see to the protection of their lives and that justice is done to them so long as they comply with the laws of the countries in which they reside. From all these relationships frictions and controversies will arise daily.

The Kellogg Pact.

By our undertaking under the Kellogg pact, to use only pacific means to settle such controversies as these, we have again reaffirmed the doctrine enunciated by that far-sighted statesman, Mr. Elihu Root, in his famous declaration at Rio de Janeiro in 1907. At that time he announced that we would not use war or warlike means to enforce or collect upon private business contracts. It is our settled policy.

But there are other more deep-seated and more dangerous forces which produce friction and controversy than these eruptions over the rights of citizens. We must realize that there are many unsolved problems of boundaries between nations. There are peoples aspiring to a greater measure of self-government. There are fears of invasion and domination bequeathed to all humanity from its former wars. There are a host of age-old controversies whose specters haunt the world, which at any time may touch the springs of fear and ill will.

We must frankly accept the fact, therefore, that we and all the nations of the world will be involved, for all future time, in small or great controversies lurk the subtle danger that national temper at any moment may become a heat and that emotion may rise to the flaming point. Therefore, peace must be the result of unceasing endeavor.

I have said that recently we have covenanted with other civilized nations not only to renounce war as an instrument of national policy but also we have agreed that we shall settle all controversies by pacific means. But the machinery for pacific settlement of disputes among nations is, as yet, inadequate. We need to strengthen our own provisions for it. Our state department is the first of these means. It must be strengthened and supported as the great arm of our government, dedicated to the organization of peace. We need further to extend our treaties with other countries providing methods for reference of controversies to conference, to inquiry as to fact, or to arbitration, or to judicial determination. We have need to define the rules of conduct of nations and to formulate an authoritative system of international law. We have need under proper reservations to support the World Court in order that we may secure judicial determination of certain types of controversies and build up precedents which add to the body of international law. By these agencies we relegate a thousand frictions to orderly processes of settlement and by deliveration in action we prevent their development into national inflammation.

Our Ideals and Hopes.

We are also interested that other nations shall settle by pacific means the controversies arising between them. From every selfish point of view the preservation of peace among other nations is of interest to the United States. In such wars we are in constant danger of entanglement because of interference with the widespread activities of our citizens. But of far more importance than this, our ideals and our hopes are for the progress of justice through the entire world. We desire to see all humanity relieved of the hideous blight of war and of the cruelties and injustices that lead to war. We are interested in all methods that can be devised to assure the settlement of all controversies between nations.

There are today two roads to that end. The European nations have, by the covenant of the league of nations, agreed that if nations fail to settle their differences peaceably then force should be applied by other nations to compel them to be reasonable. We have refused to travel this road. We are confident that at least in the western hemisphere public opinion will suffice to check violence. This is the road we propose to travel. What we urgently need in this direction is a further development of methods for reference of unsettled controversies to joint inquiry by the parties assisted by friendly nations, in order that action may be stayed and that the aggressor may be subjected to the searchlight of public opinion.

And we have another task equally great as the settlement of incidental controversies. We must, where opportunity offers, work steadfastly to remove the deeper causes and frictions which lead to disputes and ill will. One of those causes is competition in armament. In order to stir a nation to the expenditures and burdens of increased armament, some danger and some enemy must be envisaged. Fears and distrust must be used as a goad to stir the nation forward to competitive effort. No one denies that the maintenance of great armament is a burden upon the backs of all who toil. The expenditure for it curtails vast projects of human betterment which governments might undertake. Every man under arms means that some other man must bear an extra burden somewhere. But a greater cost is the ill will resulting from rivalry between nations in construction of armaments.

Confident of Success.

It is first and foremost to rid ourselves of this danger that I have again initiated naval negotiations. I have full confidence in the success of the conference which will assemble next January. In setting up this conference we have already agreed with Great Britain that there shall be a parity in naval strength between us. I am in hopes that there will be a serious reduction in navies as a relief to the economic burdens of all peoples. And I believe that men and women throughout the world demand such reduction. We must reduce and limit warships by agreement only. I have no faith in the reduction of armaments by example alone.

Until such time as nations can build the agencies of pacific settlement on stronger foundations; until fear, the most dangerous of all national emotions, has been proved groundless by long proof of international honesty, until the power of world public opinion as a restraint of aggression has had many years of test, there will not have been established that confidence which warrants the abandonment of preparedness for defense among nations. To do so may invite war.

I am for adequate preparedness as a guaranty that no foreign soldier will ever step upon the soil of our country.

Our nation has said with millions of voices that we desire only defense. That is the effect of the covenant we have entered into, not to use war as an instrument of national policy. No American will arise today and say that we wish one gun or one armed man beyond that necessary for the defense of our people. To do so would create distrust in other nations, and also would be an invitation to war. Proper defense requires military strength relative to that of other nations. We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other. Having said that it only remains for the others to say how low they will go. It cannot be too low for us.

Freedom of the Seas.

There is another of these age-old controversies which stir men's minds and their fears. That is the so-called freedom of the seas. In reality in our day it is simply the rights of private citizens to trade in time of war, for there is today complete freedom of the seas in times of peace. If the world succeeds in establishing peaceful methods of settlement of controversies, the whole question of trading rights in time of war becomes a purely academic discussion. Peace is its final solution.

But I am doing to have the temerity to put forward an idea which might break through the involved legal questions and age-old interpretations of right and wrong by a practical step which would solve a large part of the intrinsic problem. It would act as a preventive as well as a limitation of war. I offer it only for the consideration of the world. I have not made it a governmental proposition to any nation and do not do so now. I know that any wide departure frm accepted ideas requires long and searching examination. No idea can be perfected except upon the anvil of debate. This is not a proposition for the forthcoming naval conference, as that session is for a definite purpose, and this proposal will not be injected into it.

For many years, and born of a poignant personal experience, I have held that food ships should be made free of any interference in times of war. I would place all vessels laden solely with food supplies on the same footing as hospital ships. The time has come when we should remove starvation of women and children from the weapons of warfare.

Protection for Food Supplies.

The rapid growth of industrial civilization during the past half century has created in many countries populations far in excess of their domestic food supply and thus steadily weakened their natural defenses. As a consequence, protection for overseas or imported supplies has been one of the most impelling causes of increasing naval armaments and military alliances. Again, in countries which produce surplus food their economic stability is also to a considerable degree dependent upon keeping open the avenues of their trade in the export of such surplus, and this again stimulates armament on their part to protect such outlets.

Thus the fear of an interruption in sea-borne food supplies has powerfully tended toward naval development in both importing and exporting nations. In all important wars of recent years to cut off or to protect such supplies has formed a large element in the strategy of all combatants. We can not condemn any one nation; almost all who have been engaged in war have participated in it. The world must sooner or later recognize this as one of the underlying causes of its armed situation, but, far beyond this, starvation should be rejected among the weapons of warfare.

To those who doubt the practicability of the idea, and who insist that agreements are futile for the purpose of controlling conduct in war, I may point out that the Belgian Relief commission delivered more than two thousand shiploads of food through two rings of blockade and did it under neutral guarantees continuous during the whole World war. The protection of food movements in time of war would constitute a most important contribution to the rights of all parties, whether neutrals or belligerents, and would greatly tend toward lessening the pressure for naval strength. Foodstuffs comprise about 25 per cent of the commerce of the world but would constitute a much more important portion of the trade likely to be interfered with by a blockade.

Men of good will throughout the world are working earnestly and honestly to perfect the equipment and preparedness for peace. But there is something high above and infinitely more powerful than the work of all ambassadors and ministers, something far more powerful than treaties and the machinery of arbitration and conciliation and judicial decision, something more vital than even our covenants to abolish war, something more mighty than armies and navies in defense.

Build Spirit of Good Will.

That is to build the spirit of good will and friendliness, to create respect and confidence, to stimulate esteem between peoples—this is the far greatest guaranty of peace. In that atmosphere, all controversies become but passing incidents of the day. Nor does this friendliness, respect, and esteem come to nations who behave weakly or supinely. It comes to those who are strong but who use their strength not in arrogance or injustice. It is through these means that we establish the sincerity, the justice, and the dignity of a great people. That is a new vision of diplomacy that is dawning in the world.

The colossal power of the United States overshadows scores of freedom loving nations. Their defense against us is a moral defense. To give to them confidence that with the high moral sense of the American people this defense is more powerful than all armies or navies, is a sacred duty which lies upon us.

It has been my cherished hope to organize positively the foreign relations of the United States on this high foundation and to do it in reality, not simply in diplomatic phrases. The establishment of that relationship is vastly more important than the mere settlement of the details of any of our chronic international problems. In such pure air and in that alone can both sides with frankness and candor present their points of view and either find just formulas for settlement, or, alternatively, agree to disagree until time finds a solution. We have in recent years heard a vast chatter of enmity and criticism both within and without our borders where there is no real enmity and no conflict of vital interest and no unsolvable controversy.

Relations Between Nations.

It is a homely parallel but equally true that relations between nations are much like relations between individuals. Questions which arise between friends are settled as the passing incidents of a day. The very same questions between men who distrust and suspect each other may lead to enmity and conflict.

It was in this endeavor that I visited the presidents of the South American republics. That is why I welcomed the visit of the prime minister of Great Britain to the United States. All these men have talked of their problems in a spirit charged with the gravest responsibility, not only for our own relations but for the peace and safety of the world. We have thought out loud together as men can not think in diplomatic notes. We made no commitments. We drove no discussion to final conclusion. We explored the areas of possible constructive action and possible controversy. We examined the pitfalls of international relations frankly and openly. With this wider understanding of mutual difficulties and aspirations we can each in our own sphere better contribute to broaden good will, to assist those forces which make for peace in the world, to curb those forces which make for distrust. Thereby do we secure the imponderable yet transcendent spiritual gains which come from successful organization of peace and confidence in peace. That is why I have endeavored to meet the leaders of their nations, for I have no fear that we are not able to impress every country with the single-minded good will which lies in the American heart.

FUNERALS.

George E. Hubbard.

The funeral of George E. Hubbard, 76, was held at his home in Packerville, Thursday afternoon. Mr. Hubbard suffered a shock last Monday and his death occurred 24 hours later. Mr. Hubbard had for many years been a member of the mounted police in New York city and was stationed at Highbridge. In 1916 Mr. Hubbard was retired from the service and five years ago he bought a home in Canterbury. He was twice married, his first wife died Nov. 1, 1925. He later married Mary Jane Sand, who survives him, also three sons, George, of Plainfield, Harold and Raymond, and two daughters, Mrs. John Owsian and Mrs. George Merrion, all of New York. There are seven grandchildren, also a brother, Oscar Hubbard of Westminster, the only one living of a family of six brothers. Among the beautiful floral tributes at the funeral was a large wreath from the police department and another from the fire department in the Bronx, New York. Rev. William Higgins conducted the service. The bearers were George, Harold and Raymond Hubbard and John Owsian. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, Danielson.

Charles Robbins.

Funeral services for Charles Robbins, 77, were held in the Congregational church Friday afternoon with a large attendance of relatives and friends. The pastor, Rev. Harry E Small conducted the service. As waiting hymns, the organist played Rock of Ages and Nearer My God to Thee A quartet, Mrs. Harry Small, Mrs Mary Rollinson, Mrs. Walter Sager and Hart Goff sang in the Palace of the King and When the Roll is Called Up Yonder, Mr. Robbins' favorite hymn. Among the beautiful floral pieces was one from the community where Mr. Robbins had lived his long life, a respected citizen. Besides his widow, Mr. Robbins leaves two sons, Arthur, and Elmer and a daughter, Adelaide, also several grandchildren. The bearers were, Edward Baker, Arthur and Elmer Robbins and Alan Moody. Burial was in the family cemetery in North Society where a committal service was held. Louis E. Kennedy was the funeral director.

Recent visitors at the Bingham farm were Carl Waldheim and son, William, Henry Clemme and Misses Elizabeth and Sophie Zulick, all of Arlington, N. J.

A party of fourteen relatives from New York, who came to attend the funeral of George Hubbard, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hubbard.

Trenor Rice of Willimantic, was a caller at the Elm Tree farm Sunday.

Week end guests at Elm Tree farm were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevens, Mrs. A. J. Nash, and Everett Pierce, all of Darien.

Robins are still seen in this vicinity.

RUSH OF SELLING SENDS MANY ISSUES DOWN 4 TO 25 POINTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The stock market was crushed to depths unpenetrated during the recent selling panic during the last half hour of trading today, as further liquidation of an urgent character was dumped onto the market.

Trading had displayed a notable slackening until toward the close of the three-hour session, and the ticker had kept well abreast of the market, but the late rush of selling carried the day's total sales to 3,367,150 shares, slightly exceeding Friday's turnover of 3,214,000 shares. Leading issues were depressed 4 to 25 points. Associated Press indices of all groups reached new low levels for the year.

The banking consortium apparently made no effort to check the decline, feeling that the volume of selling was not large enough to call for emergency measures. Prices displayed discouragingly little resistance to the selling. Traders who have been buying on declines hoping to get stocks at the bottom had evidently been disappointed too often of late, and had retired to the sidelines. Considerable short selling was reported, but it was inadequate to lend resilience through covering.

There was not much in the day's news to cause any further inroads upon speculative confidence, but unsettling rumors which were promptly denied in authoritative quarters intensified the already grave state of nerves. The suicide of James J. Riordan, attributed by some to market losses, was the basis of much gloomy theorizing, although reports that he had participated in a large pool were denied.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—The association of cotton textile merchants of New York reports that October shipments were 93.8 per cent. of production, while sales amounted to 78.5 per cent. of output. Stocks on hand at the end of the month totaled 262,657,000 yards, an increase of 5.1 per cent. over Sept. 30. Unfilled orders on October 31 were 395,698,000 yards, a decrease of 3.5 per cent. in the month.

Richfield Oil Corporation of New York is establishing a chain of bulk storage terminals on the New York state barge canal. The first unit, at Schenectady, will be operating before the canal closes for the winter. It will have storage capacity for 110,000 barrels.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Only a fair investment demand came into the bond market today and prices in the general list developed an irregular trend. High grade issues were moderately supported, but liquidation depressed speculative and semi-speculative issues as holdings in these groups were again sold to provide funds for stock market purposes. Time money was dull and unchanged at 6 per cent. for all maturities.

Liberty bonds commanded considerable attention, but made only slight fluctuations. Buying of the investment rails brought fractional increases to numerous loans, while a few rose a point or more. Leaders included Atlantic & Danville first 4s, Canadian Pacific 5s, Central Pacific guaranteed 5s, Hudson & Manhattan 5s and Hudson & Manhattan adjustment income 5s. Weak spots embraced St. Paul adjustment 5s, New York Central 5s, Northern Pacific 6s, Southern Railway general 6 1-2s and Union Pacific refunding 4s.

Industrials were mixed, with fractional gains in Armour 4 1-2s, Chile Copper 5s, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s and Liggett & Myers Tobacco 5s. Losses of about the same extent appeared in Armour 6 1-2s, Goodyear 5s, International Match 5s, Otis Steel 6s and Trumbull Steel 6s. Bethlehem Steele refunding 5s rose 1 1-2.

FOURTEEN PERMITS ISSUED FOR NEW CONSTRUCTION WORK IN CITY

During the first week in November Fire Marshal Henry R. Taft granted 14 permits for new construction work within the city limits. The permits were for small work mostly, garages and additions predominating, only one permit being for a new dwelling house. This new house is of the bungalow type and is to be erected by Seymore Bohara on Western avenue. This house is to have five rooms and bath.

W. S. Spencer has been awarded the contract to make alterations and repairs to the parsonage of the Park Congregational church. Several partitions are to be taken out and a number of the rooms enlarged. A garage is also to be erected in the rear of the property on Williams avenue.

Considerable progress has been made on work in and about the city during the past week, contractors working steadily to get houses and buildings boarded in before the cold weather starts. At the Norwich Inn work is progressing steadily, two of the walls, a side and a front, being nearly ready for the roof. The boilers for the heating system have been set in place and has the large tank for the water supply. It is expected that the building will be closed in by another month or five weeks.

The permits issued by Fire Marshal Taft are as follows:

To Francesco Barbarossi to erect a small greenhouse in the rear of 76 Washington street. The greenhouse will be 8-17 feet. The estimated cost is $15.

To Frederick Manles to build a two-car frame garage, 20x20 feet. The estimated cost is $300. The garage will be located at 24 Lincoln avenue.

To Edward Ely to erect an open shed and extend present shed roof at 92 Washington street. The estimated cost is $100

To Pauline Warakowski to erect a 3-car garage, 30x20 feet at 95 Cliff street. The garage will be of frame construction and the estimated cost will be $400.

To David Schoenberg to build an addition to the present frame garage, 20x32 feet, at 234 Mt. Pleasant street. The garage will accommodate five cars when completed. The estimated cost is $150.

To Seymore Bohara to erect a frame bungalow of five rooms and bath on Western avenue. The bungalow will be 24x32 feet. The estimated cost is $2,000.

To John F. Carroll to erect a three-car garage, 30x30 feet on Tenth street. The estimated cost is $200.

To Harry J. Schatz to add a two-story veranda to the present frame house at 229 West Main street. The estimated cost is $225.

To Maude A. Johnson to build a frame addition, 15x40 feet at 23 1-2 Pond street. The estimated cost is $200.

To Mrs. Jennie F. Berry to add a one-room addition, 12x12 feet, at 12 Oak street. The estimated cost is $300.

To Contractor W. S. Spencer to erect a two-car frame garage, 20x20 feet, on Williams avenue, for the Park Congregational church. The estimated cost is $600.

To Contractor W. S. Spencer to make alterations to the Park church parsonage on Williams avenue. The estimated cost is $1,000.

To Contractor W. S. Spencer to change the present plate glass front at the store at 132 Main street for Dr. E. P. Brewer. The estimated cost is $200.

To William J. Deauville to build an addition to the present frame shed to make a one-car garage in the rear of 27 McKinley avenue. The estimated cost is $10.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 14 sales of real estate, four more sales than during the same week in 1928. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $45,183 and $44,027.

There were nine sales of real estate in New London during the past week as compared to eight sales for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $44,605 and $53,400.

NEW LONDON

Building contractors and prospective home builders are finding particular interest in the chapter on land subdivisions of the New London plan of City Planner Herbert S. Swan, submitted through the planning board to the city council. It clearly indicates the results of hit and miss methods in which subdivisions have been developed in past years and by pointing out these defects presents a uniform guide to prevent repetition of poorly planned residential subdivisions.

It is easily seen, in reviewing this chapter of the report, that many properties in the city would be far more valuable had all streets in the city been laid out in a systematic manner instead of in the haphazard manner which evidently prevailed in a great many instances and which can only be remedied now at what in most instances is a prohibitive cost. In this category are the subdivisions in which are found blind streets, sharp offsets, narrow street widths.

Through these early errors the results serve as fine arguments against continued haphazard realty developments and thus for the assurance that future builders will not suffer through construction of crooked, narrow or blind streets in the vicinity.

With the mistakes of the past now summarized and a comprehensive plan by which they can be avoided in the future outlined there is little excuse for any repetition of these things in the future. It only remains for the city council to digest the details of the report, draft an ordinance from its recommendations, particularly designed to eliminate the faults of the past, and to enact the regulations into law. Being a measure that would prove of mutual benefit it does not now seem that there could be any objections but rather that there would be wholehearted support by all concerned.

One new house has been enclosed and is being prepared for the plastering and the framing and sheathing of another has been completed for Silas Maxson, Jr., at Pequot Heights, opposite Gardner avenue, in Ocean avenue. From private plans each of the two new houses will be of modern design and construction. The one which has been enclosed is finished outside with dark brown stained shingles and white trim. A cobblestone chimney in front enhances the general appearance, as do the brick steps leading to the front entrance. The foundation for each of the two new houses is of stone construction.

Work is nearing completion on the construction of a new warehouse and a new garage on the property of the Gulf Refining Co. in Pequot avenue. The new warehouse, which is of brick, steel and concrete construction, is 80 by 120 feet. The new garage is 80 by 45 feet and is also of brick, concrete and steel construction. The work is being done by the company from private plans. Both of the two new buildings have been enclosed and only some interior finishing remains to complete the job.

Building Permits

Jacob Piacsek, frame garage, 16 Central ave., $600.

Mrs. E. D. Steele, frame garage, cor. Elliot and Ocean aves., $300.

R. J. Sisk, frame garage, 503 Broad street, $200.

Cesare Giorgi et al, cement block garage, 49 Goshen street, $300.

A. P. Hunt, garage addition, 674 Williams St. $100.

Agostino Grillo, frame garage, 97 Riverside ave., $600.

Total number of permits issued for the week, 9; estimated cost of buildings, $2,500.

SKINTLED BRICK GAINS IN FAVOR

Builders of small homes, of the bungalow and cottage type, have been overlooking a fine sales stimulator in failing to use skintled brickwork in their construction. It has been the unfailing history of this type of masonry that it has won popular favor almost instantly wherever it has been introduced. Mostly, however, it has been confined to homes of the more pretentious types. Rarely have builders risked it in the small home field.

Skintled brickwork has a peculiarly effective recommendation to the builder. Although it is a radical departure in appearance from the ordinary brick wall and instantly attracts attention, usually favorably, it is less expensive to lay up than the conventional type where each brick must be placed with mathematical precision. The mason can work faster, lay more brick per day, and this reduces brickwork costs. This fact detracts not one bit from the strength of the wall or its resistance to heat and cold.

SOMETHING HANDY FOR THE KITCHEN

It appears that modern pressure cookers can cook an entire dinner of roast meat, vegetables and dessert over one-burner in 25 minutes. No water is used in preparing foods in this manner. Each article cooks in its own juices and so retains its full natural flavor as well as greater food value.

Cookers of this type are said to save one-third in cooking time and two-thirds in gas, and compartments are so arranged that the flavors of different foods in the cooker cannot blend. Thus one may cook fish, browned potatoes, string beans and rice pudding, for example, all at the same time without danger of one food knowing what the other tastes like.

SHRUB FERTILIZER

As a general rule it is not wise to place manure or other fertilizer at the bottom of the hole before setting out small trees or shrubs. Any fertilizer which comes into direct contact with growing roots is likely to cause burning which frequently results in the death of the plant. The better course would be to put in a layer of saturated leaf mold under the plant or shrub, then fill around the roots with fine soil so that all of the fibrous "feelers" will be surrounded. The fertilizer then can be applied to the surface.

RUBBER FLOORING MAKES ITS DEBUT

One of the latest developments in home conveniences is a type of rubber flooring for use in bathrooms, which appears to overcome several objections which have become more or less chronic. It is resilient, warm and soft under foot and should prove quite easy to keep clean. It resembles in no respect whatever the old type of rubber matting, which, while admittedly useful, was not much to look at and prone to wear through if given hard usage. This new type is made in a wide variety of patterns, some fully as attractive as the types of composition rugs which have been having such a vogue in recent years. Several patterns follow the design of inlaid flooring, with alternating dark and light squares.

That it is designed to withstand hard usage probably is due to the fact that it is of a composite substance of which rubber is the principal ingredient, the same as composition soles for shoes. It is easily kept clean and does not absorb water as some composition floorings are prone to do. The makers also have designed the new rubber flooring for use generally throughout the house, especially in the kitchen where any flooring which is easy on the feet should find favor with the housewife who spends a good part of her household hours there.

INSULATE WINDOWS TO CONSERVE FUEL

The use of storm windows on the windward side of a house cuts the fuel bills approximately 15 per cent, according to engineers who have made a study of fuel consumption in relation to windows. Storm windows, fitted tightly to the window openings, prevent the entrance of drafts of cold air which filter in at the jambs, sill and meeting rail of the double hung window, to the great detriment of the heating arrangements.

The use of weather stripping in connection with the usual window creates a dead air space between the outer and inner sash. This dead air space makes an insulation which is a barrier to cold.

Storm windows pay for themselves through fuel economy. They are a good investment for every home owner whose windows are loose and drafty.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dividend By American Tobacco Co.

NEW YORK—In addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $2 per share, the board of directors of The American Tobacco company have declared an extra dividend of $2 per share on the common stock and common stock B of that company.

In reply to inquiries, George W. Hill, president of The American Tobacco company stated: "The action of the board of directors confirms my belief expressed to stockholders under date of August 24, 1929, when I said that it was my feeling that the board of directors would be justified during the year 1929, not only in increasing the dividend on The American Tobacco company's common stock, but in recommending to stockholders such changes in the company's charter, as would permit splitting of the stock. The board has been so gratified with the progress and the profits of the company in the year 1929, that it deems it only fair to stockholders to declare this extra dividend of $4 per share, which makes a total cash dividend of $10 per share for the year 1929, as my letter to stockholders of today explains."

SECTION OF FANNING AVENUE THAT IS RAPIDLY BUILDING UP

One of the sections of the city that has been rapidly built up during the past year or so is Fanning avenue where numerous houses have been erected. Fanning avenue is more or less reclaimed land as a number of years ago it was low and marshy and during the winter the land was flooded to make a skating pond.

Since then the marsh has been filled in and drained so that it makes an ideal street and a pretty place for new homes. The above picture shows new buildings being erected on the south side of the street. The street is rapidly building up, the three houses shown are fast nearing completion while further along the street are two more that are under construction.

BUILDING NOT TO BURN

Do we build to BURN?

The frightful fire waste of this country has often caused such a question.

Much has been accomplished toward improved conditions, but in many instances there is a woeful lack of foresight in providing adequate defenses against fire, especially in the construction of buildings for mercantile and industrial use, hospitals, schools, hotels and other structures where large numbers of people are housed.

There are numerous activities, maintained by the Stock Fire Insurance companies, which aim for a better day when America shall consistently build NOT TO BURN.

Better Building Practice

One of these activities is the Committee on Construction of Buildings of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which assembles the best available information on proper building methods. For many years it has been the leading clearing house of information in safety construction.

The information in its possession is based upon the latest scientific and engineering facts and is supported by more than fifty years experience in organized fire prevention by the 239 Stock Fire Insurance companies which transact the great bulk of the fire insurance business.

Municipal Codes

Few indeed are the municipal building codes that have not used in whole or in part the information and services of the Department of Building Construction. This department has constantly worked for many years in co-operation with officials and others in authority in the interest of safety construction.

Better construction retards fire waste and contributes to the consequent decline in the average cost of fire insurance.

morning. Auger was arrested by Putnam police after the accident occurred. The vehicle being operated by him was owned by another, who told police that Auger took the machine without his permission. It is alleged by police that Auger was intoxicated at the time of the crash.

The firemen at the Central fire station were called out last evening shortly before 8 o'clock, to extinguish a chimney fire at the Victory theatre block on Main street. A motion picture was being screened at the time of the blaze, but the work of the firemen was executed perfectly and the audience did not become aware of the fire until after the photoplay had been shown. Only a slight damage was reported.

FRANKLIN

WORTHY COOKING CLUB TO MAKE BREAD AND BISCUITS

Miss Elizabeth Grover, assistant county club agent, met Saturday with a group of local girls and organized the Worthy Cooking club of Franklin, with Mrs. Mabel E. Capshaw, leader. The project chosen for the year will include the making of bread, biscuits, etc. The officers elected are: President, Ruth Robinson; vice president, Frances Lamb; secretary, Edna Lamb; treasurer, Barbara Rogers. The program committee which outlines the work for the year includes: Mary Manning, Mary Idzkowski together with the president and leader. The next meeting is planned for Dec. 6th. Meetings are to be held the first and third Friday evening of each month. A social hour followed the business meeting.

The annual Achievement night program of the local 4-H clubs will be given November 15th, at the Town hall. Many interesting features are planned.

Edward Bushey was in Tarrytown, N. Y., recently, on business.

Mrs. Helen Cary and daughter Jean, of Scotland, were recent guests of Mrs. Marjorie B. Cuyer.

Much interest is shown in the contest being held in the local Sunday school for the purpose of increasing the attendance and membership of the school. The younger members of the school are divided into two teams with a captain for each team. The objective of each team is to see which can get the more people to attend. At the close of the contest the winning side will be the guest of the losing side at a party. The captains of the two teams are Marian Robinson and Richard Smith.

Nelson Robinson was a week-end guest of Prof. and Mrs. Gustav Lindgren, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Miss Winifred Bushnell was a week-end guest, in New London, of Miss Betty Barber.

C. H. Pierce and family, of Norwich, were recent local callers.

Several members of the local C. E. society attended the rally at the Goshen church Sunday evening. Rev. George H. Strouse, of Bozrah, was the speaker. Special music included a vocal solo by Miss Beatrice Littlefield and the singing of a hymn by the Franklin members.

Frederick Johnson has returned to his winter residence on Broadway, Norwich.

Mrs. Clifford H. Robinson was the guest Thursday of Mrs. George Geer, of Plain Hill.

THOMPSON

Mrs. Emma Shaw Colcleugh has been with her niece, Mrs. Ruth Wheelock in Putnam for a few days.

The high school faculty and pupils put on a fine program at the grange Tuesday night. Special features were health plays and other one-act plays illustrating school work and the most amusing was the fashion show, showing what should and what should not be worn. A good orchestra from East Killingly furnished music for dancing.

The Thimble club has gentleman's night at Vernon Stiles hotel Thursday, November 14th.

There was a supper for Putnam teachers at the Vernon Stiles last Tuesday night.

The Junior Village Improvement society and Girl Scouts are to combine in a motion picture benefit in the town hall.

The Missionary society met with Mrs. Paine last week. The leader was Mrs. Oscar Munyan.

Mrs. Marian Dakin is to give an all-day demonstration of cooking in the Brandy Hill community house on Friday, Nov. 22nd.

The W. C. T. U. meets the coming Thursday with Mrs. Harriet Sherman. [illegible] is Thanksgiving.

POETRY

Old Wheel Ruts

Ragged, sunken, grass-grown ruts
Of the years ago
Ramming from an ancient barn
To the road below.
Past the moss-covered wall
On a farm I know.

Time was when a wagon-cart,
Weather-beaten, gray,
Rattled slowly up those ruts
On its homeward way
To the farmhouse on the slope,
At the closing day.

Little children racing out
From the western door,
Met their father as he came Back from town once more;
. . . Ah, the years crowd in between
Dim those days of yore.

. . . . . .

Though that wagon does not pass
Rutted wheel-ruts through,
Though the farmhouse silent stands,
Memories hol dtrue—
Never let me once forget
Happy times I knew.

—Agnes Choate Wonson in Boston Globe

Of Noble Intent

When I sail for Europe I'll go for the sights,
Cathedrals and such; if I don't go out nights
You won't find me parked around moping;
I won't look for barons and princes and kings,
I know royal heroes aren't essential things—
But still a girl cannot help hoping.

When Winter time finds me on Florida's shore,
Though swimming and boating I'm sure I'll adore,
I'll even go in for shark fishing;
I'll not spend my time looking around for a prize
'Mid society actors or prize fighting guys—
But still a girl cannot help wishing.

When some day I visit the famed Hollywood,
I'll put all my time to the best that I should—
Film study it goes without saying,
I'll not be out scouting around near and far
For a casting director or rich movie star—
But still a girl cannot help praying.

There's so much to learn and digest on this earth,
Diversified knowledge has far too much worth
To spend one's life going out manning;
I'll not tour the globe to discover some boy
With whom to indulge in romantic joy—
But still a girl cannot help planning.

—Dorothy Belle Flanagan, in Kansas City Star.

W. M. I., NORWICH WOMAN'S GIFT, NEEDS GYM AND AUDITORIUM AT NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 11.—Williams Memorial Institute for the higher education of young women, which stands on a commanding location on Broad street, was a gift to the city of New London by a distinguished Norwich woman, the wife of Gen. William Williams, whose beautiful home was the present Park church parsonage, facing Chelsea Parade, Norwich. The school in its progress has reached a point where the students are desirous of obtaining a new gymnasium and auditorium. Saturday, after the matter was discussed, it was decided to seek contributions in the way of pledges for the purpose of determining whether the added school facilities could be secured. When the committee in charge of the soliciting reported at the school today, it was revealed that $1,058 had been pledged over the week end. The committee will continue the task of obtaining pledges and it is believed a sum sufficient will be assured so that contracts for the construction of the two buildings will be possible.

Pier Rebuilt

The task of rebuilding the pier for the boats of the United States lighthouse service, rear of the customs house, has been completed by the Merritt-Chapman-Scott company. The wharf is 300 feet in length and of this 200 feet is of concrete construction, for 100 feet of the old pier, or that distance from the tracks of the New Haven railroad remains intact. The wharf is 75 feet in width and from now on the big lighthouse tenders will be able to moor at the dock as theretofore.

LINEMAN IS ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

Oak Straham, 2 Thames street, Groton, employed by the Southern New England Telephone company as lineman, was discharged today at Lawrence Memorial hospital where he had been a patient several days for concussion of the brain. Straham was working on a pole, corner of State and North Bank streets, when he lost his balance and fell to the sidewalk. In landing his head struck the sidewalk, rendering the lineman unconscious.

DRIVING A NEW CAR—WRECKED IT ON TREE

S. M. Huskey, submarine base, and driving a new Hudson car, was presented in the justice court of Preston today, charged with reckless driving and was fined $10 and costs. Huskey was driving near the state hospital when he lost control of the automobile, which left the highway and crashed against a tree. The auto was wrecked, but the driver escaped with bruises.

WON HIS CAR IN A RAFFLE, TAR SOON CAME TO GRIEF

In the Groton town court today, Carl G. Wieselquist, submarine base, was charged with driving without a license. The bluejacket did not present himself in court so his bond of $25 was forfeited. Wieselquist, who is a member of the crew of U. S. S. Bushnell, recently obtained ownership of the automobile, which long ago had outlived its usefulness by subscribing $4 when the owner of the car raffled it. The sailor was lucky to win the car but unlucky to drive it, for yesterday afternoon while speeding the car at the approach of Fort Hill, he lost control of the steering wheel with the result the auto left the highway and struck a telephone pole. The driver escaped injury other than a lacerated scalp, but he was arrested by State Police Officer Charles Hill.

Avery's Case Nolled

Robert Avery, Mystic, was charged with failing to grant right of way. The case was nolled upon Avery's paying the costs of the court, $12.65. Avery was arrested Nov. 5, when the car he was driving collided with a car driven by Alma Whipple, of Riverview avenue, on Bridge street. The nolle resulted when it became known that Aery was to pay for the damage sustained by the Whipple auto.

Cyril V. Moore, of Westerly, was charged with speeding and was fined $10 and costs, the latter amounting to $11.55. Moore was arrested Nov. 4.

William Barclay, Hotel Mohican, New London, charged with driving an automobile not equipped with a reflector, had the charge nolled, upon Barclay's paying the costs of the court, $11.55.

Had Florida Registration

W. H. Burmeister, Groton, was charged with driving without a license but the count was nolled upon recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Harry Brogan. The car that Burmeister was driving last Wednesday struck Palmer Whipple, 11, of 1 Ferry street and it then developed that Burmeister was driving a car with Florida registration.

NO FORMAL OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY MONDAY

Armistice day was not observed with formal ceremony in New London for other than the display of the American flag and the suspension of work at the municipal building, Federal buildings and the banks, there was no evidence of today marking the 11th anniversary of the signing of the armistice and the conclusion of the World war. All stores were kept open for business and the few people who had a holiday went to other cities where the event was marked by holding street parades.

MONDAY EVENING FIRE ON BROAD ST. SOON OUT

The fire department was called out this evening when a blaze was discovered in a shed in the rear of the premises, 329 Broad street. An alarm was sent in from Box 29, corner of Broad and Ledyard streets, responded to by Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and four companies. The task of subduing the fire was not difficult for a small quantity of chemicals quickly extinguished the blaze without damage of consequence resulting.

ECONOMIZED IN MARKERS—JANOVIC MADE A MISTAKE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 11. — John Janovic, Jr., 39 Terrace avenue, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Carlos Stone, charged with the improper use of markers and will be in court tomorrow. Janovic, who has been the owner of an automobile for a long time, recently purchased another car. Instead of applying for new markers Janovic removed the markers from the old car and placed them on the new one.

STONINGTON FIREMEN IN TOWN ON PLEASURE BENT

The Pioneer Hook and Ladder company, of Stonington, came to New London this evenin gfor a little diversion. The fire-fighters numbered about 150 and reached New London about 6 o'clock. They went to a local restaurant for supper, after which they attended a motion picture performance at the Garde theatre.

Fined for Defective Brakes

Charles J. Mitchell, Fog Plain road, Waterford, was charged with driving an automobile eulpped with defective brakes. He was fined $25 and costs. The automobile Mitchell was driving struck and slightly injured Helen Lake, 7, of 72 Walbach street, on Main street Saturday night. The accident was investigated by Patrolman Clarence Wells, who arrested the driver.

Lawless at Theatre

W. H. Brock, United States Coast Guard, state pier, was charged with intoxication and indecent exposure. On the first charge a fine of $5 and costs was imposed and on the second count Brock was fined $25 and costs. Brock was arrested at the Garde theatre Saturday night, where his acts became so offensive to patrons that the management was complained to. The sailor was arrested by Patrolman Harry Goldberg.

YOUNG NIANTIC DRIVER GUILTY ON TWO COUNTS

Charles West, Niantic, was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and driving with defective brakes. On the first count a fine of $100 and costs was imposed and on the second charge West was fined $15 and costs. West was driving on Willetts avenue last midnight. When his automobile collided with a car owned by Edward Olsen, 110 Willetts avenue, parked in front of the owner's home, West failed to stop, but sped away. The markers on the colliding auto were noted by two pedestrians, who provided the police with the information by which the car could be traced. It was ascertained that the auto is owned by West's father, but before the young man had opportunity to go to his home he was arrested by Patrolmen George Bruhns and Lawrence Fardy.

Made Broad St. Speedway

Charles T. Phillips, 136 Cedar Grove avenue; Franklin Chappell, Oakdale; Curtis Chapman, R. F. D. No. 2, Waterford, and Nelson Rice, Waterford, were charged with reckless driving, but judgment was suspended in each case. The young men were arrested on Broad street by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin Sunday night when discovered racing their cars.

The continued case of Stanley Winski, 15 Tenth street, charged with non-support, was again continued, this time to Dec. 11. Winski was arrested two months ago.

William C. Mason was charged with driving with improper markers and was fined $15 and costs. He was arrested recently by State Police Officer John Smith.

Registration Faulty—Jailed

Rosario Rinardo, 36 Grand street, was charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in driving a car that was equipped with improper registration. The youth, who was arrested three weeks ago by State Police Officer John Smith, was fined $100 and costs, but $75 of the fine was ordered remitted. Rinardo was unable to pay the remaining $25 and costs, so was committed to jail.

All the other cases tried were for intoxication. There were four of such cases and all the men were penalized. Three of the men were fined $10 and costs and the other was fined $5 and costs.

Miss Margaret Jordan and her nephew, Master John Crockett, of Groton, returned to their homes tonight, having spent the week end with New York relatives.

Henry J. Howard, 25 Walden avenue, reported to the police today that a steel disc wheel, tire and tube were stolen from his car last night while it was parked at the corner of Walden avenue and Colman street.

The condition of John F. Murray, Main street merchant and a member of the city council, is extremely critical at his home, 109 Blackhall street. Mr. Murray has been seriously ill for several weeks, but recently his condition became worse.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the drivers' licenses of Harry Gruskin, 37 Shapley street; David H. Jacobi, 126 Shaw street, and Lloyd M. Yarbury, Edward Know and Harold J. Grimes, submarine base. The licenses were suspended several weeks ago.

Howard Beebe, 11 Whittlesey street; Mrs. Carl Anderson, Groton; Anna Marie Corcoran, 135 Blydenberg avenue; Joseph Henry Selden, 2nd., 17 Chapel street; Patrick Keating, 121 Willetts avenue; Charles Marsdale, 18 Colt street, and Charles T. Greenleaf, 9 Pearl street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

Leon Nadeau, 571 Bank street; Joseph DeLauro, 32 Shaw street; Cornelius Sullivan, 95 Lincoln avenue, and Mrs. John West, 17 Hill street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged over the week end.

At the annual meeting of the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church Sunday, the following officers were elected: President, W. Alpha Lewis; vice-president, Oscar T. Wilson; secretary, Henry T. Slate; treasurer, Howard L. Smith. Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield gave a report on the conference of the State Federation of Men's Bible Classes, held in Meriden Saturday last.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Moriarty, 76 Colman street, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Catherine Moriarty, to Vivian A. Nelson, of Riverhead, N. Y.

Announcement has been made by Mrs. Grace W. Perkins, 32 Pearl street, Mystic, of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helen C. Perkins, to Gordon S. Brown, of Groton.

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Brewster, of 32 Lee avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Viola Mildred Brewster, to Leonard Horace Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard P. Williams, of Waterford. The wedding will take place Nov. 28.

OBITUARY.

Richard Cushman.

Richard Cushman, Hartford and Eastern Point, died Sunday night at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, after an illness of but two weeks. He is survived by his wife, his mother, Mrs. Eugene Cushman, 19 Glenwood avenue, and a brother, Arthur Cushman, also of this city.

FINED $200 AND COSTS ON EACH OF TWO COUNTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Nov. 11.—Frances Olivieri, 56 Smith street and Enrico Fabbri, 19 Smith street, were in the police court this morning charged with violation of the liquor law, the specific charges being possession and keeping with intent to sell. The woman and Fabbri pleaded guilty and each was fined $200 and costs on each count. John J. McLaughlin, Arthur S. Roe, Charles Maxson and Max Drueher, who were found in the Oliviari house, and who were arrested on a charge of frequenting, were discharged. The men were not presented in court. Raiding squads went to the homes of the Olivieri woman and Fabbri Saturday afternoon after undisputed evidence had been obtained that liquor was being sold there. About 80 bottles of beer and a quantity of whiskey, which was seized, will be destroyed during the week.

PALACE — DIRECTION WARNER BROS. — LAST DAY

A SURGING DRAMA OF HEART-TUGGING EMOTION WITH A GREAT CAST OF STARS. DON'T MISS IT!

STARTS TOMORROW — WEDNESDAY

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Davey Lee, who has been seen and heard before by appreciative Norwich audiences, is coming back again to the Palace theatre—this time in another winsome childish role in "Skin Deep," the Vitaphone all-talking drama of the underworld, which, with Monte Blue, Betty Compson and Alice Day also in the cast, opens here Wednesday and continues through Friday evening.

Here is the bitter, tragic story of a gangster who tried to go straight after he married, but his gold digging cabaret singer of a wife would not let him. She is faithless and cruel. She would kill him if she could, and only because her diabolical schemes failed, did he finally manage to save his life. Cast as Joe Daley, the gangster, Monte Blue gives a splendid characterization of the gunman. Joe, having won the dancer, Sadie Rogers away from a rival gunman, Blackie Culver, decides to be honest. He returns $100,000 in bonds to District Attorney Carlson and sets out to live honestly.

Furious at him, Sadie, knowing that Blackie still loves her in a physical way, goes to him and together they plot Joe's downfall. Between them he is framed and convicted of the theft of the bonds which he thought he had returned to the district attorney. Sick at heart and swearing to get revenge on the district attorney, who he thinks tricked him, Joe goes to the state prison for five bitter years. Sadie then goes shamelessly to live with Blackie, but to keep up appearances she visits Joe regularly.

Then comes the satanic scheme to get rid of Joe. Sadie smuggles tools in to him, telling him that District Attorney Carlson is making advances to her. Joe, furious and more determined than ever to "get even," saws his way out of jail and escapes in a hurricane of machine gun and rifle fire. He grabs an automobile, but in taking a curve, skids and is hurled into the ditch, where some hours later, a passing girl, Elsa Langdon discovers him—a limp, helpless lump.

Today for the last time the Palace presents Pauline Frederick, former Norwich girl, in her masterpiece, "Evidence," the story of a woman who was bitterly wronged, driven from her home, deprived of her child, and her good name stripped ruthlessly from her. It is a picture nobody should miss seeing and hearing.

Broadway Theatre.

Already firmly established as the "king of komedy" Harold Lloyd with his gleaming teeth and gigantic "horn rims" climbs to still greater heights on the throne of hilarity with his first all-talking picture, which has been delighting thousands of patrons since its opening Saturday at the Broadway. With but four more days to run, Broadway fans are advised to "leave the dishes in the sink," and get an early start to be sure of a seat. Uproariously funny from start to finish, this whimsical story of a young bookworm suddenly precipitated into the midst of a hectic tong war between warring factions of excited Chinamen in Frisco, and his eventual solving of the "dragon" mystery and the breaking up of the Frisco dope ring, furnishes as exciting a series of really thrilling scenes as has ever been included in one film feature. Wild pursuits through crowded streets and over roofs, through cellars, ending finally in the "torture room" of the mysterious Dragon, an asthmatic tin "Lizzie" which finally has to resort to "cow-power," a dainty love story with Barbara Kent and with William Walling, Noah Young and Charles Middleton in featured roles, provide an all-talking picture that literally has everything that a good picture should have. Helen Roth with Her Piano Boys in a pleasing musical novelty and the latest Paramount Sound News complete a long and most satisfying program, which will close with next Friday's showings.

Breed Theatre.

A vivid, colorful stage and screen novelty that transports you to the "Paradise of the Pacific," where your eyes feast in amazement upon scenes of wondrous beauty and your senses are enchanted by the rich, exotic music of native Hawaiian entertainers crooning and strumming their melodious songs, that's "A Trip to the Hawaiian Islands," the Filmusical Sensation which is being offered at the Breed theatre starting Thursday for three days.

Never before has this theatre offered a stage and screen presentation so brilliant in color and so rich in high grade entertainment, and to miss it you overlook one of the most charming experiences you have ever had.

Internal revenue tax payments in North Carolina, nearly all of them on tobacco, totaled more than $1,000,000 every day in September.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Lost Battalion

Copies of The History and Rhymes of the Lost Battalion are now available from a member of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion.

In this book, Fletcher post members take particular pride, inasmuch as it concerns deeply the war life of Charles W. Frink of Norwich, a member of the Norwich post and one of the few members of that famous Lost Battalion.

CHARLES W. FRINK

Charles W. Frink was drafted into the service on Feb. 27, 1918, and was sent to Camp Devens and after two and one-half weeks went to Camp Upton and in less than three weeks sailed for France on April 6, 1918, arriving at Liverpool on April 20. He crossed England and went to Dover, remaining there two nights, and then crossed the channel to Calais. After reaching France he was with troops in support of the English for about five weeks. Leaving this sector he went to the vicinity of Nancy, what was known as the Baccarat sector, where American troops first took over positions in the front lines.

After five weeks in that sector, his company relieved the Fourth division at the Vesle river, this sector including Fismes. After a month there, he was sent to the Meuse-Argonne sector, north of Verdun, the American sector. Here the 308th Battalion had the left flank of the American sector and in this drive the record of the Lost Battalion was written into history.

Comrade Frink's opinion of The History and Rhymes of the Lost Battalion, is one that stands high. It is correct, filled with fine verse and should be a war book that will always be cherished by those who are fortunate enough to purchase a copy while they are on sale by members of R. O. Fletcher post here.

REV. E. J. NORRIS DELIVERS ARMISTICE DAY SERMON

On Sunday morning Nov. 10th the Rev. E. J. Norris, rector of Sth. Andrew's church took for his Armistice day subject, "The Way of Peace." The text being Ephesians 6:11: "Put on the whole armour of God."

Many great battlefields we see in the history of progress, the splendid achievements of consecrated warriors not to be forgotten, we think of Marathon and the hosts of Xerxes of the Spanish Armada, of Waterloo, of Yorktown, of Santiago and Manila, of Sumter and Appomattox.

A trite saying is that the world's great battlefields are the footprints of Jehovah. Our prayer is constant that the last great battle of blood has been fought, and never again will civilization borrow the methods of barbarism in the settlement of vexed questions.

There is a better way "Peace unwearied conquers every wrong."

Long ago the prophet Isaiah had a vision. It was of the ideal civilization that is coming, that is to be some day. One feature of that good is to be the absence of war. The implements of war are to be transformed, are to be reforged into the beneficient implements of agriculture and peace.

Isaiah's vision foreshadows a new heroism, a high heroism expressed in other forms and superior to those which have ebeen esteemed oin the past, giving full scope for the display of bravery and development of the best manhood and womanhood in the pursuit of the arts of peace. It is to this "bloodless battle of peace" that the patriots of this generation must give their best attention. One of the conquests of peace should be the extermination of the criminal classes. Another conquest should be of the problem of poverty. The right to work, the ability to work, the encouragement to work. Self-help, and otherwise methods of operation are needed in the efforts to solve problems of poverty.

Another battle must be fought continually against all forms of vice. Nothing should be allowed to thrive at the expense of the health and the morals of the citizen: all vice should be waged against all enemies of the be outlawed. A bloodless war must also come, the public school and the flag. There must be a ceaseless struggle for the inculcation of manhood. "Man not money is the unit of value. Character not commerce is the basal principle of national prosperity."

The true Christian chevalier is defended by invulnerable armour, the helmet of salvation, the breast-plate of righteousness, the sword of the spirit, the girdle of truth, the shield of faith, and the sandals of peace.

Such a knight of truth and virtue must ever be invincible in this war.

Eleventh Birthday Party

A birthday party was held in honor of Miss Marguerite Grady on her eleventh birthday at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. A. Lacavera of Central avenue with fifteen of her friends present. Many games were played and enjoyed. Refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cakes, cookies, candies, fruits, soda, ice cream, wafers and hot chocolate were served by the hostess. Miss Grady was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. The dining room was prettily decorated with the season's colors of orange and black being used. Among those present were Marjorie Donavan, Marie Grady, Eleanor Quillet, Rosalie Cummings, Catherine Sullivan, Alice Roberts, Geraldine Sullivan, Claire Sullivan, Eileen Kelly, Susan Lynas, Irene Codeire, Mary Tanches, Marguerite Grady.

Charles Lacavera has retufned to his home at Chicago, Ill., after spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Pustera of Central avenue. Mr. Lacavera's daughter, Marie, who is five years old, won much applause with her singing and fancy dancing last week at Ravenswood Woman's club at Chicago. Little Marie also played several solos on a miniature violin.

AMERICAN LEGION STATE ADJUTANT MAKES ARMISTICE DAY ADDRESS HERE

At Union square Monday morning, after a three-minute period of quiet throughout the city, the programme in observance of Armistice day was begun at 11:03. From 10:45 to 11 the blowing of whistles and the toling of bells in different parts of the city announced the approach of the hour for the exercises.

As the bells began to toll, the children from St. Patrick's parochial school arrived in the square, headed by the Boy Scout drum corps of the parish, and were joined by the children of Broadway school, these groups of school children making up the larger part of the audience that assembled for the exercises.

The city was represented officially by the attendance of Mayor Lee Roy Robbins and members of the common council, while First Selectman Wm. S. Murray and town officials represented the town and there was a detail from Battery B, 192nd F. A., C. N. G., under command of Capt. Meredith Lee, and a large gathering of Boy Scouts in uniform in charge of Scout Executive John L. Sellman.

Capt. Charles Colt, chairman of the Armistice day committee, presided and the exercises opened with the singing of a verse of America, led by Swahn's Military band, after which prayer was offered by Rev. Percy M. Kilmister of this city, state chaplain of the American Legion. This was followed by several of the songs of the World war years, Madelon, There's a Long, Long Trail, Tipperary and Over There, which were played by the band.

Address By State Adjutant

Capt. Colt introduced as the speaker William Murray, of Hartford, adjutant of the state department of the American Legion, who held the close attention of his hearers as he spoke as follows:

Today is an anniversary of joy.

Eleven years ago this morning marked the end of the greatest conflict in the world's histor.

People in every city and town in our land and in practically every land on the earth threw aside their tasks, threw aside the seriousness and sternness that had kept them close to the job of winning the war. They gave themselves over to celebration, to carnival and happy outbursts. Their boys were through fighting, through living in filth, through sleeping in mud and slime.

Sleep would no more be disturbed by the whine of shells, the burst of shrapnel and the sharp bark of machine guns. The drone of an airplane overhead would come to mean that commerce and trade had taken to the sky to replace death and pain.

Four million Americans, the greatest fighting force the country had ever seen, were no less happy than the public.

Men of peace would no longer be called upon to kill. Ceaseless watching on land and sea would no longer be necessary. Peace had come.

In Memorial day we have a day sacred to the dead, hallowed to the memory of all the men of America who have served their country and in that service have given their lives.

Today, Armistice day, is dedicated to the memory of a task well done, to the end of a conflict without parallel in all history.

Our comrades who perished in that conflict did so, that peace might again reign, and I cannot help but feel that it would be their wish, were they with us, that we mark today and every other Armistice day to come, with happy celebration, with some re-creation of that spirit of carnival that marked the first Armistice day. Today is an anniversary of joy.

Although hardly apparent at once, the signing of the Armistice had a still deeper meaning to our fighting men. The full realization came weeks after the battle had ceased on the western front. The American soldiers soon realized they had duties ahead of them that the war did not end. The idea grew slowly, gathering force as it spread through the A. E. F. Our men were to return to this country with something more than military triumph. They had gained through their war service a high appreciation of the value of citizenship in America. Having served their country and served it well, they developed still greater ideals of service.

They felt it their duty to carry back a message of patriotism, to teach greater love for America, for its ideals and institutions. They were to continue to give to their country in time of peace the same unselfish service they had so freely given in time of national peril. Thoughts and ideals such as these caused the organization of the American Legion.

The great caucus held in Paris in 1919 postponed the adoption of policies until a greater representation of all of the war veterans could meet at home. It was definitely understood, however, that the organization was to dedicate its efforts to the service of America in peace.

Today the American Legion stands before the American public pledged to make those dreams of service come true. It is natural that the Legion should devote its first energies to making life more liveable for those who were maimed and wounded, the men who will carry the scars of mental and physical injury to their graves. Not once in the ten years of its life has the Legion failed the disabled men. It has fought continuously for their welfare and will so continue to fight in the years ahead. The size of the job is best realized by quoting a few government figures.

There are today on the rolls of the Veterans' Bureau 52,000 men who are receiving compensation for mental ailments directly traceable to their service for their country. That a large number of these men are receiving adequate care as a result of the work of the Legion, its officers and committees is well known. But the task does not stop here. Experts in such matters tell us that the peak, the greatest number of such cases, will not be reached until the year 1947. In ten years we have developed 52,000 cases at the least and there are 17 years ahead of us before the greatest will be reached. That you see, still leaves some work for the Legion.

That total of 52,000 is impressive but it does not tell the whole story.

A recent report of the Veterans' bureau reveals that while there are 20,378 veterans with mental illness in hospitals, 7,217 of them are outside government institutions. Of this group, a large part are denied the special treatment and training to which they are entitled by law, simply because there are too few government hospitals to provide for them. More than this, there were three months ago 2,243 mentally disabled veterans awaiting hospitalization.

It is to provide for this vast number that the Legion has stressed the need for greater government hospital plants with their special facilities for treating the war disabled, with their special chance to bring some of these men back to clarity of mind and restored usefulness to themselves and the community.

These figures have all been totals arrived at by searching the government files but the story goes further. Every day reveals new cases, not only of a mental nature but of physical ills as well. It is the task of the Legion to aid these men, in presenting their claims, to help them secure the necessities with war service, to render them financial aid when necessary and in general to act as attorney and comrade to those who are unabel for one reason or another to properly care for themselves.

It is a big job, but the Legion is doing it gladly, yes, eagerly, and proposes to keep right on doing it until the last Legionnaire is laid away to rest.

Besides its work for the disabled, the Legion has done much for another class of war sufferers, the children of the men who were either killed in action or died as a result of their war service. A $5,000,000 fund was raised in 1925, the income from which is used for service and the aid and care of war orphans.

The Legion is now fostering a movement to provide these children with educational opportunities that would have been theirs had their fathers not made the supreme sacrifice.

This educational program contemplates aid from the different states to supplement an allowance from the federal government. It is such service as this that is building a glorious tradition for the American Legion.

The men who a few short years back were fighting with all their might have never felt that their military service ended their responsibilities to the nation. They had seen bloodshed at its worst. They had learned not to fear war but to hate it. They had seen war stripped of its glamour, leaving only its stark and cruel realities, and so it was, they left the fields of France determined to make peace an enduring thing. Today is an anniversary of joy. It is joyous to us all for it marks the end of that bloody conflict out of which grew the Legion. To the Legion it means more. It means the continuance of that service to country and comrade which was learned in the dark days and which has not flagged since.

I know I speak from the heart of the American Legion when I pledge to you the Legion's unswerving loyalty to the welfare of its unfortunate comrades and its devotion to the future welfare and happiness of our country.

Music Concluded Exercises

In concluding the exercises, the audience joined in singing the Star Spangled Banner, and taps were sounded by John M. Swahn, cornetist, leader of the band.

The band also played several selections as the audience was dispersing, these including Stars and Stripes (Sousa), Daughters of American Revolution and Hinky Dinky Parlez-Vous.

The police did their part in an efficient way in keeping Union square free from automobile parking so as to afford space for the audience at the exercises. As early as 6:30 Officer Patrick Murphy was on duty in the square, warning away all motor drivers who came there to park, and while the programme was being carried out Sergeant Myron Morgan, Officers Clifford Crary, Patrick Murphy, William Ryan and John Carroll were on duty in the square.

TAFTVILLE

Edwin Pollard, of Boston, Mass., has been visiting his father, William Pollard, of South Second avenue.

Mrs. Elsie K. Pingree and her daughter, Miss Betty Pingree, have returned from Mystic where they have been visiting Mrs. Pingree's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw and family.

Peter Lukoff, of North Third avenue, was in Voluntown Monday to visit Stephen Patrylo.

Joseph Gariepy, of South B street, spent Monday in Danielson.

Mrs. Edward Blanchard, of Riverside grove, picked a number of dandelion blossoms in her yard Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wood, of North B street, have moved to their new home on the Old Canterbury turnpike.

Wilfred Linderson has returned to Bridgeport after spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Linderson, of North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cartier, of Belleau road, have been in Chicopee, Mass., this week.

The sugar maples, which surround the Sacred Heart convent and school on Hunters avenue, are undergoing their annual pruning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree and son Harold, Jr., of Goodyear, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree and family, of North C street.

Mrs. John Urick entertained 50 guests at a turkey dinner Saturday evening, in observance of Mr. Urick's 25th birthday. Among those attending were guests from Arctic, R. I., Plainfield, Jewett City, Baltic and Norwich. The affair took place at the Urick residence in Blissville. During the evening the assembled company presented Mr. Urick a mahogany and silver smoking stand, and all took the opportunity of wishing him many happy returns of the day. During dinner, an orchestra played, also furnished music for the dancing which followed. The dinner was served under the direction of Mrs. Cormier and Miss Paquette. Local people who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Cormier, of St. Regis avenue; Postmaster and Mrs. Edward Adams, of Merchants avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Selvidio, Mr. and Mrs. George Gladue, Mr. and Mrs. John Urick, Ernest Gagnon and Miss Alma Paquette.

Robert Graham, who is in the government postal service at Cristobal, Canal Zone, Panama, who has been spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. William Emerson and family and Mrs. Thomas Emerson, of the Newent road, left town Monday for New York, and sails today (Tuesday) to resume his duties at Cristobal. He is being accompanied by William Emerson, who plans to enter the government service in Panama, also.

The wheels of industry stopped for two minutes at 11 o'clock Monday, the local mills observing Armistice day in this manner. Shortly before 11, the bells of the Taftville Congregational church, the Sacred Heart church, the Sacred Heart school, the Wequonnoc school and Ponemah mills tolled for several minutes. Whistles blowing in Norwich could be plainly heard in the village. Many flags were out in honor of the day.

The two branches, (English speaking and French speaking) of the Children of Mary sodality, are planning to hold a carnival in the near future, the proceeds to be used to extinguish the debt of the Sacred Heart parish. Only a comparatively small amount now remains as a debt, and it is hoped that enough will be realized from the affair, to erase it from the books altogether.

WEDDINGS

Garvey—Donnelly

In the presence of a large number of guests, the marriage of Matthew D. Garvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew N. Garvey, of South B street, and Miss Kathleen Donnelly, daughter of Mrs. James Donnelly, of Lisbon, was solemnized at Sacred Heart church Monday morning at a nuptial high mass at which the pastor, Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault was celebrant. At the offertory, Omer Tellier sang, accompanied by Miss Alice Frechette at the organ. The bride, who wore a handsome gown of white satin, with bridal veil of tulle caught up with orange blossoms, had as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Irene Donnelly, who was attired in tan eggshell satin with hat to match. The bride carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the valley, and her maid carried orange roses. After the church ceremony there was a breakfast and reception at the home of the bride's mother in Lisbon, and later the happy couple left on a wedding trip to New York. When they return they will take up their residence in a newly furnished home on Main street, Norwich, where the groom is engaged in business.

Donai—Bernal

John Donai, son of Mrs. Stanley Wilk, of North Third avenue, and Miss Jennie Bernal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bernal, of Occum, were married Monday morning at a nuptial high mass celebrated at St. Joseph's church, Occum, by the pastor, Rev. Ludovic Paradis. Mrs. Joseph Peloquin played the wedding march and the music of the mass; Arthur DesSureault sang, O, Promise Me, and Mrs. Beatrice Bernal sang, Ave Maria, at the offertory. The bride wore a gown of nile green georgette, and carried roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor, a sister, Miss Bertha Bernal, wore orchid georgette and carried pink and white roses. Joseph Wilk was the best man. After a breakfast and reception at the home of the bride's parents in Occum, the newly married couple left on a wedding trip to New York, and when they return will make their home in Occum.

CHAS. LADD MAKES DENIAL THAT ANYONE HIT HIM

According to a statement made by a member of the family of Charles Ladd, 35, of 301 Central avenue, he has denied to them that anyone hit him or that he saw anyone before he was found unconscious behind the wheel of his automobile Saturday night at a point off the Preston City road.

Ladd explains what happened by saying that as he was driving along a deer ran across the road and he turned so quickly to avoid hitting the animal that he ran into a fence. As he saw he was to hit the fence, he says he put his head down and the blow dazed him so that he could not shift gears right and he shifted into reverse. He felt the car rolling back but could not bring his mind together enough to stop it, but did so and tried to jump.

Ladd also made the statement about the deer and the fence to State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh, but an investigation by the officer along the road where Ladd said he was driving did not reveal any fence that had been hit. When Ladd was found unconscious in his automobile Saturday night, with the engine running, the car was backed off the road into a swampy spot. The windshield was broken and one headlight was broken. The glass from the broken windshield was on the hood and the broken pieces of the headlight were on the bumper, according to what the state policeman found, leading to the supposition that the glass was broken where the car was standing and that it had not been moved after the windshield was broken.

STORRS STUDENTS GOING TO KINGSTON FOR GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Nov. 11.—With the date of the bi-annual trip to Kingston for the Rhode Island game next Saturday, the interest of the entire student body at Connecticut Agricultural college has been raised to a high pitch. For the members of the lower classes it will be a new experience, but the upper classes went on the traditional excursion two years ago.

Robert Fenn, '30, of Hartford, chairman of the committee on arrangements, has announced that practically all the details have been provided for, and that the student body, en masse, and many members of the faculty and alumni will attend via the special train procured. Following an early breakfast in the college dining hall, the students will go in a body to the Eagleville station, where the special train is scheduled to leave at 8 o'clock. The return trip will be made shortly after the close of the game, with a stop in New London in order that the Connecticut followers may dine and, it is expected on the campus, celebrate the football victory.

SUFFERS BROKEN ARM WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Mrs. John Shea of Routh street received a broken right arm about 11 o'clock Monday evening, when she was struck by an automobile driven by Julian Falcone of Ore street after she had just stepped off the sidewalk on Franklin square. The machine was being backed up by the driver at the time of the accident.

The injured woman was taken to the home of Dr. James J. Donohue on Harland road, where she had her arm set and was later driven to her home by the doctor.

Spoke on Peace Movements
